Snowbird Creations Garden Part Of Secret Gardens Tour

The 11th annual Secret Country Gardens Tour, sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, is slated for Saturday, June 25. The event will include Snowbird Creations Garden at the residence of Julie and Moe Turrentine, pictured above at their home. Visitors will be invited to enjoy refreshments at this stop while they take in the beauty of their surroundings.

A spokesperson has remarked that the garden blends art and nature and is tucked away in the middle of a wooded area which serves as a home to a variety of wildlife. From their elevated, screen-enclosed gazebo, the Turrentines often observe their koi pond and birdbath. The pond and waterfall, surrounded by foliage, are prominent features of the garden. Asiatic lilies bloom and add color throughout the summer.

According to a spokesperson, the Turrentines have overcome many challenges in the nine years since they began their garden. Biting insects, gypsy moths, deer, and groundhogs have frequented this wooded area, prompting the Turrentines to develop ways to share the outdoor space. The couple's favorite spot is the gazebo where they enjoy evening sunsets and have recently spotted a small bear in a nearby tree.

Visitors to the garden will not only notice the Turrentines' plant life, but also the placement of an archway, the gazebo, and a stone patio in front of the perennial garden.

Tickets for the tour, which include a short description of each garden, a map, and written directions, may be purchased in advance at the following locations: Gregg's Pharmacy, Jan Florist, Green Acres Garden Center, Julie's Greenhouse, Nature's Own Landscaping, Annie's Kitchen, and Beachy's Pharmacy. On the day of the tour, members of the Garrett County Historical Society will sell tickets at the Gazebo in Oakland. The cost of a ticket will be $7. A perennial sale, tickets for the raffle prize, a conservation display, historical information, and refreshments will be available at different gardens on the day of the tour.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for its community beautification projects, as well as club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society and the Mountain Lake Park Historical Society.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc., Central Atlantic Region, and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

Those interested in further information about the tour may contact Kathy Long at 301-252-9917.

"Managing Your Computer" Class Scheduled By GC

Garrett College has scheduled a course titled "Managing and Maintaining Your Computer" at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, for Tuesday and Thursday, May 24 and 26, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

This five-hour course is designed to teach the fundamentals of maintaining a personal computer. Topics are to include system maintenance, trouble shooting, managing files and folders, dealing with common error messages, and cleaning the computer inside and out.

"Students will learn many tips and tricks to improve performance and how to stay up-to-date with their PC," said a GC spokeswoman.

For additional information, one may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, persons may call the college's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

SENATOR MIKULSKI VISITS GARRETT COUNTY – United States Senator for Maryland Barbara Mikulski held a round table discussion yesterday at the industrial park complex in Accident before meeting with local student participants of the Garrett Engineering and Robotics Society. Directing the talk, Mikulski asked the opinions and advice of numerous Garrett County educators, business owners, and government officials concerning the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, its effects, and possible reforms to the bill. The effort is part of the senator's education tour and a preamble to the senator's plans to reauthorize the ESEA. The group focused its discussion on the needs of rural educators and students, and the achievements made by local students in the disciplines of science, technology, engineering, and math. Mikulski was recently appointed chairwoman of the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Subcommittee on Children and Families. The HELP committee will play a major roll in the reauthorization of the ESEA, a bill signed into law in 1965 and reauthorized in 2002 as the No Child Left Behind Act, which deals with equal access to education and establishes standards for students and educators. Mikulski is shown above observing a demonstration of battle robots by GEARS students. Pictured left to right are: Mikulski; Arlene Lantz, GEARS instructor; GEARS students Kendrick Bender and Kevin Maust; and Mario Cardona, an associate of the senator.

THE GARRETT HIGHLANDS PIPES & DRUMS will host its annual Scottish Highland Festival this weekend, with events slated from Friday through Sunday. Saturday's activities will all take place at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry, and will feature a wide range of Celtic games, music, food, dance competitions, clan information, and animal exhibits, among other events. See story. The photo of the local pipes and drums band above was taken Monday at the annual Memorial Day ceremony at the Oakland Cemetery. The musicians take part in the commemorative service each year. Photo by John McEwen.

New GC Students Must Register With Board Of Education

In a recent press release, the Garrett County Board of Education stated that parents/guardians should register their children who will be entering school for the first time.

If a parent/guardian did not register the kindergartner or first-grade student during the recent pre-registration program, one may do so by contacting the principal of the local school to arrange an appointment. This should be done as soon as possible.

Parents must take their child's birth certificate, immunization records, and proof of residency with them for the registration process. Students can not be enrolled without first providing this documentation.

Acceptable proofs of residency documents are: deed or mortgage agreement, current property tax bill, current lease or rental agreement, current utility bill with the parent/guardian's name and address, or a notarized Statement of Residency Verification form (available from county schools or the Pupil Services Office of the BOE). A child's Social Security number is also requested for state reporting requirements.

Any child who will be 5 years of age on or before Sept. 1 must be enrolled in kindergarten or apply for a one-year maturity wavier. Any family who plans to use home instruction (home-schooling) instead of enrolling a student in school must submit forms at least 15 days prior to the first day of the school year.

Information may be obtained through the Pupil Services Office located at the BOE building or by calling 301-334-8939 or 301-359-9209.

Families who plan to move during the summer should check with their local school or the Pupil Services Office to see if their child will be

Police Investigating Double Homicide; Bodies Found Near Tracks In Oakland

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office and other police agencies are currently investigating a double homicide that occurred in Oakland sometime early yesterday.

According to Sheriff Rob Corley, deputies responded to a call to a wooded area off Reese Street near the railroad tracks, where they subsequently discovered the bodies of 18-year-old Jessica Irene Baker and 24-year-old Timothy Brandon Field Lax, both of Oakland, at approximately 1:30 a.m.

Corley declined to state how the two were killed, but did note that the caller was apparently "involved in an altercation" and needed medical treatment. He would not confirm whether or not the caller is a suspect in the case.

When asked if there are more than one suspect, Corley said, "We are now in the process of interviewing persons of interest, and believe that the investigation is quickly moving forward."

He added that Maryland State Police investigators and Maryland Department of Natural Resources personnel are assisting with the investigation, and have gathered important evidence that he believes will soon help solve the case.

A helicopter was seen hovering over the area after daylight that morning, causing concern to some area residents who thought that the aircraft was being used to try to locate suspects. Area schools were not instructed to go into a lockdown mode.

When asked why area schools were not advised to do so Wednesday morning, Corley responded, "There was really no need whatsoever for the schools to go into lockdown. The MSP helicopter was called not to help search for suspects, but just to give us a good aerial view of the crime scene. We simply needed a good place to land the helicopter, and the Southern High School parking lot served that purpose. We did notify the board of education and explained what we were doing."

Garrett County District Court records make it clear that there was a stormy relationship between the two victims, as Lax had obtained a temporary peace order against Baker, but then had it rescinded just last Friday.

The records also show that on Tuesday the state dropped a charge of telephone misuse against Lax involving Baker as the alleged victim.

Each had also recently accused the other of assault and harassment, with the assault charge against Baker dropped on Tuesday. Lax was facing a June 15 trial date for allegedly stalking, harassing, and assaulting Baker.

Sheriff Corley noted this morning his appreciation to all citizens who have provided potentially helpful information about the case, and requests that anyone with such information telephone the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911, or submit the information anonymously via the Garrett County Crime Solvers web site at www.garrettcountycrimesolvers.org. Rewards of up to $1,000 are being offered for information, anonymous or otherwise, that leads to an arrest.

MLP Biker Life-Flighted To Ruby Following Wreck

A Mtn. Lake Park man was injured in a motorcycle accident late last Saturday evening. Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated the 11 p.m. accident.

Russell Strubin, 28, had reportedly been traveling north on Bradley Lane, when he lost control of the bike and struck an embankment. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad before being life-flighted to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va. Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

The incident is currently under investigation.

Child Hit By Car Near Ice Cream Stand In G'ville

A 3-year-old female was struck by a vehicle in Grantsville on Sunday. Maryland State Police investigated the 10 p.m. incident that occurred at Katie's Ice Cream stand.

Investigation revealed that the toddler had run into the path of a 2001 Ford Focus driven by a 17-year-old Grantsville juvenile. She was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to the Western Maryland Reginal Health Center, Cumberland, for treatment of non-life-threatening injuries. Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene. No charges were issued.

24th Annual McHenry Highland Fest This Weekend At Fairgrounds

The 24th McHenry Highland Festival will open tomorrow, June 3, and run through Sunday, June 5, with entertainment, activities, and exhibits at the Garrett County Fairgrounds and other locations.

All Saturday festival events will be at the fairgrounds, located along Rt. 219 in McHenry.

The festival will open with a Celtic concert by the Burning Bridget Cleary band on Friday, June 3, at Wisp Resort. The concert will begin at 7 p.m. Tickets should be purchased in advance online at online at www.highlandfest.-info, at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland, or at the Visitors Center in McHenry.

The event schedule for Saturday, June 4, at the fairgrounds is as follows:

9 a.m.: Gates open.

All day: Athletic competitions such as caber toss (caber is Gaelic for "tree"), which is considered the signature event in any Scottish athletic competition. The competitors will also engage in the Scottish hammer throw and stone throw contests, among others. Other all-day events and activities will be Celtic climbing wall, Glen of Clans, clans and genealogy, military/living history units, sheep and Highland cattle at the livestock pavilion, craft/commercial vendors, and harpist Lynne Barnes-Dale performing in the exhibit hall.

9:30 a.m.: Scottish country dancing in the exhibit hall.

10 a.m.: City of Winchester Pipes & Drums in the show ring.

10:30 a.m.: Pipedream Farm sheepdog herding in the event field.

10:45 a.m.: Pipes and Drums of St. Andrew in the show ring.

11 a.m.: Performance by Celtic rock band Prydein on the stage, and by the Duffy School of Irish Dance in the exhibit hall.

Noon: The Gathering: massed bands in the event field. Also parade of clans.

12:30 p.m.: Shanty Irish performance on the stage, and Celtic dogs Pat and Chat at the exhibit hall.

1 p.m.: West Virginia Highlanders in the show ring.

1:30 p.m.: Bonnie Rideout on stage, Pipedream Farm sheepdog herding in the event field.

1:45 p.m.: MacDonald Pipe Band in the show ring.

2 p.m.: Duffy School of Irish Dance in the exhibit hall.

2:30 p.m.: Prydein on the stage.

3 p.m.: Garrett Highlands Pipes & Drums in the show ring, and Scottish country dancing in the exhibit hall.

3:30 p.m.: Shanty Irish on the stage.

5 p.m.: "Auld Lang Syne" and gates close.

The event on Sunday will be the annual Kirkin' o' the Tartans at St. John's Episcopal Church in Deer Park, along Rt. 135, beginning at

Drivers Taken To GCMH After Two-Vehicle Accident

Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated a two-vehicle accident with injuries Monday afternoon.

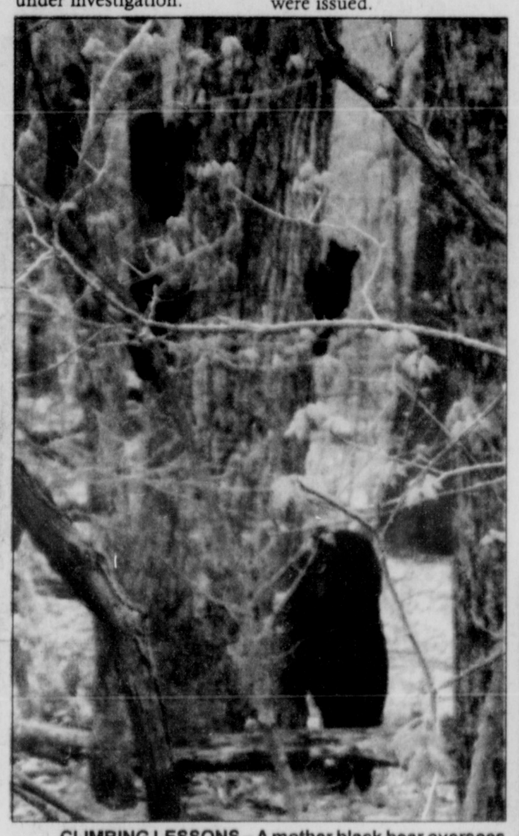
Investigation revealed that Eva Sweitzer, 55, Westernport, had been traveling east on Maryland Highway, when she made a left turn into the path of an oncoming westbound vehicle driven by David Wall, 48, Oakland. The injured were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the 1:15 p.m. scene.

Debris Falls From Tractor Trailer Causing Collision

Two Laurel residents were injured on I-68 Tuesday after debris fell from a tractor trailer in front of their vehicle. Maryland State Police investigated the incident.

It was revealed that Karling Tao, 69, was operating a 2003 Chevrolet in lane one of I-68, while Hans Boden, 54, York, S.C., was operating a Peterbilt tractor trailer in lane two. Debris fell from the trailer, and Tao swerved in an attempt to miss it, which caused him to cross into lane two,2 hitting the tractor trailer. He then attempted to correct it and struck the guardrail located in the median of the interstate.

Tao and passenger Harriett Tao, 71, were both treated by Northern Rescue Squad. Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.



CLIMBING LESSONS – A mother black bear oversees as her three young cubs brush up on their tree-climbing skills in the above photo taken along New Germany Road recently. Typically a mother black bear gives birth to two cubs after a 235-day gestation period, though litters as large as six have been documented. The black bear is a popular symbol in western Maryland, as its image adorns local businesses and visitors to the area often try to catch a glimpse of the noble animal. In fact, sighting a black bear in Garrett County has become a more common occurrence in recent years as the animal's population continues to thrive thanks to efforts by the Department of Natural Resources. A 2005 survey estimated that 200 to 400 black bears roamed the mountains of Garrett and Allegany counties. This study revealed an increase in the total population, with the largest number of bears residing in Garrett County. Photo by Amber Hardesty.

"COYOTE IN THE HILLS" is the name of a three-day hunting challenge being sponsored by the Mountain Maryland Quality Deer Management Association and scheduled for today, June 2, through this Saturday, June 4, in Garrett and Allegany counties. Coyotes have been growing in numbers over the past decade or so in this region. See story in sports section for details.

WINS GOLD AT STATES – Northern High School's Chelsi Kling is Garrett County's newest state champion, having captured first place in the girls' long jump event at the Maryland 1A State Track and Field Championships this past weekend. Her winning leap of 17 feet, 5½ inches is also a new record for Northern High, as is her triple jump distance of 30 feet, ½ inch, which was good for sixth place at the state event. Kling and three teammates, pictured in the sports section, also placed fifth in the girls' 400-meter relay event, and Northern's Eric Maxim finished sixth in the boys' 110-meter hurdles. Southern High School's Mikey Skipper placed seventh in the 110 hurdles.

SANTA FE GRILLE PRESENTS DONATION – The Santa Fe Grille in McHenry donated $1,400 generated from three Friday night "dine-outs" to benefit the American Cancer Society Relay for Life of Garrett County. Presenting the check, left to right, last Thursday were Tom Bulhack, Jenna Sherle, Kim Leventic, Rachel Bruch, Cathey Macak, and Brenda Ackerman. A 2011 Relay Planning Committee spokeswoman expressed her appreciation to those who participated in the dine-outs and the Santa Fe owners, management, and staff. The 2011 Relay for Life of Garrett County will be held at the Southern High School track from Friday, June 10, at 5 p.m. to Saturday, June 11, at 7 a.m. The public is welcome to come out and participate in the on-site fundraisers. For details, persons may call Brittany Friend at 301-722-2145 or visit relayforlife.org/garrett. "The American Cancer Society is 'The Official Sponsor of Birthdays®,'" said the spokeswoman. "Thank you for helping save lives and creating more birthdays." For cancer help, persons may call 1-800-227-2345 or visit cancer.org.

Local Residents Recognized During Frostburg State Honors Convocation

ROSE JACKSON

EMILY SISLER

Two local residents, Rose Ashby Jackson and Emily Kate Sisler, were among the graduate and undergraduate students recognized at Frostburg State University's Honors Convocation in May.

Jackson of Oakland, who received departmental honors in business administration – finance, is active in service, as evidenced by her membership in the President's Leadership Circle, the College of Business Student Advisory Council, and Beta Gamma Sigma Business Honor Society, and as a developmental math teacher at FSU.

She has also worked as an activities coordinator at Railey Mountain Lake Vacations in McHenry.

Jackson is described by her finance professors as one of the best finance students in their collective recollection. She was chosen as the 2011 commencement speaker for the College of Business.

A graduate of Southern High School, she is the daughter of Cathy Ashby and Ellwood Jackson.

Sisler of Friendsville, who received departmental honors in elementary education, is a leader by example, noted an FSU spokesperson. She has excelled in coursework, her internships, and teaching math.

She has also been a substitute teacher in Garrett County public schools, a youth leader, a softball coach, and mission team leader, most recently in outreach events for families in Haiti.

Sisler's mentors say that her work ethic, creativity, flexibility, and organizational skills are only surpassed by her passion for teaching and her natural ability to engage and challenge all learners.

Sisler's teachers have commented on her calm demeanor, excellent classroom management style, and knack for finding a way to reach each child.

A graduate of Northern High School, she is the daughter of Tim and Bobbi Sisler.

Earns 219 Points In Accelerated Reader Program

Grantsville Elementary School fourth grader, Bailee Upole, recently reached 219 points through the Accelerated Readers Program. She is pictured above wearing the Accelerated Reader T-shirt that she earned for reaching 150 points, and she holding the Walmart gift card that she earned for reaching 200 points. This is the second consecutive year that Upole has reached the 200-point mark. She is the daughter of Dave and Jenn Upole.

Law Day Set By Pro Bono Group

The Pro Bono Committee of the Garrett County Bar Association is hosting a Law Day on Saturday, June 11, at two different locations. The hours will be 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, and 9 a.m. to noon at the Ruth Enlow Library in Grantsville.

The Law Day event will have attorney volunteers at each location to provide legal information to walk-in individuals. Each attendee will need to fill out an intake form and should not expect legal advice or a commitment by any attorney for assistance or representation.

GC Health Fair Deemed Success By Organizers

An estimated 800 people attended the recent 2011 Health Fair sponsored by the Garrett County STEPS committee, which is made up of private citizens, businesses, and public agencies, all with the desire to improve the overall wellness of the community. Attendees were able to have various health screens, listen to speakers discuss a number of health-related topics, and learn about community resources.

"In spite of the rain and blustery weather, the turnout for the health fair was strong," noted Dorothy Tuel, one of the planners for the event.

The goal of the health fair is to promote health awareness and encourage persons to take an active responsibility for their health. Persons who attended perused over 60 informational booths that provided a wealth of health information. In addition, many of the booths provided health screens, such as cholesterol checks, hearing tests, blood pressure checks, and skin cancer screening.

KDKA weatherman Jon Burnett was the master of ceremonies, and he had a line-up of keynote speakers, who were experts in their respective fields, including Dr. Margaret Kaiser, Dr. Donald Richter, Dr. Charles Walsh, Dr. Ronel Williams, and Anthony Zaloga. Local yoga instructor Peggy Santamaria led participants in a variety of stretching exercises. New to the health fair this year were the American Red Cross blood drive and youth activity room, which was offered to youth of all ages.

The Garrett County Health Fair is offered free to all participants and is made possible by the generous support of sponsors including Jan and Judy Finkel, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Garrett County Health Department, Priority Partners, Sewickley Spa, and Wisp Resort.

A BRIEF YET MEANINGFUL MESSAGE was presented at the annual Memorial Day program on Monday at the Oakland Cemetery by Retired Brig. Gen. Robert Hoffman, a local resident. Hoffman had a long career in the U.S. Air Force and said he and his wife had the opportunity to settle in any of 30 countries around the world, but some years ago chose to live in Garrett County. He said they picked this area because of the kindnesses, courtesy, and the prevailing sense of community that is displayed daily, on the streets between passers-by, in organizations, and throughout the county as a whole. He said those are the tenets that he and his comrades wished to protect as they worked to serve the country. The crowd was welcomed by Ron Friend, commander of American Legion Post 71, and other guests at the microphone were Ray Porter, chaplain of VFW Post 10077, Chaplain Bill Bowman, also of the American Legion, and Paul Everly, commander of VFW Post 10077. Jessica Storck, a young singer, presented a patriotic song, and the Southern Garrett Marching Band, pictured above under the direction of Joshua Elmlinger, provided music as well. The Garrett Highlands Pipes & Drums also took part in the commemorative event. Photos by John McEwen.

GRADUATION ANNOUNCEMENT

The bleachers of the Southern High School football field were damaged this spring by severe winds and will not be repaired in time for graduation (June 5). The administration has decided to hold the ceremony in the school's gymnasium. For graduation, each student will be issued four guest tickets as seating capacity in the gymnasium is limited. Additional seating which does not require a graduation ticket will be available in the cafeteria for family and friends to view the ceremony by live video presentation.

SENIOR AWARDS ASSEMBLY

An assembly to honor seniors at Southern High School will be held today beginning at 7 p.m. in the cafetorium. Students will be recognized who have completed career technology programs or earned top honors in their career programs. Students receiving top academic awards or scholarships will also be honored. Other awards will be presented for: citizenship, service learning, attendance, music, art, and participation in school activities.

CLASS OF 2012 CONTACT E-MAIL

Class of 2012 students may contact their counselors if they would like to receive important senior information and scholarship opportunities through e-mail next year. Students and parents may e-mail the counselor assigned to the first letter of a student's last name. For A through G contact Mrs. Bell at nbell@sh.ga.k12.md.us, for H through Q contact Mrs. Davis at kdavis@sh.ga.k12.md.us, and for R through Z contact Mrs. Sincell at bsincell@sh.ga.k12.md.us.

FREE ATHLETIC PHYSICALS

The scheduled date and time for 2011-12 athletic physicals is Tuesday, June 7, at 1:15 p.m. The examination will take place in the Southern High School gymnasium. Dr. Miller and his staff will be on hand to give physicals to prospective athletes for the next school year. This will be the only offering of free physicals. Any person wishing to participate in an extracurricular sport or band activity must have a physical.

Driver Charged For Operating On Revoked License

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested a man for driving on a revoked and suspended license following a motor vehicle accident last Thursday morning.

Randy Lane Lantz, 53, was traveling north on Garrett Highway near Ben DeWitt Road, when he failed to control his speed to avoid colliding with the vehicle in front of him.

Further investigation revealed the current state of his license, which led to his arrest. He was transported to the Garrett County Jail to await an initial appearance before a District Court commissioner.

Field sobriety tests were given to Reginald Darnell Allen, 26, Washington, D.C., which were not completed to the deputy's satisfaction. Allen was charged with DUI and DWI. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Deputies Arrest Two On DUI, DWI Charges

Two drivers were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on drinking and driving charges over the holiday weekend. The following incidents are unrelated.

A traffic stop was conducted on Glendale Road near North Glade Road early last Saturday. Investigation led to the arrest of Michael Lee Weidlich, 33, Swanton. He was charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, driving while impaired, driving in violation of a court ordered alcohol restriction, driving on a out-of-state suspended license, and failure to drive right of center. He was transported to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

In a separate incident, a deputy stopped a vehicle for a moving violation on Garrett Highway near Mosser Road early Sunday morning.

BINGO

Northern Garrett Rescue Squad Auxiliary will host a Longaberger Basket/Vera Bradley bingo at the Grantsville Elementary School on Sunday, June 26. Doors will open at 1 p.m., and bingo will begin at 2 p.m. Tickets are $25, with only 100 tickets to be sold. For more information, persons may contact Diane Friend at 301-616-6270.

"A TASTE OF GARRETT COUNTY" will be held on Monday, June 6, from 6 to 9 p.m. at Wisp Resort. The cost is $25 for adults and $15 for children ages 12 and under. Tickets will be available at the door. The event is the major fundraiser for Garrett Trails. All proceeds go toward progress on the nonprofit group's trail construction plans, such as the Meadow Mountain Trail resurfacing, the Wisp to Visitor Center Trail, the continued construction of new hiking and biking trails at the Fork Run Recreation Area, and many other projects. "The event is packed with offerings from restaurants all around Garrett County," said Garrett Trails president Steve Green about the fundraiser. "Patrons pay an entry fee, and then immerse themselves in special cooking demonstrations from the area's best chefs, prizes and raffles, live entertainment, and delicious new offerings and classic favorites from Garrett County's most popular dining establishments." The second annual "Race Up the Face" will be held at 6 p.m. More information is available at garretttrails.org.

What Were They Thinking?...

Fairness, equity, compassion, and tolerance are traits worthy of pursuit in nearly every situation, but a couple of decisions made by state lawmakers and Governor Martin O'Malley during the recently completed 2011 General Assembly leave one scratching his or her head.

A bill signed into law by the governor gives a tuition break to illegal immigrants in the amounts from $6,000 to $17,000 per semester at state universities because the new law grants them in-state (i.e., state resident) tuition status. A similar bill was passed, but vetoed, in 2003 by then-Gov. Robert Ehrlich. Among the changes to the law are that such students qualify for the tuition break only if they graduate from a Maryland high school or community college, if their parents pay income taxes, if the students register for Selective Service, and if they promise to become legal U.S. residents.

Those in support of the law argue that the children of illegals shouldn't be punished for their parents' unlawful entry, and that making education affordable is good for the illegals and for the nation. Those opposed believe that rewarding unlawful entry encourages more of the same, and that illegals will be competing with state residents for limited university placements. There is relatively sound logic to both of those opposing arguments.

However (and here is where the head-scratching begins), the lawmakers/governor also passed/signed into law the cutting of funds that support the Distinguished Scholar Program, which provides a $3,000 grant to each of Maryland's 350 top-ranked high school seniors. The logic behind that program is that it helps keep the state's finest students from leaving Maryland by giving them scholarships to Maryland universities.

To make matters worse, the 350 seniors were not even notified of the loss until May 6, which is after the deadline for accepting most scholarships offered by other universities. The new tuition break for illegal immigrants will cost $3.5 million, while the cutting of the Distinguished Scholar Program will save $1.1 million.

When asked about the situation, a spokesperson for O'Malley said, "When we're dealing with the kind of recession we've been dealing with, every program can't be protected," and indicated that the scholarship program might be restored once the economy rebounds.

Obviously embarrassed by the hypocrisy of it all, the governor quickly restored the scholarship program, even though it was his own budget cut in the first place. So the funds are back for this year, but the program will evidently be phased out next year.

It is also unclear where the $1.1 million will be found this year, since the budget that was passed is already in deficit because anticipated revenue of $87 million in slot machine revenue will not be generated.

What were they thinking?

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to tell you of a wonderful program for the 5th grade students of our area. Dancing Classrooms Western Maryland Inc. is a non-profit organization that promotes social awareness, teamwork, respect, confidence, physical activity, and self-esteem. It is a 10-week program set in the school schedule. The students learn 10 dances in 10 weeks taught by a professionally trained Dancing Classrooms teacher.

During the last several weeks, I was privileged to attend the performance of the classes at Kitzmiller, Bloomington, and Broad Ford elementary schools. I was touched by the enthusiasm and joy of the students. They showed technical proficiency and cooperation while performing their dances. It was obvious that they were proud of what they accomplished.

I encourage you to promote this organization by attending our big fundraiser – Dancing Extravaganza at the Lodge at the Wisp, Friday, June 17, at 6:30 p.m. with the Queen City Funk and Soul Band. Tickets are available at Gregg's Pharmacy, the Garrett Arts Council Gallery, Will O' the Wisp, and Balanced Body Studio in McHenry, or call 814-483-9422 or 301-387-7585.

For more info about Dancing Classrooms, go online to dancingclassroomsmd.org.

Cancer – a disease that affects too many people in our area.

The American Cancer Society Relay for Life will be held June 10 and 11 at the Southern High School track. Come out at 7 p.m. and cheer on some very special people – true survivors; not people who eat bugs and live off the land for money or to be on TV!

Join us at dusk for the luminary ceremony. The ceremony is the lighting of candles to honor survivors and pay tribute to those who have lost their battle with cancer.

Please help make a difference in someone's life. For more information, log onto www.relayforlife.org/garrett or telephone Brittany Friend at 301-722-2145. Remember, there is no finish line 'til we find a cure.

Thank you,
Sue Evans

To the Editor:

What a wonderful article in last week's issue about Harold Harsh's gift to our military! This is truly an example of what giving is all about.

Our Marine, Navy, and Air Force family salutes you, Mr. Harsh. May God bless you abundantly.

Most sincerely,
Linda and Craig Riley

To the Editor:

As most are aware, without the support and generosity of area businesses, individuals, and organizations, it would be nearly impossible for the less prolific non-profit organizations to sustain their activities and services they provide to our area youths.

Case in point, a tremendous thanks and extension of appreciation is given to Oakland's Dairy Queen for hosting Oakland Boy Scout Troop 22's "Spirit Night" on May 16. Staff and management made possible Troop 22's ability to acquire necessary funds that otherwise would not have been able to be obtained.

Troop 22 is a very active troop that provides a steady and routine schedule of events and activities for their Scouts. As such, supplies, overhead, and arbitrary costs are incurred, and assistance with these costs is routinely needed.

Individual Scout fundraising goes only so far and those proceeds are typically used to assist with Scouts' costs for camps, uniforms, tuitions, and such.

Again, a tremendous thanks to Oakland's Dairy Queen, as well as to the other area businesses and individuals who support and make Scouting possible.

Keep in mind, there awaits a fantastic opportunity and perfect fit in Scouting for boys interested in the' outdoors, camping, fishing, swimming, projects, physical activities, and adventure, as well as doing good for their community, themselves, and others around them.

Please feel free to direct questions about Oakland Troop 22 and Scouting to 301-501-6975.

Thanks,
Scout Leader Chip Smith and Troop 22 members

To the Editor:

I was glad to read Debbie Friend's (president of the GC Fair Board) letter (May 26) about how the fair board came to help the graduating class from Southern High School.

I didn't think Garrett County would not be able to help where needed when a problem presented itself. Garrett County is not like that. I commend the fair board and anyone else who helped out in solving the problem. It was refreshing to read the letter of Ms. Friend. Well done!

John L. Grumbach
McHenry

To the Editor:

This past week I had the pleasure of hearing from two of our new county commissioners at a small informal meeting. They talked down-to-earth and were received very well, especially by this group of women.

The issues discussed were wind turbines, Marcellus shale drilling, the new facility at the fairground, the new aquatic center at the college, real estate and taxes, and how the recession has and will affect Garrett County.

They announced their open meetings to the public and the hope of community participation in these meetings. I urge citizens to attend these meetings and to become better informed. Each issue out there will affect the everyday person.

They also specified that our three previous commissioners with their budgeting left this county debt-free. That is commendable, and we need to keep the new administration frugal and conservative so that we may retain this status. 2014 is only three and a half years away.

We are fortunate here in Garrett County to be the envy of other counties throughout the state.

Maryland High Schools Rank At The Top Again

Maryland public schools continue to pile up honors. A new report has found that for the third year in a row, Maryland ranks first in the nation in the percentage of high schools offering – and students taking – college-level courses.

The Washington Post last week released the annual Challenge Index list of the nation's top high schools. The newspaper lists 107 Maryland high schools among its top 1,904 schools – the top 7 percent in the nation.

Maryland has 184 public high schools, which means that more than half – 58 percent – have gained a place on the newspaper's list. A handful of states – California (385 schools), Florida (150), Texas (149), and New York (145 schools) – have more schools on the list; however, all of those states have a far greater number of schools overall.

The Washington Post list, based upon the Challenge Index developed by education columnist Jay Mathews, had been published for years in Newsweek magazine. The Post sold that publication last year, moving the Challenge Index to the paper. It is based on student enrollment in Advanced Placement (AP), International Baccalaureate (IB), and Cambridge courses and tests, which have been shown to be good preparation for higher education. Many colleges and universities give credit for success on the rigorous end-of-course exams attached to the courses.

"Maryland takes seriously our responsibility to students, and has been working with our school systems to prepare our graduates for college and the workforce," said state superintendent of schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "We know our students must be able to compete with those from across the globe, and we must prepare them for that challenge."

Maryland has worked closely with the College Board in a unique partnership to bring Advanced Placement courses to under-served schools throughout the state.

The Maryland schools on the list are representative of the state's diversity, as high schools from 17 different Maryland counties made the Washington Post list. Nearly a quarter of the Maryland schools spotlighted by the paper have 35 percent or more of their students receiving free or reduced-price meals.

The new ranking follows two reports from earlier this year, ranking Maryland as first in the nation. Education Week ranked Maryland public schools as the nation's best for the third consecutive year, and the College Board found that Maryland schools ranked first in the percentage of students scoring at the college mastery level (scores 3-5) in Advanced Placement – also for the third straight year.

GIVES PRESENTATION – W. Mark Watkins of Oakland (pictured right), a home energy auditor and owner of Hot Shotz Thermal Imaging Services LLC, was a guest speaker at a recent Green Energy Conference sponsored by Congressman Roscoe Bartlett (left) and held at Hagerstown Community College. Watkins' presentation included no cost/low cost practical ways to make businesses and homes more energy independent while saving money. He also spoke about the connection between Potomac Edison and the EmPOWER Maryland Energy Efficiency Act, saying, "Every PE customer in Maryland is paying the EmPOWER Maryland Surcharge." Part of the money generated from the surcharge is to provide complimentary home energy check-up audits. There were over 50 exhibitors who participated in the conference to showcase ways they can help people "go green." Representative Bartlett said, "We're going to continue this all across the district throughout the year to help educate people about energy – the opportunities and the challenges that this presents to us." The next Go Green Energy Conference will be held at the Frederick Fairgrounds on Monday, June 13. To learn more about the complimentary energy audits, persons are invited to telephone 240-321-5050 or go online to http://www.hotshotzinspections.com/.

ROTARIANS WELCOME UKRAINIANS – At a recent luncheon meeting the Oakland Rotary Club hosted five visitors from Ukraine and saw presentations on their various professions. The visit was made possible by Rotary International's Group Study Exchange, a program that sponsors exchanges among its districts worldwide, permitting young professionals to familiarize themselves with how their jobs are done in foreign countries. The goal of the program is to foster understanding and, ultimately, world peace. Pictured from left above are: Roman Gnatyshen, chief of development for an accounting firm in Vinnytsa; Hordiy Rybchynskyy, a surgeon in an oncology diagnostic treatment center in Lviv; Galyna Skybo, team leader and past president of the Kiev Rotary Club, professor, and head of the cytology department at the Bogomolets Institute of Physiology, Kiev; James Carmack, president of Oakland Rotary; Maryna Afanasieva, manager for an international project in Ukraine, with an extensive background in economics, finance, and investment; and Iryna Ostropolets, public relations manager for an international business in Ukraine.

Adorable Adoptables

NOT SO LUCKY FELINE, CANINES – Currently housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter is Lucky (above left), a 6-month-old longhaired feline whose owner developed allergies and had to give him up. Also in need of new homes are a female coonhound (above right) that was picked up along Hoyes Run Road weeks ago and has not been reclaimed; a small beagle that has a collar and tags, whose owner has not yet called the shelter back yet; and a white Lab (below right) that was given up her owner. "These and others are available for adoption," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokeswoman. "The shelter continues to receive a lot of animals in daily. Thankfully, dozens of kittens were taken to rescues by HART and a few dogs were reclaimed. Remember now that summer is here, you must provide a lot of fresh water and shade for your outdoor animals." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

SHS Class Of '96 To Hold Reunion

The Southern High School class of 1996 will hold its 15-year reunion on Saturday, Oct. 15. All correspondence for the event is being passed via Facebook on the "Southern High Class of 1996" page.

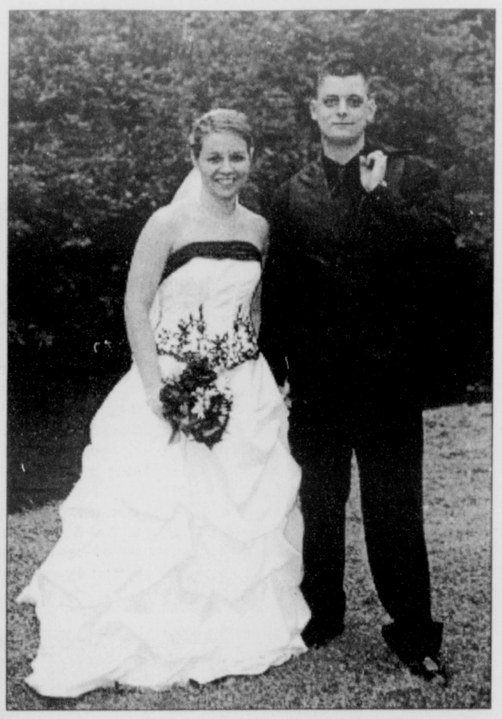
Miss Rodeheaver And Mr. Kroll United In Double-Ring Ceremony



Jacquelyn Kay Rodeheaver and Cody Allen Kroll were joined in marriage on June 5, 2010, in a double ring ceremony that took place outdoors at the Wilhelm Recreation Center and was officiated by Pastor Phillip Matthews.

The bride is the daughter of Jamie and Jill Rodeheaver, McHenry. The groom is the son of Kim Kroll, Ellerslie. Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a strapless, A-line, corset-style gown. The bodice was trimmed in a red sash, accented with red beading. The bride carried a bouquet of red roses and gerber daisies, accented with white gerber daisies.

Rachel McGann, Cumberland, friend of the bride, served as matron of honor. Andrea Warnick, friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Kaitlyn Yommer, McHenry, cousin of the bride, Cassie Yates and Carrie Hughes, both of Frostburg, friends of the bride, and Emily Sisler, Friendsville, friend of the bride. Carly Rodeheaver, McHenry, cousin of bride, served as junior bridesmaid.

The bridesmaids wore claret red, strapless dresses, accented with a black sash. Each bridesmaid carried bouquets of red gerber daisies. Jenna Yates and Sarah Chapman, both of Frostburg, friends of the couple, served as flower girls. The girls wore cap sleeved, white cotton eyelet dresses with a red satin sash, as well as a halo of white daisies.

Randy McGann, Cumberland, friend of groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Dustin George, friend of groom, Bittinger;,Jared Rodeheaver, McHenry, brother of bride, and Daniel Peterson, Sean McCarty, and David Ogden, all of Cumberland, all friends of groom. Zachary Yommer, McHenry, cousin of bride, served as junior groomsman. Kyle and Blake Chaney, McHenry, friends of the couple, served as ring bearers.

Alex Cairs, Ligonier, Pa., and James Plummer, Frostburg, friends of groom, served as ushers. Karen George, Bittinger, friend of the couple, attended to the programs.

Vocalists during the ceremony were Kim Yommer, Jared Rodeheaver, and Carlea Schwartz. A memorial rose ceremony took place honoring the couple's late family members who have influenced their lives. The recessional included a spirited dance performed by the bridal party to Stevie Wonder's "Signed, Sealed, Delivered."

A reception immediately followed the ceremony, where the guests were served a buffet style dinner, prepared by friends and family. Jessica Fratz served as hostess of the reception, during which the couple lit their unity candle. Toasts were presented by the best man, and matron and maid of honor.

The wedding cake, made by the mother of the bride, was a four-tiered round cake with four small accent cakes. It was accented with black ribbon and red gerber daisies. Floral arrangements for the wedding were designed by the mother of the bride, while decorations for the ceremony and reception were provided by the bride's family.

Music for the ceremony and reception was provide by DJ Todd Dyche. Jackie and Cody danced their first dance as husband and wife to "Belongs To You."

Wedding photography was provided by Chris Ours, while Fayann Saturday provided videography of the event. Guests signed scrapbook pages to be included into the wedding scrapbook, in lieu of a formal guest book.

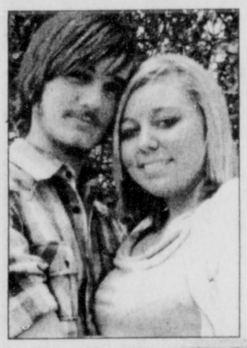
A rehearsal dinner at Penn Alps, Grantsville, was given by the groom's mother. Bridal showers were given by the bridesmaids and mother of the bride.

The bride is a 2007 graduate of Northern Garrett High School and a 2010 graduate of Allegany College of Maryland, with an associate's of applied science degree in respiratory therapy. She is currently employed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital as a respiratory care practitioner, and at Western Maryland Medical Supply as an account executive/respiratory therapist.

The groom is a 2003 graduate of Allegany High School and a 2009 graduate of the Western Maryland Police Training Academy. He is currently employed the Frostburg City Police Department.

After a honeymoon in Ocean City, the couple now reside in Frostburg.

Mr. Upperman To Wed Ms. Hamilton



The engagement and wedding of Bryson J. Upperman and Taylor R. Hamilton, both of Oakland, have been announced.

The wedding ceremony will be held at the Loch Lynn Church of God on Friday, June 10, at 2 p.m. The church is located at 8649 Gorman Road, Loch Lynn.

All family and friends are invited to attend the ceremony.

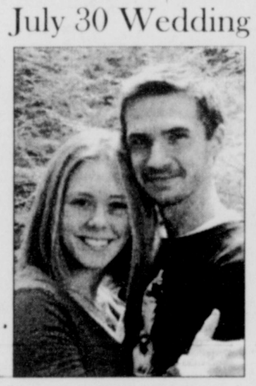
Ms. Preston And Mr. Tasker Plan July 30 Wedding



James and Liane Preston, of Oakland have announced the engagement of their daughter, Laura Preston, to Mark Tasker of Mountain Lake Park. Tasker is the son of Irene Paugh and Delmas Tasker.

The bride-to-be is a 2008 graduate of Wheeling Jesuit University, with a bachelor of science degree in nuclear medicine. A current resident of Morgantown, W.Va., she is employed as a positron emission tomography technologist at Ruby Memorial Hospital.

After graduating from Southern High School in 2001, the prospective groom traveled to California to hone his culinary skills at the Art Institute of San Diego. After three years, Tasker returned to Deep Creek Lake to work at Santa Fe Grille, where he met Preston, who was working as a waitress. Tasker has since become the sous-chef at Will O' the Wisp.

Tasker proposed to Preston on the cliffs of LaJolla, while watching the sunset over the Pacific Ocean, during a romantic vacation in San Diego last August.

The couple are planning an outdoor wedding at the Evening Breeze Golf Course in Deer Park on July 30.

HERITAGE DAYS

The Historical Society will sponsor Heritage Days July 1 and 2. Photos of sports teams and cheerleaders from 1927 to 1977 will be on display. A garage sale will also be held both days across from the Union Ambulance squad hall. Proceeds will benefit Relay for Life. Local sponsors are members of the Community Education Outreach Service (CEOS). A chicken barbecue will be offered on Saturday, July 2, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. A special tribute to Marvin "Buck" Bolyard will be given, as well as recognition for all athletes and cheerleaders.

RECYCLING SATURDAY

Recycling Saturday will be held on June 11. The Lions Club sponsors this service to the community. Plastics (#1 or #2), light and heavy cardboard, business papers, junk mail, newspapers, magazines/catalogs, and metal are accepted.

SOUP AND SALAD

A soup and salad meal will be offered on Saturday, June 11, from 3 to 8 p.m. at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, Eglon. The menu includes a variety of soups, a salad bar, drinks, rolls, and dessert. Donations asked are $8 for adults and $4 for children age 10 and younger. Preschoolers eat for free. The dinner is sponsored by the Maple Spring Family Life Center committee.

CHET ROTH MUSIC

Another day of country, bluegrass, and gospel music will be offered on Saturday, June 11, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Mt. Grove Community Park. Those attending are reminded to bring a chair and a covered dish to share.

BLOODMOBILE

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Union Ambulance squad hall on Wednesday, June 22, from 1 to 7 p.m. Those donating are asked to arrive no later than 6:45 p.m.

Maryland Dairy Youth Eligible For Scholarships

Two $4,000 scholarships are being offered again this year to Maryland dairy youths who are currently enrolled in or have been enrolled in a 4-H/FFA dairy project (all dairy breeds) and are pursuing a four-year degree in any agricultural program at the college of their choice. The Maryland Dairy Scholarships are available to entering college freshmen through entering college seniors. The scholarships may be won twice, but applicants must apply each year.

Applications can be obtained by looking on the University of Maryland dairy web site or by contacting Arthur and Peggy Johnson at 301-972-8274. A recent wallet size photo (head shot only) and a current official transcript must accompany the application. Applications must be typed in space allotted using a 12-point font, and postmarked no later than July 1, 2011, for consideration.

Made possible through the donation of a Friend of Maryland Dairy Youth and 4-H, the scholarships have been awarded since 1998 and are presented at the Maryland State Fair during the Dairy Awards Program.

Preston County Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
Preston County FSA Office
157 Plaza CT., Suite 13, Kingwood, WV 26537-1793
304-329-1923

FSA WILL ACCEPT COUNTY COMMITTEE MEMBER NOMINATIONS JUNE 15 - AUGUST 1

Eric McCartney, executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, has announced that the county office will soon begin accepting nominations for eligible candidates from Local Administrative Area (LAA) 1 (Pleasant and Grant districts) to serve on the County FSA Committee. The nomination period is June 15 to Aug. 1.

"I encourage local producers to become a member of the county committee and make a difference," said McCartney. "County FSA committees have an important role in the decision making process on important agricultural issues in their community."

All nomination forms must be received in the Preston County FSA Office or postmarked by Aug. 1. Voting will take place between Nov. 4 and Dec. 5.

To hold office as a county FSA committee member, a person must meet the basic eligibility requirements. Persons uncertain about their eligibility to vote in the county committee election or hold office as a committee member should contact the Preston County FSA Office. Affirmation of eligibility to vote must be determined in order for a vote to count in an election.

County FSA committees oversee local FSA operations. They make decisions on commodity price support payments and eligibility, conservation programs, disaster assistance, and other agricultural issues. Established in 1936, the county committee system works to make federal agricultural programs serve the needs of local producers. The Preston County FSA Committee has three elected members. More than 8,000 county committee members serve in more than 2,300 offices nationwide.

More information on the county committee election, including the nomination form, is also available at the Preston County FSA office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza. Persons may telephone the FSA office at 304-329-1923 or fax 304-329-3056.

Nomination forms are also available online at: http://www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/publications/elections/Default.asp.

PRODUCERS REMINDED TO FILE ADJUSTED GROSS INCOME CONSENT FORMS WITH IRS

Director McCartney reminds producers that, in order to receive USDA program payments, each payment recipient must have an adjusted gross income (AGI) verification consent form on file with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

The consent form authorizes IRS to verify for FSA whether a payment recipient's AGI meets the eligibility requirements for FSA programs. The form became a requirement for payment eligibility beginning with the 2009 crop year; however, many program participants have not complied with this requirement.

"IRS and USDA reports show that, nationwide, FSA is still missing the required consent forms from many producers for 2009 and 2010," said McCartney. "In order to avoid an interruption of program payments, producers need to check their business records and turn these forms in to the IRS immediately if they have not done so already," he said.

The IRS requires written consent from all individuals or legal entities before verification of the average AGI can be provided to USDA. Individuals must submit form CCC-927, and legal entities must submit form CCC-928. Without these forms on file, producers will not receive USDA program payments.

McCartney further clarifies that these consent forms are required for payments received from the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), as well as those received through FSA. Completed forms must be returned to the IRS.

For more information on AGI eligibility requirements or the AGI verification process, persons are invited to visit or call the Preston County FSA office.

COLLEGE MINISTRY TEAM TO PRESENT PROGRAM – A Proclaim Ministry Team from Pensacola Christian College will present a program on Tuesday, June 7, at 7 p.m. at Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church. Music and/or dramatic selections and a DVD presentation about the college will be featured. Admission is free. Proclaim teams represent the college during January and the summer months, holding services in hundreds of churches and schools throughout the United States. Located in northwest Florida, Pensacola Christian College offers a wide variety of programs on the undergraduate, graduate, and seminary levels. From its beginning in 1974, the college has grown from 100 students to more than 4,000 today.

Kobayashi/Gray Violin, Piano Duo To Give Next MPA Concert

Music at Penn Alps will host an appearance of the Kobayashi/Gray Duo in the Great Hall at Penn Alps on Saturday, June 4, at 7:30 p.m. This performance is sponsored by Garrett College.

The Kobayashi/Gray Duo presents the works of more than 25 19th to 21st century women composers. They also perform new and unknown works of women composers at national and international conference venues, which have included the Music Teachers National Association, the College Music Society, the International Festival of Women Composers, the Hot Springs Music Festival, and the 2002 International Workshops in Stavanger, Norway.

As winners of the USIA Artistic Ambassador auditions, the duo began its international collaboration touring South America and the West Indies. The two musicians have recorded two CDs of works by women composers: Feminissimo! Women Playing Music by Women (released in 2008) and Boldly Expressive! Music by Women. Eight of these works are world premiere recordings.

Laura Kobayashi leads a varied career as a soloist chamber and orchestral musician, adjudicator, and teacher. She has participated in numerous music festivals in the United States and abroad, and has appeared as a soloist with many symphony orchestras. In the fall of 2010, she joined the music faculty at George Mason University in Fairfax, Va. Dr. Kobayashi has served on the faculties at West Virginia University, the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, the University of Georgia, and the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and has performed as a member of the San Francisco Opera Orchestra. She studied violin with Dorothy Delay, Andrew Jennings, Paul Kantor, and Denes Zsigmondy, and has performed in the master classes of Nathan Milstein, Ruggiero Ricci, Arthur Grumiaux, and Gyorgy Pauk.

Kobayashi earned degrees from the Juilliard School and Yale University. She obtained her doctorate in musical arts from the University of Michigan.

Susan Keith Gray is a pianist, teacher, adjudicator, and clinician. Awards include prizes in the Music Teachers National Association Collegiate Artist Competition, and solo appearances with the Dakota Chamber, Spartanburg, Savannah, Huron, Cherokee, and the University of South Dakota orchestras. Additional recognition as a collaborative pianist has led to recent recital performances with violinist Scott St. John, flutist Linda Chatterton, bassist Barry Green, cellist Keith Robinson and singers Carla Connors, Louis Otey, and Scott Piper.

She has served on the instrumental accompanying faculty at the Music Academy of the West and as staff accompanist for national competitions. In 2008-09, she served as director of the Collaborative Piano Program of Camp Opera, founded and directed by vocalist Scott Piper.

Gray holds degrees in piano performance from Converse College and the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, and a doctorate of musical arts in chamber music and accompanying from

GCAC To Host Member Show Of Photography

Local photographers will have the opportunity to submit their work for consideration to a future exhibit in the Backroom of the Gallery Shop in downtown Oakland. The Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) will be accepting entries for its second members-only juried show.

The Jim Lawrence Memorial Photography Show will be on display from June 14 through July 29. Any GCAC member is eligible to submit an original piece of photography. Entries will be accepted from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, June 13, only.

The show has been named in honor of photographer Jim Lawrence, who died in March. Lawrence was a Gallery Shop artist since 2006. In addition, he was a member of the board of directors of GCAC, serving as treasurer of the organization for many years.

"His work captured the natural beauty and landscapes of the county that he so much enjoyed as he hiked the trails, especially in the area of his home near Friendsville," said Karen Reckner, executive director of GCAC. "The arts council is pleased to be honoring Lawrence's commitment to the arts through this member show."

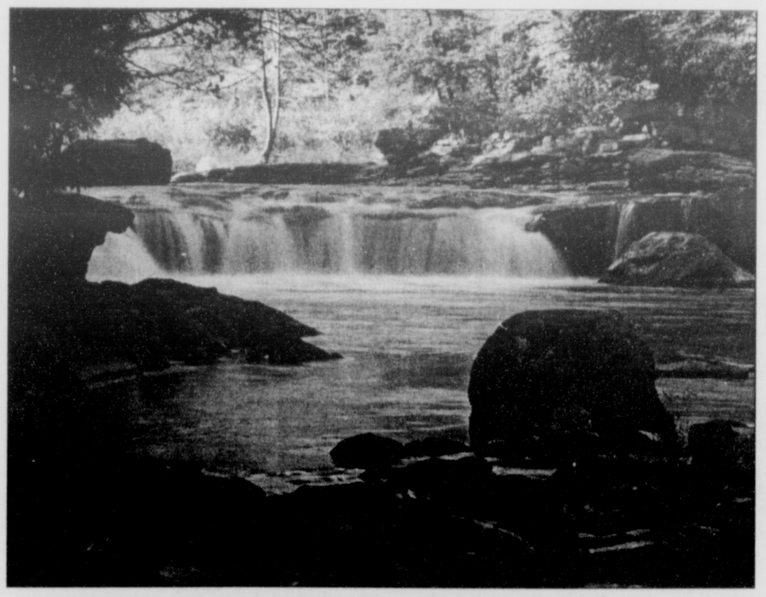
This exhibit will give area residents the chance to showcase their work, Reckner said. There is no requirement to be a current exhibiting artist of the Gallery Shop. Any member in good standing is invited to participate.

There are size restrictions, the work must have been completed in the past two years, and it should be available for sale, Reckner noted. The entry fee is $10.

The juror for the show will be Cumberland photographer Dave Romero. He specializes in product and portrait photography. He is a faculty member of the Arts Business Institute, where he offers instruction to artists on the show jurying process and also in photographing art.

During the month of June, visitors to the Gallery Shop will be able to vote for a "People's Choice." This prize along with a first, second, third, honorable mention, and Best of Show will be announced during a reception and annual membership meeting at the end of June. Prize monies have been donated by various local businesses and individuals.

For more information and entry guidelines, persons may contact GCAC at 301-334-6580. The Garrett County Arts Council is funded by member support, Garrett County government, and a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council.



LATE PHOTOGRAPHER TO BE COMMEMORATED WITH SHOW – Jim Lawrence, photographer of this photo of the Youghiogeny River, was a Garrett County Arts Council member and active volunteer, serving as treasurer for many years. He had been a contributing Gallery Shop artist since 2006. Lawrence died in March at the age of 60. To honor his artistic contributions and efforts, the arts council is organizing a members-only photography show. The Jim Lawrence Memorial Photography Show will be on display from June 14 through July 29. Any GCAC member is eligible to submit an original piece of photography. Entries will be accepted from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, June 13, only. Throughout this month, visitors to the Gallery Shop, located along Alder Street in Oakland, will be able to vote for a People's Choice winner. This prize along with a first, second, third, honorable mention, and Best of Show will be announced during a reception and annual membership meeting at the end of June. See story for complete details.

"Old-Time Jams" Scheduled At New Germany State Pk.

New Germany State Park will host "Old-Time Jams" from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. every other Friday, starting on June 10 and ending on Sept. 2, at the Lake House. Admission is free.

The event will provide an opportunity for musicians and spectators of all ages to share and enjoy traditional folk, bluegrass, and other "old-time" Appalachian music.

"The Old-Time Jams are simply unique," said Ranger Erin Thomas of New Germany State Park. "Whether you choose to play an instrument, sing, dance, or just sit back and enjoy the music, the jams are a great way to relax and feel connected to our local Appalachian heritage."

Refreshments and gift items will be available for purchase during the sessions at the New Germany Snack Bar & Gift Shop, located inside the Lake House.

For more information, persons may call 301-895-5453 or e-mail park-new-germany@dnr.state.md.us.

Jewelry Making Workshop Slated By Arts Council

A two-day course titled "Beginning Wire Jewelry" is being offered this month by the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC). Local artist Connie Quarrick will instruct the class, which will be held Thursday and Friday, June 23-24.

Quarrick has been selling her work at the Gallery Shop in Oakland since 2008. Her art includes jewelry made with sterling and copper wire, horseshoe nails, and vintage silver plate flatware. She also makes chimes, wind spinners, bookmarks, and zipper pulls. She is a regular vendor at the Mountain Fresh Produce Market in Oakland and can be found throughout the area at events such as Art in the Park, Artist Studio Tour, and Heritage Craft Fest.

"Beginning Wire Jewelry" will instruct students about the tools and terminology related to jewelry construction, as well as wire basics. During the class each student will be able to complete a pair of earrings or a pendant. If time permits, a simple bracelet may

GLAF To Host Voice Clinic With Wotring-Nelson

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will continue its tradition of offering a summer class for students interested in singing. A voice clinic will be offered at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland June 20 to 24, taught by Elizabeth Wotring-Nelson. The hours each day will be 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Students entering 7th grade through graduating seniors are eligible to take part in the voice clinic.

Wotring-Nelson is an area private voice instructor. She has a bachelor's degree in church music, and a master's degree in musical theatre performance, which she earned at the Boston Conservatory. She is active with TOTL (Theatre on the Lake), a local summer theatre group.

The class size is limited, and a minimum enrollment is required. The cost is $100 per student for the weeklong session. Scholarships are available. Applications are due by Monday, June 6, and there are no refunds after June 17. Each student is asked to bring a notebook, pencil, bagged lunch, and bottle of water each day.

To register or receive more information, persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, or register online at www.artsandentertainment.org.

GLAF is partially supported by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland State Arts Council, Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, the William Penn Foundation, the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, and the Pew Charitable Trust, and administered by the Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation.

Deep Creek's Got Talent Fundraiser Slated For June 18

The Honi Honi Bar will host the fourth annual Deep Creek's Got Talent! on Saturday, June 18, from 6 to 9 p.m. Over the past three years, through the support of contestants, sponsors, businesses, and the community, more than $37,000 has been raised for local charities and organizations. Proceeds this year will benefit the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company.

Billed as a cross between American Idol and America's Got Talent, DC's Got Talent! organizers are looking for singers, musicians, dancers, jugglers, and actors to perform in the show. Registration is available on a first-come, first-served basis and is limited to 15 contestants.

To participate, performers are asked to collect a minimum of $50 in donations to be turned in the night of the event. Because this event is a fundraiser, more judging points will be awarded to those who collect the most money before and during the competition.

Event kickoff and the elimination round will begin at 6 p.m. Participants will then be judged on three criteria: Donations collected prior to registration at the event will count for 50 percent of their score; the judges' feedback and comments at the event will be worth 30 percent; and the audience votes (donations) collected at the event will make up the final 20 percent.

The top five performers will then be asked to perform a second routine immediately after judging is completed, and then a winner will be crowned, although prizes will be awarded to the top three performers, the top fundraiser, and the "most talented" contestant. The most talented contestant will receive the Judges' Choice Award once again this year, which will be chosen by the live judges panel.

"The event will be great fun for audience members as well," said event organizer Stacy Holler. "Besides showcasing outstanding area talent, the evening will feature great prizes and giveaways donated by area businesses, as well as a live auction for specialty-donated items. This year, a Michael Oher Baltimore Ravens autographed football jersey is up for grabs as one of the featured items in the live auction."

In addition to the Honi Honi Bar, the fundraiser sponsors are Sticks & Stones Landscape Construction, Rob Michael Insurance Agency, Humberson Homes, BJ's Custom Creations, Bill's Marine Service, High Mountain Sports, Garrett Automotive, Karaoke Services by Jimmy B, WKHJ 104.5, 92.3 The Train, Lohr Distributors, First United Bank & Trust, Rush Services, and the Accident Garage.

All contestants must pre-register to be eligible to compete. Registration forms and additional information are available online at deepcreektalent.com. For more information, persons may call Holler at 301-387-4020.

Workshop Slated

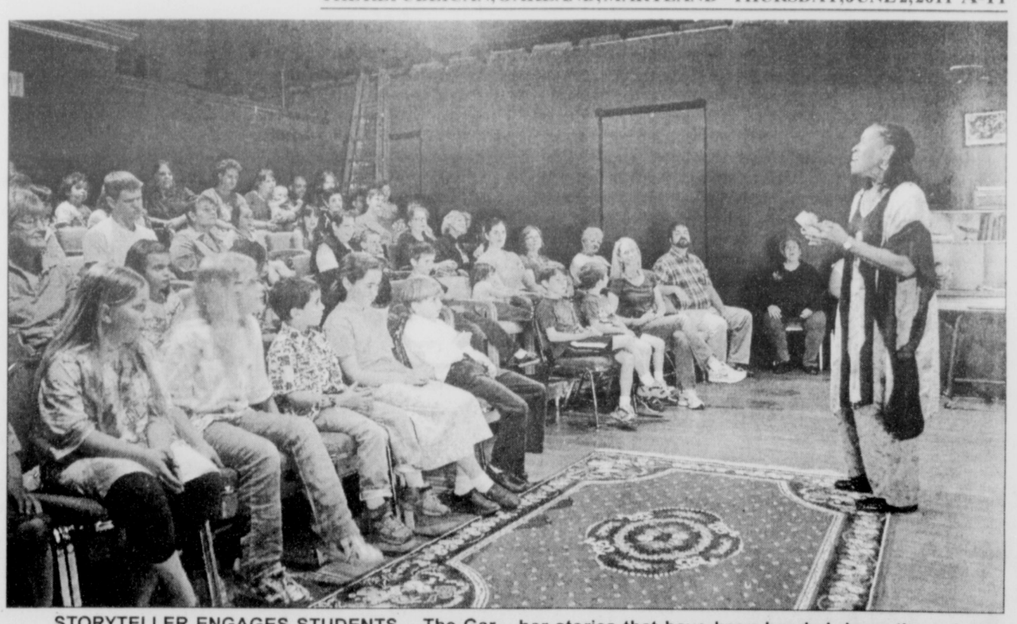
also be made.

The workshop will be held at the Discovery Center of Deep Creek Lake State Park each day from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The cost of the course is $95. The instructor will provide the needed materials. Students may bring any jewelry making tools they have, or borrow them from the instructor during the workshop.

The class size is limited to a small group so the instructor may give individualized attention to each student. The deadline to register is June 10. For more information, persons should call GCAC at 301-334-6580.



STORYTELLER ENGAGES STUDENTS – The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival presented storyteller Charlotte Blake Alston on May 20 and 21, bringing her into the county's middle schools as well as to Our Town Theatre in Oakland. She performed for more than 800 students and staff members, according to Mary Callis, GLAF executive director. "The children were very warm, polite, and receptive to Charlotte. They were very engaged in her stories that have been handed down through generations in various tribes and countries from the African continent," Callis said. She said the performer was met Saturday morning at Our Town Theatre with a standing-room-only crowd from the Garrett Mentors organization, pictured above. "They were all left wanting more stories," Callis said.

ALL MY LIFE: A MEMOIR
by Susan Lucci
C. 2011, Harper Audio, $39.99; 10 CDs, 12 hr., 15 min.
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

It's been a guilty, secret pleasure – one you never intended to start.

For years, whenever anybody would mention watching a soap opera, you'd scoff. Weren't soaps were for housewives, lie-abouts, and people with no lives? No, definitely not on your "things to do" list.

But then one day at lunch, somebody turned on the TV and you peeked. Who was that buff guy in dreads? Does the pretty blonde know her father is manipulating her?

It took about 20 minutes, but you were hooked.

So what will you do without All My Children when it's finished this fall? One way to cope is to listen to All My Life by Susan Lucci.

Throughout her childhood, Susan Lucci was fascinated by acting. She loved Broadway, and remembers seeing shows with her mother. She was the lead in a Girl Scout play, but that only whetted her appetite for the stage. "Performing," says Lucci, "was all I wanted to do."

Told that she was "too ethnic" for stardom, she was often mistaken for being a celebrity, but didn't act professionally until she was halfway through college. Her professors pooh-poohed TV, believing it to be a "lesser form of entertainment," but Lucci was sold on the medium. She had a few brief television appearances before she was invited to audition for a new soap opera called All My Children.

Just after her marriage to Helmut Huber in September 1969, Lucci was hired to play Erica Kane. Though she and her alter ego are worlds apart in personality, Lucci says that she and Erica are still close; in fact, she's been approached by well-meaning fans who scolded her for things that Erica did. Lucci is privileged to share Erica's wardrobe, as well as her friends, her "careers," and her world travels.

But the similarities don't end there: For over 40 years, Erica Kane's "life" has sometimes eerily paralleled that of Susan Lucci.

Remember when "babysitting" meant you'd be spending an hour with All My Children? Yep, and whether it's been hours or decades since you last saw an episode, you'll love this audiobook.

Lucci – who is "older than Oprah and younger than Cher" – tells us about her life, her men (plural!), her children, grandchildren, sideline careers, and how she became one of daytime drama's best-loved characters. In a voice familiar to fans (Lucci does her own reading in this audiobook), she tells about her almost-two-decades-long wait for a Daytime Emmy Award, and what it was like to finally nab the statue.

But the real appeal of the book All My Life is the backstage peeks at the show All My Children: how Fra Heflin (Mona) became Lucci's second mother; the romantic streak James Mitchell (Palmer) displayed; the infamous abortion story arc; where all the good AMC gossip can be found; and what really goes on during those steamy love scenes.

So come clean: You're going to miss your favorite soap, aren't you? If the answer is a mournful "yes," then for you, All My Life will be a definite pleasure.

the University of Michigan.

The duo will present Sonatina in D by Franz Schubert; Sonata in A, Opus 100, by Johannes Brahms; "Deserted Garden" and "Elfentanz" by African-American composer Florence Price; and Dansuri Românesti (Roumanian Dances in the manner of Bartók) by Hilda Jerea.

Ticket prices are $12 for adults (a 10-pack is also available at $110). Students and children under 19 years of age are admitted free of charge. For program and ticket information, persons may call 301-895-5881.

Music at Penn Alps is supported in part by grants from the Naylor Family Trust, administered by the Community Trust Foundation of Western Maryland.

GEARING UP FOR THE GATHERING – Numerous area musicians are preparing for the fourth annual "Working on a Building" Country and Gospel Music Gathering, slated for Saturday, June 18, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Grantsville Community Park. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted. Proceeds benefit the Mt. Beulah Church Restoration Fund. Scheduled to perform are Second Wind at 11 a.m., the Turkey Neck Travelers at noon, Loretta Hummel & the Golden River Band (above) at 1 p.m., Broken Glass & Rusty Hinges at 2 p.m., the Durst Brothers at 3 p.m.; and Irv Ullery's Country Gospel Band at 4 p.m. The fundraiser will also feature a silent auction and food. The Mt. Beulah Restoration Association used previous proceeds to stabilize the bell tower and replace the roof of the 129-year-old church, which is located along Twin Churches Road in New Germany. The group's next project will be repairing the foundation. For more information, persons may call 301-895-5735. Members of the Golden River Band are songwriter Hummel, lead singer, acoustic guitar, and harmony; Bill Nelson, dobro, lap steel, and electric and acoustic guitar; Walter Dixon, fiddle, guitar, banjo, bass guitar, and mandolin; and Steve Reese, guitar and vocal.

SPORTS

Oakland Ladies Golf Association Results Announced

The Oakland Ladies Golf Association of the Oakland Golf Club opened league play on May 5 with flight play. Winners that day were as follows: first flight, Sue O'Neal, low gross, and June Bray, low net; second flight, Deb Weissgerber, low gross, and Pearl Daniels, low net; third flight, Becky Glotfelty, low gross, and Sandy Bello, low net. Pearl Daniels won the closest-to-the-pin contest, and the low-putts contest was a tie between Sue Bredel and Sandy Bello.

Twenty-one members participated in the golf game Criss-Cross on May 12. First flight low gross was won by Evie Harrison, and low net was a tie between Jessie Stowell and Sue O'Neal. In the second flight, low gross was a tie between Diana Heilig and Janice LaRue, and low net went to Pearl Daniels. The third flight low gross was won by Sue Bredel, and low net was recorded by Barbara Frantz. Pam Trydahl won the fourth flight low gross, and Judith Evans took home low net. The low-putts contest was won by Jessie Stowell.

The game of the week last Thursday was "Disaster!" with 21 women participating. Points were earned for hitting into the water, in the sand, out of bounds, three-putts, and failing to get out of the sand. Those with the low scores on each of these "disasters" were the winners in each flight.

First-flight winner with 2 points was Jessie Stowell, with a tie for second between June Bray and Evie Harrison. Second flight was won by Rosie Versteegen with a score of 2, and there was a tie for second between Sherry Grant and Diana Heilig. The third flight was won by Sue Bredel with a score of 6. Fourth flight winner was Betsy Polce with a score of 5, and Jean Thagard placed second. The low-putt contest was won by Deb Weissgerber with 31 putts.

Ladies Association play is scheduled for every Thursday. More information is available by contacting the Oakland Golf Club.

Pros' Event Held At Alpine Lake

A Pros' Par 3 Tournament was held at the Alpine Lake Golf Club course on Sunday, May 15, with 30 players in the field. The format was 50% of one's handicap, individual stroke-play.

Arnold Dalton putted his way to victory with a score of 49, 5 under par. Bill Beck placed second with a 51, followed by Bill Felix and Lough Cosner tied for third with 52s. Sam Berry and Mary Ann Krewson tied for fourth with 53s, and Skip Creamer, Ed Savage, and Sam Calhoun all carded 54s to tie for fifth.

Bill Felix won closest to the pin on hole #10, while Bill Beck won closest to the pin on holes #15 and #16.

The sharing of food and beverages, and an awards presentation followed the tournament in the Evergreen Room.

Women's Clinics Are Offered By Oakland Club

The Oakland Golf Club has announced that it will offer golf lessons for women on Tuesdays at 6 p.m. The fee for the hour-long clinic is $5 each week, and women of all ages and abilities are encouraged to attend.

"We are pleased to offer these clinics throughout the season, and our hope is that several ladies will take advantage of the opportunity to learn a great sport," said Max Hill, director of golf.

Loaner clubs are available for the clinic. Persons may telephone the Pro Shop at 301-334-3883 for additional information.

Huskies, Steelers Plan Tournament At Wisp Course

The Northern High School and Northern Steelers Youth Football teams will be holding their annual golf tournament on Friday, June 24, at the Wisp golf course in McHenry.

The format of the tournament will be a two-player scramble with an 8:30 a.m. shotgun start. The entry fee is $80.00 per golfer, which includes two mulligans and all hole contests, as well as food following the tournament. All hole sponsorships are $100.

To register and/or to obtain more information, persons may telephone Phil Carr at 301-616-4538 or Ben Sisler at 301-746-5630.

Charlie's Angels' Play Best Ball At Oakland Course

The Charlie's Angels golf group played a two-man/best ball format at the Oakland Golf Club course on Tuesday, with 36 participants.

Finishing in first place with a score of 56 was the team of Butch Conrad and Gordon Wright. The second-place team of Tom Broadwater and Dave Lewis carded a score of 57, and the third-place team of Don Savage and Paul Sines shot a 61.

The team of Wayne Johnson and Paul Wampler finished in fourth place, and Bill Fredlock won the closest-to-the-pin contest on hole #9.

The Angels will play again next Tuesday, with a start time of 9 a.m. Guests are welcome. For additional information, persons may telephone the Oakland Golf Club Pro Shop at 301-334-3883.

Garrett County Fishing Contest Winners Named

The Garrett County Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, is now under way.

There were two winners for the week ending May 14:

Yellow trout: 1 lb., 4 ozs., 14", caught by Jeffrey Loutsenhizer, Murrysville, Pa.

There was one winner for the week ending May 21:

Crappie: 1 lb., 13", caught by Brooklyn Tasker, Deer Park.

There was also just one winner for the week ending May 28:

Walleye: 4 lbs., 23", caught by Justin Loutsenhizer, Murrysville, Pa.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye and yellow perch. To enter the contest, catches must be taken to Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House at 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry.

GRANDSON WINS DRAWING – Bryce Bittinger of Fairmont, W.Va., recently won a turkey hunting trip through a drawing sponsored by the National Wild Turkey Federation. His name was drawn in the 2011 JAKES (Juniors Acquiring Knowledge, Ethics and Sportsmanship) Hunt of a Lifetime contest. The 13-year-old traveled with his father Wyatt Bittinger to Red Cloud, Neb., for a guided wild turkey hunt. The all-expense paid hunting trip included license fees, a shotgun, lodging, and travel. Both hunters bagged a turkey on the trip. Bryce is the grandson of Pauline L. Bittinger of Barton and Accident and the great-grandson of the late Carroll and Huldah DeWitt, formerly of Accident.

"Coyote In The Hills" Hunt Is Now Under Way

An estimated 100 registered hunters from Garrett/Allegany counties are taking part in the first "Coyote in the Hills" competition, sponsored by Mountain Maryland Quality Deer Management Association (QDMA) and scheduled for today, June 2, through this Saturday, June 4.

Participating hunters have three days to take a coyote, and prize money – up to $500 – will be awarded, according to organizers. There is a grand prize category, an adult category, and a youth category.

The coyote check-in location is Swanton Grocery. On Saturday, the last day of the hunt, there will be a free lunch available from noon to 4 p.m., courtesy of the Mountain Maryland QDMA Branch.

Hunters desiring more information and/or to register for this special hunt are invited to contact Carl Lee at 301-387-4010 or cglee@comcast.net.

LOCAL DANCERS FARE WELL AT NATIONAL EVENT – Dancers from Brenda's Body Shop, Oakland, took part in the Showstoppers American Dance Competition in Woodbridge, Va., on May 15, and won a number of awards. The Sportaerobic All-Stars team competed in two categories, character dance with the "Glow Man" routine and the open division with a sportaerobics routine. Both performances earned the group first place honors. The All-Stars also earned the overall first place for their division. "The 'glow man' routine was a big hit in our recent dance recital and the girls will be giving an encore performance at the upcoming Relay for Life Event in Oakland on Friday, June 10," said Brenda Brosnihan, coach. The high school dance team competed in both the jazz and contemporary categories, and this group, too, won first place in both, as well as the top honor in the overall division. Sara King competed in the open solo division and earned a double platinum award, one of the highest honors possible, Brosnihan said. She is coached by Alissa Garland, who said Sara is "an amazing athlete." Showstopper American Dance Championships was established 32 years ago, and is the largest and most recognized dance competition in the world, with more than 40 events each year, Brosnihan said. "It was an outstanding day for our group, and we are very proud of their performances and their overall experience at the event," stated Brosnihan. Both groups will continue their training during the summer months as they prepare for the National Day of Dance Celebration on Saturday, July 30, which is a nationwide event during which studios across the country join together to celebrate dance. Pictured above is the high school team. Shown kneeling, from left, are Leah Mowbray, Patricia Sherrard, and Kayla Dawson. Standing in the same order are Jennifer Feaster, Stephanie Sherrard, Corinne Weaver, Alexis Harvey, Taylor Germain, and Sara King. Dancer Samantha Gittere was not available for the picture. In the photo below are the All-Stars. Kneeling from left: Madison Cooper, Marley Merrick, Autumn Friend, and Jian Travis. Standing in the same order: Nicole McClosky, Shannon Miller, Brooke Miller, Kenzi Smith, and Michaela Vitez. In the back is Brandi Tasker. King and her coach Garland are shown in the third picture.

Groups Participating: July 18-22, 2011 (ages 8 thru 11 boys and girls)

What is Badges for Baseball?

When fully implemented, Badges for Baseball is a multi-faceted mentoring program that brings the tenets of "The Ripken Way" to young people through a variety of programs, including Healthy Choices, and baseball/softball themed activities. Most importantly, law enforcement mentors work directly with youth to enhance the lessons of "The Ripken Way" while providing young people with new opportunities to learn, grow, and make positive choices for their future.

Students will be bussed from Northern and Southern High School parking lots at 8:30 am to Garrett Community College. At the end of each day students will be bussed back to the high schools for parental pick-up at 4:00pm. Lunches will be provided for the kids. We will also provide baseball gear and a tee shirt, however if your child has their own helmet and glove they must bring them. At the end of the camp, three students will be selected to attend a week long Cal Ripken Sr. baseball academy in Aberdeen, MD during the fall of this year at no expense to the child who will be accompanied by a law enforcement chaperone

Hot Stove League Baseball Results

Thursday Results

In its 5-3 loss last Thursday, Grantsville scored three times in the top of the first inning, only to be answered with four runs by Bill Miller Equipment in the bottom of the same inning. Bill Miller held Grantsville scoreless over the final four innings to capture the win in Hot Stove baseball play.

Patrick Kimble finished with a third of Bill Miller's hits by slapping two singles. Tucker Burley entered in the second inning, and finished out the game to earn the win.

Grantsville finished with five hits to go with its three runs, while Bill Miller had six total hits.

Grantsville is scheduled to face Madigan's Auto Sales at Broadford Park today at 7 p.m.

Monday Results

In Monday's Hot Stove action Team One Auto Mall topped Madigan's Auto, 8-6, in Oakland.

Team One scored five runs in the bottom of the fourth to turn a three-run deficit into a two-run lead on its way to victory over Madigan's.

Reese Haskiell singled three times for Team One and knocked in two runs. D.J. Flanagan doubled in a run, while Colton Peck and Lucas Ritchie both singled in a run.

For Madigan's, Brian Wildman and Austin Reckert both doubled twice, and Scott Shahan singled twice.

Team One Auto Mall is set to face Cork's Cars today at 6 p.m. That game will be played at Southern High School.

Wednesday Results

Madigan's Auto fell to Frostburg Legion, 11-6, after allowing six runs to score in the fifth and sixth innings yesterday at Glendening Field.

Frostburg was ahead 5-3 after three innings before Madigan's scored twice in the top of the fifth to tie the score. Frostburg came back with three runs in the fifth inning and, after Madigan's scored a run in the top of the sixth, added its final three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Madigan's got three RBI on a double and a single from Austin Reckart and two singles from Scott Cooper. Shawn Shahan singled two times and got himself on base on four occasions.

Zach Beal and Brett Ishler both drove in two runs, with Beal doing his damage on two doubles and Ishler accomplishing his with two singles. Brandon Redman finished with two singles, and Alex Whetzel scored three times.

Jake Hafer tossed a complete game for Frostburg, striking out seven and allowing eight hits to Madigan's batters. Hafer helped himself out by swatting a pair of singles.

attending the same school this fall. If the new residence places the student in a new school district, it would be better to make the transfer during the summer rather than after school begins. Anytime a child moves to a new school, the child must be enrolled in that school and must provide new documentation of residency. If a child moves to a new residence within the same school district, the school must still be provided with new documentation of residency for the new address.

Recognized As Foster Parents Of The Year

Local residents Diane and Sheldon Maust were one of three couples recently named 2011 Foster Parents of the Year by the western Maryland Departments of Social Services. May is Foster Care Month, and each year Maryland recognizes local families who have made a significance difference in the lives of children who are in need of a safe and loving home.

The couple were recognized at a reception held at Government House, at which first lady Katie Curran O'Malley and Maryland Department of Human Resources (DHR) Secretary Theodore Dallas honored several families.

"The Mausts have been active in the local foster parent association since becoming foster parents and have been instrumental in referring and mentoring new foster parents," said a spokesperson. "They exhibit a high knowledge and commitment to the foster parent program."

Diane and Sheldon Maust have five children of their own and have had seven foster care placements in the past six years. They had placed in their home this past year two small children with significant emotional and developmental needs. When the department identified family members for these children, the Mausts encouraged the new relationship.

"These foster children were not only shown a warm and nurturing environment, the Mausts also did a wonderful job of balancing the many responsibilities in their own lives to meet the needs of these children," said the spokesperson. "The Mausts are model foster parents in their communication with the department, the care and respect of the children, their ability to set appropriate boundaries and know their own limitations, and their work with biological families."

Foster care is temporary placement that provides short-term care and supportive services to children who are unable to live at home because of child abuse or neglect. The foster care program in Maryland encourages foster parents to play an active role with the birth family in planning and carrying out the goals of the permanency plan. Foster children are placed in homes that are in their own community, thereby keeping the children connected to their home school, friends, and resources within their neighborhood.

There are over 7,000 young people across Maryland in foster care, with 50% of them 13 years old or older.

For more information about becoming a licensed foster/adoptive parent, persons may contact the local Department of Social Services, call 1-800-332-6347, or attend a regional information session for prospective foster/adoptive parents.

GOODBYE, LITTLE TROUT – Members of the Youghiogheny Chapter of Trout Unlimited recently participated in a Trout in Classroom culminating activity with Crellin Elementary School students. With assistance from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, TU members released 175 Kamloops rainbow trout fingerlings into Snowy Creek, which is located near the school. These fingerlings have been under the care of Crellin students since January when TU member Ed Spurr delivered the eggs to the school. In addition to releasing the fish, students learned to cast a fly rod and tie flies. Directly above, left to right, are TU members Harold Harsh and Ed releasing fingerlings with Ashley White and Robert Snyder. Far right above, Harold teaches Ashley how to tie a fly, and below, Ed shows fifth grade students Andrew Martin, Brandon Mersing, and Jordan Landis how to cast a fly rod.

Friday, June 3

• 8 p.m. – Lakeside Movie, *Tinker Bell's Lost Treasure. A family night at the Lakeside Amphitheatre with an outdoor showing of Disney's Tinker Bell's Lost Treasure (rated G). There is no charge for admission and free popcorn will be provided. Guests should bring flashlights for safety when leaving the program. (The Lakeside Amphitheatre is located next to the Nature Center, near the Lake House).

Saturday, June 4

• 10 a.m. – Wildflower Walk. Guests are invited to join the park naturalist for a walk in the woods to learn about a variety of wildflowers. Walkers will learn how to identify some of the native and non-native species found in the park. All should dress for the weather (hiking boots recommended). Meet at the Nature Center, next to the Lake House.

• 1:30 p.m. – Jr. Ranger Program (Week 1). Children ages 7-14 are invited to participate in this 6-week program, designed to encourage environmental stewardship and appreciation for natural and historical resources. The sessions will be held from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. every Saturday, June 4 to July 9, at the new Nature Center, next to the Lake House. Jr. Rangers will receive patches upon completion, and will then have the opportunity to advance to higher levels, such as Naturalist, Explorer, Conservationist, and Guide. The Jr. Ranger program is limited to 15 participants and there is a $2 service charge. To register, persons should call 301-895-5453.

• 2:30 p.m. – Blindfolded Adventure. Participants will cover their eyes and let their other heightened senses experience the outdoor world in a new way. All should dress for the weather (hiking boots recommended). Meet at Nature Center.

• 7:30 p.m. – Campfire Program: Bomber Down. Guests are invited to gather around the campfire with retired park ranger Rick Lewis to hear a true story about the crash of a B-52 bomber just outside New Germany State Park in the early 1960s. Meet at the Lakeside Amphitheatre.

Sunday, June 5

• 9:30 a.m. – Reduce, Reuse, Recycle. Guests are invited to join the naturalist at the Nature Center to learn how to create recycled paper that can be used for homemade greeting cards, stationery, and other items. Then the group will go on a scavenger hunt for natural materials that can be used to make bird feeders.

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the web site: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake. GIRL SCOUTS SEND COOKIES TO 101ST AIRBORNE – Crellin Girl Scout Troop 55005 recently donated two cases of Girl Scout cookies to troopers in the 101st Airborne 1-502nd. This was made possible with the help of proceeds from cookie sales and donations from community members in response to the Girl Scout "Gift of Caring" campaign. Kitzmiller resident Becky Wilson, mother of trooper Gerald Wilson, personally delivered the cookies to the unit that recently returned to its base in Kentucky after a tour in Iraq. The Crellin Girl Scouts wished to thank all those who supported the troop and other area Girl Scout troops by buying cookies and giving donations. Pictured in the front row, from left, are Taylor Ashby, Cassy Baker, Samantha Moore, Natasha Helbig, Alexis Spiker, Savannah Varner, Emillie Baker, and Wendy Tichnel. Second row, same order: Becky Wilson, Angel Michaels, Madison Hinebaugh, Tearanie Baker, and Heather Frick. Back row: Georgi Powers, Ashley Jones, Lauren Frick, Nichole Snyder, Bobby Jo Baker, and Andrea Belanger. Not available for the picture were Bridgette Marley and Ariel Georg.

New Germany SP Offering Junior Ranger Program

New Germany State Park is offering a 6-week Junior Ranger program, beginning this Saturday, June 4. Participants will explore the park's natural and historical resources, and learn the fundamentals of environmental education and stewardship, a spokesperson said.

"Exploring the outdoor world is an important part of growing up," said Ranger Crystal McCann of New Germany State Park. "The Junior Ranger program is designed to provide children with a meaningful outdoor experience that hopefully will cultivate a deeper appreciation for the environment."

Topics for the program will include parks and park rangers, plants, animals, planet earth, conservation, and people. Junior Rangers will receive patches upon completion, and will then have the opportunity to advance to higher levels, such as naturalist, explorer, conservationist, and guide.

The sessions will be held from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. every Saturday from June 4 to July 9 at the New Germany Nature Center. The Junior Ranger program is limited to 15 participants and there is a $2 service charge to register. For more information or to pre-register, persons should call 301-895-5453.

LIONS PRESENT GLOTFELTY AWARD – The Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club met recently to present the Roger Glotfelty Award to Carinna Lewis, a student at Southern High School and daughter of Kevin and Lisa Kenny. The award is presented to the student showing a commitment to volunteerism. She received a plaque, certificate, and $500 U.S. savings bond. The award was presented by J.R. Glotfelty, left, son of the late Roger Glotfelty. Southern teacher and club member Ryan Wolfe introduced Carinna to the club. Also in attendance was Matt Redinger, Southern High athletic director, who received a check in the amount of $5,628.83 from Lion Dave Beard. The funds were generated at the athletic field concession stand, which is operated throughout the fall sports season by the club. The club also donated $300 to support the Southern High after-prom event. Photo by Glenn Tolbert.

Western Maryland Camps Provide Good Example For Juvenile Justice

by Stephanie A. Weaver
Capital News Service

CUMBERLAND – They look like camps – these collections of wooden buildings and modular structures scattered across the western Maryland mountains. But they're centers for delinquent youths 14 to 18 years old – about 300 a year – who have been sent there by the Maryland Department of Juvenile Services.

Some advocates say they are the state's best model for how teenagers should be housed and rehabilitated. There are basketball courts, baseball fields, and climbing walls. There are no fences or barbed wire.

"It looks like a camp," said Jay Cleary, director of communications at the Maryland Department of Juvenile Services.

The setting is "less confrontational" than other detention centers.

A large proportion of the youths are from Baltimore, which is a three-hour drive from western Maryland. Others travel from as far as southern Maryland, a drive that might take up to four hours, making family visits difficult.

At the camps, the teenagers participate in group therapy and wilderness camping meant to teach them how to cope with problems.

"The goal is to equip the youth with the skills they need to re-enter their community and make better decisions about their lives," Cleary said.

State Sen. Robert Zirkin, long an advocate for reforming the juvenile services system, calls the program a "model." He says the size of the centers, with about 48 beds each, is the key to their success. In smaller programs, youths get more attention.

Kenneth C. Montague Jr., a former Department of Juvenile Services secretary, agrees that the smaller facilities, such as those in western Maryland, have the best chance of helping delinquent teenagers.

But 53 percent of youth are rearrested after a year of release from the youth camps, and 74 percent are rearrested after three years out, according to a 2010 Department of Juvenile Services StateStat report. These rates are almost as high as the recidivism rates for the entire juvenile services program, which includes much bigger centers.

Nancy Seifert, an intake supervisor for the camps, says that some teenagers already have a history in the delinquency system that is hard to overcome.

"We don't get the kids early enough," she said.

Most of the youths have already committed other juvenile offenses and spent time in other detention centers before coming to western Maryland, according to Seifert.

The teenagers who leave these camps usually return to the same neighborhoods where they got into trouble. Montague believes it's the problems back home that are to blame for the high recidivism rates.

"If we send them off [after their release] to a nice place, a nice family, a place where they could live a middle-class life, they would be all right. But that's not what they're going back to," Montague said.

According to Montague, a youth may come back to Baltimore and try to start a new life, but his friends will seek him out, putting him at risk of getting back into trouble.

The staff members who run the camps believe the programs help. These centers in the woods are far from the youths' temptations or frustrations at home. They say the teenagers are learning teamwork, responsibility, and reliability through camping, substance abuse treatment, and counseling.

The teenagers are sent to western Maryland for six to nine months.

"They don't have to worry about a lot of the things they worried about at home. They can relax here," said Judy Hodel, the program manager at Green Ridge Regional Youth Center, in Flintstone.

To ease re-entry to the old surroundings, the centers have weekend home visits before the youths' release "to get their feet wet," Hodel said.

"It is going to be an adjustment," she said. "Once he gets home, he's going to realize that a lot has changed. We can talk about that."

The programs at the camps were tougher in the late 1990s, and were known as boot camps. They won the praise of many Maryland leaders, including Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, who was the lieutenant governor.

But three of the camps, – Meadow Mountain, Savage, and Backbone Mountain camps – were shut down briefly after an investigation in the late 1990s found that seven guards had abused, assaulted, and used excessive force on youth. The investigation, which began after a series in The Baltimore Sun, found that guards punched, kicked, and slammed the teenagers to the ground.

In 2001, the camps began using a "therapeutic model" of treatment, Cleary said. Unlike the military-based treatment of the boot camps, this therapeutic model focuses on building relationships with youth while providing treatment, Hodel said.

The wilderness scares some of the teenagers, and they often tell staff members they are afraid of bears.

"It's a physical and mental challenge," Hodel said. "Many of our youth are afraid of the woods and some of the wildlife out there. I always tell them that going to the city at night without lights is scarier than walking through the woods at night by myself."

Local Students Earn Degrees At Bucknell U.

Bucknell University, located in Lewisburg, Pa., has recently conferred bachelor's degrees to Garrett County students at the end of the spring semester.

Stephanie Gordon of Oakland graduated cum laude with a bachelor of science in biology. Gordon is the daughter of Sue Duncan-Fazenbaker and Guy Fazenbaker of Oakland and Harold Miller and Gracie Ross of Edgewater. She is a graduate of Southern High School.

David Manthos graduated with a bachelor of arts in geography and received the Bucknell Prize in geography. Manthos, who was homeschooled, is the son of Michael and Tamara Manthos of McHenry.

Two Named To Dean's List

Local residents Jana Fronczek, Friendsville, and Andrew Mowbray, Oakland, were recently named to the dean's list at St. Mary's College of Maryland for the 2011 spring semester.

Dean's list honors are awarded to full-time students at St. Mary's who earn a semester grade-point average of 3.5 or better on 12 or more graded credits.

"St. Mary's College of Maryland is among the most rigorous liberal arts programs nationally, and this accomplishment demonstrates true commitment to academic success," said president Joe Urgo. "I am pleased to see students meeting the demanding requirements necessary for placement on the dean's list.

Think of the soul as part of God's garden. He plants us to grow in spirit and to thrive with faith. We begin in fertile soil, but we cannot develop without nourishment. We must keep the garden watered daily with prayer and fed weekly with worship, and remove the weeds of doubt and fear so that the soul can flourish. Worship this week and every week… root your life in God.

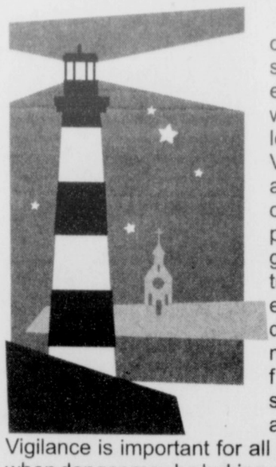
Vigilance



Vigilance can be defined as the ability to sustain attention, especially a careful watchfulness over a long period of time. Vigilance is a vital attribute for many occupations, including police officers, security guards, soldiers, air traffic controllers, and even truck or bus drivers and pilots, who must remain watchful for hazardous situations which can affect driving or flying. Vigilance is important for all of us, at least at times when danger may be lurking around the corner, such as when we are driving or anytime we are in unfamiliar areas. There is a well-established decrease in vigilance which follows sustained activity; after several hours of driving we are likely to miss small signs of danger. And the plethora of distracting technology in our environments, from cell phones to GPS devices and high-tech billboards, threatens to make us even less able to sustain our attention over long periods. Perhaps we should practice being vigilant, so that in the time of dire need we will not be caught unaware by the "thief at our door." But, we should remember that our greatest treasure is not our material wealth, but our hearts and souls, i.e., our lives, which we should guard with great vigilance. The fool cavorts carelessly, unaware of the dangers surrounding him, while the sage remains watchful, guarding his life and his treasure.

Keep your heart with all vigilance; for from it flow the springs of life.

Charlie Sheen is a real card ... or several

Charlie Sheen

Q: After each episode of "Two and a Half Men," there is a long expository piece that one can only read two or three words of before it is gone. What does it say? –Gail Alwine, Show Low, Ariz.

A: Each one is different. Those so-called "vanity cards" are the company trademarks of producer Chuck Lorre, who also uses them on his other CBS shows, "The Big Bang Theory" and "Mike & Molly" ... and you can spend all the time you want on them at his website, ChuckLorre.com.

Other people have spent more time on them recently, since some of them have addressed the acrimony between Lorre and his now-former "Two and a Half Men" star, Charlie Sheen. In case you have just returned from an extended stay on Mars and possibly haven't heard, Sheen was fired from the show following his initial volleys in his very public war of words against Lorre, Warner Bros. Television (the studio behind the show) and CBS.

As of this writing, Sheen was suing for the payment he lost from not doing the remaining episodes of last season as well as all of next season, to which the network already had committed at the time when Sheen was let go.

Q: What can you tell us about the actor who plays Deeks on "NCIS: Los Angeles"? –Steve Williams, Columbus, Ohio

A: Eric Christian Olsen has done much television work over the years, with guest parts on "ER," "Smallville" and "24" and his first continuing role opposite movie stars-to-be Anne Hathaway and Jesse Eisenberg on the Fox series "Get Real."

Olsen also had the Jim Carrey role in the 2003 movie prequel "Dumb and Dumberer: When Harry Met Lloyd," then went on to two more Fox shows, "Tru Calling" and "The Loop." Prior to joining CBS' "NCIS: Los Angeles," he did multiple episodes of ABC's "Brothers & Sisters" and NBC's "Community." He also has been in the voice cast of the animated Disney XD show "Kick Buttowski: Suburban Daredevil."

Q: What happened to the actor who played Adam on "All My Children"? –Ruthe Price, Laguna Woods, Calif.

A: For all intents and purposes, David Canary retired from acting shortly after ABC relocated production of the daytime drama from New York to the West Coast at the end of 2009. He said he still planned to return to the serial on occasion, but as is widely known now, the network has canceled it after 41 years. It's slated to leave the air at the end of September, when it will be replaced by the food-oriented show "The Chew."

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was 20th-century Belgian writer and philosopher Raoul Vaneigem who made the following sage observation: "There are more truths in 24 hours of a man's life than in all the philosophies."

• The next time you're annoyed by a bad case of the hiccups, consider poor Charles Osborne. In 1922, when he was 28 years old, Mr. Osborne got the hiccups. For the next 68 years, he continued to hiccup, finally stopping in 1990, one year before his death at the age of 97.

• Those who study such things claim that an average bank robber in the United States nets about $4,000 for every heist. No info at hand on how the researches acquired their data.

• If you're planning a trip to the United Kingdom in the near future, you might want to be sure Windsor Castle, located in the county of Berkshire, is on your itinerary. Built in the 11th century, it is both the longest-occupied palace in Europe and, with more than 500 people living and working there, the world's largest inhabited castle. As a bonus, through April of 2012 you'll be able to view a special exhibit on royal cakes. Yes, cakes. Amazingly, included in the exhibit are two pieces of cake from the wedding of Queen Victoria to Prince Albert, which took place on February 10, 1840. •Stephen Spielberg, who has earned two Academy Awards for Best Director, and three of whose films have set box-office records, was rejected -- twice -- when he applied to the film program of the University of Southern California.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 10, 1752, Benjamin Franklin flies a kite during a thunderstorm and collects a charge in a jar when the kite is struck by lightning, enabling him to demonstrate the electrical nature of lightning. Inventor Franklin coined a number of terms used today, including "battery," "conductor" and "electrician."

• On June 7, 1893, Mohandas Gandhi commits his first act of civil disobedience. Gandhi, a young Indian lawyer working in South Africa, refused to comply with racial segregation rules on a South African train and was forcibly ejected.

• On June 6, 1949, George Orwell's novel of a dystopian future, "1984," is published. The novel's all-seeing leader, known as "Big Brother," becomes a universal symbol for intrusive government and oppressive bureaucracy. It described a grim vision of a future where all citizens are watched constantly and language is twisted to aid in oppression.

• On June 11, 1955, a racing car in Le Mans, France, goes out of control and crashes into stands filled with spectators, killing 82 people. The tragedy in the famous 24-hour race led to a ban on auto racing in several nations.

• On June 8, 1967, during the Six-Day War, Israeli aircraft and torpedo boats repeatedly attack the USS Liberty in international waters off Egypt's Gaza Strip. In all, 34 Americans were killed and 171 were wounded. Israel later apologized for the attack, claiming that it had mistaken the Liberty for an Egyptian ship.

• On June 9, 1973, Secretariat becomes the first horse since Citation in 1948 to win America's coveted Triple Crown -- the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes. In 1999, ESPN added Secretariat to the list of Top 50 North American athletes of the 20th century, the only non-human on the list.

• On June 12, 1987, in one of his most famous Cold War speeches, President Ronald Reagan challenges Soviet Leader Mikhail Gorbachev to "tear down" the Berlin Wall, a symbol of the repressive Communist era in a divided Germany. Two years later East and West Germans did break down the infamous barrier.

Q: I have a perfume bottle that was given to me almost 50 years ago, and I wonder if it is worth anything. There is no label or markings on the bottle, so I am unable to identify it. I am enclosing a photo. -- Geneva, Franklin, Ky.

A: Although I was unable to find your exact bottle in any of my reference books, I did find one that was similar in "The Wonderful World of Perfume Bottles: Identification and Value Guide by Jane Flanagan (Collector Books, $29.95). The top of your bottle is what is called a "feather" or "fan" stopper, which was especially popular during the 1930s and '40s. The one most like yours in Flanagan's guide was manufactured by New Martinsville Glass during the 1930s and is valued in the $50 to $75 range.

Q: I have an old straight razor in a small case. It was originally purchased at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, and manufactured by H. Boker & Company, Germany. The blade in engraved on one side with the exposition site and has a black handle. Can you tell me its approximate value? -- H.W.S., Sod, W.Va.

A: Most straight razors generally sell in the $10 to $50 range, depending on condition and design. The razor most similar to the one you have that I was able to find is from the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair and referenced in "1904 St. Louis World's Fair: Mementos and Memorabilia" by the late Robert L. Hendershott. The blade is engraved and also made by a German company. Hendershott places its value in the $100 to $200 range, which should be helpful to determine the value of your Columbian Exposition razor.

SPRING HAS BEEN A BUSY TIME for the Military Family Support Group, according to a spokesperson for the local organization. On April 21, the Garrett County commissioners signed a proclamation declaring May as Military Service Personnel Support Month. On May 18, the group packed and mailed "goody boxes" for members of the armed forces serving overseas. A total of 58 boxes were prepared and sent to 28 different military personnel. Pictured above, left to right, at the proclamation signing are Tom Ulrich, Mel Menker, Commissioner Bob Gatto, Cathy Menker, Commissioner Gregan Crawford, Ralph Miller, George Gaffney, Commissioner Jim Raley, Barbara Gaffney, and Anna Marie Miller. The group is a volunteer organization that helps families meet the unique challenges of military life. "We welcome families of all branches of the armed forces, whether active duty, reserve, or National Guard," said the spokesperson. The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, June 8, at 6:30 p.m. at the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad hall in Mtn. Lake Park. The organization will also be available at its booth at the Flag on Mountain Maryland celebration, to be held at Wisp Resort on Tuesday, June 14, at 6 p.m. "We invite you to stop by and say 'hello,' while joining us in celebrating our flag and our country at this annual event," the spokesperson said. For more information, persons may contact the Menkers at 301-334-5906 or Larry Schlossnagle at 301-746-5723, or visit supportlocalmilitary.com.

Local Residents Graduate From McDaniel College

Local residents Brock Glotfelty, Grantsville, and Lauren Elizabeth Shue, Oakland, recently graduated from McDaniel College at its 141st commencement ceremony.

Glotfelty graduated magna cum laude with a bachelor of arts degree in exercise fitness and physical education. To earn magna cum laude, one must possess a cumulative grade point average of 3.7 to 3.89.

Shue graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in history.

McDaniel College is a four-year private college of liberal arts and sciences offering more than 60 undergraduate programs of study, including dual and student-designed majors, plus 20 graduate programs. It serves 1,600 undergraduates and 1,560 part-time students.

Evening CDL Classes Slated At Driving Ctr.

Evening training for students to earn a commercial driver's license (CDL) will soon be offered at Garrett College's Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute (MTDI) in Grantsville. This 10-week 210-hour course will be held Monday through Thursday from 5 to 10:30 p.m. beginning on July 11.

In this intense training program, individuals will be taught the fundamentals of Department of Transportation (DOT) rules and regulations, maintaining log books, instruction in map reading and trip planning, and complete vehicle training to prepare for an entry-level position in the trucking industry.

Hands-on instruction on the equipment includes such maneuvers as backing, parallel parking and other close-quarter maneuvers, as well as pretrip inspections, coupling and uncoupling, and actual highway and city driving.

At the completion of training, the student will be taken to demonstrate at his/her local Motor Vehicle Administration office to obtain a license.

"While no prior experience is necessary to learn to drive these big rigs, it is vital that students not only get training, but get the correct training," said Terry Beachy, MTDI director. "At our facility we train our students to the highest standards expected by all major carriers today. We take pride in being able to guide individuals into real careers that will last a lifetime."

Beachy also explained that MTDI works with many trucking companies that will prehire students.

"The fact is truck driving is one of the few occupations where students who complete training are almost certain to go to work immediately, and most of our students receive several job offers prior to completion of their program," she said.

Course applicants are required to have proof of a high school diploma (transcript), GED, or passing score on their ASSET test; possess a current valid license; be at least 18 years of age; be able to pass a DOT physical and drug screen; and be able to communicate in the English language sufficiently, as required by DOT.

In addition to the evening training, courses are also offered through the week and on weekends. Specialized training such as refresher courses are offered on a one-on-one basis. Refresher training is provided to an individual who currently possesses a Class A CDL and needs training to re-enter the work force as a tractor trailer driver.

Beachy noted that MTDI does an evaluation at no charge and informs the prospective student how many days/hours it will take to polish his/her skills well enough to pass a driver's test for a potential employer. On occasion, a prospective employer will define the exact training requested and length of time required.

COLLEGE STUDENTS HELP BUILD HOME – A team from Centreville Presbyterian Church in Centreville, Va., arrived in Garrett County on May 15 and started work early the next morning on a Habitat for Humanity home in Hopeland Village, Deer Park. The group was lead by Kim Gilbert and senior pastor Rob Bromhead, and included college students Chris Baker, Nate Beuttler, Will Clayton, Kimberly Edmundson, Kate Gilbert, Darren Hilson, Matt Murdoch, Erin Edmondson, Katie Sedlmeyer, and recent graduate Sara Sucher. "A lot of work was accomplished on the first day, with all the exterior walls erected and several of the roof trusses," said John Pucciano, Habitat's communication relations and volunteers director. "The heavy rain on Tuesday forced a closure of the work site; however, the team members found a way to serve by doing needed painting of the fellowship hall at their host church, Pleasant View Baptist, near Oakland. The rest of the week had rain on and off, but the team had a good time and completed closing in the house by the time they left Friday afternoon. One team member said, "This is my second trip here, and I can't wait for next year." Another member said, "It was wonderful hanging out with all of the staff and Habitat board members at the picnic. Pucciano said the team members had good things to say about their training, with one of them commenting, "Yea, I roofed for the first time." The week was summed up by another member who said, "Overall, it was an enriching and rewarding experience." Memory Lane Garden Latest In "Secret" Tour Memory Lane Garden at the home of Louise and John Wilson will be featured during the 11th annual Secret Country Gardens tour on June 25 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The tour is sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club.

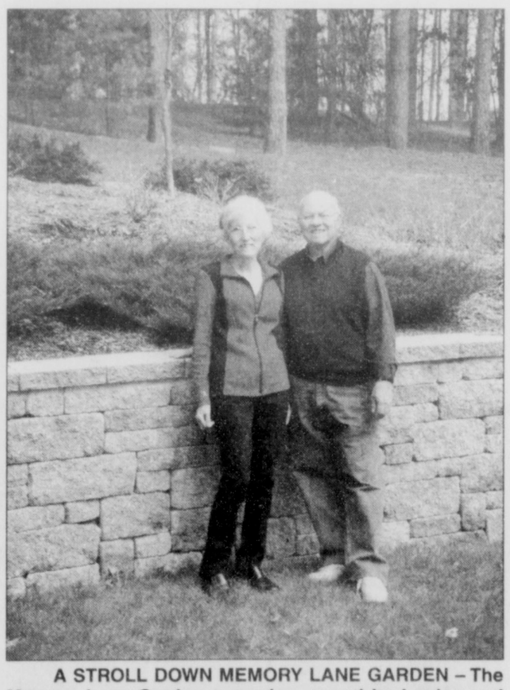
The Wilsons began working on their garden seven years ago after purchasing property in Mountain Lake Park. On their new fenced-in lot they introduced plants from their former residence. These plants have been incorporated into the landscape along with many new species.

The Wilsons say a stroll through their garden brings fond memories to them as they enjoy their garden comprising transplants items, as well as plants given to them by friends. In order to establish this garden the couple had to overcome rocky pine-forest soil. They also added a decorative rock border around one garden and reconditioned the clay in their compost bin.



A STROLL DOWN MEMORY LANE GARDEN – The Memory Lane Garden, a garden owned by Louise and John Wilson, pictured here, will be featured during the 11th annual "Secret Country Gardens" tour. The tour, which is sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, will take place on June 25 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. See story for more details.

Greeting guests along the front walk, an oversized frog statue begins the collection of hardscapes that will be seen by visitors while they wind through the hillside garden on rustic stone steps. River rocks and boulders fill in problem spaces and a winding stone wall defines the upper garden from the front lawn. A patio with a fire pit serves as a gathering place for family and friends.

The Wilsons' favorite plants include the cimicifuga (snakeroot) with its arching white spires and burgundy foliage and the Johnson blue geranium that forms a mass of small blooms which last for two months.

Other plants that fill the garden are ones the Wilsons call "rescues." The couple enjoy nurturing these small, sickly plants into thriving additions to their garden. A few shrubs and trees on the lot began this way, such as two young buckeye trees and a "tangelo" exbury, a deciduous azalea.

The garden also includes a path into an adjoining wooded area leading to a bird feeder. "Like with most gardeners, our garden will forever be a work in progress," stated Louise.

Tickets for the tour, which include a short description of each garden, a map, and written directions, may be purchased in advance at the following locations: Gregg's Pharmacy, Jan Florist, Green Acres Garden Center, Julie's Greenhouse, Nature's Own Landscaping, Annie's Kitchen, and Beachy's Pharmacy. On the day of the tour, members of the Garrett County Historical Society will sell tickets at the Gazebo in Oakland. The cost of a ticket will be $7. A perennial sale, tickets for the raffle prize, a conservation display, historical information, and refreshments will be available at different gardens on the day of the tour.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for its community beautification projects, as well as club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society and the Mountain Lake Park Historical Society.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc., Central Atlantic Region, and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

Those interested in further information about the tour may contact Kathy Long at 301-252-9917.

Local Soldier Takes Realistic Training Course

by Staff Sgt. Christopher Holmes
Fort Irwin NTC

Every year, thousands of military men and women deploy to the Middle East, where they live and work under austere conditions in some of the most remote areas of the world, all the while being on a continuous lookout for whatever attack an enemy force may make.

The son of an Accident couple recently experienced a glimpse of what life over there will be like when he spent a month at the National Training Center at Fort Irwin, Calif. For two weeks of his time there, he lived and worked in tents while under a constant threat of simulated attacks.

U.S. Army Pfc. Barrick J. Uphold, son of Oscar and Donna Uphold, was in the Mojave Desert with other members of his unit to receive some of the most advanced and realistic training the military has to offer.

A large portion of Fort Irwin's more than 642,000 acres has been transformed to simulate conditions similar to what soldiers will experience while deployed. There are base camps and forward operating bases spread throughout the area about the size of the state of Rhode Island. There are also mock towns and villages housing military trainers and civilian role players to give Uphold and other members of his brigade a feeling of actually being deployed.

COMPLETES TRAINING – Army Pfc. Barrick J. Uphold, Alpha Company, 4-6th Infantry Brigade, Fort Bliss, Texas, recently completed training at the National Training Center at Fort Irwin, Calif., to prepare for the conditions he will live and work in during his upcoming deployment to the Middle East. (Photo by Staff Sgt. Christopher Griffin.)

Uphold is an infantryman assigned to Alpha Company, 4-6th Infantry Battalion, Fort Bliss, Texas.

"I am here to train for combat and get mentally prepared for anything during my deployment," said the 2010 graduate of Northern Garrett High School.

To add to the realism, entire villages have been constructed to simulate situations soldiers will face in places like Afghanistan and Iraq, and in places, role players, many of whom are Iraqi Americans, inhabit the villages during the two-week training objective.

"I haven't deployed before, but this seems like it is very realistic, from the mock cities to actual Iraqi actors," said Uphold.

The live-fire exercises, route-clearing courses, bare living conditions, simulated mortar attacks, and convoy training are designed to prepare Uphold and his fellow soldiers for the challenges they may face in their upcoming deployment.

"The most difficult part of training has probably been the mass-casualty scenario, where you have to take the appropriate procedures to take care of multiple casualties and victims quickly," said Uphold.

Training before deployments helps to ensure that troops are aware of the latest tactics the enemy is using, and to help them prepare for just about any situation in which they may find themselves.

"I think that all of this training will prepare me well for my upcoming deployment," said Uphold, who has completed almost one year of military service.

While the National Training Center is harsh in its spartan environment and extreme temperatures that can sizzle to more than 120 degrees in the summer, it is the perfect training ground for soldiers like Uphold who may face similar conditions during the months ahead in Iraq or Afghanistan.

Students Take Course On How To Land A Job

The New Age Office Skills class held at the Southern Outreach Center of Garrett College recently concluded for eight local students who completed the training.

Instructor Lori Malcolm provided the students 64 hours of education, which included computer classes in QuickBooks and use of Microsoft programs. She also introduced the students to participation in webinars, as well as communication etiquette.

In addition to technology for the workplace, the class participants were taught organizational skills for the office, basic filing techniques, and the importance of prioritizing tasks.

Malcolm also stressed the importance of one's appearance and manner during a job interview, plus choosing appropriate attire for the office. She included a class session on tying neckties and scarves to underscore her point about proper dress, according to Southern Outreach program coordinator Patricia Baer.

"It was exciting to watch their progress each week," Baer said. "It was interesting to see the blue jeans slowing fading away and business attire emerging."

Toward the end of the course, Malcolm took the class to Cornish Manor restaurant in Oakland to conduct a luncheon business meeting.

"One of the students couldn't take part in this outing because she was participating in an orientation for a new job, which she got as a result of the class," Baer said.

Another session of the New Age Office Skills class will be offered in the fall on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 5 to 9 p.m. For more information, persons may call Patricia Baer at 301-334-8304 or 301-387-3781.

Teacher Education Makeover At Garrett College Being Led By Tuel

by Peggy Santamaria

Alex Tuel assumed his post as the director of education and teacher preparation at Garrett College last fall. Well-armed with credentials and concepts, he took on the task of developing an ambitious agenda of retooling the programs aimed at training qualified, competent teachers.

Prior to Tuel's arrival, there had not been a full-time director for the teacher education programs, so the tasks he faced would be challenging. Undaunted, he has embraced his new role.

"I guess you could pretty much say I've been involved in education since I first walked into a classroom at age 5," he said.

As proof of this engagement, Tuel's record shows a bachelor's degree in psychology, a master's degree in secondary education, and his current pursuit to complete a doctorate of education.

Tuel said he is committed to providing pre-service teachers with the highest quality education to properly prepare them for the rigors of teaching in the 21st century.

"By educating teacher candidates in theory, analytical thinking, practical practice, and the latest proven methods, we strive to give candidates the necessary tools to become effective and efficient educational leaders," he explained.

Students in the GC teacher education programs may pursue an associate of arts degree (AA) or an associate of arts in teaching degree (AAT). Tuel explained the designation of the AAT as a two-year transfer degree program for students who are interested in becoming teachers. The goal of the AAT programs is to allow students to transfer to any four-year accredited college in the state of Maryland without being required to repeat any courses or take additional courses before being considered eligible for teacher candidacy. Courses in the AAT program are in alignment with the Maryland State Department of Education Teacher Certification requirements and the standards of the National Council of Accreditation of Teacher Education.

"All students earning the AAT are required to take the Praxis tests," Tuel said. He explained that the Praxis/Pre-Professional Skills Tests measure basic skills and are designed to determine if the student has the required academic skill to prepare for a career in education. Furthermore, any Maryland student who received at least an 1,100 on the SAT or a 24 on the ACT are exempt from taking the Praxis I test.

"To adequately prepare our students for the teaching profession, all AAT degree-seeking candidates must obtain a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.75 and pass Praxis I upon graduation," said Tuel. "Our AA degree-seeking students are also highly encouraged to take Praxis I. Additionally, we

College Planning Group Holding Info Meetings

Garrett College has initiated a series of town hall and focus group meetings that will be held throughout the county to share results of the college's long-range planning activities and gather input and responses from the community. These meetings represent the unfolding of a plan that Dr. Richard MacLennan spoke of at his inauguration in April as Garrett College president.

Dr. MacLennan described the work of the GC Integrated Planning Taskforce (IPT).

"Ultimately, the process will result in setting a direction for our instructional programs and services, the use and development of college facilities, and vision of what we see ourselves achieving over the next five to ten years," he stated.

In explaining the reasons for setting up community meetings, he said, "Our goal with these sessions is to widely share the early results of our planning activities to see if we're on the right track. To get it right – to be as relevant as possible – we need all the input we can gather," he said.

A recent group session consisted of women representing various organizations in the county. MacLennan welcomed and thanked the group for contributing both their time and thoughts for the future growth of Garrett College.

Julie Yoder, dean of continuing education and workforce development, and Jim Allen, interim dean of instruction and director of institutional planning, spoke to the women about some of the plans for college growth.

Armed with the information presented, the women, working in groups, discussed where the college is doing well and functioning on track, where the college needs to improve, and opportunities the college should consider. Each group then presented its findings. Information from the focus group was later formatted as a report to the Integrated Planning Taskforce.

"There was a good mix of ideas offered, and I think the college got a lot of input," said Mimi Demaree of Friendsville. "The structure of small groups, each working with a facilitator, was very effective. The meeting showed that there is a great potential for the college to get information from the community."

Oakland resident Ann Frantz also participated in the women's focus group and commented on the event.

"I thought the meeting was very well organized, and I really appreciated all the information and the positive GC stats that were provided by the college," she said. "It was a great opportunity also to meet the new president, who seems to be very personable, and dedicated to steering the college toward meeting community goals and needs in a very focused way. The input from the attendees, who were from a wide segment of the community, was also very informative, and numerous good ideas were generated. It will be very interesting to see what the next steps are and in what direction the college are better preparing students with the implementation of portfolio development."

To increase the depth and scope of teacher education at GC, Tuel introduced a new degree program.

"I brought in the AAT degree in early childhood education/early childhood special education degree to students at Garrett College. I worked closely with MHEC to design and implement this program," he said.

Students entering the GC teacher preparation training have a variety of choices of specialties. The following areas of concentration are now offered: Early Childhood Education (AA), Early Childhood Education/Early Childhood Special Education (AAT), Elementary Education (AA), Elementary Education/Elementary Special Education (AAT), Secondary Education (AA), Physical Education: Recreation (AA), and Physical Education: Teaching or Coaching (AA).

Tuel has a vision of the type of teachers he hopes to prepare for the classroom.

"An ideal teacher is a role model, engaging, and flexible," he said. "Furthermore, an ideal teacher needs to be a continuous learner; always seeking ways to better oneself. A teacher is a leader, and as a leader a teacher must work well with students as well as colleagues. In turn, a leader must take the initiative to do what is best for the students, school, and community."

To help prospective students easily access information on the college's teacher preparation programs, Tuel has developed a web page on the Garrett College web site. It can be accessed at www.garrettcollege.edu/academics/ED/. Interested persons may also contact Tuel directly at 301-387-3028 or by e-mail at alexander.tuel@garrettcollege.edu.

This month a focus group composed of representatives from the Garrett County Economic Development Department and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will meet. General community town hall meetings are being planned for Grantsville, Friendsville, and Oakland.

"The information being provided to the college by the various focus groups is invaluable," Jim Allen said. "Once all of the input from these sessions has been gathered, it will be used to help us identify other services we should be providing to the community, either through revision and/or expansion of our existing programs or through the development of new programs and services."

To learn more about the information sharing sessions, persons may contact Jim Allen at 301-387-3006 or via e-mail at james.allen@garrettcollege.edu.

GC Designates Honor Students For Spring 2011

The following full-time students of Garrett College have been named to the dean's list for the 2011 spring semester, according to James L. Allen Jr., interim dean of instruction. Academic requirements for this recognition are the attainment of a grade point average (GPA) of 3.50 to 4.00 with a minimum of 12 credit hours attempted.

NOTES FROM BITTINGER

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

It was wonderful to have all three girls home during Memorial Day weekend. Even Claire was able to come home because her boss allowed her to come in to work at 11 a.m., so she could leave here fairly early Monday morning. She took the opportunity to visit her best friend from Northern High School, Angie Kamp (now Ellis), and she showed her adorable new little baby girl off to Claire, and Claire was happy that she allowed her to hold her for a good while without crying.

I remember Claire and Ange when they were about 14 years old. They seemed so cute and so young, very far from motherhood or the life of a career girl, but when Claire left this morning, she looked very professional in her work clothes.

It is unusually hot on this Memorial Day, and it is not good for poor old Boo. She hated to get off the cool tile bathroom floor. I can't stand to lose her. But it is a beautiful day. It is better than in the Heartland, where more tornadoes ripped across several states, and in Texas where there are more huge wildfires.

Speaking of fires, my brother Barry experienced severe burns on his leg at the big bluegrass festival in Cumberland. It was bad enough that he did not get up to Garrett County. He is pretty much immobile.

It is sad to even think about closing the Bittinger Post Office, but closing POs is the trend across the nation. Often, a local post office is the center of a small community. When a letter addressed to me arrived at Bittinger, it was kindly forwarded to the Accident Post Office. That wouldn't happen at larger post offices.

General Motors announced that it will open several new plants soon and create many thousands of good jobs. These are not McDonald's jobs. These jobs pay well enough to support a family.

I just read Caitlin's last major paper of her senior year. It is about her work as an intern at the health clinic. It was heartbreaking, because many people she worked with were in serious trouble, and many didn't have a decent place to live. She wrote of women trying to find a way to get out of being abused. Most of them had virtually no personal social support networks: no families, no friends – the kind of people we naturally turn to when things get really bad, so bad that they are virtually at the end of their rope.

Can you believe that a judge in North Carolina awarded custody of three children to their father in Chicago because the mother has stage four breast cancer? Children have a unique bond with their mother because they were in her body for a long time – almost a year – before she gave birth to them, and their first human contact was with her. My newborns were laid on my chest. This allows them to feel the mother skin-to-skin and feel her breathing. The first scent they smell is her scent.

I can't believe that a young man from South America came here when he was a tiny child, and his performance in school was outstanding, enough to allow him to graduate cum laude, but he can't get a license to practice law, in spite of getting many job offers from law firms across America. People oppose loosening restrictions on young people who lived virtually their whole lives in America and always felt they were American.

Some want to build unbreakable fences around America and keep almost everyone out. This is from a nation whose favorite symbol is the Statue of Liberty. But can most Americans really reject that view of America's place in the world and what it stands for across the world? It is the shining city on a hill – the land of opportunities and hope.

How truly sad – no, heart-breaking – that we have allowed America to sink so much. Virtually all present-day Americans are descendants of immigrants. The only exception is Native Americans, and even they are still sometimes denied the full rights of citizenship. That does not make any kind of sense. Are the only true Americans the descendants of people who lived in America during its colonial years? In other words, only families who were here during the 1600s are the real Americans? I guess my family missed that deadline perhaps by 100 years, more or less. The first Gladdfelders arrived in America in the late 1700s.

The "Profit of Doomsday" said that it happened, we just did not notice it. I guess those "true believers" are in heaven, so those who are still around are not true believers. I don't know what happened to the bodies of the true believers. Are they walking around, but their souls simply departed? Can anyone tell if one's soul is not in one's body?

But he revised the date because of some mathematical error. The correct date is October 21, 2011. I checked in with a few people who probably are true believers, and they don't feel any different. I know for sure that we did not have a huge earthquake at 6 p.m.

Chrysler paid all its debt to the government – I think it is about six billion dollars – way before anyone expected them to be able to pay it. And that is a good sign for America. What Obama did to rescue the automobile industry is not a government take-over of an industry. He simply saved a whole bunch of good jobs and many small businesses connected to the automobile industry, like fabric suppliers, glass suppliers, and the tire industry.

That is a huge boost for Ohio, because two huge tire businesses are located there: Goodyear and Goodrich. I spent a week at the lovely estate belonging to the Goodrich family. They hosted the 1971 American Pony Club National Rally. I was a member of the Capital Region team.

Our team was so fun. We liked each other so much, often almost dying with laughter even when our place was not worthy of much laughter. Although we scored well on the written test, we only scored fair on dressage, which was largely due to my score on that. Then we had the cross country phase. The courses were so different that only three horses and riders completed it. Many got eliminated from three refusals at one fence, which happened to three riders on my team.

Joey and I were sailing along until we got to one last obstacle: a dam with a waterwheel. On the landing side, the stream was quite deep. The rider ahead of me from the Virginia team fell, and I tried to turn too sharply to try to avoid running over her. The water was deep enough that, as we tried, Joey completely lost his balance and we both got really wet.

In spite of the fact that a fall cost quite a few penalty points, since one horse at least completed the course (Joey and I), we gained some ground in the standings. We were not even close to the lead, but way above the bottom.

One jump on the cross country was made of huge Goodrich tires. Mr. Goodrich was nice enough that he bought a ticket for a rock concert featuring the band Chicago. It was such a fun week – one of the best I experienced.

But it was a crushing disappointment for our regional supervisor, because that team was the strongest that our region produced. I guess we had bad luck, but better than many, because after the cross country phase, the stable area looked like a hospital ward, with several horses in slings and many riders on crutches or just wearing casts. So I can't complain that we got very wet.

It is comical that the town where the Goodrich estate is located is named Bath, Ohio – very appropriate for me.

I got another chance to compete in the National Rally as a member of the Capital Region team. That was in Virginia, and our team was much less talented, but we got a higher place. But it was not as fun as the first one.

It was at the second one that I made friends with Jackie Kennedy's mother, Janet Aunchincloss, who was nice enough that she used her spare time to help young riders. She dressed in old, slightly shabby khaki pants and shirt, and an old beat-up fisherman's hat, in spite of the fact that she was one of the highest society women in America. She was so down-to-earth.

I hear the voice of Johnny Cash from the kitchen where Mere is entertaining a friend. He is a favorite performer of Meredith's, and I also enjoy him.

My memory of him is from the beginning of his career when he played pure mainstream country music, but this CD Meredith is playing must be from much later when his music was definitely influenced by more heavy rock music. The transition number between the two periods was "Ring of Fire," which I think was popular around 1969. At least I remember hearing it lots around the 4-H dairy barn at the state fair when I showed Rodney's prized show cow because he broke his leg at 4-H Camp in a tether ball match with his much younger cousin Bruce Buckle.

It may have been in 1968, which was the same year that we landed Americans on the moon. We watched it on TV at camp.

It is very clear that our national drug policy is a massive failure. Its primary effect is the effort to attack marijuana instead of the thousands of young homeless heroin addicts who are flooding the Pacific Northwest. This is something that is simply unimaginable to me. None of the young people of my generation were like this. I never knew anyone who used needles. But many of the kids are runaways, fleeing from abusive home environments, and many end up as prostitutes and sometimes get murdered.

I guess it is easy for a lot of people to turn blind eyes on suffering halfway across the world. But the nations worst hit by the AIDS epidemic are the most poverty-stricken. And any children without parents are truly in a desperate situation. It makes me cry. I don't know why it does not make others feel like that. God have mercy on their souls.

The only way that we can turn this terrible tide back is to call Speaker of the House John Boehner at 202-224-3121 and demand that we stop mindless cuts of lifesaving programs.

That worldwide AIDS crisis program is one decent thing done by George W. Bush. It took a long time to build our national debt, and we can't fix it just by mindlessly cutting funding of life and death programs. I admit I am a "bleeding heart liberal," and I am not ashamed of that. Is the ability to feel the terrible pain other people are feeling so terrible? I am sick at heart about those helpless children in Africa watching their parents dying. That causes sleepless nights for me.

It is pretty remarkable that in the last two weeks, the Pirates won two games with scores of 10-0.

My favorite current Pirate is Andrew McCutchen. He is simply doing everything very well. In the last couple weeks, he had several home runs and he caught some unbelievable hits. For one he had to dive so he had a full front fall. He almost always catches any ball that gets even somewhat close to him. He is so fast, so even when he doesn't have a great hit, he can run so fast to first base and often beat the throw there. He also uses that speed to steal bases.

The pitcher Karsten came close to a perfect game, but a broken bat ruined that for him.

Is it reasonable that thousands of veterans are homeless and living on the street? It is pretty sad to hear that on Memorial Day.

The Brown Family from LeMars, Iowa, will give a gospel concert at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church next Thursday, June 9, at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Town of Grantsville will conduct a Public Hearing to obtain the views of citizens on COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND HOUSING NEEDS, and to offer citizens the opportunity to review an application for the demolition of Yoder's, Inc., located at 97 Locker Lane, Grantsville, MD 21536, which the Town of Grantsville proposes to submit to the State on or before the deadline for same. The hearing will be held at the Grantsville Town Hall at 6:45 p.m. Monday, June 6, 2011.

Citizens will be furnished with information including but not limited to:

- the amount of CDBG funds expected to be made available for the current fiscal year;
- the range of activities that may be undertaken with CDBG funds;
- the estimated amount of the CDBG funds proposed to be used for activities that will meet the national objective of benefit to low and moderate income persons; and
- proposed CDBG activities likely to result in displacement and the unit of general local government's anti-displacement and relocation plans required under 24 CFR 42.325.

The Maryland Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program is a federally sponsored program designed to assist units of general local government with activities directed toward neighborhood and housing revitalization, economic development, and improved community facilities and services.

Maryland's CDBG Program is administered by the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), in close cooperation with the Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

Maryland's CDBG Program reflects the State's economic and community development priorities and provides public funds for activities which meet one of the following national objectives, in accordance with the Housing Community Development Act of 1974, as amended:

1. give maximum feasible priority to activities which will benefit low and moderate income persons and households having an income equal to or less than the Section 8 lower income limits established by HUD;
2. aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blight;
3. meet other community development needs of an urgent nature, or that are an immediate threat to community health and welfare.

The State of Maryland's allocation of federal funds for the fiscal year 2012 is estimated to be $352,875.00.

Efforts will be made to accommodate the disabled and non-English speaking residents with 7 days' advance notice to Robin L. Jones, Clerk/Treasurer, 301-895-3144.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Maryland Department of the Environment, Abandoned Mine Land Division will be submitting an application for approval of funds to the U.S. Department of the Interior, Office of Surface Mining for the reclamation of an abandoned coal mining site in Garrett County. All funding will be obtained in accordance with Title IV, Section 405 of Public Law 95-87, Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977.

An agency must have an approved State Surface Coal Mining Regulatory Program and a State Abandoned Mine Land Reclamation Plan to qualify for funding under Title IV. Maryland has had approval of both programs since February 17, 1982. Funding for the project will originate from the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund, which is administered by the Office of Surface Mining.

It is the goal of the Maryland Abandoned Mine Land Division to promote the reclamation of abandoned coal mine areas in Maryland that are inadequately reclaimed or pose a public health and safety concern, degrade the quality of the environment, and/or diminish the beneficial use of land and water resources.

The Abandoned Mine Land Division would like to gather comments on the following listed project and/or any other abandoned mine problems in the Maryland Coal Region.

A public informational meeting concerning the proposed projects will be held as follows:

Thursday, June 30, 2011
2:00 P.M.
Maryland Department of the Environment
Land Management Administration
Abandoned Mine Land Division
160 South Water Street, Room 107
Frostburg, MD 21532

Additional information concerning the proposed projects can be obtained by contacting Mr. Tim Miller, Abandoned Mine Land Division, 160 South Water St., Frostburg, MD 21532, 301-689-1465. Written comments concerning these projects and the Maryland Abandoned Mine Reclamation Program will be received at the public hearing and until Thursday, June 30, 2011. Address all comments to the attention of Mr. Tim Miller at the address listed above.

The following is a general description of the proposed reclamation project, including the location, County, nearest town or physical feature, and nature of the problem:

1. WOLFDEN RUN HIGHWALL RECLAMATION PROJECT
Location: Northwest of Kitzmiller, Garrett County, Maryland. 39°23'38"N 79°12'09"W
Problem: A 2200' abandoned highwall poses a public health and safety hazard. The poorly vegetated spoil is eroding which adds to sediment loading of Wolfden Run.
Plan: Regrade existing spoil to eliminate highwall and incorporate designed channels into plans to reduce erosion. Reclamation will improve vegetation and reduce run-off. 6/2

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE
OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
1305 STEIDING CHURCH ROAD
SWANTON, MD 21561

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Terry E. Hale Sr., dated March 17, 2006, and recorded in Liber 1205, Folio 545, and re-recorded at Liber 1515, Folio 108 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, with an original principal balance of $71,666.68, and an original interest rate of 13.250%, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction at the Courthouse door for the Circuit Court for Garrett County, on

June 17, 2011 AT 1:00 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND and the improvements thereon situated in Garrett County, MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $8,000.00 by certified funds only (no cash will be accepted) is required at the time of auction. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. The purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note, its assigns, or designees, shall pay interest on the unpaid purchase money at the note rate from the date of foreclosure auction to the date funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Real estate taxes to be adjusted as of the date of foreclosure auction. All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, condo/HOA dues, not otherwise divested by ratification of the sale, and whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser, unless the purchaser is the foreclosing lender or its designee. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. Purchaser agrees to pay to the Sellers' attorney's a fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein.

If the purchaser shall fail to comply with the terms of the sale or fails to go to settlement within ten (10) days of ratification of the sale, the Substitute Trustees may, in addition to any other available legal remedies, declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser, in which case the purchaser agrees to pay attorneys fees of $1,250.00, plus costs, to the Trustees. Purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of foreclosure auction. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of resale, reasonable attorney's fees, and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages, and any deficiency in the underlying secured debt. The purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. If the Substitute Trustees cannot convey insurable title, the purchaser's sole remedy at law or in equity shall be the return of the deposit. The sale is subject to post-sale confirmation and audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of his deposit without interest.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS

Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc.(GCCAC) has been awarded a Sustainable Energy Resources for Consumers (SERC) grant for the installation of alternative energy technologies in approximately 60 low-income homes in Garrett County. This is a pilot program which runs through March of 2012 and is funded by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. GCCAC is seeking proposals from interested contractors for the purposes of collection, sorting, analysis, verification and evaluation of data collected from energy monitoring devices utilized.

It is the goal of the program to determine the energy savings attributable to the various technologies employed under this program. The agency requests the following elements be incorporated in the evaluation/validation study:

EMD (energy monitor device) – collection/storage (ENVI)

PEM (performance evaluation module) – Sorting/recording/Dashboard

RFP – data validation/evaluation (3rd Party)

The successful proposal will describe the method of collecting, sorting, analyzing and evaluating the data, both before installation and after installation for a period of approximately two (2) years. A summary of the contractor's prior experience/capabilities is required.

For more information, contact Richard Hutchinson at 301-533-9018, Ext.13. All proposals should be mailed to GCCAC, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, MD, 21550.

Deadline for submission of RFP is 4:30 p.m., Friday, June 17, 2011. 5/26-6/2(2) on June 3, 2011, at 3:00 P.M.

all that property described in said Mortgage, bearing the common address of Lot 20, Poland Heights Lane, Thousand Acres at Deep Creek Lake Subdivision, McHenry, MD 21541, described as follows:

All that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in Election District No. 18, shown and designated as Lot 20 on the plat titled Thousand Acres at Deep Creek Lake Subdivision, Phase I, recorded on October 18, 2006, in Plat Case DKM File 3, Pages 278 A-D, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Subject to the Thousand Acres at Deep Creek Lake Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions dated October 12, 2006 and recorded in Liber 1259, Page 0187 in the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $7,400.00 will be required of Purchaser at the time and place of sale, such deposit to be in cash, certified check or in such other form as the Assignees may determine acceptable in their sole discretion. Balance to be payable in cash within ten (10) business days after ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court, with interest on said balance from the date of sale to date of actual receipt of funds by the Assignees at the rate of 6.590% per annum. There shall be no abatement of interest for any reason. Assignees reserve the right to waive the deposit and interest requirements as to a purchaser representing the interests of the party secured by the Deed of Trust or an affiliate thereof. Assignees reserve the right to reject any and all bids, and to extend the time for settlement in their sole discretion. Property will be sold in an "AS IS" condition. Assignees make no representation and\or warranty whatsoever regarding the title or any other matter with respect to the Property, either express or implied, including but not limited to: the nature, condition, quantity and quality of the land, suitability of use and\or purpose, description of the property and\or improvements, if any. The Property will be sold subject to all easements, conditions, liens, restrictions, rights of redemption, covenants, encumbrances, and agreements of record affecting the same, and such state of facts that an accurate survey or physical inspection of the Property might disclose. The Property will be sold subject to all existing housing, building, zoning, critical area, wetland, and, environmental problems and/or violations which may exist on or with respect to the Property, if any. Purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the Property as of the time of sale. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the Property. All due and/or unpaid water and sewer facilities charges and front foot benefit payments are payable by the Purchaser without adjustment. Taxes, rents (other than ground rents) and any other annually payable public charges and assessments, including any condominium fees and/or homeowner's association dues, if applicable, will be adjusted to the day of sale and thereafter assumed by the Purchaser. All costs of conveyance and settlement and all incidental settlement costs, including transfer taxes and recordation taxes, shall be paid by Purchaser. Purchaser will pay a settlement review fee of $500.00, plus a reasonable fee for any other services rendered by counsel for the Assignees at the request of the Purchaser or due to the failure of the Purchaser to comply with the terms of sale. Time is of the essence as to Purchaser. In the event the Purchaser fails to settle as required, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available, Assignees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the Property at the risk and expense of Purchaser. In such event, the defaulting Purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of resale, reasonable attorney fees, all other charges due and incidental damages. In the event Assignees are unable to convey marketable title, or, in the event the Mortgagor entered into a repayment plan, reinstated or paid the loan off prior to the sale, or if for any other reason, Assignees did not have the right to sell the Property, the sale is null and void and Purchaser is not entitled to any legal or equitable remedy other than return of the deposit without interest and any and all other claims of the Purchaser are hereby released. Other terms and conditions may be announced at the sale. The information contained herein is offered for informational purposes only. It is Purchaser's obligation to undertake an independent investigation of the Property. The Auctioneer, Note holder and Assignees do not make any representations or warranties with respect to the accuracy of this information and Purchaser holds them harmless from same.

RECREATIONAL

Prijon Kodiak Touring/Sea Kayak 17 ft.
Two Lendal Paddles, One Carbon Fiber
Made in Scotland, High Mobility Life Vest
Spray Skirt for Cold Weather Use
Custom Cable Locking Mechanism for Car or Rack Use
Great kayak for beginner or expert. Has wide enough beam to be comfortable and steady but narrow enough profile, with length, to also be fast. Rudder pedal controls installed but no rudder - I never needed it. Two water tight dry compartments make gear storage easy and boat virtually unsinkable. Kayak has been used very little, perhaps only a dozen or so times total, just light lake and river use - no ocean. The boat has been stored inside for the last few years and was stored on a boat rack beforehand. Boat and gear are all clean and in excellent shape. Total package was more than $3K when bought new, asking $1,000 for all, o.b.o. Call Rick at 301-334-1444. (14-3tpd)

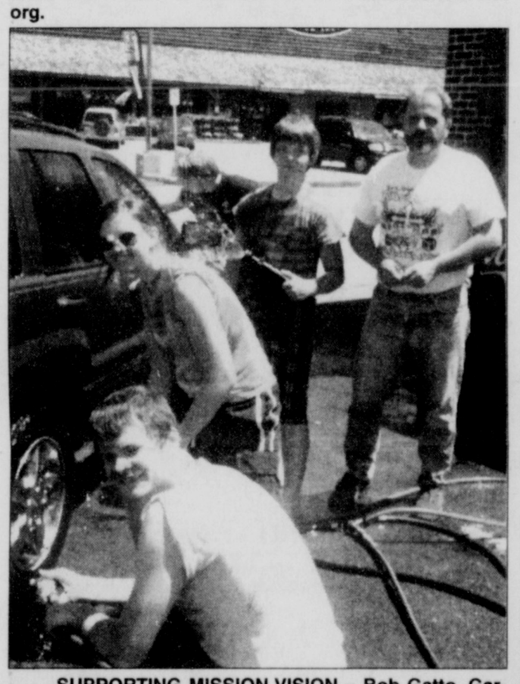
FLOWERY VALE RECEIVES AWARD – The Abilities Network, based in Towson, recently held its annual awards breakfast to honor 19 individuals and businesses for their continued support. The Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center in Accident received an award for its "outstanding" partnership with the network. The center provides a holistic approach to the health and fitness of adults 50 years of age and older. It also provides a volunteer opportunity for an individual who receives services from the network. "The center director (Tiffany Weeks) has developed a friendship with this individual, and is a truly exceptional community partner," said Stephanie Sweeney, director of communications, Abilities Network. Left to right are Weeks and Sara Hoffman, Abilities Network program director, western Maryland office. "Abilities Network is a nonprofit organization that helps to create a personal path to independence by seeing abilities, not disabilities," Sweeney said. "To accomplish this mission, the network provides customized services to children, adults, and seniors to promote more inclusive communities. These services are provided through six main programs: Autism Services, Community and Employment Partners, Epilepsy Services, Healthy Families, Project ACT (All Children Together), and Senior Services." More information is available at www.abilitiesnetwork.org.



SUPPORTING MISSION VISION – Bob Gatto, Garrett County commissioner, recently stopped by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department to support Mission Vision's annual car wash. The Mission Vision Group comprises young adults who volunteer in the community. They recently served with Habitat For Humanity, building the outside frame for two of the new homes in HopeLand Village. They also serve the Oakland Nursing and Rehab Center on a regular basis. Persons who are interested in serving with this group or who would like to enlist the service of Mission Vision may call Fran Ford at 301-616-1149 for more information. Pictured above, front, are Zach Willmon and Cari Geer. In the back, from left, are Brandon Roberts, Tyler Wilmon, and Gatto. Not pictured are Anna Ford, Melody White, Bryanna King, Becca O'Brien, Nick Willmon, Jodi Willmon, and Fran Ford.

Summer Reading Club To Focus On World Travel

Young readers may "travel the globe" this summer as the Ruth Enlow Library presents its annual summer reading program, this year titled "One World, Many Stories."

Participants will explore places worldwide through stories, crafts, and other activities that are scheduled weekly during July. All programs are free, and participants choose their own reading materials and track their progress using the reading logs provided.

"Numerous studies have shown that reading over the Summer prevents summer reading loss, and that children who join the summer library program keep their brains active and enter school in the fall ready to learn and ready to succeed," said Keela Pfaff, children's specialist at the Oakland library.

Registration for the program is now open. All those interested in attending the series are asked to call their local library branch to register, or to e-mail the following contacts: keela@relib.net for Oakland, jessi@relib.net for Accident, sandi@relib.net for Grantsville, or diane@relib.net for Kitzmiller. (The Friendsville branch is running a walk-in program during the spring and summer, with treasure hunts and a world money series, which requires no registration.)

Dates at all branches are as follows:

• Oakland: weekly sessions from July 6 through July 28. For 3-to 5-year-olds, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Wednesdays; For 6- to 12 year-olds, same time on Thursdays.

• Accident: Tuesdays from July 5 through July 26, 11 a.m. to noon, for all ages.

• Grantsville: Wednesdays, July 6 to 27, 11 a.m. to noon, for all ages.

• Kitzmiller: Fridays, July 8 to 29, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., for all ages.

• Friendsville: walk-in weekly programs.

The Summer Reading Club is a cooperative project between the local Maryland public libraries and the Maryland State Department of Education's Division of Library Development and Services. The state also is a member of the Collaborative Summer Library Program, a grassroots consortium of states working together to provide high-quality summer reading program materials for children at the lowest cost possible for their public libraries, a spokesperson said.

The Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library contributes funds to the library's summer reading program. Other local organizations and businesses support the program as well, with incentives. Statewide, the Baltimore Orioles and the Downtown Partnership in Baltimore contribute tickets and passes to participating libraries.

Printed booklets and bookmarks for Summer Reading Club are available at all locations of the library, and information is available online at wwwrelib.net.

Chamber Of Commerce Holds Dinner Meeting

The annual Garrett County Chamber of Commerce Membership Meeting and Dinner was held last Thursday at Santa Fe Grille. The event was sponsored by Samson Resources Company. Attendees had dinner and saw the presentation of the Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award by Martin Heise, as well as the inaugural presentation of the Volunteer of the Year award.

The winner of the 2011 Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award was Jan Russell of Savage River Lodge. Russell and Mike Dreisbach opened the lodge in 1999 and embarked on a mission to develop a new accommodation attraction in western Maryland. They developed the lodge with the philosophy that nature can teach the public personally and organizationally. Their business has brought a new concept to the area in tourism and economic development.

At the dinner, it was stated that Russell has displayed the highest ethical and community spirit in business, and provided leadership in bringing green sustainability to the local community. She serves on the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce board, the Greater Cumberland Committee, Hospitality Committee, Membership Committee, Marketing Roundtable, and the Green Committee. Russell works daily at the Savage River Lodge and, according to members of the Chamber of Commerce, exemplifies the management and commitment that it takes to be an entrepreneur.

According to the Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award Committee, winners of the Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award must originate and develop a business from inception; show a willingness to take risks; show community involvement; hold high ethical standards; and demonstrate leadership by overcoming a formidable problem or shown business acumen through embarking on a creative, insightful, or overlooked opportunity that will make an important contribution to Garrett County's business environment through substantive community impact.

The Award Committee, made up of previous winners, selects three nominees to be voted on by the general chamber membership. Past honorees include Jonathan "Smiley" Kessler, Bill Sisler,

ONE OF LIFE'S SWEETEST MOMENTS is the reaching of a goal, especially a goal that has required years of dedication and hard work. Nearly 360 young people experienced that fine moment on Sunday, as they walked (or rode) across the platform to receive their high school diplomas at Northern and Southern high schools. Commencement ceremonies were held at both facilities that afternoon, and today's issue of The Republican includes a special section dedicated to these accomplished young people, including the students' speeches, awards, and multiple candid photos. Above left, graduate James Donahue is shown as his class president, Morgan Brosnihan, maneuvers his wheelchair up the ramp. James was apparently injured in a basketball game the night before graduation. At right is Southern graduate Sierra Griffith, whose radiant smile says it all. Photos by John McEwen.

Four Injured In Two Weekend Vehicle Accidents

Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated two vehicle accidents with injuries this past weekend. Four people were transported by area rescue squads. The following incidents are unrelated.

Deputies responded to Paull Street, Loch Lynn, at approximately 4 p.m. on Saturday, where investigation revealed that Delmar Elvis Moats, 32, had stopped at the railroad tracks, when he was struck from behind by Charles Andrew Cash, 22, Virginia. Moats and two juvenile passengers were transported by Southern and Northern rescue squads to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene. No charges have been filed at the time the press release was received.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to the area of Garrett Highway and Lake Shore Drive at approximately 2:30 p.m. on Sunday Investigation revealed that Tyler Lockwood, 28, New York, had been traveling south when he reportedly fell aleep at the wheel. His vehicle crossed over the northbound lane and over an embankment before striking a tree and coming to rest at the edge of Deep Creek Lake. He was taken by Northern Rescue Squad to GCMH. Charges are pending. Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also assisted at the scene.

Alabama Driver Arrested On CDS Charges

An Alabama man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies early Monday morning on CDS possession charges.

Deputies stopped a 1994 Oldsmobile Cutlass on Maple Street, Friendville, for a registration violation. Further investigation led to the arrest of Tommie Eugene Robinson Jr., Vinemont. He was arrested without incident and charged with CDS maintaining a common nuisance, CDS possession other than marijuana, CDS possession of marijuana, and CDS narcotics production equipment.

Robinson was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Governor O'Malley Orders Study Of Drilling For Gas In Marcellus Shale

Governor Martin O'Malley signed an executive order this week establishing the Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative. The order requires the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), in consultation with an advisory commission consisting of a broad array of stakeholders, to undertake a study of drilling for natural gas from the Marcellus shale in western Maryland.

"While we are mindful of the potential economic and energy benefits that could arise from the production of natural gas from the Marcellus shale reserves in Maryland, we are also very concerned about an array of issues that have been raised regarding the use of hydraulic fracturing to extract this fuel," said Governor O'Malley. "Our decisions must be guided by scientific knowledge about the effects of this type of drilling to ensure that we protect public safety and health, groundwater, surface water, and the rural lifestyle and natural resources in Maryland."

Under the executive order, the study will be conducted in three parts:

•A presentation of findings and related recommendations regarding the desirability of legislation to establish revenue sources, such as a state-level severance tax, and the desirability of legislation to establish standards of liability for damages caused by gas exploration and production. These findings and recommendations will be made by Dec. 31, 2011.

•Recommendations for best practices for all aspects of natural gas exploration and production in the Marcellus shale in Maryland by Aug. 1, 2012.

•A final report which will include findings and recommendations relating to the impact of Marcellus shale drilling, including possible contamination of groundwater, handling and disposal of wastewater, environmental impacts, impacts to forests and important habitats,

Oakland Man Sentenced In Federal Court

A 21-year-old Oakland man was sentenced to 10 years in prison during a federal court trial in San Diego, Calif., on May 27. Brian Paul Parkent was also ordered by U.S. District Judge Dana Sabraw to be placed on seven years of supervised probation upon his release from a federal prison.

Parkent pleaded guilty on Feb. 8 to a federal crime of one count of enticement of a minor.

He was arrested following an investigation conducted by the San Diego County Sheriff's Department and the San Diego Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force (ICAC), a division of the ICAC association.

The investigation revealed that between April and October of last year Parkent knowingly accessed the Internet through a computer and used a telephone to communicate with a 14-year-old female in San Diego. He enticed her to send him sexually explicit photographs of herself over the telephone.

Additionally, on Oct. 22, 2010, Parkent traveled from Oakland to San Diego to engage in multiple sexual acts with the victim.

He was arrested by investigators with the San Diego County Sheriff's Department in San Diego. A Garrett County Sheriff's Office detective, who is the local agency's ICAC representative, assisted with the San Diego officers' investigation.

Sheriff's Office Makes Arrest In Oakland Double-Murder Case

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested Jeffrey Charles Minnick, 45, Accident, on Friday in connection with the stabbing deaths of Jessica Irene Baker, 18, and Timothy Brandon Field Lax, 24, that took place on or about June 1. Minnick is being held in the Garrett County Detention Center without bond on two counts of first-degree murder.

According to Sheriff Rob Corley, early on Tuesday, June 1, deputies responded to Reese Street in Oakland when Minnick was discovered by residents and told them he had been stabbed. The defendant was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for his injuries.

The deputies and K-9 units went to a wooded, vagrant camping area along the railroad tracks between 2nd and 8th streets in Oakland, approximately ¼ mile south of Reese St. The officers knew this area as a place where Minnick had frequented. Upon their arrival they found the deceased bodies of Baker and Lax, the sheriff said.

An extensive investigation was initiated immediately, during which digital, physical, and testimonial evidence was collected. Upon consultation with Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney, the criminal information was filed with the District Court commissioner, who issued an arrest warrant for Minnick, charging him with the two counts of first-degree murder.

JEFFREY MINNICK

The warrant was served on the defendant upon his discharge from Garrett County Memorial Hospital on June 3.

Sheriff Corley stated this morning that so far Minnick has given no information to police about the incident, so no motive for the alleged killings has been established.

He described the wounds sustained by Minnick as "superficial."

In response to a rumor that Baker was pregnant, Corley said that because autopsy reports have not yet been received he has no information to confirm or deny that rumor.

Minnick is listed on the Maryland Sex Offender Registry for a Tier III conviction in North Carolina. A Tier III conviction requires lifetime sexual offender registration, according to the registry.

He was also sentenced to 10 years in prison for second-degree assault in Maryland in January 2002. So far, he is not charged with any sex crimes in the current double-murder case.

The GCSO investigators conducted the investigation with the assistance of state's attorney investigators, the Maryland State Police, the Natural Resources Police, the Oakland City Police Department, and via numerous tips provided by the public, the sheriff said.

Commissioners Approve Budget, Keep Real Property Tax Rate At $.99

The Garrett County commissioners unanimously approved the county's fiscal year 2012 budget and tax rates on Tuesday. Numerous county staff members attended the announcement and received copies of the new budget.

Excluding debt service and capital outlay, the FY '12 budget is $70.4 million, which is $2.7 million more than the current year's operating budget.

But, overall, there is $1.745 million more in debt service and $12.687 million more in capital outlay/projects in the FY '11 budget than the newly approved one. FY '12 begins on July 1.

Commission chair Gregan Crawford said the county faced many budget challenges and numerous drafts of the document were created and reviewed over the last four months before Tuesday's version was approved.

"We have to continue to be vigilant in our efforts to the achieve the best return for the taxpayers' money as possible," Crawford said. "We look forward to working with the various departments and seeing how we can squeak out a little more money here and there and generate some more savings."

In the early stages of the FY '12 budget development, county departments were asked to submit "ideal" budgets, as if money would actually be available for their entire "wish lists."

"This actually served many purposes," said Commissioner Bob Gatto. "It allowed us to [evaluate] long-term and short-term needs and allowed us to develop some priorities in moving forward."

He noted that the wish lists would have put the county in the red by $16 million, but county personnel and the public worked together to develop those priorities, which are reflected in the approved FY '12 budget.

Commissioner Jim Raley noted that it was very obvious that the wish lists were not realistic without a significant property tax increase.

"I think most of us know that was something that we were not willing to do," Raley said.

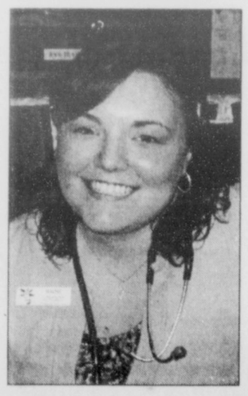
PENNINGTON BEAR? (No known relation to Paddington) This black bear has apparently made himself known to residents along Pennington Street in Oakland as he lumbers back and forth to the Little Yough and then to his home somewhere atop Crook Crest. Kenny and Janet Alexander watched as he came into their yard along the town street on Sunday afternoon, and then loped back up the hillside. While black bears are somewhat startling to see, they are generally passive and can be frightened away by something as simple as the sound of jingling car keys. However, no one should ever approach a black bear or knowingly feed it. Females with cubs can be particularly dangerous. All should keep a good distance from Pennington Bear, even though he appears to be rather young. Photo provided by the Alexanders.

"MIRACLE" PLANE SEEN IN GARRETT COUNTY – The US Airways jetliner that Capt. Chesley "Sully" Sullenberger successfully landed on New York's Hudson River in January 2009 following a bird strike that disabled the engines came through Garrett County on I-68 Tuesday afternoon. An industrial moving company, J. Supor & Son, assisted the 120-foot fuselage on its final voyage, from Harrison, N.J., to the Carolinas Aviation Museum in Charlotte, N.C. The wings and tail were shipped separately. Numerous motorists were able to catch a glimpse of the "Miracle on the Hudson" plane as it made its way through the Mid-Atlantic region. The entire crew of Flight 1549 was awarded the Master's Medal of the Guild of Air Pilots and Air Navigators. The award citation read, "This emergency ditching and evacuation, with the loss of no lives, is a heroic and unique aviation achievement." Capt. Sully's landing has been described as the most successful ditching in aviation history. Photo by Brenda Ruggiero.

Friend-Lantz Joins Mtn. Laurel Medical Center



Rachel Friend-Lantz, CRNP, has recently joined the Mountain Laurel Medical Center as the newest member of the clinical team.

Friend-Lantz was born and reared in Oakland. She graduated from Southern High School in 2003. After graduation, she attended Davis and Elkins College (W.Va.). In 2006, she received her associate's degree in nursing from Davis and Elkins.

Following graduation she returned to Oakland, and worked as a registered nurse at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for five years. At GCMH, Friend-Lantz worked in the medical surgical department and with labor and delivery. In 2006, she directly enrolled into the fast-track bachelors program at Alderson-Broaddus College (W.Va.).

At Alderson-Broaddus, Friend-Lantz completed the 18-month nursing program and obtained her bachelor's in 2008. She then enrolled at West Virginia University's school of nursing in the master's of science program, specializing in family-based primary care.

During her graduate studies, Friend-Lantz completed nearly 1,000 clinical hours in medical practices in Oakland and the surrounding area. In her final semester, she completed her clinical rotation at Mountain Laurel Medical Center under the direction of Dr. Donald Richter. She is a recipient of the Buffalo Coal Education Scholarship and graduated from WVU in May 2010 as a board certified family nurse practitioner.

Friend-Lantz is a member of the American Academy of Nurse Practitioners, and the Maryland Nursing Association. Her special interests include pediatric care and women's health. She is an avid painter and enjoys photography. She is an active member at Shady Dell Chapel in Oakland. Friend-Lantz lives of Oakland with her husband Mike and two sons. She is the daughter of Steven and Sandy Friend.

"We are thrilled that Rachel has joined our team. Her commitment to primary and preventive health care, particularly her interest in women's health and pediatrics, will help us to further our mission of providing high-quality, affordable services to all of our patients," stated Beth Little-Terry, CEO of MLMC.

Mountain Laurel is open Monday through Friday from 7:30 a m. to 5 p.m. with evening hours on Tuesdays and Thursdays until 7 p.m.

Those interested in further information about the services provided at Mountain Laurel, or wanting to schedule an appointment with Friend-Lantz, may call 301-533-3300.

LOAR AUXILIARY DONATES $20K TO GCMH – A $20,000 check was recently presented to Donald Battista, president and CEO of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, by Denise Shay, gift shop manager and vice president of the Loar Auxiliary. This check represents the second $20,000 auxiliary donation made this year to the hospital's foundation to assist with funding of the newly installed nuclear medicine imaging camera used for diagnostic purposes. The Loar Auxiliary is a volunteer group that manages and operates the hospital's gift shop. All proceeds generated through sales benefit GCMH. Other projects funded through the Loar Auxiliary include a security system for newborns and works of art displayed throughout the facility. Anyone interested in becoming a Loar Auxiliary volunteer should call 301-533-4041 to obtain an application.

Southern Business Students Are Winners In Nat'l Writing Contest

HALI GEBHARDT

Two Southern High School business students, sophomore Raeslee Weimer and senior Hali Gebhardt, are winners in the Consumer Jungle essay contest for financial literacy.

Weimer won first place for her essay, "Denied: The Consequences of Credit," which focused on how having a bad credit score can cost consumers their dream jobs.

Gebhardt won third place for her essay, "College Piggy Bank: Saving for Your Future," which explained how a senior in high school could still save for college necessities.

Both girls will now have their essays featured on the home page and become official student editors for the Consumer Jungle web site, which is slated to go online at the end of summer 2011.

Both Weimer and Gebhardt completed their essays as part of the classroom activities in Lisa Bender's financial management class at Southern High School during the 2010-11 school year. Bender required all of her students to complete the essay as a "summative" assessment for students near the end of the course, which focuses on developing financial literacy on such topics as banking, savings and investing, budgeting, taxes, credit, insurance, housing, and the life cycle of financial management.

Students were allowed to select a topic of their choice and write their essay, following the Consumer Jungle contest criteria for length, critical thought, and the addition of an interactive element that readers could visit to learn more about selected topics.

As the classroom teacher, Bender served as a first-round judge for the contest, selecting five essays to submit to the Consumer Jungle board of judges.

In addition to Weimer and Gebhardt placing in the contest, Bender was also notified that junior Ashley Upole and sophomore Hannah Newcomb were named in the top 10 finalists for the nationwide contest.

Upole's essay titled "Is That Car Really Worth It?" explored buying new versus used cars and the added features that a teenager might not need with his/her first automobile purchase.

Newcomb's essay, "Low Interest Is Better Than No Interest," focused on how to become a saver, not a spender.

Consumer Jungle is a web site sponsored by the University of Arizona Norton School of Family and Consumer Sciences and the Take Charge America Inc. Institute for Consumer Financial Education and Research.

The site will be launched to provide engaging and relevant personal finance information to young adults. Through various forms of media and Web 2.0 Technologies, users will actively engage in learning about relevant current events and other personal finance topics.

Consumer Jungle will be unique in giving relevant information to other youth-oriented web sites by offering users the opportunity to contribute to the content of the site, Bender said.

Marcellus Shale Event To Feature Delegate Mizeur

The public is invited to a discussion on Marcellus shale natural gas drilling on Monday, June 13, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. in Room 201 at Garrett College. Sponsored by the Sierra Club and Save Western Maryland, the event will feature Del. Heather Mizeur.

"She will update attendees on 2011 state legislative efforts and other measures to safeguard Marylanders, our communities, our wildlife and waterways, and the environment," said Eric Robison of Save Western Maryland.

Those planning to attend the event are asked to RSVP by e-mailing Robison at WesternMDEvent@gmail.com

Jefferson-Jackson Event Moved To McHenry Room

Because of an expected overflow crowd, the annual Jefferson-Jackson dinner scheduled for Monday, June 13, has been moved from the Crawford Room to the McHenry Room at Wisp Resort.

Sponsored annually by the Garrett County Democratic Club, this year's event will feature Lt. Gov. Anthony Brown as the keynote speaker.

Festivities will begin with a reception at 6 p.m., followed by the dinner at 7 p.m.

GCSO Seeking Info On Burglary Of G'ville Cabin

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is seeking information regarding a burglary that occurred at a Twin Churches Road, Grantsville, cabin.

Sometime between May 27 and June 8, over $500 in damage occurred after intruders forced entry into the cabin. Anyone with information is asked to contact the GCSO at 301-334-1911 or leave an anonymous tip at www.garrettcrimesolvers.org. Tipsters may be eligible for a reward of up to $1,000.

RELAY FOR LIFE TO BEGIN THIS FRIDAY – The Garrett Highlands Pipes and Drums (above) will lead the first "victory" lap for the 2011 Relay For Life of Garrett County, scheduled from 5 p.m. this Friday, June 10, to 7 a.m. on Saturday, June 11. This year's theme is the 1960s, with "Take a 'Peace' Out of Cancer" as the motto. On-site fundraising activities will begin at 5 p.m. These will include games, a moon bounce, raffles, food, and other activities. The opening ceremony will begin at 7 p.m., followed by cancer survivors taking their victory lap as they are cheered on by RFL participants. From 8 to 9 p.m., live music will be provided by local band Second Wind, followed by the luminaria ceremony, in which candles will be lighted in memory of those lost to cancer and in honor of those who have survived the disease. Pictured below, left to right, are Second Wind members Steve Yeash, Adam Brenneman, Katie Brenneman, Olen Beitzel, and Roger Rounds, mandolin/vocals. Relay For Life funds patient services, awareness programs, research, and advocacy. "Research has developed better testing for early detection, better detection, better treatments to help people live longer and better lives, and finding cancer's causes and cures," said an RFL spokesperson. "The American Cancer Society wants to help everyone 'Stay Well, Get Well, Find Cures, and Fight Back.' One day it could be you or one of your loved ones who has to hear those words 'You have cancer.' One in every two men and one in every three women will develop cancer in their lifetime. So gather the family and friends and come participate to help those in our community fighting cancer. And at the same time, you can fight back against this deadly disease." For more information about Relay For Life, persons may visit relayforlife.org/garrett or call Brittany Friend at 301-722-2145. Information about cancer is available by calling 1-800-ACS-2345 or visiting cancer.org.

BOE To Hold Regular Meeting Tuesday, June 14

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, June 14, beginning at 4 p.m. The meeting will be held at the central office of the BOE.

Following public comment at 4 p.m., the board will meet in closed session until 5:30 p.m.

After the closed session, public agenda action will be taken on a number of board policies, including on the bid for the Southern High School window replacement project, as well as the 2012 budget.

A robotics update, the energy audit, the special education staffing plan, and the student handbook will be presented as information items.

Time will be set aside at 7 p.m. for public comment and participation on any topic. The public is invited to attend.

Mountain Lake Park To Honor Its Own With "Martha Grimes Day"

by Mary Sincell McEwen

The unique atmosphere of Mountain Lake Park, with its lofty oaks, moss-carpeted grounds, and its history of chautauquas and other celebrations of summertime, is familiar to so many who grew up there. That chord of familiarity is struck precisely by writer Martha Grimes, as she paints the picture of the town and surrounding areas in her series of novels based on the locale during the mid-20th century.

Fans of her writings, which are extensive and include the 22-book Richard Jury mystery series, are invited to a celebration in Mtn. Lake Park. Martha Grimes Day will be held on Saturday, June 18. The author will be welcomed at the town hall, located at the intersection Rt. 219 and Allegany Drive, from 2 to 4 p.m. Guests are invited to meet her, talk with her, and have books signed.

Her series of five books about the area, with Hotel Paradise being the first to feature young Emma Graham (who is based on the author herself), are titled The End of the Pier (Ballantine Books, 1993); Hotel Paradise (Knopf, 1996); Cold Flat Junction (2000); Belle Ruin (2005); and Fadeaway Girl (New York: Viking Penguin, 2011).

The End of the Pier is actually a prequel to the rest of the series, and it focuses on Sheriff Sam DeGheyn and waitress Maud Chadwick, two characters who reappear in Hotel Paradise. Emma Graham is not in the first novel.

Grimes has a wealth of memories of the local area to explore and describe, as she grew up in the town as a resident of the Mtn. Lake Park Hotel, which her mother, June Grimes, owned. The writer helped her mother in the running of the establishment, and in Hotel Paradise describes her daily routine of making salads, waiting tables, and being somewhat irritated by demanding guests. She was an observant youngster, and studied the many and various individuals who came in and out of her young life. With these memories, she forges characters who are detailed and memorable, and sometimes quite familiar, especially to longtime residents.

Several years before she began writing the books based on her childhood in Mtn. Lake Park, Grimes became established as a mystery writer with her Richard Jury books, beginning in 1981 with The Man With a Load of Mischief (Boston: Little, Brown). She wrote a number of volumes in this series before launching into the Hotel Paradise series. In an interview this week, she was asked what inspired her to turn her attention and memory to her growing-up years as a resident of the Mountain Lake Park Hotel.

"It was just a small thing," she said. "I was stopped at small railroad track, waiting for a distant train, and the title just came to me. Hotel Paradise." She said titles are almost always the first breath of inspiration for her. She is also intrigued by small things about people, building characters out of simple comments a person might make, or the way a person walks or talks. Therefore her stories are character-driven, with detailed imagery of nearly every person encountered.

After penning The End of the Pier, the writer said she had not actually planned to write more about her hometown. But when the inspiration came for Hotel Paradise, she was off and running. The latest, Fadeaway Girl, was published just this year, yet Grimes said she intends to continue the series.

"I just haven't quite figured out who 'The Girl' is yet, and I really want to find out," she said. On that point, Grimes said she gets "bitter e-mails" from readers who are frustrated with loose ends of her stories. But just as life has loose ends, so do Martha Grimes' books. That, she said, is a complication that arises from her work always being categorized as mystery writing. This has been a confounding experience for her, to always be marketed as just a mystery writer, when in actuality, many of her books are more accurately described as literary novels (with a great deal of humor included). Those who read mysteries expect a complete resolution, while novels do not always offer such. Reviewer Roz Shea of bookreporter.com sees this as a positive in this writer's books.

"Grimes never closes any door that would lead her fans to an entertaining read," Shea wrote.

And on the other side of the coin, there are readers who have no interest in the mystery genre. "So some of these books that are not mysteries at all simply get passed over," she said. "It's really very frustrating."

She mentioned three publications in particular that readers may want to look into, as they are decidedly not mysteries and may appeal to a broader audience. These are listed under the "novels, short stories, and poetry" category on the author's web site. They are Send Bygraves (1990), The Train Now Departing (2001), and Foul Matter (2004).

Hotel Paradise is also marketed as a mystery, and does indeed have the thread of such throughout, as young Emma yearns to discover the true events that led to a child's death some 40 years before. But character development and literary imagery are full and rich in the novel as well, pulling it slightly away from the straight mystery genre.

The entire list of her writings can be found at www.marthagrimes.com, which also includes biographical information, news updates, and reviews of her work.

As for coming back to her Garrett County stomping grounds, Grimes said she is excited and touched about the day proclaimed in her honor. She seems genuinely surprised and pleased that she has been able to create familiar scenes and people for local readers. Her descriptions of Crystal Springs and Mountain Lake are particularly real, as are the characters that were indeed based on real people from the '50s and '60s.

The layered imagery of the town itself, which she calls Spirit Lake, as well as nearby La Porte (Oakland), are definitely recognizable. Those with clear memories of the expansive MLP Hotel can relive its heyday, and even those with fuzzy recollections of the building, which was razed in 1967, can see it again through Grimes' words.

Cold Flat Junction, a nearby village where Emma ventures by train, was basically "made up out of whole cloth," the writer said, but does have some influence of her memories of Aurora, W.Va.

When told that her writings evoke rich memories for local readers, including the writer of this article, she was genuinely surprised.

"Really?" she asked. "That's simply delightful to hear."

Surely she will hear more of the same as readers gather at the town hall on June 18 to meet her and talk with her about her books, as well as about her life in Mountain Lake Park, and the cast of characters with whom she engaged, and from whom she learned much.

In closing, a tiny snippet exhibiting Martha Grimes' gift of description, this of the woodsy aura of Mountain Lake Park, seemed only appropriate:

"I looked up to the tops of the trees where the sun turned the dark leaves now to a glassy greenness you could see through. I imagined them staying like this until autumn, when they would drift down and blow against one another so that everywhere would be the sound of wind chimes." --Hotel Paradise.

"MARTHA GRIMES DAY" SLATED IN MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK – Renowned author Martha Grimes, pictured, will be honored on June 18 at the Mountain Lake Park Town Hall from 2 to 4 p.m., as the town celebrates her literary accomplishments. Grimes has penned more than 30 books, four of which are based on her life and experiences growing up in Mtn. Lake Park. Her mother, June Grimes, owned and operated the famed Mtn. Lake Hotel, where Martha spent much of her childhood. The public is invited to attend the event, and the author has offered to autograph books for those who wish. The writer lives near Bethesda, and does visit Garrett County from time to time, although she no longer has family members in the area. Her son, Kent, a public relations executive, resides in Washington, D.C., as do her two grandsons. In addition to her writing career, she has made many strides in the area of animal protection, and has in the past donated up to 2/3 of her royalties to animal rescue and protection organizations. See feature story.

Newman Named To State Board Of Funeral Directors

Lynn Newman of Grantsville was recently appointed to the Maryland State Board of Morticians and Funeral Directors. He was nominated by Governor Martin O'Malley and approved by the Maryland Senate for a four-year term as a board member.

Newman is the president of Newman Funeral Homes P.A. He and his wife Carol own and operate five funeral homes in Salisbury, Pa.; Grantsville; Friendsville; Accident/McHenry; and Oakland. A new, larger facility is currently being planned for Oakland.

Newman has been licensed for 34 years, and Newman Funeral Homes has been in operation since 1955.

"I am very honored by this appointment," Newman said. "It is a privilege to serve the people of Maryland and to serve western Maryland as a board member."

Over the years, Newman has served with various organizations, including Hospice of Garrett County, the Garrett County Department of Social Services, the Grantsville Cemetery Association, the Greater Grantsville Business Association, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

He is a member of the Ali Ghan Shrine in Cumberland, where he plays with the Shrine Band; Mountain Chapter #15, Order of the Eastern Star, Frostburg; Mountain Lodge #99, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, Frostburg; and Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Valley of Cumberland, Cumberland.

Over 1,000 Years of Service...

Some 30 of Garrett County teachers, administrators, office staff members, and custodians were honored last night at the board of education's annual retirement dinner for their years of service to the county's public school system. Many of the honorees have at least 30 years of service, and several of them eclipsed the 40-year mark. Collectively, they have provided over 1,000 years of service to the system. It would be difficult to calculate just how many young lives have been influenced by these people over the past three or four decades.

Never before have this many local educators/school staff persons retired from the system all at one time, and it is a bit unnerving to lose that much experience, that much expertise, in one fell swoop. In some cases, the principal and secretary of a given school, and in at least one case, the principal, secretary, and head custodian are all retiring. Even Dr. Wendell Teets, who has with competency and dedication served the system as superintendent for the past 14 years, is among those retiring.

Granted, one reason that the number of retirees is higher than normal is the financial incentive offered by the board as one of the necessary cost-cutting measures in these extremely tight budgetary times. However, about half of the retirees had announced their intentions before the incentive was even offered, and others were within one or two years of retirement. There were also some who may have remained in the system for another year or two, but were concerned about the very real possibility that some of our youngest teachers were going to lose their jobs because of funding cuts. Their decision to retire literally saved the jobs of some of our brightest and best young teachers.

The acceptance of the incentive also does not diminish the long, outstanding job performance of the great majority of those who were recognized last night. The record of our school system and the students that it serves speaks for itself. The fact is, Maryland schools have for several years now been ranked #1 nationally, and within Maryland, Garrett County's schools have consistently ranked in the top 10 or 20%, obviously making our local schools among the elite in the entire country. As has been stated in this column in the past, one of the major reasons that we do so well is because of the immeasurable dedication of the majority of those who have chosen to be educators in our system. They certainly did not make that choice for the money, but simply for their love of children.

Most of the retirees said a few words when they were recognized, and in almost every case, it was vividly clear that their primary focus throughout their careers was always directly on the children, with the desire to do the absolute best job they could for the benefit of each and every child in the system.

So this column today is dedicated to these retirees, and extends on behalf of all of Garrett County both congratulations and a profound sense of appreciation for their 1,000 years of invaluable service to our children and thus to our future. It is our hope that the younger people already in the system and those waiting in the wings will continue their exemplary efforts.

To the Editor:

All of us who have experienced a catastrophic mental illness and disability know the experience of anguish and despair. It is living in darkness without hope, without a past or future. It is self-pity. It is hatred of everything that is good and life giving. It is rage turned inward. It is a wound that is so deep that no cry can emanate from it. It is truly being disabled, not by a disease or injury, but by despair. This part of the recovery process is the dark night in which we felt that even God had abandoned us. For some of us, this dark night lasts for moments, days, or months. For others, it lasts for years.

Recovery is not a linear process marked by successes and accomplishments. The recovery process is described as a series of small beginnings and very small steps. There needs to be an environment where the recovery process can be nurtured like a tender and precious seedling.

For many of us who are psychiatrically disabled, recovery is a process, an attitude, and a way of approaching the day's challenges. It is not a perfectly linear process. It is sometimes erratic and we falter, slide back, re-group, and start again.

However, there are those out there who are so cruel toward mentally ill individuals that they will knock their "lopped limbs" out from under them every time they try to get up. It seems to give them a tremendous feeling of power to destroy a mentally disabled person's hopes and dreams and their incentive to achieve.

Our experience with recovery is similar to that described by the poet Roethke, who was afflicted with bipolar disorder.

"Cuttings: One nub of growth nudges a sand crumb loose. Pokes through a musty sheath, its pale tendrilous horn. This urge, wrestle, resurrection of dry sticks! Cut stems struggling to put down feet. What saint strained so much; rose on such lopped limbs to a new life?

"Recovery is the urge, the wrestle, and then the resurrection. Recovery is a matter of rising on lopped limbs to a new life."

Sir Winston Churchill, another bipolar victim, told the people or Great Britain this when the Germans had them practically destroyed by their air attacks: "Never give in; never give in, never, never, never give in."

Yes, the only way one can truly fail is to give up.

To the Editor:

Our family moved recently from Lancaster, Pa., to Oakland and into a foreclosure home that needed a lot of TLC. We fell in love with it, but had much to remodel.

Our family is not new to house remodeling, but this time was different. We did not know anybody, so you quietly say a prayer and ask God for guidance, hoping for the best. My prayer was that God would send me a honest, hard-working, reasonable contractor who would be accommodating and easy to deal with. I also asked that it would be someone who needed the work so it would be a win-win situation.

God came through for me. My contractor is all that plus something I do not even have words for. He is more like a guardian angel with a tool belt. He told me that he already had many customers in Pittsburgh, but that he needed to make a name for himself here.

His name is Ray "McGuyver" Giconi of Walls of Art. He is a painter and also an artist, as he specializes in murals and faux finishes. Ray is really a pleasure to work with, has a can-do attitude, is smart and detail-oriented, and has affordable rates.

My remodel started out as just a lot of cleanup and paint, but it grew into a more detailed restoration than I previously anticipated. If you ever did a remodel and acted as your general contractor, you know what I am talking about. I was an interior decorator, but being new to the area, I was apprehensive without knowing the right people to rely on. But Ray also brought on board Sam Butler of Butler's Painting and Remodeling, another high-class star, and together they are putting all the finishing touches needed to complete my project.

Guys like these deserve to be busy all the time. This is my thank-you card for them – a surprise from the heart that I hope will help them to be flooded with good and quality work. In case someone wants to stop by to see what they did to our home, please call me at 717-333-7899 or 717-581-0667.

Ray Giconi of Walls of Art phone (412-400-5644) and Sam Butler of Butler's Painting & Remodeling (301-334-4989) are top-notch individuals, and I hope this referral will bless their lives just like they've blessed mine.

To the Editor:

In 1949 the Congress of the United States declared June 14 of each year as National Flag Day. Here in Garrett County and the surrounding area for the last six years, we have celebrated Flag Day with an event called "Flag on Mountain Maryland."

This event was started by the Chamber of Commerce with the help of the American Flag Foundation Inc., and has since been turned over to a group of patriotic citizens from the local area who wished to see the event continued. As we plan for the 2011 Flag on Mountain Maryland, we find ourselves in the same situation as many other groups, needing to ask the public for donations to keep the celebration funded. We have found that many of our former sources of funds are struggling to meet the numerous requests for donations in this uncertain economy.

If at all possible, would you be in a position to help us financially to bring about this year's program? Even the smallest donation will help and all donations are tax-deductible. Acknowledgment of your sponsorship will be listed in our program.

If you have never attended Flag on Mountain Maryland, we invite you to mark your calendar for June 14. It is an event that in the past has celebrated with patriotic music, speakers, displays, and the presentation of all 50 state flags. The presentation of the flag of the United States on the hillside behind the McHenry Room at the Wisp is inspirational. Recently, we have especially honored our Vietnam and Korean veterans. This year, we are saluting women veterans who have also served so faithfully in our military services.

If you can help us financially or would like to be involved in staging our event, please contact Sandy Tasker at 301-334-5185 or send your donation to FOMM c/o Marine Corps League, P.O. Box 292, Oakland, MD 21550. Checks should be made payable to MCL/FOMM.

We hope to see you on June 14. This day presents a great opportunity to teach your family about patriotism and about the things which make our country a great place to live! Thank you!

Sandy Tasker,
Flag on Mountain
Maryland chairman

To the Editor:

Having recently been an inmate in the Garrett County detention center, I want to inform you of a recent policy change that I believe is unfair to the inmates.

Inmates can no longer send letters in sealed envelopes from the center. They now must use only postcards. This is not only more expensive, but it is also an invasion of privacy. I can understand why they should have the right to look at incoming mail, but they should not have a right to read outgoing mail. Plus, if an inmate wants to send something personal to his wife, it may be that another family member gets the mail and could read what is on the card.

There are many indigent people in jail, and it takes many postcards to write the amount of material that can be written on regular sheets of stationery. They cannot afford to send multiple postcards.

And again, it seems that they should have some rights of privacy in communicating with people outside the center. So I sincerely hope that the sheriff's office considers this situation and returns to the previous mail policy for inmates.

To the Editor:

I want to let those in charge of Southern High School's graduation know how very unhappy many people are over not being able to attend their relatives' graduation due to lack of seating. This is a once-in-a-lifetime experience one gets to share with their graduate. How sad that this wasn't taken care of much sooner.

It is my understanding that the football field's bleachers were damaged and needed repaired before graduation could be held there this year. I would like to know why these couldn't be fixed beforehand. Why wasn't more consideration given to this problem prior to now? Why couldn't an alternative plan have been in place? I hope for other future graduates that this never happens again.

This will be a well remembered graduation class, but it's sad to say that the good memories will only be for a few family members and friends. The rest of us will remember only that we didn't get to see our loved one graduate from high school.

Sad and sincerely yours,
Norma J. Rodeheaver

To the Editor:

Today we mourn the passing of an old friend, Common Sense. No one knows for sure how old he was, since his records were long ago lost in bureaucratic red tape. He will be remembered as having cultivated such valuable lessons as knowing when to come in out of the rain, how to cross a road without being struck by a vehicle, why the early bird gets the worm, and why sometimes it was my fault.

Common Sense lived by simple, sound financial principles, like don't spend more than you earn and learn how to live on it. A honest day's work for a honest day's dollar will give you integrity. This was one of his best valuable lessons.

He was also known for knowing the difference between wants and needs. His health began to rapidly deteriorate when well-intentioned, but overbearing, regulations were set in place, like kids expelled from school for using mouthwash and teachers fired for reprimanding an unruly student. Common Sense lost ground when parents attacked teachers doing the job they themselves had failed to do, thus causing a decline in the number of good teachers.

Common Sense lost the will to live, as churches became businesses and criminals received better treatment than their victims. He finally gave up the will to live after a woman failed to realize that a steaming cup of coffee was hot. She spilled a little on herself and was promptly awarded a huge settlement. This created the downhill trend of rewarding stupidity.

Common Sense was preceded in death by his parents, Truth & Trust, his wife Discretion, his son Reason, and his daughter Responsibility. Sadly, his funeral was not well-attended, as most folks never realized he was gone.

Sadly submitted,
Ruth M. Paugh

To the Editor:

Two weeks ago I put a letter in this paper about how I've been picking up trash in the McHenry and Sang Run areas of Garrett County. For some reason, you changed my wording, even though my name was signed to the letter. I wrote, speaking to others who may be picking up trash: "Let's commiserate!" which you changed to "Let's work together!" There's a big difference in tone and meaning.

Picking up trash is nasty, thankless, discouraging work involving personal risk from traffic and the messes we have to handle. When I said "commiserate," I meant "commiserate." I've been picking up trash willingly and knowing the risks because I care about how the trash affects the health and well-being of people, animals, and the whole ecosystem.

Our plastic trash thrown on the sides of our roads and streams not only affects our local wildlife, it ends up in the rivers and oceans, where the sunlight breaks it down into bite-sized bits that animals are eating and dying from. Everything from albatrosses to endangered sea turtles to sea mammals are dying of starvation, and when you cut them open, they're full of bits of plastic shopping bags, Bic lighters, and McDonald's straws.

The current Maryland litter control law states that a person who improperly disposes of trash on public or private property is subject to fines and jail time according to the weight and volume of the trash, starting with $1,500 and 30 days in jail, up to $30,000 and 5 years in jail. I'm calling on law enforcement units to do their jobs and enforce Maryland's litter control law.

And citizens, if you know someone who throws trash, inform him or her of the law, and let the person know how you feel about it. It's time to stop trashing Garrett and surrounding counties! In the meantime, let's all start doing our share of the clean-up. I'd like to see the civic groups and kids of these counties get involved, too. (Kids: Just be really careful and go with adults.) My web site contains useful links to local environmental organizations, to the Maryland litter law, and to the GC Solid Waste and Recycling division.

Oh, and as for Adopt-A-Highway? It's just an advertising gimmick, as far as I can tell. I've only ever seen a group out once, but I see trash everywhere on a daily basis.

Sincerely,
Susan Haydel

Olen Beitzel, Johnny Marple, Jim Flanigan Sr., Bill and Sharon Roszell, Barry Rush, Rob Michael, Dave and Mimi Demaree, Brenda McDonnell, Bill Meagher, and Michael Deligatti Sr.

The Volunteer of the Year Award is presented to an individual member who has provided outstanding service to the Chamber of Commerce in a particular program year. The inaugural Volunteer of the Year is Bill Meagher of Lakeside Creamery.

After retiring from the board of directors, Meagher continued to lead the Chamber Presidential Search Committee. He was a member of the Legislative Affairs Committee and actively represented the Garrett County business community on many trips to Annapolis during the legislative session. He spent many hours organizing the Local Candidates' Forum. Meagher also led this year's Heise Award Committee.

Chamber board of directors' chairman Tony Doerr and president and CEO Nicole Christian presided over the annual meeting portion of the evening. They extended their appreciation to the board's outgoing member Robin Murray of First United Bank and Trust, who received a plaque for outstanding service to the Board and welcomed Ed Lytle, ERL Financial Services, as a new member.

For more information about the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, one may call 301-387-4386. Information is also available at visitdeepcreek.com.

Keep Rate

The commissioners unanimously approved keeping the county's real property tax rate at $.99 per $100 of assessed value. Because of a tax differential agreement with the county, Mtn. Lake Park's tax rate will be $.939, which is $.003 more than last year. The rates include special fire levies and the county landfill bond tax, Raley noted.

He said revenue in the FY '12 budget mirror the current one, except for an additional $244,000 from the county's assessable base and $1,130,500 in personal property/ordinary business revenue from Constellation's wind turbines. The additional revenue, Raley noted, enabled the commissioners to maintain the Garrett County Scholarship Program and help the Board of Education offset funding cuts from state and other sources.

Education accounts for the largest portion, $30.6 million or 41.78 percent, of the county's FY '12 budget. The commissioner allocated nearly $24.9 million to the BOE, which is $1.7 million more than the FY '11 allocation. Garrett College will receive about $4.3 million. The Ruth Enlow Library will get $982,700, and $450,000 is earmarked for the scholarship program.

"I know the Board of Ed. is going to have to look really, really hard in their budget for next year, especially with the imminent threat of teacher pensions, or some amount of teacher pensions being passed on to county government," Raley said. "That could possibly be a $1 million the first year out."

FY '12 allocations in other areas are as follows: general government, $6.7 million; public safety, $9.1 million; public works, $16.9 million; community health, $1.4 million; parks, recreation, and culture, $55,000; public service, $170,842; economic development $1.5 million; economic opportunity, $2.7 million; miscellaneous, $1.3 million, which includes transfers to the county airport, tax rebates to municipalities, and a contingency fund of $300,000; and debt service, $33,399.

The commissioners also allocated $2.7 million for capital projects/outlay. The largest project appropriation is for the purchase of a Maryland Economic Development Corporation (MEDCO) building in the Southern Garrett Business & Technology Park for $1.15 million. The purchase will be funded with a $244,926 Appalachian Regional Commission grant, county matching funds in the same amount, and the balance of $660,148 will be financed by the that with a 30-year loan at 3 percent interest.

The building will be rented to businesses in an effort to boost economic development in the county. The debt service of $33,399 will be offset by utilizing the rental income from the facility.

The MEDCO building purchase agreement will also enable the county to proceed with development of the Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park, with the GC Department of Economic Development actively pursuing new tenants, the commissioners note in their message at the beginning of the FY '12 budget document.

"Garrett County has to look at new opportunities to increase our revenue base," Raley said. "Each decision we make has to be viewed as an opportunity to enhance economic development. We cannot rely solely on tourism to be our primary industry. We need to look at small business growth and growth in our population."

Other capital outlays include the purchase of Roads Department equipment and replacement windows for Southern High School.

The county's Five-Year Capital Plan shows funding for future infrastructure/building projects from FY '12 through '16. The major components of the plan include the planning and construction of a new detention center, BOE renovation and maintenance projects, and other major expenditures.

"The plan has been developed to be realistic and within affordability levels," the commissioners state in their budget message. "While the plan is not a guarantee of construction projects, it provides an idealistic approach if funding is available for such development. The key to future capital projects will involve public discussions and priority funding."

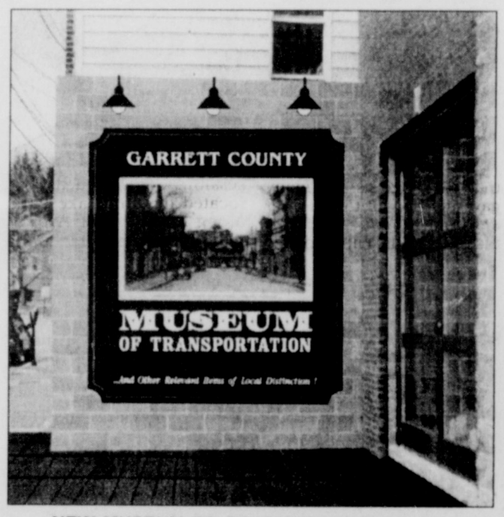
The FY '12 budget is available for viewing online at co.garrett.md.us.

The commissioners indicated that preparing the FY '13 budget may be even more difficult, given the state's economic woes.

"We're going to start July 1 [2011] talking about next year's budget, because we have to start looking at ways we're going to be able to fund that budget," Raley said.

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, June 21, at 4 p.m. at the courthouse in Oakland.

PARENT VOLUNTEER HONORED – Bette Gibbs of Garrett County has been presented with the JoAnne L. Carter Memorial Award in recognition of her parental involvement and work at Accident Elementary School. She was given the award at the fourth annual Comcast Parent Involvement Matters Awards program, held at North County High School in Glen Burnie on May 20. State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick and Comcast regional vice president of government affairs Donna Rattley Washington made the announcement. This award is given annually in honor of JoAnne L. Carter, deputy state superintendent for the Maryland State Department of Education, who died of cancer in 2009. A parent herself, Carter was a staunch advocate for parental involvement in education. The award is presented to a parent whose contributions exemplify Carter's ideals. A collaboration between Comcast and the Maryland State Department of Education, the Parent Involvement Matters program recognizes parents and guardians for their exceptional support of public education. Nominees were chosen for demonstrating a significant, positive impact in their communities across five areas: Communication, Volunteering, Learning, Decision Making, and Community Collaboration.



NEW MUSEUM TO BE TOPIC AT GCHS EVENT – The annual meeting and dinner of the Garrett County Historical Society will be held on Thursday, June 23, at the Bittinger fire hall, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The new transportation museum in Oakland, which is nearly complete, will be the topic of a report given by society president, Bob Boal. The sign above is being created by Domenick Signs, and will soon be installed. The baked steak dinner and dessert is $15 per person. All are invited. Reservations are required, and may be made by calling 301-334-3226.

Orders Study

greenhouse gas emissions, and economic impact. This report will be issued no later than August 1, 2014.

The study will also include a review of available results from studies on the issue being done by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Department of Interior, the U.S. Department of Energy, the state of New York, and the Delaware River Basin Commission, among others.

Membership in the advisory committee is designed to ensure that the study includes individuals from the drilling industry, persons from western Maryland where Marcellus shale reserves are located, and members of the environmental community. The advisory commission will include: an expert on geology or natural gas production from a college or university; a private citizen from western Maryland; representatives from the gas industry and an environmental organization; and representatives from western Maryland local governments and business.

"I applaud the governor and his administration for taking this step toward insuring that any drilling in Marcellus shale or the use of 'fracking' techniques in Maryland will be safe for our citizens," said Maggie McIntosh, chair of the Maryland House of Delegates' Environmental Matters Committee. "While I acknowledge that the extraction of natural gas is important to our state and country, we must also understand that oil and gas activities, including hydro-fracking, are exempt from many federal environmental laws. Experiences in nearby states have demonstrated that the Departments of Environment and Natural Resources and the legislature must set standards to protect our drinking water, land, and air when drilling in Marcellus shale."

"Fortunately, Maryland is taking the time to ensure that drilling occurs only after proper safeguards are in place," said Kim Coble, Maryland director of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation."Given that our drinking water and other natural resources are at risk, and given Pennsylvania's checkered experience with fracking, we applaud the governor for his leadership on this issue. Maryland has the opportunity to get it right."

The Marcellus shale is a geological formation that underlies a large area of the northeastern United States, including portions of western Maryland, and nearly all of Garrett County. It is believed to contain significant amounts of natural gas, which when burned to produce electricity produces lower greenhouse gas emissions than does burning oil and coal.

The production of natural gas from the Marcellus shale involves deep wells with long horizontal sections, and a process known as hydraulic fracturing. Advances in technology have helped spur a dramatic increase in the use of this process in the United States. Exploration for and production of natural gas from the Marcellus shale in nearby states have resulted in injuries, well blowouts, releases of fracturing fluids and methane, spills, fires, forest fragmentation, road damage, and evidence of contamination to groundwater and surface water. Other states have revised or are re-evaluating their regulatory programs for gas production or assessing the environmental impacts of gas development from the Marcellus shale.

State law allows MDE to specify conditions that the department deems reasonable and appropriate in a permit to ensure that an operation fully complies with the law and to provide for public safety and the protection of the state's natural resources. Maryland law requires that the proposed activity be subjected to a formal public review and comment process prior to any permit decision.

FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION SIGNED – The 7th annual Flag on Mountain Maryland will take place on Tuesday, June 14, at Wisp Resort, McHenry, at 6 p.m. The event is free to the public. The Flag on Mountain Maryland Foundation members were present as Garrett County commissioners recently signed the Flag Day Proclamation for the second year in a row. This commemorates the 61st anniversary of the start of the Korean War and the 66th and 36th year anniversaries of the ending of WWII and the Vietnam War. The anniversary of the official adoption of the American flag by the Continental Congress in 1777 is June 14, This year's program is a tribute to "Women of the Military." It will include visitation by Senior Judge Susan J. Crawford for Court of Appeals for he Armed Forces, the Maryland National Guard Mobile Vet Unit, as well as the presentation of the Living Flag, which will include a fly-over. Organizers are currently seeking volunteers for the Living Flag. Those interested in volunteering are asked to call Sandy Blamble at 301-334-4728 or Sandy Tasker at 301-334-5185. Persons who would like to make a donation to the event may send their tax-deductible contributions to Garrett County Marine Corps/FOMM, P.O. Box 292, Oakland, MD 21550. From left are Commissioner Bob Gatto, Jean Cheshire, Sandy Blamble, chairperson Sandy Tasker, Commissioner Gregan Crawford, Barbara Gaffney, Commissioner James Raley, and Cathy Menker.

Grantsville Man Arrested On DUI, DWI Charges

A Grantsville man was arrested Saturday by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on drinking and driving charges following a stop for speeding.

Deputies stopped a 2010 Dodge Ram truck on Garrett Highway, which led to the arrest of Christopher Paul Bennett. He is charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, driving while impaired, DUI while transporting a minor, and DWI while transporting a minor.

He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

DR. RUTH PEACHEY

Dr. Ruth Peachey, 86, died of natural causes on Sunday, May 8, 2011, at ECM Hospital in Florence, Ala.

She was born on January 2, 1925 near Springs, Pa., the fifth in a family of 10 children. After receiving a doctor of medicine, she practiced family medicine in Grantsville from 1955 to 1958. She continued her education and in 1962 received a master of science in psychiatry degree from Temple University in Philadelphia, Pa.

She worked as a senior research scientist at Eastern Pennsylvania Psychiatry Institute until 1966. She did individual and family psychotherapy, and throughout the years of her professional life, she conducted research on a variety of topics and published her work in medical journals.

Ruth was married to the late Rod Happel in 1965. She moved with her husband in 1970 to Sanibel Island and operated Caribe Adventure Inn for five years. She retired from medical practice in 1971. In 1976, she published The Peachey Sugarless Cookbook. She purchased rural acreage in Middle, Tenn., in 1988, where she built a passive solar home and rehabilitated the land. She became active in local citizens' groups, and wrote a column called "Peachey's Voice" in the Lawrence County Advocate for five years. In 1990, Ruth sold her farm, and bought a house in Florence, Ala., where she lived until she was admitted to the Florence Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in 2008.

Ruth, a determined person with a sense of justice, was a thinker, a writer, and a feminist who worked hard as an advocate for women in the South who had been abused.

Dr. Ruth Peachey is survived by four sisters and three brothers and 22 nieces and nephews.

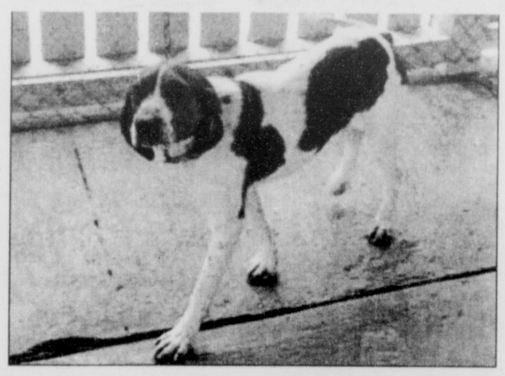
Adorable Adoptables



AT THE GARRETT COUNTY ANIMAL SHELTER this week, left to right, are a male husky mix, a male beagle mix, a female coonhound, and a young male black cat (below). These and other pets are available for adoption. "Last week's beagle mix was reclaimed, and several other pets were taken to rescues by HART, which made much needed space in both the dog and cat areas," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. "Please put your rabies tag or license on your pets so you can be contacted if they are found. Last week an indoor dog without tags was missing for days. After many days of worry and searching, the owner was finally contacted by someone who found the dog. If the dog had been wearing some kind of ID tag, its owner could have been contacted the day it was found, instead of days later. Also, please make sure your outside pets have both shade and fresh water to drink." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday. Photos courtesy of the GC Humane Society.

Registration forms may be picked up and dropped off at the Health Department, Room 206, and are due to the office by noon on June 13 for preregistration. The registration form is also available online at www.garretthealth.org.

Participants who bring completed forms to the event will be added until the registration limit is reached.

"Our goal is to continue to provide entertainment for local youth in an environment free of alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs," said Beach Blast organizer Venessa Stacy of the GCHD.

Those interested in further information may call 301-334-7730.

On Dean's List

Among the students of New River Community College, Dublin, Va., who were named to the dean's list for outstanding academic achievement during the spring semester was sophomore Bryan Hutton, a Swanton resident.

A student must earn a grade point average of at least 3.2 and be enrolled in at least 12 semester hours of credit in order to be named to the dean's list at New River CC.

The college is one of Virginia's 23 community colleges.

Financial Focus

Make the Right Moves with Inherited Stocks

When you inherit a sizable amount of stocks, your overall financial picture can change significantly. But to make the most of your inheritance, you need to decide what to do with your new stocks. Should you keep them or sell them?

Before you can answer this question, you need to review several factors, including the following:

• Diversification — You'll need to determine if an inherited stock adds to your overall portfolio diversification. Do you already have other, similar stocks in your portfolio? If so, you might want to sell the stock and use the money for a new investment opportunity. Conversely, if you don't own anything similar to the inherited stock, and it can help your diversify, it may well be worth keeping. While diversification, by itself, cannot guarantee a profit or protect against loss, it can help reduce the effects of market volatility.

• Fundamentals — It's a good idea to closely scrutinize any stocks you inherited. Do they represent companies with strong management teams, good track records and competitive products or services? Or, as is sometimes the case, did your benefactor simply keep these stocks because he or she had some type of attachment to them? You'll want to own quality stocks for the right reasons.

• Risk tolerance — An inherited stock may be either too aggressive or too conservative for your preferences. If the stock doesn't fit within your risk tolerance, sell it and buy an investment that does.

• Taxes — When you inherit stocks, they are generally valued at their market value on the day your benefactor died, not the date of the original purchase. For example, if you inherit stock that your father bought for $20 a share, and it's worth $75 a share on the day he dies, your "cost basis" would be $75 a share. If you sell the stock right away, you'll likely owe little or no income taxes. If the price of the inherited stock goes up before you sell it, you'll pay capital gains tax on the difference between $75 and the sale price, at a maximum rate of 15% (at least for 2011 and 2012), no matter how long you've held the stock. This is advantageous for you; typically, if you sell an appreciated stock that you've held less than a year, you'd have to pay capital gains taxes at your normal income tax rate.

If you inherit stocks as part of a traditional Individual Retirement Account (IRA), you'll probably have to pay taxes on withdrawals at your income tax rate. However, you may be able to spread withdrawals over your lifetime, which could result in more tax-deferred growth and a greater income stream. And if you inherit a Roth IRA, you won't have to pay income taxes on any withdrawals, provided the Roth IRA account has been open for at least five years.

If you need help in determining what to do with inherited stocks, consult with your financial advisor and tax professional. After all, you are acquiring an important asset — and you want to make this asset work for you.

MARCELLINE QUINTER

Marcelline Quinter, 78, went to be with the Lord on Sunday, May 29, 2011, at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Born Jan. 25, 1933, she was the last surviving of her parents' eight children.

She is survived by one daughter Deborah Goralski; and three grandchildren, Stephen, Michelle, and Kevin Goralski.

She watched many of her grandchildren's athletic events. At the baseball field, she would say, "I never know if I will get sunburn or frostbite!"

The family would like to thank all the friends she made in Garrett County. She was a witty, fun-loving, and beautiful woman, and was tough as nails. We will all miss her very much.

Her wish was that her body be donated to the Anatomy Gift Registry for science and education before being cremated.

There will be no funeral service.

A memoriam will be held at a later date.

4-H Club News

COUNTRY KIDS
by Anna Holtschneider, reporter

The May meeting of the Country Kids 4-H Club was held at the Deer Park Community Building on May 17. President Brianna Wagoner called the meeting to order. The pledges were led by Jeremy Hoalcraft and Megan DeBerry.

Bethany Rexroad gave the treasurer's report and Anna Holtschneider gave a report on the communication event and Maryland Day which was held at the University of Maryland.

Discussion followed on the district show and June weigh-in, which will be held on June 10 at the fairgrounds.

Members were reminded that they must complete the Quality Assurance training by July 31. The next meeting will be held on June 21 at 6 p.m. Members are asked to come to the next meeting with ideas for the fair booth.

OAKLAND OAK LEAVES

The most recent meeting of the Oakland Oak Leaves 4-H Club was held at the Southern Garrett Rescue hall on Thursday, April 14. The meeting was called to order at 6:20 p.m. by vice president Ingrid White.

The pledge of allegiance was led by Morgan White, while the 4-H pledge was led by Lauren Bishoff.

Others present at the meeting were Lexi Trickett, Sophie Bishoff, and Ashton Chapman.

Those in attendance observed a rabbit demonstration, a report on a sewing project, and a report of the 4-H Club tubing event with Garrett Count Livestock Association.

Aaron White then led the group on a tour of the ambulance before conducting a question-and-answer session.

The Oakland Oak Leaves' next meeting will be held at Broadford Park on Friday, June 10. A campfire-cookout presentation is planned for that meeting. Chapman will also join the club.

Those interested in joining the Oakland Oak Leaves 4-H Club may call 301-616-1098.

NORTH GLADE
by Jacki Markwood, reporter

During a recent meeting of the North Glade 4-H Club, new officers were installed. They were as follows: Warren Wright, president; Teroy Friend, vice president; Nicole McClosky, secretary; Megan Sherbin, treasurer; Hannah Gillispie, photographer; and Jacki Markwood, reporter.

Several members took Quality Asurance training at the Southern Middle School computer lab.

The group discussed having a steer clinic along with a small animal clinic and planned a trip to Flying W butcher shop.

Rachel Duggan gave a demonstration on how to groom a cat.

A 4-H building clean-up was held in May. Members were reminded of the animal health check, and that everyone with an animal project must complete Quality Assurance.

Club members will hold a small animal clinic this month, giving members a chance to do demonstrations.

Garrett Beachy gave a demonstration on the cuts of a market hog, and Zachary Evans gave a demonstration on the common and uncommon breeds of pigs.

Mentalist Jason Boone will entertain a Preston Community Arts Center audience with his "mind-reading" show on Friday, June 17, at 7:30 p.m. in Kingwood. Admission is $5 for adults and $2 for children.

"Jason entertains audiences with mind-reading demonstrations that have to be seen to be believed," said a center spokeswoman. "With nearly a decade of experience in studying magic, psychology, congames, and understanding old-fashioned intuition, he can tell most people what they are thinking: including names, dates, and places."

Boone describes his abilities as being "pseudo-psychic," which simply means he can give the appearance of psychic ability, without truly being psychic.

"Whether you're a believer or not, Jason's shows have the perfect mix of mystery, humor, and amazement to entertain any audience," the spokeswoman said.

In addition, an exhibition reception for Preston County artist Valerie Carlsen is scheduled prior to Boone's show at 6:30 p.m. at the center.

The Preston Community Arts Center is located 123 South Price Street. For more information, persons may call 304-329-6336.

Arthurdale Group To Hold Classes At Center Hall

Arthurdale Heritage Inc. will hold classes on creating greeting cards, watercolor painting, and crocheting during June at the historic Center Hall along Rt. 92 in Preston County.

The greeting card class will be held on Thursday, June 16, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. All supplies are included in the registration fee.

A class on backyard birds in watercolors will be held on Saturday, June 18, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

An all-levels crochet class is scheduled for Monday, June 20, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

In addition, the Quilt Guild will meet on June 20. Anyone is invited to join.

Class proceeds will benefit the preservation efforts for the nation's first New Deal homestead subsistence community championed by first lady Eleanor Roosevelt.

To preregister and/or obtain fee information about the classes, persons may call 304-864-3959 or e-mail ahi@arthurdaleheritage.org.

LIBRARY

Donating books, DVDs, videos, periodicals, puzzles, and games have been Katherine Sanders, Belinda Metheny, Carol Mills, Barbara Beerbower, Doug and Pat Auvil, Mary Hart, Nichole Stoll, Charles Voitelle, Dr. and Mrs. Steven White, Paula Shrout, and Ann Harris.

Terra Alta CEOS has its summer reading activity the first and third Wednesday of each month at 3:30 p.m. in the library. Books are read, stories told, crafts made, live activity, etc. The volunteers have their own set up for their special day, which is for children of all ages.

High school senior pictures are still in the library for the public to identify students. The class of 1936 and 1937 have been finished. There are still three classes of students that need more information on the classmates.

Summer Reading Program will begin June 13 and conclude July 22. Students must be signed up in the library by June 17 by a parent/guardian. All participants will be recognized at a party held in August. Only students who sign up will have the opportunity to check out the new books.

A quilt has been donated to the library with a few more rows needed finished. The quilt will be chanced off with proceeds used for the Summer Reading Program.

The library has trophies that have been housed for years of football, basketball, softball, baseball, cheerleading, and pictures. These will no longer have a home after two weeks. Letters have been mailed to coaches, officers, and players asking them to come in and give these items a new home. The public is welcome to come in to help with this process once the two-week period is up.

Children from birth to 5 years old are still able to register for the Dolly Parton Imagination Library. These books are free and mailed to the home. It takes approximately three minutes to register.

AURORA KIDS' CLUB STAYING ACTIVE – The Aurora Kids' Club has recently recognized the participants and winners of its most recent activities. Jeremy and Missy Skiles, Aurora, welcomed their third child and son, Levi Nathanial, on Wednesday, June 1. He was taken to Ruby Memorial Hospital shortly after birth for treatment of a bleeding ulcer in the esophagus. He weighed 6 lbs. .4 oz. and was 18 inches long. He joined two older brothers, Alex and Christopher. Maternal grandparents are Don and Neva Frantz, and Rose Ina Harsh is the maternal great-grandmother. Paternal grandparents are Stanley and Tammy Skiles, Oakland. Clarke and Betty Skiles, Oakland, are the paternal great-grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCullom, Louiseville, Ky., welcomed their first child, daughter Magdalena "Maggie" Claire, on Monday, June 6. She weighted 4 lb. 15 oz. Paternal grandparents are Paul and Rebecca McCollum, Scottsville, Ky. Paternal great-grandparents are Wayne and Norma McCollum, Kittanning, Pa., and Claude and Jean Winters, Eglon.

PERSONAL

Scott Sisler remains ill at his Aurora home, but seems to be making a bit of progress in strength.

Former pastor Dan Hummel and wife Sharon, Roaring Springs, Pa., were visitors of Troy and Ruby Judy this weekend. They also visited other friends in the Eglon area.

Pete and Suzanne Sizemore and Nell Dickenson, all of Richmond, Va., were visitors this week with Nell's brother and wife, Arvin and Rita Harsh, Eglon.

An overnight guest of Claude and Jean Winters, Eglon, on Sunday were Devaux Armentrout, Charleston. His wife, Geraldine, was unable to accompany him to her brother Quinter's funeral. Also visiting the Winters' home last week were their son and wife Carl and Nancy Winters, Mannassas, Va., who helped with the hay harvest.

Reid Martin, Fairmont, visited with his cousins, Shirley and Guy Beckman, Eglon, this week and visited friends of long ago.

Bonnie Winters had knee replacement surgery last week. Her sister-in-law, Lois Beckman, had a heart catheterization.

The Forman family, descendants of A.D. and Myrtle Forman, met for their annual reunion with a number of family showing up for dinner and afternoon fellowship. There were guests from Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, and Maryland.

Cruise-In Slated On Father's Day

A Father's Day cruise-in will be held on Sunday, June 19, at the Terra Alta Dairy Queen from 4 to 7 p.m.

Food, drinks, door prizes, a silent auction, and a 50/50 drawing will also be featured. Proceeds will benefit the Terra Alta Youth League.

Sponsored by East Preston Floral and the DQ, the rain date for the cruise-in will be July 4 at Terra Alta Park.

Kaitlyn Schalker Receives Degrees From A–B College

Kaitlyn Sara Schalker earned a bachelor of science degree in health science and an associate of science degree in natural science from Alderson–Broaddus College during the commencement ceremony on May 7 in Philippi. She graduated magna cum laude with a cumulative grade point average of 3.70.

While at A–B, Schalker received Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities honors, earned dean's list honors several times, was named to the president's list, was accepted into the Silver Key Society, and received the Sophomore Academic Award in 2009.

She was a sister in the Lambda Sigma Phi sorority, where she served as president for one semester; served on the Student Government Association as sophomore class vice president, junior class secretary, and senior class secretary; was a member of the national Leadership Society (Sigma Alpha Pi chapter); served as a Civil War battle tour guide; and was a member of the Hu C. Myers Society for physician's assistant students.

A native of Eglon, Schalker is the daughter of Marilyn Schalker and Brad Schmidt, Eglon, and Roland Schalker, Shrewsbury, Pa. She is the granddaughter of Troy and Ruby Judy, Eglon.

She graduated from Preston High School in 2007. Schalker is currently finishing a master of science degree in physician's assistant studies at Alderson–Broaddus.

Preston County History Day Set For Next Sunday

In conjunction with West Virginia Day on June 20, Preston County History Day will be celebrated on Sunday, June 19, at numerous historical sites around the county.

"The variety of historic interests provides an educational family outing in scenic surroundings," said an Arthurdale Heritage Inc. spokesperson.

Admission is charged at some sites. The times and locations will be as follows:

•Arthurdale Heritage, along Rt. 92, a five-building complex representing the New Deal's first subsistence homestead project, noon–4 p.m.

•James McGrew House, along Rt. 7, an 1831 home built by a prominent businessman involved in the formation of West Virginia, 1–3 p.m.

•Szilagyi Center, Rt. 72, Rowlesburg, features the World War II Museum, Preston County Sports Museum, B&O bridges exhibit, café, and shops, 11 a.m.–5 p.m.

•Terra Alta History House, 109 East Washington Street, with three floors of Preston County history exhibits, photos, and genealogy records, 1:30–4:30 p.m.

•Tunnelton Train Depot Museum, Boswell Street, the 1913 brick train station once operated by the B&O Railroad, 1–3 p.m.

A map of all the locations is available at arthurdaleheritage.org.

Future Preston County History Days will be observed on the third Sunday of each month through Sept. 18.

The Arts

Pianist Richard Shin To Be Next Performer At Penn Alps

Music at Penn Alps will host an appearance by Richard Shin, pianist, in the Great Hall at Penn Alps on Saturday, June 11. The young pianist is currently a ninth grader at the Gilman School in Baltimore.

Shin studied with Dr. Scott Beard of Shepherd University for the past three years, and studies with Yong Hi Moon of the Peabody Conservatory. He also studied with Betty Ann Hadidian of Cumberland for a number of years.

He has entered a number of competitions, winning prizes at the state, regional, national, and international levels. During the past two years, he has won the American Protégé Competition, leading to a performance in Carnegie Hall, MTNA Junior High Competition for the state of West Virginia, MTNA Senior High Competition for the state of Maryland, Viola Hartman Competition, Miriam Gottlieb Competition, and Siegel-Hoffman Concerto Competition. Shin made his orchestral debut performing the Grieg Piano Concerto with the Cumberland Symphony.

The pianist performed in Lincoln Center in 2010 as a semi-finalist, and one of the youngest competitors in the Tureck International Bach Competition. Last November, he was the youngest person to win the Maryland MTNA senior piano competition. He has also performed in master classes for such pianists as Awadagin Pratt, Peter Tackas, and Jack Winerock. He was selected to play in a Chopin Etude master class last March for Yoheved Kaplinsky, head of the piano department at Juilliard School.

Shin will play J.S. Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E flat Major; a sonata by Haydn; Scherzo No. 3, Op. 39, by Chopin; Beethoven's Sonata Op. 28, "Pastoral"; "Gargoyles," Op. 29, by L. Liebermann; "La Leggierezza" from Three Concert Etudes by Franz Liszt; and Liszt's Transcendental Etude No. 4, "Mazeppa."

Ticket prices are $12 for adults (a 10-pack is also available at $110). Students and children under 19 years of age are admitted free of charge. For program and ticket information, persons may call 301-895-5881.

Music at Penn Alps is supported in part by grants from the Naylor Family Trust, administered by the Community Trust Foundation of Western Maryland.

SHARING THE GIFT OF MUSIC – Miss Historic Maryland's Outstanding Teen Sara Zeng, Frostburg, recently visited Goodwill Mennonite Home to play piano for the residents. She received her crown at Garrett College last November, and has adopted homelessness awareness as her personal platform. She encourages her friends to volunteer to help others by being a leading example. She has worked in soup kitchens, taught jewelry making classes for teen mothers, and played the piano at shelter functions. She recently donated baby supplies to the Cumblerand YMCA and towels to another Cumberland shelter. She also recently sang the national anthem for Cindy's Fund at Herrington Manor State Park. "It is hard for me to imagine that there are children and families facing eviction or already without a place to live, but I know they exist," Zeng said. "In Maryland, there are over 12,000 homeless people, which is almost double those in D.C. or Virginia. With high unemployment, homes lost to foreclosure, and tight state budgets, non-profit organizations find it difficult to provide for all of those in need. It is more important than ever before that we help those without a place to call home."

Terra Alta Business Association To Present "The Swedish Nightingale"

JOANN PETERSON (AS JENNY LIND)

Kingwood, W.V., resident JoAnn Peterson, a presenter with the West Virginia Humanities Council History Alive! program, will portray European opera star Jenny Lind on Friday, July 8, at 7 p.m. at the Alpine Lake Lodge, located along Alpine Lake Road, which is off Rt. 7 near Terra Alta, W.Va.

Sponsored by the Greater Terra Alta Business Association, this first-person presentation is free and open to the public. The association will host a dinner buffet prior to the presentation at 6 p.m. for a ticket price of $20, in advance. To obtain dinner tickets, persons may contact any Terra Alta business or call 304-789-6000 to order by credit card.

A cash bar will be available, and a silent auction will also be held prior to the presentation.

"Come early for the social hour and to meet the board members of the Greater Terra Alta Business Association," said an event spokeswoman.

Lauded and befriended by kings and queens, Lind (1820–1887) was raised in foster care but became the first celebrity in America under P.T. Barnum's promotion, complete with product endorsements. More than 30,000 people awaited "the Swedish Nightingale" when she arrived in New York City, where her adventurous American tour began on Sept. 11, 1850.

Lind's admirers included Harriet Beecher Stowe, Queen Victoria, Emily Dickenson, Judge Roy Bean, and Hans Christian Andersen, who wrote "The Ugly Duckling" with Lind as his inspiration.

Acclaimed by Felix Mendelssohn as the most gifted artist of the century, Lind was also adored for her many charitable acts, and was the first woman memorialized in Westminster Abbey's Poets Corner. Peterson's portrayal humorously recalls Lind's American tour.

While Peterson is a seasoned actor and vocalist, the program is not a concert, but a first-person presentation. Peterson has performed at West Virginia Public Theatre, writes and directs murder mystery plays, and provides entertainment for groups and organizations. She is the owner of Mountaineer Country Tours, which arranges group tours to West Virginia.

The West Virginia Humanities Council created the History Alive! program as a means of exploring history by interacting directly with noteworthy historical characters. Each History Alive! presenter has conducted scholarly research on her character.

THE FABULOUS HUBCAPS will perform at the 34th annual Grantsville Days on Sunday, June 26, from 2 to 5 p.m. What began 36 years ago as "Harvey Hubcap and the Do Ron Ron" has evolved into the Fabulous Hubcaps, one of the nation's most sought-after oldies show bands. See story for details.

Grantsville Days Musical Schedule Released By Lions

The Grantsville Lions recently announced the all-new entertainment schedule for the 34th annual Grantsville Days celebration, which is scheduled for Friday, June 24, through Sunday, June 26.

The Fabulous Hubcaps will perform on Sunday, June 26, from 2 to 5 p.m. The group started out 36 years ago as "Harvey Hubcap and the Do Ron Ron," and evolved into the Fabulous Hubcaps, one of the nation's most sought-after oldies show bands.

On any given month, their schedule may take them from Miami to Pittsburgh, Atlanta to Detroit, and now to Grantsville.

In 2005, the group was inducted into the Southern Legends Entertainment and Performing Arts Hall of Fame.

Since their first 45 record in 1982, the Hubcaps have released 17 recordings, from cassette tapes to their most recent compact disc, Showtime is Next.

Performing together since 1974, the seven-piece band presents high energy tributes to original artists like Little Richard, Sonny & Cher, James Brown, Fats Domino, Ray Charles, the Shirelles, the Beach Boys, and Rod Stewart, among others.

With an extensive repertoire of do-wop group harmony, classic rock and roll, rockabilly, motown, and R&B music, the Fabulous Hubcaps are heralded as one of the best oldies show bands in the country, according to a spokesperson.

Also performing at Grantsville Days on Friday, June 24, at 8:30 p.m. will be the Channel Cats Blues Band. They have been performing party blues, soul, and rock and roll since the mid-1980s.

Coming to Grantsville Days for the first time will be Frankfort Middle School's Teal Steel Ensemble on Saturday, June 25, at 4 p.m. The ensemble has performed extensively throughout the area in recent years.

The Girlz in Black Hats will perform on Saturday, June 25, at 6:30 p.m. This group from southwestern Pennsylvania is not afraid to play "outside the box," according to a spokesperson. They are described as a "feel good, must-see show for all ages."

The bluegrass group Halftime String Band will appear on Saturday, June 25, at noon. From Morgantown, W.Va., the group is also performing this year at the Big Bear Lake 2x12 Mountain Bike Festival and Mountain Fest, Showshoe Mountain's Independence Celebration (opening for the Del McCoury Band), and at the Chestnut Ridge Concert Series in Morgantown.

For further information, persons may contact festival chairman Gerry Beachy at 301-895-5387 or e-mail gbeachy@verizon.net.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival To Mark 25th Anniversary With Reunion Concert

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival organization is 25 years old this summer, and a special returning-musician concert and benefit will take place to mark that milestone. The reunion and anniversary gala event will take place on June 24, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Lodge of Wisp Resort.

Special music will be performed by many of the original members of the Symphony at Deep Creek and the Deep Creek Chamber Players. Those scheduled to perform are Dale Stuckenbruck, violin, Heawon Kim Stuckenbruck, piano, Veronica Salas, viola, Rick Ostrovsky, bass, Kaori Sato Ostrovsky, soprano, and Michael Horton, tenor. They will present favorites by Kreisler, and Puccini, among other well-known composers. Food and drink will be served, and all proceeds will help to fund further programs presented by GLAF.

The arts organization was launched via a vision of a music festival in Garrett County. In December 1986, a group of Garrett County residents gathered to explore that vision and a related proposal from local resident Kathryn Sincell-Corwell and her friend, violinist Erick Friedman. The joint desire was to promote cultural and artistic activities in the county and to rekindle the Mountain Chautauqua spirit, once a hallmark of Garrett County life. A core of 22 citizens evolved from the originators, many of whom remained in leadership roles for many years.

To mount its first season, the organization needed

• 10 a.m. – Aquatic Adventure. Join the naturalist down by the shore to wade in knee-deep and learn about the animals that live in Deep Creek Lake.

• 2 p.m. – Aviary Encounter. Guests are invited to the aviary to see and learn about birds of prey. The birds will be perched, which will provide photo opportunities, so guests should bring cameras. A naturalist will be available to answer questions.

Monday, June 13

• 10:30 a.m. – Fishing with a Naturalist. Kids 7 and older are invited to meet on the shores of the Discovery Center for fishing basics. Poles, bait, and tackle are provided. The cost is $4 per person, and adults (16+) must have a license. Persons should pre-register as space is limited.

• 1 p.m. – Black Bears and You. Hikers invited for a walk along the Snakeroot Trail to learn all about bears. Persons should wear proper footwear for a rocky terrain. (Approx. 90 min.)

Tuesday, June 14

• 8 a.m. – Let's Go Birding. This early hour is the best time to hear and spot songbirds. Guests may join the naturalist for a walk around the park to learn how to identify many different species. Experienced and beginner birders are welcomed. All should bring binoculars and meet at the Discovery Center.

• 11 a.m. – Flutterbys and Flowers. Guests are invited to walk around the Discovery Center with the naturalist to learn the many species of wildflowers and butterflies found in the local area. Learn about the native plants these butterflies need and ways to improve their habitat. Edible and medicinal values of the plants will also be discussed.

• 1 p.m. – Where in the World am I? GPS Class. Guests may join the park ranger and get acquainted with a hand-held GPS unit. This hands-on class will teach the basics of the GPS unit as well as its other mapping capabilities. Participants may bring their own or borrow one from the center. (There are just five to lend, so persons should sign up early.) Free.

Wednesday, June 15

• 11 a.m. – Amphibian Adaptation. Meet at the Discovery Center to learn about amphibians and how they survive in their environment. Hear stories, do a craft, and then see and touch some resident creatures.

• 3:30 p.m. – Hide 'n' Track. Meet at the Discovery Center to learn about mammals found in the park. Guests may see and touch skins, skulls, and prints.

Thursday, June 16

• 11 a.m. – Reptiles Alive. Kids of all ages are invited to the Discovery Center for an afternoon of reptiles. Hear stories, learn interesting facts, and get the chance to see and touch resident creatures.

• 1:30 p.m. – Brant Mine Hike. Take a guided hike with the naturalist to the historic Brant Mine. Hikers will see the remnants of a coal mine that operated in the 1920s. Various forms of wildlife may be sighted on the way.

NEW GERMANY STATE PARK

The following activities have been scheduled at New Germany State Park, located at 349 Headquarters Lane, Grantsville. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. Further information can be obtained by calling the park office at 301-895-5453, sending an e-mail to parknewgermany@dnr.state.md.us, or by visiting the web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/newgermany.asp.

Friday, June 10

• 6:30 p.m. – Old-Time Jam. Musicians and spectators of all ages are invited to share traditional folk, bluegrass, and other "old-time" Appalachian music. The jam will take place at the New Germany Lake House. Admission is free, and refreshments and gift items will be available for purchase at the New Germany Snack Bar & Gift Shop.

Saturday, June 11

• 10 a.m. – Got Cavities? A dentist isn't needed for these cavities. Hike through the woods in search of bird and animal cavities, nests, and dens. Learn how various holes were created, and discover why cavities are an important part of a forest ecosystem. Hikers should dress for the weather (hiking boots recommended). All should meet at the Nature Center. (45 min.).

• 9 a.m. – Katie's 5K Race (& 1 Mile Walk/Run). This event, sponsored by the Queen City Striders, is an annual 5K race in memory of Katie DeRosa, a Cumberland area 13-year-old who was struck and killed by a speeding car while training for cross country. The race takes place on trails and roadways within New Germany State Park. Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. at the Lake House and the cost is $15. Proceeds sponsor two college scholarships in Katie's memory and other Queen City Striders' activities. For more information, persons may visit www.qcstriders.org.

• 1:30 p.m. – Jr. Ranger Program (Week 2). Children ages 7-14 are invited to participate in this 6-week program designed to encourage environmental stewardship and appreciation for natural and historical resources. The sessions are held from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. every Saturday through July 9 at the Nature Center. Jr. Rangers will receive patches upon completion, and will then have the opportunity to advance to higher levels, such as Naturalist, Explorer, Conservationist, and Guide. The Jr. Ranger program is limited to 15 participants and there is a $2 service charge. To register, persons should call 301-895-5453.

• 7:30 p.m. – Campfire Program: "Restoring the Mighty Giants." A program about the American chestnut tree will be offered by the park naturalist, covering issues like why this "mighty giant" was once so important to the Appalachian Mountains, what led to its demise, and what the future may hold for this struggling species. After the program, gather around the campfire to make s'mores. Meet at the Lake House.

Sunday, June 12

• 10 a.m. – Totally Trees. Guests are invited to join the park naturalist for a leisurely walk to learn about the many species of trees found in the park. The naturalist will provide some tips on how to identify trees by leaves and bark. Hikers should dress for the weather (hiking boots recommended). Meet at the Nature Center.

Nature Center open daily, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Can One Generation Learn From Another?

Guest Column by Fred Warther

Inspired by Larry King

Born in 1929, we are the generation that is as old as the first sound film, the iron lung, and synthetic rubber. We got here before Dick Tracy, unemployment insurance, nylon, or a $.25-an-hour guaranteed minimum wage.

When we were born, physicians and milkmen still made house calls, women didn't curse or have tattoos. Radio was the new craze. We would not have believed that scientists were tinkering with a future miracle called "television." We knew nothing of air conditioning and still "rang up central" on wooden box telephones.

Slightly too young for World War II, we bought Defense Savings stamps, conducted scrap metal drives, and wrote V-mail letters to our brothers or cousins overseas. We reflexively cheered a fierce patriotism and to our 48-star flag.

Now we are in our early 80's; grandparents and in some cases, great-grandparents. There is still some life in our bones even though our descendants presume us older than time. Perhaps we are qualified to look into the past, present, and to mull the future. What have we learned that might be worth passing on?

A Legacy of Hard Work

Our generation learned early on that there was no free lunch. In the midst of the Great Depression, which lasted from 1929 to 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt considered one-third of us to be ill-fed, ill-housed, ill-clothed, and (yes), illiterate.

As children we saw soup kitchens; jobless men hawking apples, pencils, ribbons, shoe laces, etc.; people coming to our door asking for food. Those who retained jobs worked for, in some cases, 50% of their 1929 wages. More than 5,000 banks failed.

My father owned a small Ben Franklin 5&10¢ Store. We lived in a one-bedroom apartment (four of us) above the store. My father worked 8 long hours, seven days a week. We had no employees. If he wanted to eat lunch or go to the bathroom, my mother came down to the store.

I'll never forget how hard both of them worked. Especially Mother. In those days, there was no diaper service or throw-away diapers. You boiled them in scalding water after cleaning them. There was no processed baby food. You cooked and strained fruits and vegetables. No refrigerators. The iceman climbed up the stairs twice a week and mother would drain the ice box before it smelled.

We had no air-conditioning. In Washington, D.C., the summers were extremely hot. Our one bedroom had one window. Dad put a small electric fan in the window at night, opened the bedroom door, and tried to pull air from an open window in the next room. We lived near Washington's Union Station, and at night, lying in bed, we could hear the puffing of the steam engines, arriving or leaving the city.

Each generation is truly shaped by its own experience. Dad was born in 1899 in Washington. Mom was born in 1903 in Baltimore. My parents were born before there was an aviation industry, and communications relied on the telegraph and a slowly developing telephone and radio industry. Neither graduated from high school. Both parents had to work to help support their families.

New Generations, New Problems

Today our society is much more complex than what it used to be: overcrowded in the cities, a decline in natural resources. An accelerating divorce rate. Now we have struggling single-parent homes, babies born out of wedlock, unmarried teens who quit school and are unskilled, who accept idleness and the dole in preference to work. Rapidly expanding technologies have proven a mixed blessing, outstripping the abilities of many to comprehend or to usefully apply them. We are no longer superior in world trade, heavy industry, or manufacturing. We have evolved into an entitled economy and a no-holds-barred society, taking an ever-larger bite out of our national budget. We have done much to put everyone on an equal playing field, but do we not have the right to expect the players to give their best, rather than sit on the sidelines and demand more?

For all our historic warts and human mistakes, we have known proud and noble moments. In fact, along with some basic American instinct, give me the hope that the present generation of leaders and parents will again find the will and steel to conquer, overcome, and then pass it on.

SPORTS

Registration Still Open For Laker Basketball Camps

Registration is still open for the annual Garrett Laker Basketball Camps, and will be accepted until next Monday, June 13, at 9 a.m., when the first session is scheduled to begin.

Two sessions will be held in June. The week of June 13-16 is designed for boys and girls entering 5th through 10th grades. Activities will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m. The cost is $60 per participant.

The second session, slated to run the week of June 20-23, is for boys and girls entering the 1st through 4th grades. Students in 5th and 6th grades may apply only if they are beginners. The fee for this session is $30 per participant. No lunch will be available for week of June 20-23.

"The major emphasis of our camp is to give grade school and high school basketball players the opportunity to learn new skills and experience teaching methods used by college coaches, area high school coaches, and college players," said GC head coach and camp director Dennis Gibson. "Our objective as a camp is to teach offensive and defensive fundamentals in a team concept. One of our foremost objectives is for all participants to enjoy a fun and hard working atmosphere."

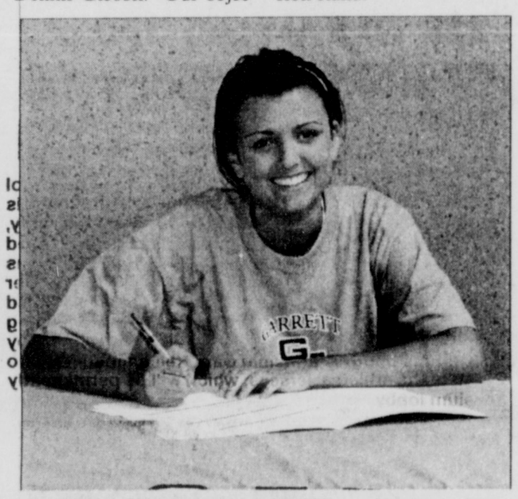
Among the highlights of the camps will be the free-throw ladder, team championships, 3-on-3 championships, and 1-on-1 championships. Every camper will receive a T-shirt.

To register and/or obtain more information about the camps, persons may contact Coach Gibson at 301-387-3051 or by e-mail at dennis.gibson@garrettcollege.edu.

Northern Boys Soccer Meeting Set For June 13

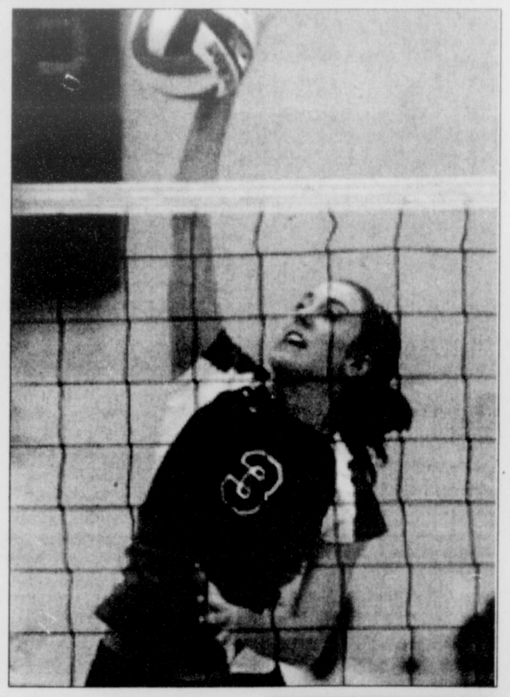
An organizational meeting for the Northern Garrett boys' soccer team players and parents will be held on Monday, June 13, at 7 p.m. at the high school stadium.

Anyone wishing to participate in soccer next fall must attend the meeting. Items of discussion will include board of education requirements; team expectations; the role of coaches, parents, and players; and the concession stand.



STEM SIGNS WITH LAKERS – Southern High School girls' basketball head coach Dan Bosley describes Mariah Stem as "one of the best pure shooters in the area." The 2011 SHS grad has signed a letter of intent to play for the Garrett College Lakers, as did her brother Jeff Stem. "Mariah is a deceivingly good defender, understands the game very well, and will be a great fit for Garrett." Bosley added. The GC women's basketball team looks to build upon last year with the addition of Stem, according to Shawn Noel, director of athletics, who said, "I am excited that Mariah has chosen to continue her education and playing career at Garrett College."

Local Standout Nominated For NCAA Woman Of The Year Award



Frostburg State University senior volleyball and tennis standout Sarah Stephens, a former standout at Southern High School, was selected by the Capital Athletic Conference Directors of Athletics as a 2011 NCAA Woman of the Year program candidate.

Stephens is one of more than 400 nominees from all three NCAA divisions of colleges and universities for the 21st annual NCAA Woman of the Year Award, which honors senior student-athletes who have distinguished themselves throughout their collegiate careers in the areas of academic achievement, athletics excellence, service, and leadership.

To be eligible for the award, female student-athletes must have completed intercollegiate eligibility in their primary sport as of the end of the 2011 spring season, graduated no later than the end of the 2011 summer term, and achieved a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.5.

Stephens graduated from FSU in May with a bachelor's degree in business administration. She achieved a 3.96 cumulative grade point average and was on the FSU dean's list for eight consecutive semesters. She was also named a College Sports Information Directors of America Academic All-American last fall and was inducted into Beta Gamma Sigma Business Honor Society in 2009.

On the volleyball court, Stephens received an American Volleyball Coaches Association All-American Honorable Mention and was named Capital Athletic Conference Player of the Year in FSU's first season in the conference.

Stephens led the Bobcats and the conference in kills during her senior campaign and ranks third all-time in Frostburg State history in kills (1,653), and is sixth in digs (1,195) and ninth in service aces (156).

Stephens wrapped up her collegiate career by being named Frostburg State University's Female Athlete of the Year for the 2010-11 season.

Among her numerous service and leadership contributions, Stephens volunteered her time at the Frostburg Nursing Home, the Cumberland Zoo, and the Salvation Army. She also served as a student tutor, an alumni ambassador, and as member of the Alcohol Task Force Committee.

An NCAA committee will select a group of 10 semifinalists from each of the three divisions and announce those selections in August. The three finalists from each division will be announced in September. The national winner, selected from the nine divisional finalists, will be announced at the NCAA Woman of the Year Awards Dinner in Indianapolis in October.

Women Golfers Report Results

The Oakland Women's Golf Association hosted flight play last Thursday, with winners of the First Flight being Cathy Sloan with low gross of 94 and June Bray with low net of 73.

Second-Flight winners were Sherry Grant with low gross of 95 and Debbie Weissgerber with low net of 69. Sandy Bello carded a 105 to win low gross in the Third Flight, while Pat Filsinger and Mary Ann Moran tied for low net with 76s. The Fourth Flight was won by Barb Levin with a low gross of 112 and Pam Trydahl with low net of 74.

The closest-to-the-pin winner for the AB players was Sherry Grant, and for the CD players, Sue Bredel. The low-putt contest was won by June Bray.

In a correction for the previous week results for the game of Disaster, the Third Flight was won by Pat Filsinger, with Sue Bredel finishing second.

Groups Participating: July 18-22, 2011 (ages 8 thru 11 boys and girls)

What is Badges for Baseball?

When fully implemented, Badges for Baseball is a multi-faceted mentoring program that brings the tenets of "The Ripken Way" to young people through a variety of programs, including Healthy Choices, and baseball/softball themed activities. Most importantly, law enforcement mentors work directly with youth to enhance the lessons of "The Ripken Way" while providing young people with new opportunities to learn, grow, and make positive choices for their future.

Students will be bussed from Northern and Southern High School parking lots at 8:30 am to Garrett Community College. At the end of each day students will be bussed back to the high schools for parental pick-up at 4:00pm. Lunches will be provided for the kids. We will also provide baseball gear and a tee shirt, however if your child has their own helmet and glove they must bring them. At the end of the camp, three students will be selected to attend a week long Cal Ripken Sr. baseball academy in Aberdeen, MD during the fall of this year at no expense to the child who will be accompanied by a law enforcement chaperone

First United To Sponsor Annual Golf Tournament

First United Bank & Trust will sponsor the 23rd annual Charity Golf Tournament and Banquet at the Oakland Golf Club on Friday, July 8. This is the 13th year that the bank has organized this event.

The tournament has become a local tradition during the past 22 years and has raised more than $353,713 for Garrett County charities and projects.

This year, the recipient of tournament proceeds will be United Way of Garrett County. Established in January 2000, the agency provides much-need funds to area charities.

"This year, more than ever, the First United Golf Tournament will assist the United Way of Garrett County in providing services to individuals who have never before had to ask for help," said Frank Shap, chair of the Community Response Committee for United Way. "We are faced with finding ways to care for families and their basic needs. Simply stated, your participation in the tournament will allow United Way and our community partners to help families get back on their feet in time of crisis.

"More specifically, you will help our kids be ready to learn and stay in school, and you will help provide life-saving medications to ensure a healthier lifestyle, just to mention a few of our critical services," Shap added.

Golfers will compete for team prizes redeemable at the Oakland Golf Club Pro Shop. First-place low net and low gross teams will each receive $1,000 gift certificates. The second-place low net and low gross teams will each receive $650 gift certificates; the third-place low net team will receive a $400 gift certificate; the fourth-place low net team will receive a $200 gift certificate; and the fifth-place low net team will receive a $100 gift certificate.

First United also invites all professionals, businesses, and individuals who wish to support the charity event without participating in the tournament to register as a "Premier Sponsor" or an Associate Sponsor."

Premier Sponsors receive four tickets to the banquet and awards ceremony (held immediately following the tournament), recognition on prominently displayed signage the day of the event, special mention in each golfer's packet, radio acknowledgment two weeks following the event, company name on a banner at the golf luncheon, and a "thank-you" ad in the newspaper.

Associate sponsors receive two tickets to the banquet and awards ceremony. They will also receive recognition on prominently displayed signs on the day of the event and through a "thank-you" ad following the tournament.

Anyone interested in becoming a sponsor is asked to call Janet Marsh at 301-533-2420.

Saturday Results

Team One used an eight-run third to take care of the majority of its scoring in its win over Frostburg First United, which spread its runs out thinner, in a game that ended in a 14-14 tie.

Also on Saturday, Cork's Cars smashed Hobo's 14-3 in five innings at Holler field.

Team One got a 4-for-5 performance from Flanigan, a double and tow singles from Haskiell, and two singles each from Holler and Derek Hinebaugh.

David Cotton hit a triple, double, and two singles to lead Frostburg. Alberto Cisneros has a double and a single, and T.J. Watkins had two singles as Frostburg totaled 10 hits as a team.

For Cork's Cars, Chapman drove in five runs and produced a hit in all four of his at-bats, while also throwing four innings as the starting pitcher in the win.

Chapman used a double and three singles to collect the five RBI, and allowed two runs in his time on the mound. Colin Lewis had a single, four runs scored, and tow stolen bases.

Cork's scored four runs in the first inning and led 6-2 after two innings. A seven-run third made it 13-2.

M.J. Messenger tripled for Hobo's.

NHS JERSEYS OFFICIALLY RETIRED – Two outstanding Northern High School athletes were honored by having their jerseys retired. Adria Graham, 2010 graduate, is shown holding her #5 soccer jersey. She currently attends Frostburg State University, where she is a member of the FSU soccer team. While at Northern, Graham was named All Area Offensive Player of the Year for three consecutive years and broke numerous school and area scoring records. Kaitlynn Fratz, 2011 graduate, is shown holding her #11 basketball jersey. Fratz was named to the All Area First Team for four years and was named as All Area Player of the Year during her junior and senior years. During her career, she has set the Garrett County scoring record for both boys and girls by scoring 2,103 points. In the center of the photo is principal Gary Reichenbecher, who officially announced the retirement of the athletes' jerseys, which will be permanently displayed in the school's gymnasium lobby.

THE DOUG CAREY MEMORIAL AWARD is presented annually at Northern High School to the member of the wrestling team who demonstrates outstanding leadership and dedication, both on and off the wrestling mat. Pictured is this year's winner Ryan Doerr.

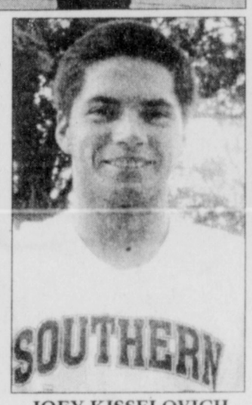
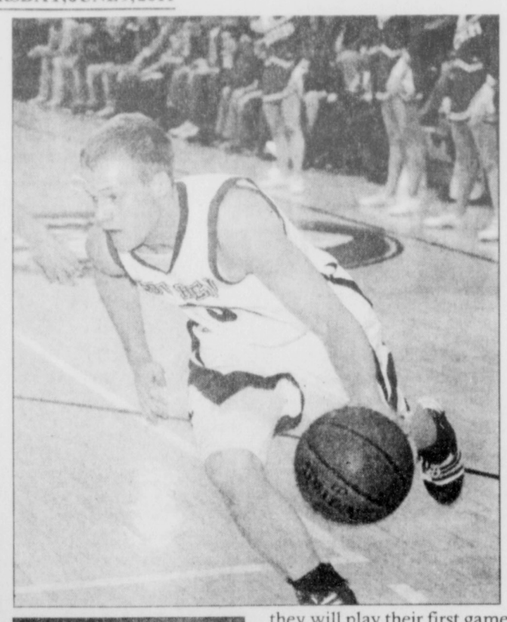
Ram Hoopsters Named To Select Team In Europe

Joey Kisselovich and Calvin Hilliard, who recently completed their senior season as members of the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team, have been named members of the Sky High European Select Team.

This squad comprises high school seniors from all over the nation, and the players are selected by Dewey Burke, based upon their excellent character and solid basketball fundamentals.



JOEY KISSELOVICH



CALVIN HILLIARD

Dewey Burke is a 2007 graduate of the University of North Carolina, where he played four years for the Tar Heels. He is one of only seven players in North Carolina history to twice win the Foy Roberson Award as the Most Inspirational Player, determined by a vote of coaches and players.

This is the second year of the Dewey European Select Team. Last year the team traveled to Germany and Belgium, finishing undefeated with a 5-0 record. This year the team is traveling to Spain from June 25 to July 3. After practicing in Barcelona, they will play their first game on June 28 in Santa Susanna, which is located on the northern coast of Spain.

Subsequent games will be played in Calella, Blanes, and Santa Coloma de Farners. The final game will be simulcast online so people in the U.S. will be able to watch. The games will be played against top-quality Spanish teams that are still in season. Spanish professional coaches will be on site scouting the games.

Tuesday Results

The Grantsville Wildcats held a 5-3 lead early, but were outscored 9-0 over the final 4⅓ innings in their loss to the Cresaptown Eagles, 12-5, on Tuesday in Bel Air.

Also on Tuesday, Brian Wildman tossed a five-inning, one-hit shutout with six strikeouts and no walks to lead Madigan's Auto past Greg's Auto, 10-0, at Flintsone.

The third local Hot Stove team to play on Tuesday was Team One, which suffered a three-run defeat to Stewart, Barr, & Thorne in a high scoring, 16-13, game.

Jason Ritchie and Logan White doubled and singled, while Meshach Metz singled twice for Grantsville.

Austin Murray and Michael Barton had two singles each to lead the Eagles' 10-hit offensive onslaught.

Grantsville will play Bedford at Jim Holler Field on Saturday at 6 p.m.

In the Madigan's away game, Shawn Shahan hit three singles and knocked in two runs, while Scott Cooper smacked two doubles and knocked in a pair of runs as well for Madigan's, which led 9-0 after three innings of play. Teammate Ryan Wilburn added an RBI single.

Joshua Elliott doubled to account for the only hit for Greg's.

Madigan's is scheduled to face Cumberland Rotary on Tuesday at 6 p.m. Madigan's will visit Jim Holler Field for that game.

Wil! Schoonover hit a grand slam and a pair of doubles and knocked in six runs as SB&T won a five-inning slugfest with Team One at Broadford Park.

Austin Williams doubled, singled twice and had two RBI, Byron Dolly doubled and singled, Mitch Martin singled twice and scored three times, and Joe McNeill doubled for SB&T.

Holler hit a two-run homer and a single and had three RBI for Team One. Haskiell had three singles and scored three runs, Hinebaugh doubled and singled, and Justyce Fulmer and Flanigan singled twice. Flanigan scored three runs in the loss.

The game was shortened to five innings by the league curfew. SB&T led after three innings.

Team One will journey to Jim Holler Field tonight to face KMK Insurance. That game is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m.

Grantsville Goes 1-For-2 To Open Its American Legion Baseball Season

Cody Humbertson belted a pair of home runs and Grantsville Post 214 shellacked Preston Post 56, 16-2, in its American Legion baseball season opener in Kingwood, W.Va. The team then lost on the road to undefeated Fort Cumberland Post 13, 6-3.

Humbertson hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning and a solo shot in the seventh. He also had a single to lead Grantsville's 11-hit attack.

Corey Helbig hit a two-run homer and knocked in three runs, Andy Umbel had two singles and an RBI, Logan Stewart and Nathan King hit two-run singles and Jared Fike a double.

Grantsville led 9-0 after a seven-run fourth inning and ended the game with a six-run eighth.

Winning pitcher Dylan Miller and relievers King and Steven Holtschneider teamed for a three-hitter. Miller had four strikeouts and King had eight.

Following the win, Grantsville then played Fort Cumberland on Tuesday at Legion Field. Cumberland's Aaron Lehman hit a three-run home run with two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning to break a tie and send Grantsville home with the loss.

Cumberland starter Jeff Conley pitched a compete four-hit game, striking out 17 and walking two Grantsville batters.

Two of the hits Conley surrendered, however, were home runs by Grantsville's Helbig, who hit a two-run shot in the fourth to provide a 2-0 lead for Post 214, and a solo homer in the top of the eighth to tie the score.

Cumberland took a 3-2 lead in the bottom of the fourth when Connor O'Rourke finished with a pair of singles, while Conley also hit a double to account for the three scored runs.

Oakland Oaks Swept By T-S Titans In Pen-Mar League Season Opener

The Oakland Oaks of the Pen-Mar Baseball League did not get their 2011 campaign off to a positive start on Saturday, as they were swept in a doubleheader by the Tri-State Titans, 6-1 and 10-5, at Garrett College.

Despite recording eight hits in the first game against the Titans' Brian Powell, the Oaks managed just one run in the bottom of the second inning via an RBI single by Greg Beachy.

Corey Helbig paced the Oaks at the plate by going 3-for-4.

The Titan offensive effort was led by Matt Wright, who was 3-for-3 with one RBI, Powell with two singles, and Justin Jenkins with a run-producing double.

Greg Beachy took the loss on the mound. Reliever Jeremy Shingler had a strong showing, as he struck out five batters in the final two innings.

Chris Stein was the winning pitcher in the second game, recording eight strikeouts and allowing eight hits in going the distance.

Sean Collette finished with a double and two singles, drove in one run, and scored a pair to lead the Titans' eight-hit effort, while Josh Barrett plated three runs with a double and a single, and Drew O'Neal provided a double and a single for one RBI.

Tommie Reams hit a double and a single for the Oaks, which yielded two RBI, and he also scored twice. Beachy also hit a double and a single for one RBI, and also scored once.

The Oaks held a 2-0 lead with a pair of runs in the first inning, and were up 2-1 going into the fifth, but that's when the Titans put four runs on the board to take the lead for good. Oakland rallied for two runs in the bottom of the fifth to cut the margin to one, but the Titans responded with five runs in the sixth to put the game away.

The Oaks will try to get into the win column this Saturday when they host West Virginia Powerhouse at Garrett College, with the first game slated to begin at 1 p.m.

Local Planning Groups Sponsor Fishing Rodeo

Community planning groups have recently sponsored fishing rodeos as a way of strengthening family ties and to promote drug and alcohol free activities. The events were sponsored by the Kitzmiller Empowerment Group, the Garrett County Health Department, and the Department of Natural Resources.

One of the fishing rodeo events was held in Kitzmiller by Kitzmiller Empowerment Group. The 46 participants of the event had a chance to receive prizes for the first fish caught during the evening, the largest fish caught, and the most fish caught for each age group.

The Grantsville Involvement Group held their annual fishing rodeo at the pond in Grantsville Park. There were about 125 participants who took advantage of the sunny weather. Children age 3 to 16 fished for free. Each child was allowed to catch five fish. They could keep the fish, give them away, or throw them back into the pond. Parents could cast the line, but kids had to reel in the fish to qualify for prizes. Each child was given a reward purchased with funds donated by Jim Bone of Frostburg.

The Accident Community Planning Group, in partnership with the Wild Turkey Federation, held its fishing rodeo at the town pond in Accident. More than 130 people participated.

The Wild Turkey Federation offered a JAKES (Juniors Acquiring Knowledge, Ethics and Sportsmanship) membership to each child, gave out turkey calls, and provided door prizes, pizza, and drinks.

Activities of community planning groups are supported in part by funds from the Garrett County Health Department to promote healthy living and prevent risky behaviors.

Those interested in further information may call the Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

35 Test Their Mettle At Race Up The Face

Thirty-five racers turned out Monday evening to contend with gravity and each other in the "world's hardest 400 meter run" known as the Race Up the Face. The race, a run up the Black-Diamond ski slope at the Wisp Resort, began as a very close contest, but thinned out during the last 200 meters. In the last 100 meters of the race, contestants ascended 124 feet. There was a tight race for the first three spots, with Eric Maxin posting the fastest time this year of 4:33, beating out Lex Ozias and Mike McConnell to the finish line. There was also a close race among female competitors, with Whitney Sloan posting a time of 5:32 to beat out Rebecca Flinn for top honors.

The age of competitors ranged from 6-year-old Drew Hordubay to 82-year-old Paul Shogren.

"I'm glad I did it and I look forward to next year when I modify my shoes," Shogren commented.

"The standard is to complete the race, rather than trying to win," stated Bob Stephens, race director.

"We were thrilled once again that all of our participants arrived at the top and were smiling once they had a chance to catch their breath."

At the end of the race the participants were awarded with a bumper sticker that reads "I survived the Race Up the Face."

Race results: Eric Maxin, 4:33; Lex Ozias, 4:39; Mike McConnell, 4:47; Zac Cupler, 5:02; Eric Lapp, 5:08; Matt Sloan, 5:19; Whitney Sloan, 5:32; Rebecca Flinn, 5:56; Mike Kozier, 5:58; Adam Getty, 5:59; Scott Richardson, 6:06; Sarah Cosner, 6:13; Tina Crabtree, 6:22; Randy Crabtree; 6:25, Bob Stephens, 6:26; Mason Hordubay, 6:46; Sue Messenger, 6:50; Sarah Myers, 6:55; Meghan Flinn, 6:56; Jennifer Cosner, 6:57; Jamie Friend, 7:29; Jessica Zimmerman, 7:30; Tracy Behr, 7:39; Grant Getty, 7:45; Bill Pope, 8:18; Matt Zimmerman, 8:37; Drew Hordubay, 9:00; Aaron Hordubay, 9:00; Rachel Flinn, 9:23; Abe Getty, 9:26; Katie Lantz, 12:52; Abbie Getty, 13:47; Bob Carney, 14:26; Mary Callis, 14:28; and Paul Shogren, 17:56.

Garrett County Leads State In Turkey Harvest

Hunters reported taking a total of 2,826 wild turkeys during the 2011 spring turkey season, nearly unchanged from the 2010 harvest of 2,847, according to a release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Garrett County led the state in the harvest, with 339 birds reported. Allegany County followed with 287, Washington County reported 285, Charles placed fourth with 222, Dorchester reported 210, and Worcester County had a harvest of 191.

The 2011 harvest is similar to the 10-year average of 2,902 birds, indicating Maryland's turkey population remains healthy, according to the DNR. Some counties noticed slight declines in harvest while others observed increases – these normal variations are likely because of local differences in reproductive success rates. Young gobblers, called jakes, composed 29 percent of the harvest this spring. This is very close to the long-term average and in agreement with data from the DNR turkey brood surveys conducted last summer.

Two notable regulation changes took effect this spring. Hunting was permitted until sunset during the last two weeks of the season to increase hunter opportunity and minimize the potential impacts of additional hunting pressure. Hunting was also allowed on one Sunday in May in Allegany and Garrett counties only, which resulted in a harvest of 16 turkeys.

"The addition of all-day turkey hunting seems to have met our expectations," said Bob Long, DNR's upland game bird biologist. "Some hunters took advantage of the extended hours and were successful, but all-day hunting did not result in a significantly higher harvest."

Reports indicate that 24 percent of the harvest occurred during the period in which all-day hunting was permitted. This is nearly identical to the percentage of turkeys (23 percent) taken during the last two weeks of the season over the past five years when shooting hours ended at noon. Additional surveys will be conducted in the future to improve estimates of hunter participation and success in the afternoon.

Local Student Receives FSU Master's Degree

Monica Rounds of Accident recently received a master of education degree from Frostburg State University. She is the daughter of Terry and Shirley Rounds.

Rounds, who studied psychology as an undergraduate, is a member of the Psi Chi National Honor Society, as well as Generation Investigating God, a faith-based social group.

While attending FSU, Rounds was employed at the Dove Center, where she helped adults and children who have suffered domestic and sexual abuse, as well as the homeless.

Rounds also served as an intern at schools in Garrett and Allegany counties. She has expressed her gratitude to Fort Hill High School, Southern Middle School, and Friendsville, Route 40, and Grantsville elementary schools for her internship experience.

Throughout her time in college, Rounds maintained a 4.0 grade point average resources, and community support was sought. In presenting its case to the community, GLAF articulated three missions: to present a diversified program of cultural entertainment suitable for families at a price Garrett Countians could afford; to preserve and perpetuate local culture; and to offer programs to enhance Garrett County's attractiveness to tourists.

Forty-three founders came forward, contributing $500 or more each to support the organization's mission. In the summer of 1987 GLAF premiered its first season.

"It's hard to believe that 25 years have passed since Erick Friedman and I first started creating something that was a dream for us," Sincell-Corwell said. "It was always a good bit of hard work to put together, but when the musicians would arrive and the rehearsals would start, the music would just float around the college auditorium and out into the halls. And I would be floating on top of it. It was very special for me to be in a position where I had the talented friends and other hardworking people who made it all come together. It will be very sweet for me to hear some of this music performed by these special people once again."

Friedman, an internationally renowned violinist, died in 2004 after a brief bout with cancer. Sincell-Corwell resides in Clear Spring with her husband Neal. She is a vocal and piano teacher.

During the formative years of the organization, several relationships were instrumental in making GLAF possible. Garrett Community College, now known as Garrett College, acted as a major sponsoring agency enabling GLAF to obtain grant funding through the Maryland State Arts Council and the Maryland Humanities Council, providing GLAF with an administrative support system, and affording GLAF modest but affordable facilities. Additional monetary support from the Garrett County Arts Council and the local community allowed Garrett County to realize a significant increase in funding for the arts and cultural programming.

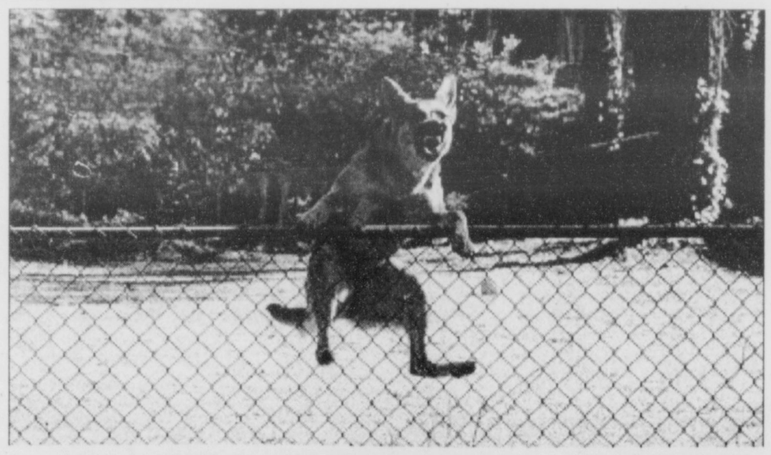
GLAF established its own corporate identity in the state of Maryland in the fall of 1988. A seven-member board of directors was elected, and more than 100 volunteers contributed to the success of the summer season, according to a spokesperson.

In 1992, the position of a paid executive director was created by the board of directors. Today, a 15-member board operates the season on a volunteer basis.

GLAF is now the largest presenter of performing arts and arts education in Garrett County. Performing artists and ensembles of local, national, and international acclaim appear in the season from March through October. A keystone of the series now is the annual appearance of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, which performs two concerts at Wisp Resort each July.

Arts education opportunities for the county youth have grown to include summer workshops in a variety of the arts, and special school performances by the season's artists.

Tickets to the 25th anniversary concert and celebration, which are $60, can be obtained by calling GLAF at 301-387-3082, or by going to the web site at www.artsandentertainment.org.



SPRUCE FOREST TO HOST DINNER TIME TALK ON PET CONTAINMENT – Spruce Forest Artisan Village will host the fifth installment of a series of Thursday evening Dinner Time Talks at 6 p.m. on June 16 at Penn Alps Restaurant in Grantsville. Deb Clatterbuck, investigator for the Garrett County Humane Society, will give a presentation titled "Pets, Livestock, and Containment Issues: Legality, Methods, and Needs in Rural Areas." According to a Spruce Forest spokesperson, rural residents seldom agree on whether or not pets should be contained by fencing. Some argue that animals should have the freedom to roam, while others contend that safety considerations should trump idealistic views of free-ranging animals. As the above photo suggests, however, some animals may need to be contained. Clatterbuck's talk will address local laws and ordinances governing the containment of pets and livestock. Clatterbuck will also bring along a service dog that will demonstrate the ways specially trained dogs help humans with special needs. For more information about the lecture one may call 301-687-3124 or 301-895-3332.

SUMMER SCHOOL PROGRAM

Southern High School will be offering a summer school program to assist students who are having difficulty passing a High School Assessment course and/or a High School Assessment. All students must pass assessments in biology, English, and algebra/data analysis to be eligible to graduate. HSA summer school program dates: Monday through Friday, July 5-25, 9 a.m. to noon.

High School Assessments will be administered on the last scheduled day of summer school (June 25). Students attending summer school are required to take the assessment.

There is an opportunity to earn credit recovery for English II, integrated algebra, and biology through completion of course work and a proficient score on HSA exams.

Students will be assigned to courses in their individual areas of need.

One may call Mrs. Henline at 301-334-9447 with any questions or concerns about the summer school program or individual status concerning these graduation requirements.

Farming On The Mountaintop

GC Dairy Farmers Visit Capitol Hill, Meet Legislators

Terry and Jill Hauser, Dairy Farmers of America Inc. (DFA) Young Cooperators (YCs) from Oakland, were among more than 65 DFA YCs and board members who recently visited Capitol Hill to discuss issues affecting the dairy industry.

DFA members and staff convened in Washington, D.C., for the cooperative's annual D.C. board meeting and Hill visits, where they conducted more than 175 visits with legislators.

The Hausers met with Rep. Roscoe Barltett (R–Md.) and his staff and the staffs of Sens. Barbara Mikulski (D–Md.) and Bejamin Cardin (D–Md.).

This year marked the first time YCs attended DFA's Washington, D.C., board meeting. The experience provided the cooperative's young leaders with an opportunity to learn more about the legislative process, interact with DFA's farmer leaders, and visit with congressional representatives to discuss agricultural and dairy policies that impact their livelihoods.

"It is vitally important that dairy farmers voice their needs to the elected officials who represent them," said Jackie Klippenstein, DFA vice president of legislative and industry affairs. "This annual trip provides a forum for our members to educate and inform those who are in a position to enact legislation that serves the needs of the dairy industry."

A key piece of discussion during legislative visits this year was the need for dairy policy reform to help minimize volatility in the industry. DFA members encouraged Congress to pass dairy policy reform in 2011, ahead of the next Farm Bill, and voiced support for Foundation for the Future, a package of policy proposals that has been developed by the National Milk Producers Federation and its farmer cooperative members, as well as other dairy groups.

Other topics included the dairy sector's need for a reliable, legal, and stable labor force, as well as the importance of adapting renewable energy policies to strike a better balance among the needs of all segments of rural America.

The Hausers also had the opportunity to hear from several influential speakers, including senior advisors to President Barack Obama and Rep. Frank Lucas (R–Okla.), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

DFA's YC program fosters interaction between young dairy farmers ages 18 to 40 who are involved as owners or partners or hold distinct management responsibilities on a DFA-member dairy. The program facilities the development of leadership skills, enabling young cooperators to improve their industry, their cooperative, and their lives.

National Dairy Month Is Here

The Maryland Department of Agriculture encourages all Marylanders to celebrate National Dairy Month by enjoying healthy and nutritious local dairy products all month long and throughout the year. As Maryland's third largest agricultural commodity, milk and dairy products accounted for more than $144.6 million in farm receipts in 2009. National Dairy Month celebrates the value of milk and dairy products as part of well-balanced diets of every American, as well as the importance of milk production to the agricultural industry.

"Dairy farming is a vital part of Maryland's agriculture," said Agriculture Secretary Buddy Hance. "These farms are associated with a quarter million acres of open, productive farmland, and provide us with milk, ice cream, yogurt, cheese, and many other nutritious foods. I encourage Marylanders to support our dairy farmers."

Much of the milk produced in Maryland, through its 528 dairy farms, is channeled through cooperatives and milk processors that include Maryland & Virginia Milk Producers, Dairy Farmers of America, Land O'Lakes, Horizon Organic Dairy, Organic Valley Cooperative, Rutters, United Dairy, NFO, and Lanco Pennland Quality Milk Producers. Marylanders can also enjoy local dairy products by visiting farms that produce ice cream, bottled milk, yogurt, and cheeses. Persons are invited to go online to www.marylandsbest.net to find local farms.

Dairy Month was established in 1937 and was initially supported by the National Dairy Council to celebrate the dairy industry and to help stabilize dairy demand during periods of peak production. Originally called National Milk Month, the celebration is now led by the American Dairy Association and has broadened over the years to promote the greater use of dairy products and the importance of dairy products in a healthy diet.

Maryland Dairy Facts:

•Milk and dairy products accounted for $144.6 million in Maryland's farm receipts in 2009.

•In 2009, Maryland dairy farms produced 997 million pounds of milk.

•As of April 2010, Maryland had 528 dairy farms.

•There are 55,000 milk cows that produced an average 18,255 pounds of milk.

•Frederick, Washington, and Carroll counties are the top three dairy producing areas accounting for 63 percent of Maryland's milk production in 2009.

•Maryland dairies are diversifying and expanding on-farm dairy processing thanks to market demand for locally raised and made products such as bottled milk, cheese, ice cream, and yogurt.

•Legislation was enacted in 2008 and 2009 allowing for the expansion of value added products to include farmstead cheese (raw milk cheese) to be made on the farm. Today, there are two farms making farmstead cheese.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

A reminder: This Saturday is the Bittinger Fire Department's chicken barbecue, starting at 3:30 and going until they run out.

Do you think that solar power is just too expensive to make it a valuable alternative to fossil fuels? No, it already is cheaper. It would make manufacturing the technology necessary. But isn't that the biggest problem with our economy – lack of manufacturing jobs?

Just like the military, industrial companies depend on our wars in oil-producing regions to provide huge profits. President Eisenhower warned Americans not to allow military industrial companies to gain control over our nation.

In the early part of his first term as president, Obama tackled the ridiculously high cost of health care for all Americans. He put together a balanced solution, which is in no way a "government takeover" of our health care.

But the key element which solves almost all problems in health care is a robust public option. By shear numbers, Americans could join together to create a national cooperative that would not be true socialism. We could put our youngest healthy people in with the middle-aged and elderly, and even people with some pre-existing conditions. Each one could pay a reasonable premium, and health care could be provided for millions of Americans.

Do you think it's strange that recently many tornadoes hit California and also Massachusetts? Does anyone need proof that climate change is a real thing? I understand why Big Oil executives deny it, but they have their self-interest to protect.

I saw my first tiger swallowtail butterfly today, which is always a beautiful sight. And what a perfect day for early June: sun-drenched with a very gentle breeze. And my purple irises are in bloom.

Well, it is a beautiful, but hot day for graduation at Northern High School. Graduates from the Bittinger area include Madeline Whittemore, Phillip Randall Pepe, Dominic Ruggiero, Nathan Maust, and Bryan Rippeon.

Maddy will join some other Bittinger folks at Towson University. Actually, the Glotfelty twins graduated a couple weeks ago, so only Emma Bass is still there from Bittinger, as far as I know, anyway.

So Lesa Whittemore is facing the unpleasant empty nest syndrome. But not Brenda Ruggiero. She still has Mikolas and Jenna, who have not reached that milestone. And Dominic plans to start his post high school education at Garrett College.

This date, June 6, had some important events. Most people know that it was D Day in 1944, the day when a wave of young GIs landed on Normandy Beach and started across Europe on their way to Berlin. They liberated concentration camps and liberated France, and Hitler took the coward's way out and committed suicide in his bunker. But he was gone, and that meant a much better world for all mankind.

And in 1968, while we were in band class, we learned that Bobby Kennedy had been assassinated. He represented to my peers a significant figure of hope. I can't help but think of that beautiful folk song that says, "Has anyone seen my old friend Abraham?" It goes on to mention John, Martin, and Bobby. I am still shedding oceans of tears for those peacemakers who were gunned down in the prime of their lives. But I guess I must remember, "Blessed are the peacemakers, because they will see God."

Boo is not in any way young. In human terms, she is over 100 years old, and I had to face putting her out of her misery on Tuesday afternoon. She was a good dog for my children, and she has been almost the only companion for me in the last few years.

She always escorted the girls when they walked through the pasture to visit the Diehlmans in the old Stevens place. And she got excited when someone put cross-country skis on, because she enjoyed those ski trips so much. She still had a little trouble, and often got in front of the skier. In the prime of her life, she got a little overweight, and now she is so thin. But her grave is waiting beside our apple tree.

Thank goodness for Dr. Rick Jenkins, because he has gone many miles farther than his duty as a veterinarian. I couldn't stand to put Boo into a vehicle to ride to Pineview Veterinary Hospital to end her life. I wanted her to die here on the farm where she had spent almost her whole life. I wished she could just go to sleep one night and not awaken. But that did not happen. I was blessed to have one more night in my bed with her beside me.

Boo is now in her grave. Unfortunately, it was a wet grave, because we got an unexpected rain storm. So Caitlin took a bucket and bailed out several inches of water in the grave. When Caitlin's cousins Darryl and Elliot get off work, they will help fill in the grave. Caitlin picked a nice bunch of flowers to put on it.

So at least the mechanics went smoothly. But nothing can help the pain in my heart, because she was the last member of my family still with me. She was always so happy and excited when a car drove in with me. Today, she could not jump up and down like in the past. She was simply too old and feeble for that.

But at least she is no longer in pain or unable to control her mobility skills. It was hard for her to get across the living room.

It is hard to describe the overwhelming sadness in my heart. It is not something you can cry out in some minutes. I am actually not a good cryer. Most of the time when I am very sad, my eyes get some tears in them, but they are not flowing. I am very glad that I have Caitlin here with me. I know Claire wishes that she could have been here when Boo went away.

But of course, anyone or anything you give your love to eventually will end in a deep sense of loss and heartache. But I had many deeply loved pets.

My horse wasn't a pet. He was a genuine partner in my life. We were together for 31 years, and shared some of the most wonderful experiences. But the pain that I felt when he died at 31 years old was like enduring the loss of my closest family members when they passed away.

They are still in my heart. But my life would be much better if my mother, father, brother Scott, and several close friends had not died far too young. I only miss Mother and Scott more than I miss Little Joe. Even if I would have been spared the pain of losing them, my love for them is worth all the pain I endured when they went away.

Rest in peace, Boo.

Pastor and Cindy Richardson and Marvin Beckman attended the annual assembly of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod held last weekend at Snowshoe Mountain Resort in West Virginia. Cindy and Marvin also attended the quarterly meeting of the board of directors of Community Lutheran Partners, which was held prior to the start of the synod assembly.

A highlight of the two-day meeting was the evening worship service at St. Bernard's Chapel on the grounds of the resort. This service celebrated the ordination of Neil Cadle, and the 35th ordination anniversary of Bishop Ralph Dunkin.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel on Sunday were given by Bob and Margie Brenneman in memory of Ruth C. Hetrick.

The Sacrament of Holy Baptism was held at Emmanuel on Sunday. Baptized was Sophie Renee Gibson, daughter of Michelle and Todd Gibson. Sponsors for the baptism were Brent Housley and Moriah Kasecamp.

Emmanuel's Women of the ELCA will meet next Wednesday, June 15, at the home of Wanda Reynolds at 6 p.m. All women of the parish are invited, and are asked to bring a dish to share.

ASCI Receives $30K Grant For Adventure Ed.

The Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) was recently awarded a grant of $30,000 from the Naylor Foundation to support its adventure and environmental education programs with Garrett County public schools. The grant will supplement program and administration costs, and furthers a growing effort to reconnect local children with the outdoors.

Through one of these programs, Southern Middle School recently completed several rafting trips on the ASCI mountaintop whitewater course, which is located at the top of Wisp Resort. Some 160 sixth graders, teachers, and parents participated. For many of the students it was an introductory experience with whitewater rafting. Assisted by a guide, students navigated sections of the course with names like the "Dark Destroyer" and "Pinball Alley," where they learned to paddle through drops and jump the raft off rocks.

While rafting, students also had the opportunity to meet with U.S. veterans who were visiting ASCI as part of the All-American Whitewater Festival. The veterans, who are members of Team River Runner, a Wounded Warrior organization, spoke to the middle school students about the lifelong thrill and therapeutic power associated with whitewater.

Through another of the ASCI sponsored programs, Southern Middle School seventh graders climbed and rappelled the rocks at the Fork Run Recreation Area. A 550-acre preserve, Fork Run is managed by ASCI and open to the general public. During their adventure, students ascended and descended the same cliffs that world famous climbers Lynn Hill, Will Gadd, and Hans Florine have recently visited.

At the event, students were instructed on how to "boulder" while climbing, and also on walking a "slackline," which is a modified tightrope set very low to the ground.

Also through ASCI, local eighth graders undertook adventures in various locations. These consisted of rafting, biking, and hiking excursions at Ohiopyle State Park and kayaking and hiking trips in the Oakland area.

The eighth grade program is called "Discovery," a spokesperson stated, because students are allowed to choose their own adventure and "discover for themselves the challenge and thrill of a particular adventure sport."

After the Northern Middle School sixth grade group rafts at the mountaintop whitewater course this month, the total number of participants from Garrett County's middle schools will total over 900 students. The trip will conclude the school's first year in an ASCI program.

All of these excursions fall under the Adventure Sports Incentive Program, developed by Mary Jane Fike of Southern Middle School and Matt Taylor of ASCI. With the motto "the reward is outside," the program is an incentive for students to maintain academic and behavioral excellence throughout the school year, in order to earn an outdoor adventure in the spring. Additionally, the earned outdoor adventures serve as the most comprehensive introduction to adventure sports available to Garrett County youth.

The Naylor grant will also support Wilderness Week, a Garrett County based outdoor education program developed by Fike and Taylor, in which sixth grade students spend five days exploring local park and conservation areas. Wilderness Week started in 2010 as an alternative to the traditional sixth grade trip to North Bay, an environmental education camp focused on the Chesapeake.

This year all of Southern Middle School's sixth grade completed Wilderness Week.

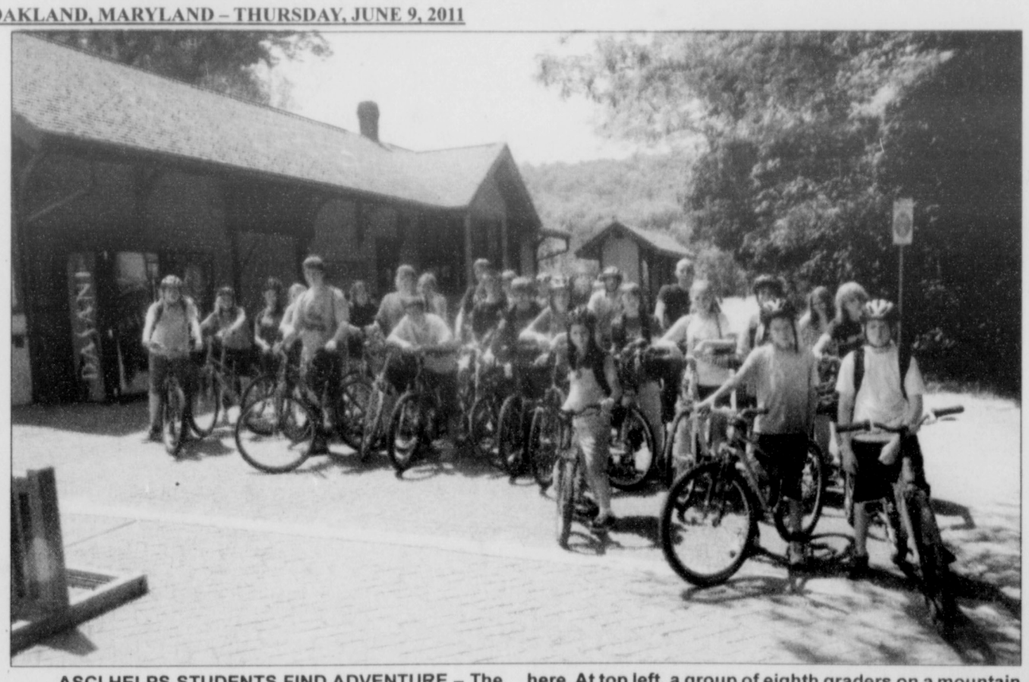
"Moving the classroom outside enhances learning as students are highly motivated and actively engaged when they interact with their natural environment," said Fike, who has been teaching for over 30 years. Fike attributes significant improvement in student attitudes, academics, and behavior to the adventure programs.

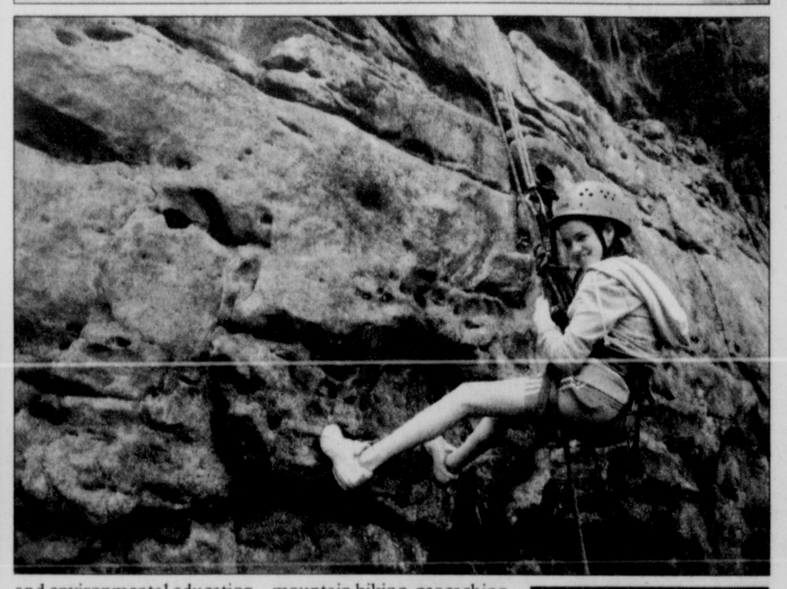
These programs, complement existing environmental education programs in Garrett County schools, such as the Camp Hickory programs and those local schools already certified as "green" by the Maryland Association of Environmental and Outdoor Education.

The state of Maryland has recently passed the first K-12 environmental literacy standard in the country, while Maryland is also home to the "No Child Left Inside Coalition," a national organization promoting outdoor education and recreation for youth. Given its long heritage of outdoor recreation and conservation, as well as its abundant natural resources, the Garrett County school system hopes to continue to lead Maryland, and the nation, in innovative adventure and environmental education programs, noted a school spokesperson.

ASCI is home to the world's only mountaintop man-made whitewater course and has accommodated more than 44,000 rafters since 2007. The course offers whitewater rafting, kayaking, and canoeing to groups and individuals at all skill levels. In addition, ASCI attracts national and international caliber competitions, and will host the Canoe Slalom World Championships in 2014.

ASCI also offers programs in rock climbing, rappelling, mountain biking, geocaching, and more. Those interested in further information may call 301-387-3250, e-mail asci@adventuresportscenter.com, or visit www.adventuresportscenter.com.





ASCI HELPS STUDENTS FIND ADVENTURE – The Adventure Sports Center International was recently awarded a grant of $30,000 from the Naylor Foundation to support its adventure and environmental education programs with Garrett County public schools. The adventure programs serve as an incentive for students to maintain academic and behavioral excellence throughout the school year in order to earn an outdoor adventure in the spring. Some of the adventure offerings are pictured here. At top left, a group of eighth graders on a mountain bike excursion make a pit stop while exploring a local park. At top right, a sixth grade group is pictured during an instructional whitewater rafting trip. Pictured below left, from left, are Roy Davis, Chris Sines, and Jean-Luc Strawser participating in a stream-sampling procedure during ASCI Wilderness Week. CLAIRE WILKINSON
SHS SALUTATORIAN

The top academic students at Northern and Southern high schools were honored Sunday during both schools' 59th annual graduation exercises. The students who earned the highest and second-highest grade point averages were named valedictorians and salutatorians, respectively.

Named valedictorian at Northern High was Cara Jo Stough, daughter of Scott and Terry Stough.

She is a Distinguished Scholar Finalist, an AP scholar, a member of the 1800 SAT Club, and a member of the National Honor Society.

During her four years at Northern, Stough participated in soccer and tennis, and advanced to the Maryland state tennis championships this spring. She is also a member of the Deep Creek Winter Sports Team.

Cara plans to attend Juniata College in Huntingdon, Pa., this fall, where she will major in chemistry/pre-medicine. She will also play tennis for the Lady Eagles.

Cara and her family reside in Friendsville. Her brother Dustin is a student at Wilkes University.

Earning the title of salutatorian at Northern was Keesha Jo Fazenbaker, daughter of Russ and Heidi Fazenbaker, Grantsville.

She is president of the Northern High chapter of the National Honor Society and received honorable mention as one of Maryland's Distinguished Honor Scholars.

She was a member of the school's mock trial team, and served as drum major for the NHS Marching Band. As drum major, she received five Best Drum Major awards during the competitive marching season, and was named Best Drum Major at the Chapter Championships.

In her free time, Keesha enjoys working on various art projects, which include painting and pottery.

She is currently employed at the Casselman Inn and Restaurant in Grantsville. She will attend Allegany College of Maryland this fall, where she will pursue a career in pharmacy.

Paige Fitzwater, daughter of Gary and Jeannette Fitzwater, Mountain Lake Park, is the valedictorian of the Southern High graduating class.

She is a Maryland Distinguished Scholar, a member of the 1800 SAT Club, a consistent Distinguished Honor Roll student, a member of the National Honor Society, and a Johns Hopkins Scholar. She has been named Student of the Month for both math and science, placed first in the Maryland Theatre Arts Company's One-Act Play Tournament, placed first in the Star Talent Tournament for Ballet Trio, and earned

Nearly 360 Students Presented With Diplomas At Sunday's Ceremonies

The Garrett County Board of Education presented a total of 357 diplomas during Sunday afternoon commencement ceremonies at both Northern and Southern high schools. There were 216 graduates at Southern and 141 at Northern.

The 1 p.m. event at Southern was held in the gymnasium, while Northern's 4 p.m. ceremony was held outside at the athletic field. This was the 59th annual commencement at both schools.

Dr. Wendell D. Teets, superintendent of schools, presented the diplomas. The administration personnel of the high schools were in attendance, including Gary L. Reichenbecher, principal of Northern, and Paul C. Edwards, assistant principal; and at Southern, principal James Maddy and assistant principal Kurt Lear. A number of elected officials were seated on the platforms in front at each school, such as the members of the Garrett County Board of Education and the county commissioners, as well as Del. Wendell Beitzel and Sen. George Edwards. Several other board of education administrators were also in attendance.

The Southern band presented "Pomp and Circumstance" for the processional of graduates, and the national anthem at Southern was sung by Deborah Friend, Debi Beachy, and Benjamin Thorn. These three singers also presented the school's alma mater.

At Northern, Zakary T. Lee provided the processional on the piano, and Jordan R. Sines presented the national anthem.

Other music at the ceremonies included a trio of Rachael Beeman, Ashley Crosby, and Jackie Sisler singing "Long Live" by Taylor Swift, and at Northern the high school chorus sang Kevin Cronin's "Can't Fight This Feeling," accompanied by Sean Beachy.

The traditional passing of the mantle from the graduates to next year's seniors took place at both schools. At Northern, class president Morgan Brosnihan presented the mantle to Kiersten Butler, and at Southern, class president Claire Wilkinson passed it to Hunter Metcalfe.

The Southern band provided "Celebration March" for the recessional. The band is under the direction of Joshua Elmlinger, and the chorus at both Northern and Southern is under the direction of Debi Beachy.

At Southern, the valedictorian and salutatorian wore gold stoles. The members of the National Honor Society word blue stoles and gold cords. The honor students wore purple cords, and the merit students wore green cords.

At Northern, honor students word gold cords. National Honor Society members wore white stoles, and student government members wore black cords.

DANFORTH AWARD PRESENTED AT SOUTHERN – The "I Dare You" William H. Danforth Award is presented to one young woman and one young man each year at SHS by the Southern Garrett High School Alumni Association. The award was first offered in 1941 by businessman and philanthropist Danforth, who "dared" young people to achieve their highest potential and to influence others through lives of service. The award is given to students based on academic success, leadership, school activities, community involvement, spirituality, service to others, physical fitness, and talent development. This year's recipients are Paige Fitzwater and Aryne Riley, pictured. Paige's lengthy list of awards and activities appears on this page in a separate story, as she is also the valedictorian. Aryne is the son of Jack and Libby Riley, Oakland. He is an 11-time Minds in Motion winner, and continuously earned distinguished honor roll status throughout high school. He is a member of the National Honor Society and won Student of the Month honors in both science and math. He was a member of the varsity tennis team and the award-winning robotics team, as well as a co-drum captain for the Southern Garrett Marching Band. He is the 2010 and 2011 winner of the Maryland Governor's Cup for skiing, and the 2011 Wisp Cup winner. Riley has performed with the Garrett Community Concert Band in numerous concerts. He has been an assistant for his church's Bible school, a young children's LEGO team, and Special Olympics, among others. He served as the class chaplain for the student council, as well as an alternate. He was selected for the United States Military Academy Summer Session, and for 2010 Maryland Boys' State. He will enter the West Virginia University Honor College in the fall to pursue a degree in aerospace engineering. From there he hopes to join the U.S. Air Force and pursue a career in the military. SHARING A LAUGH – There were many light-hearted moments during the 59th annual commencement ceremonies at both Northern and Southern high schools on Sunday. These Northern grads are obviously enjoying a good laugh together while listening to an entertaining speaker. Shown in front from left are Anthony Cervi, Ashleigh Clapper, Nicole Collins, Cooper Corley, and Adam Counts. Scattered showers were predicted in the afternoon, but pleasant weather, as well as the joyful atmosphere, remained throughout Northern's outdoor ceremony. Photo by John McEwen.

Southern High Valedictorian

"As we venture out and start this next chapter in our lives, we will remember all of the events that have led up to this moment and how each small change has affected our lives."

– Paige Fitzwater
SHS Valedictorian

6,832,800 minutes. That is a pretty long time. It is the total amount of time each one of us has spent in school, give or take a few sick days and some days when we said we were sick but really weren't. But in that amount of time, we have all accomplished a lot. We have written countless papers, taken way too many tests, endured endless lectures, and made numerous friends. We have spent 70,200 minutes sitting in the cafeteria with our friends, joking and eating questionable school lunches. Just this week, we have spent many hours studying and taking finals. All of those minutes have led up to this moment.

But what else happened over these many minutes that we have spent in school? When we were in third grade, in a matter of 77 minutes, two planes hit the twin towers, one hit the pentagon, and one a field in Somerset, starting a war on terrorism. Then, just a few weeks ago, a 20 minute Navy Seal mission led to the death of Osama Bin Laden, thus ending that ten year terrorism threat. Also during our high school years, 16 minutes passed and the first African American president was sworn in, forever changing history. Recenty, in a matter of two weeks, or 20,160 minutes, Rebecca Black sang "Friday" on YouTube and earned over three million dislikes. All of these very important events happened around the world in a matter of minutes.

Important events happened here too. Last year, we had a massive snow storm that allowed us to only attend school for seven days in February. Apparently that broke some record or something. Later in the year, in a matter of about 60 minutes, a group of students managed to spread mercury across the entire school. Does anyone else remember that? Does anyone else remember the next couple of days when we had no school and the days after which we spent in the movie theater? A few short minutes really can have a long-lasting impact.

Now, in a matter of 120 minutes, we will finish our 13-year journey, walk across this stage, receive our diplomas, shake Dr. Teets' hand, and change from high school students to high school graduates. Like all of the previous events, this event is also significant. All of our hard work during our almost 7 million minutes spent during our school years will be rewarded in this moment. Everyone here should be very proud of their accomplishments. However, we could not have done this alone. We must remember all of our friends, family, teachers, and other mentors that have helped us reach this point. We are about to become high school graduates.

But what will we do once we walk across the stage and

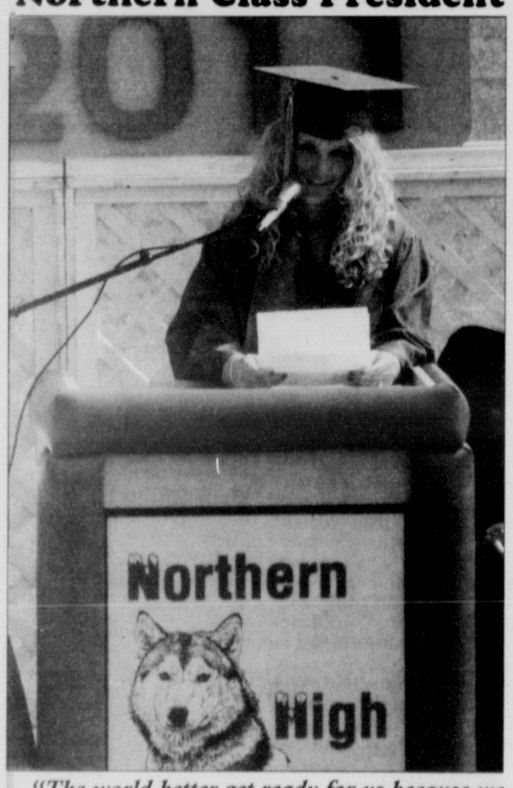
Northern Class President



"The world better get ready for us because we are ready for it."

– Morgan Brosnihan
NHS Class President

Last night as many of us seniors sat around a campfire we came up with all sorts of possibilities for me to say today. As most of them turned out a little untraditional, this is what I have prepared for you:

It is an honor to stand here and talk on behalf of such a great group of people. This class has gone above and beyond in achievements, and although it sounds a little cliché, we're a big family. The last four years have been about figuring out who we are as individuals. Now as we sit here in identical outfits representing all that Northern has to be proud of I would like to take this time to tell you what I would say if someone asked me to describe the class of 2011.

We've expressed ourselves in the fields of art and music as our band and art students have inspired many with their talents. We also know how to get down on the dance floor. We love our sports. We've experienced the peak of school pride when our football team beat Mtn. Ridge, and we stormed the field. Our community rallied behind us as we took the girls' basketball team, wrestlers, track, and tennis to states. We've been breaking records for four years now.

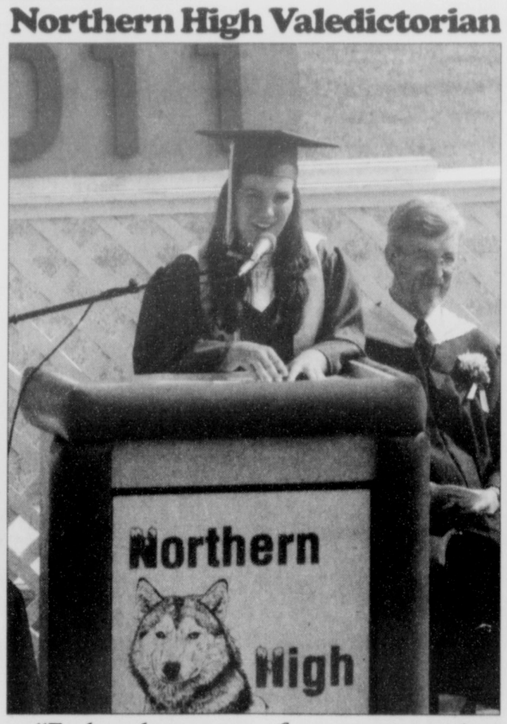
We've all learned more than a textbook can teach. You may not need to know how to fake a homework assignment in 20 seconds. Or exactly how long it takes you to drive to school and create new parking spots when you get here, but the ability to build relationships as we have shared our struggles and celebrations together is a valuable life skill you can use on whatever path you should follow. Use your mistakes and successes to guide you in the future.

They say go where there is no path and create one of your own. Well, I'm proud to say that if the class of 2011 decided one path was the way to go, I'd trust in that path without a second thought. The world better get ready for us because we are ready for it.

The friendships we've made may not last a lifetime, but the memories will. Wherever your lives take you, I wish you luck. Show them what the class of 2011 is all about.

Kiersten, I pass this mantle on to you and the class of 2012 and wish you luck as you enter your senior year. May it be as memorable as ours.

Northern High Valedictorian



"Each and every one of us possesses unique talents and skills, some of which have yet to be discovered. We have the ability to redefine and transform the world we live in."

– Cara Stough
NHS Valedictorian

Fellow classmates, teachers, family and friends, good afternoon, and thank you for sharing in the celebration and graduation of the class of 2011. Today we join together for the conclusion of one part of our lives as we set out to discover the open road ahead. We have spent the last 13 years of our lives dreaming of this day, the day that we begin to define the rest of our lives. In the years to come, we will experience things we only dreamed of. We will all travel different paths, meet different people, and experience different things, but we will all have the years we spent together to look back on. We shared countless unforgettable memories, some good, some depressing, and others we hope our classmates will overlook. Through these experiences we have matured, and evolved into the unified whole we are viewed as today. Today we are all together for the last time. We are Northern Garrett High School's class of 2011. Now is the time in our lives where we break off from the group and venture off the beaten path to take the road less traveled. Today we mark off our lists the widespread goal of graduating, and take the first steps on our individual paths. As poet Robert Frost once said, "I took the road less traveled and that has made all the difference."

Each and every one of us possesses unique talents and skills, some of which have yet to be discovered. We have the ability to redefine and transform the world we live in. Yes, we are going to face some obstacles standing in our way, but have we not already overcome so much to make it to where we are today? Frank A. Clark once said, "If you can find a path with no obstacles, it probably doesn't lead anywhere." We have dedicated countless hours to schoolwork, sports practices, and other interests. We have sacrificed our time and persevered to reach our goals. It is not uncommon that the most difficult trails lead to the best rewards. The class of 2011 has proved that we can achieve success and that we are not afraid to dream big. Our class has broken many school records, and achieved great feats. We have set high standards for the classes that follow.

The paths we follow must be our own. Each is unique and will result in different outcomes. We leave here and depart on our journeys with the knowledge, lessons, guidance, and awareness of the world our years of schooling have instilled in us. For this support, I would like to thank each and every one of my teachers I have had over the years for impacting my life and filling my head with useful knowledge, random facts, and guidance. I would especially like to thank two specific teachers who have taught me more than I could ever learn from a textbook. Thank you so much Mr. and Mrs. Stough! We are prepared to face the world and whatever challenges it may present. The future is unclear and ever-changing. Never be afraid to take control of your destiny and travel into uncharted waters. There are no limits to where our imaginations and dreams can take us.

Regardless of the past, today is a new start, and the world is changing right before our eyes. We have survived the millennium, and now face the imminent 2012. Do not view today as the end of high school, but instead as the beginning of the rest of our lives. Make the best of each day, and continue on the quest for knowledge. As Albert Einstein once said, "Intellectual growth should commence at birth and only cease at death." The future is unwritten, and ours for the taking. As Dr. Seuss once said, "You have brains in your head, you have feet in your shoes, you can steer yourself in any direction you choose. You're on your own and you know what you know, you are the guy who'll decide where to go." I wish each and every one of you the best of luck with all your future endeavors.

"Together, we have experienced the fun of elementary school, and we managed to survive our time as middle schoolers, being deemed one of the most troublesome classes to walk the Southern Middle School halls. We were obviously destined for greatness."

– Claire Wilkinson
SHS Salutatorian / Class President

As the senior class president and salutatorian, I would like to thank all the Garrett County board members, the Southern High School teachers and administrators, the parents, guardians, and family members of students, and of course the graduating seniors for being here today. We seniors have been working toward this day for 13 years, and our hard work has finally paid off. It's been a long, crazy journey, but our class has finally made it. I'm sure we all still remember that first day of kindergarten, when we originally met most of the students we are now sitting with as we wait to receive our diplomas. We have grown up with them from very young ages. We have had many "first times" growing up with these people, like the first time you rode a bike, the first time you had a crush on the cutest kid in class, the first time you had a birthday party or sleepover, and the first time you peed your pants in public. We can remember meeting some of our best friends today on the playground or sitting next to them at lunch, or goofing off with them in gym class. Together, we have experienced the fun of elementary school, and we managed to survive our time as middle schoolers, being deemed one of the most troublesome classes to walk the Southern Middle School halls. We were obviously destined for greatness.

When we entered high school as freshmen, we began a new, exciting chapter of our lives, going from the tough eighth graders to meek freshmen. As we branched out and made new friends, we never forgot the ones we met that first day of school. We have all laughed, loved, cried, fallen, and succeeded together. Our time in high school has been anything but conventional; from being basically trapped inside by snow for a month to having school in a movie theatre for a week, we have done it all. Our presence at sporting events here, from on the playing field, court, and mat to in the stands, as well as our presence in the classrooms and halls of this school will not be easily forgotten. We have made our senior year one of the most memorable times of our lives. We have been taught countless lessons as students here, some that were extremely valuable and some that had us asking "When will even we use this in real life?" Throughout the years here we have learned how to solve equations, how to write papers, how to make friends and, of course, how to Dougie. We experienced our school's first ever bonfire and won this year's Ram Rumble. As I look around the room, I realize that this is probably the last time this entire group of people will ever be together. This realization reminded me that our time together as students, and the memories we have made with each other must be cherished because it is easy to take our high school years for granted. Now it is time for this chapter of our lives to end and a new one to begin. We must use these lessons learned to go out in the world and try to succeed in whatever we choose to do.

As Benjamin Franklin once said, "Without continual growth and progress, such words as improvement, achievement, and success have no meaning."

Today, our lives as high school students come to an end. But tomorrow will mark the first day of the rest of our lives. We will no longer be a unified group or walk the halls of this school with our fellow classmates, as we all branch out and move on from high school. However, the experiences we have had here and the people we have met will not be forgotten. Our time as Southern Rams will continue to influence us long after we have graduated. I am proud to be a member of this senior class, and I hope that we all continue to grow and progress in wherever life takes us. Thank you, and good luck, seniors of 2011!

"We are not defined by our class rank or GPA. So for those of you that are disappointed by your grades, don't stress about it. There is still plenty of opportunity to excel in life."

– Keesha Fazenbaker
NHS Salutatorian

Teachers, parents, and fellow classmates: Thank you all for coming, and welcome to the celebration of such an accomplishment! We are all here today for very important reasons. We are not here to wear these ridiculous blue tents and cardboard headdresses. We are not here to cross the stage and receive a special piece of paper, and we are definitely not here to listen to boring speakers talk about their wonderful achievements and how to succeed in life.

At the end of the day, and even 25 years from now, this ceremony will amount to very little. The majority of you will not be seen around here after today, and I can guarantee that all of you will forget about this silly speech. Intelligent people have walked across this stage before us, and more will continue after us. We are not defined by our class rank or GPA. So for those of you that are disappointed by your grades, don't stress about it. There is still plenty of opportunity to excel in life. For those of you that constantly worried about having the highest grade in the class, I hope you pulled your nose out of the books long enough to realize that it will take more than just a number on your transcript to succeed in life.

I challenge all of you today to put your life into perspective and view the larger picture. Why limit yourselves to just four short years? Achievement goes much farther than high school graduation. Instead of dwelling on our academic success, let's all take this time to think about what truly matters. We are here today to honor our past. History is a very special part of our lives. The kind of history most crucial to life is that in which we are directly a part of. We made it! It is one of the few things in life that we can truly influence and personalize. So before we walk out of this ceremony today, I want all of you to reminisce a little. Right now, please look around you. Smile at your best friends. Make your best effort to keep them in your life. If they stuck with you through these awkward years of puberty and all kinds of transformations, they'll most likely stick with you when you grow up a little more and stink a little less. Next, find those enemies and those classmates you tried to avoid. Think about your arguments, fights, and grudges. If you're not laughing by now at the stupidity of it all, then you haven't truly stepped back from the situation yet. Now is the time to let go of hard feelings, but remember those struggles, because they were placed in your life to teach you a lesson and make you stronger. The people we have yet to search for are those that were neither friend nor enemy. Those classmates that have slipped through the cracks of your personal experiences are just as important. The time is not now to realistically think about forging new relationships, but it is definitely worth a moment of your time to wonder about their past, and maybe even their future. Although these people weren't a direct influence in your life, we all can share similar memories, and that is pretty important.

There are just a few more people we definitely can't forget about. I would be in trouble if I didn't mention my family. Mothers, fathers, grandparents, stepmothers, stepfathers, aunts, uncles, and mothers: I congratulate all of you for your success in raising this extraordinary group of young adults. And yes, Mom, I congratulate you twice. It is simply a known fact that instinctively, mothers do ridiculous things for their children. Their amount of patience and determination, I still do not understand. We are all sitting here today because our mothers have, at one point or another, pulled us out of bed, rushed us to the bus, and met us at the door after school to ask us about our day, what we have learned, and if we have homework, all "for our own good." Whether we admit it or not, our parents were right. They have been there for us in the past, and they will be willing to help us in the future. Make sure you all take time to thank them today, and give them credit. They are all sitting here in the heat through this lengthy ceremony, just for you.

And finally, before you leave here today, think about all the teachers that have truly cared about you. They are the under-appreciated heroes that have delivered to us our education, a luxury we are so privileged to have. The education we have been provided will remain with us into our futures, and bring new light into the world. For that I am truly grateful.

Classmates, I wish the best of luck to all of you. Remember to reflect and be grateful for your past, because it is instilled with the hope of bringing you to a future. Whatever your futures may hold, I am so blessed to have been a part of your pasts. Congratulations, class of 2011!

close this chapter in our lives? Many of us have plans to go off into the work force or to college. Some of us still are unsure of what we will do. We all will go off into this world and accomplish much. Remember though that accomplishments do not always take years of planning. Some will come in just a matter of minutes and often, these are the most important and exciting accomplishments we will experience. Since every minute provides a new opportunity to change the world, we must always remember to cherish every minute and make each one count. What might seem like a small event to one person may have a major impact on another. Every action, every decision matters and has the potential to change the world. We all can change the world.

With the skills we have learned here at Southern High School, we are all ready to face the future. As we venture out and start this next chapter in our lives, we will remember all of the events that have led up to this moment and how each small change has affected our lives. Remember those that have helped us reach this point and remember to thank them. Be sure to capture every moment and make each decision matter.

Congratulations, class of 2011. We are finally graduating!

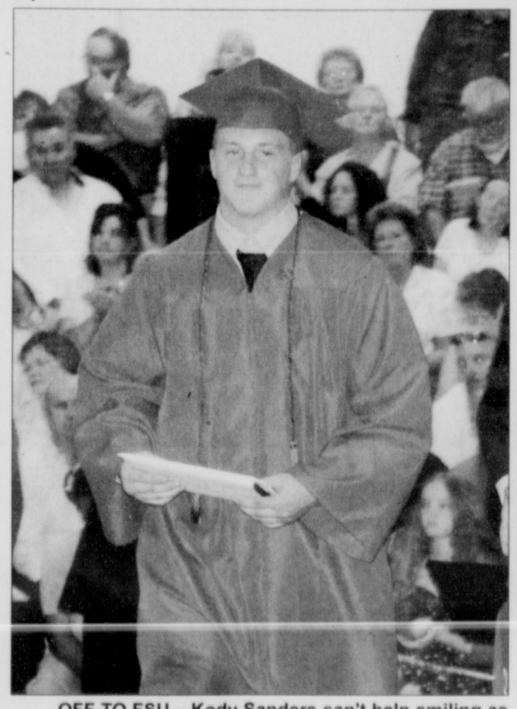
"YOU MEAN WE GET A ROSE TOO?!" might be what NHS grad Jason Humberson is saying to teacher Michelle Harman just after receiving his high school diploma.



OFF TO FSU – Kody Sanders can't help smiling as he grasps his diploma. He will head off to Frostburg State University in the fall, with plans to play football there.

GARRETT COUNTY ARTS COUNCIL PURCHASE AWARD – Presenter Odette Lueck, board president, recipient Monica Maust, and presenter Jay Paxton, NHS art teacher.

Carinna Lewis $4,000 ($1,000 per year) Frostburg State University Talent in the Arts and $700 ($350 per semester) Dr. J. Hopwood/Karen Wooddell scholarships;

Barbara MacKenzie $3,000 Frostburg State University Academic Distinction Award.

Alexis Markwood, $12,000 ($1,500 per eight semesters) West Virginia University Blue & Gold Level 2 Scholarship and $1,000 ($500 per semester) Academic Grant; and Summer Mossman, $16,000 ($4,000 per year) Frostburg State University Scholarship.

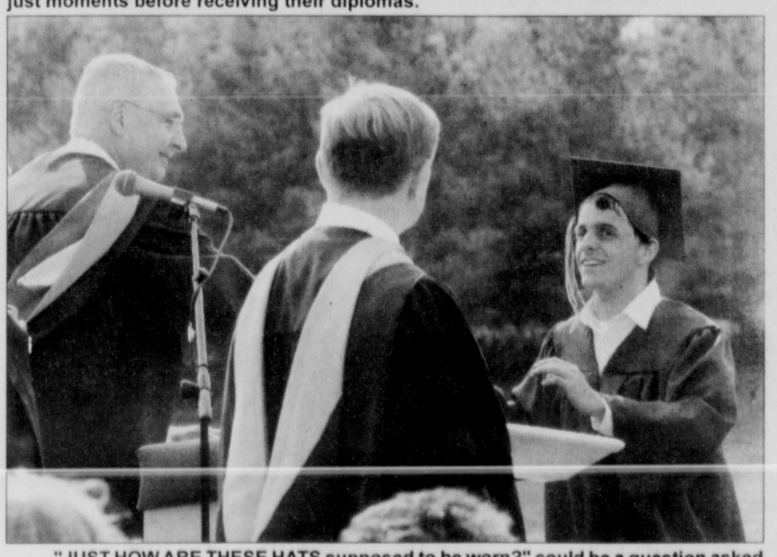
ANTICIPATION AND JOY are evident on the faces of these Northern High seniors just moments before receiving their diplomas.

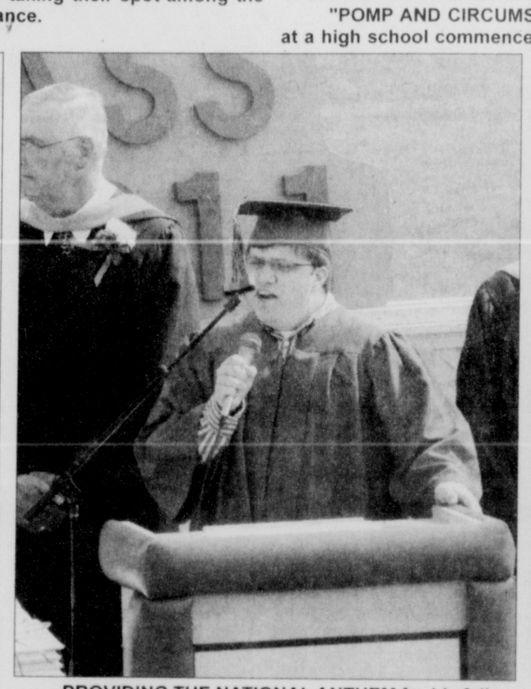


"JUST HOW ARE THESE HATS supposed to be worn?" could be a question asked by Northern graduate Eric Phillips of his principal Gary Reichenbecher and school superintendent Dr. Teets while accepting his diploma.

NHS CHORUS PERFORMS – Under the direction of Debi Beachy and accompanied by Sean Beachy, the Northern High School chorus took part in the graduation ceremony, with graduates taking their spot among the rows for one last performance.

"POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE" is a required tune at a high school commencement ceremony, and it was indeed provided at SHS's event by the Southern Garrett concert band, under the direction of Joshua Elmlinger.

A SPECIAL TRIO sang at Southern's commencement, made up of Rachael Beeman, Ashley Crosby, and Jackie Sisler, shown. The girls sang Taylor Swift's song, "Long Live."



PROVIDING THE NATIONAL ANTHEM for his fellow graduates and their families at Northern's commencement was Jordan Sines.

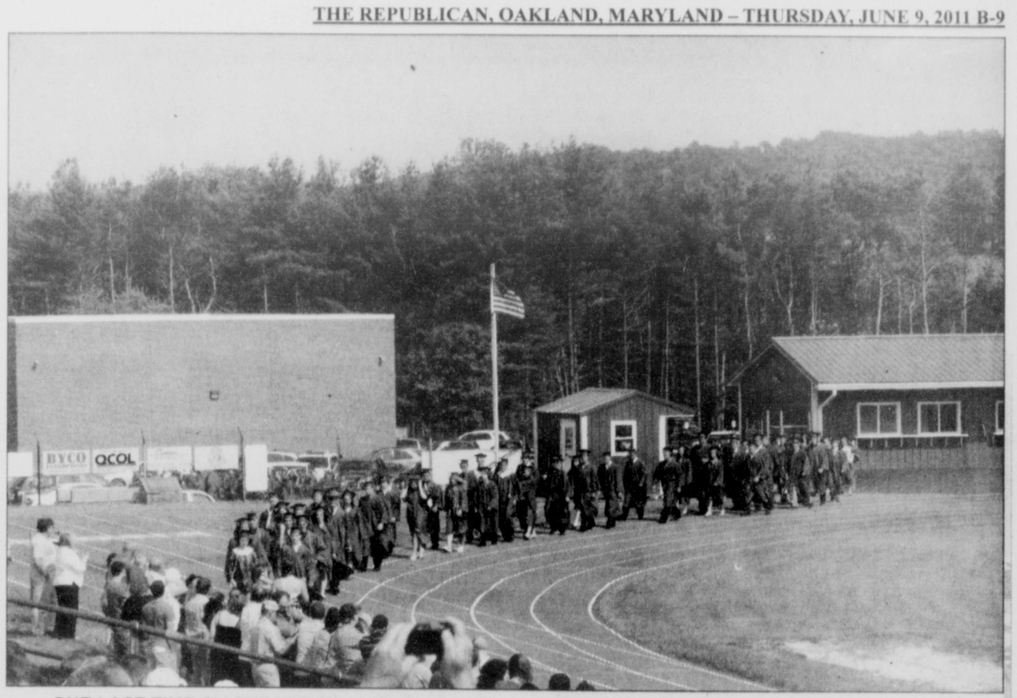
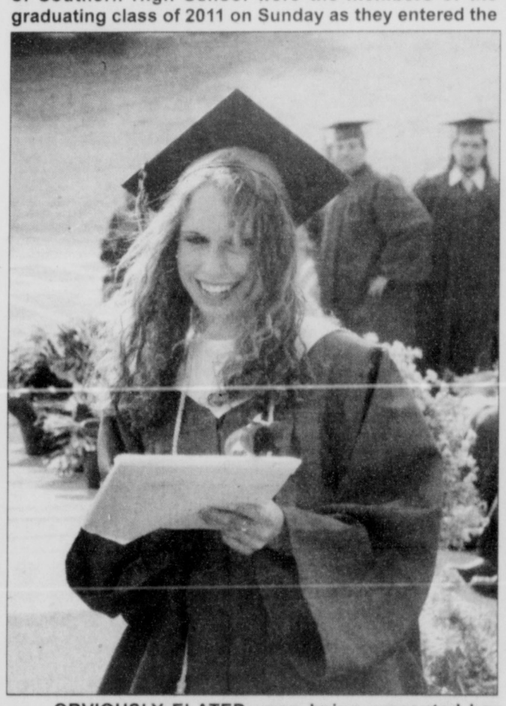
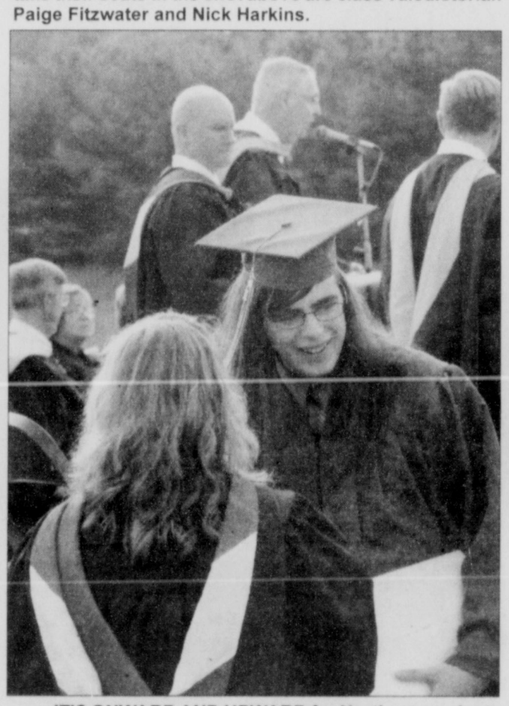
PROCESSING ONE LAST TIME as students of Southern High School were the members of the graduating class of 2011 on Sunday as they entered the gymnasium for their commencement exercises. About to take their seats in the shot above are class valedictorian Paige Fitzwater and Nick Harkins.



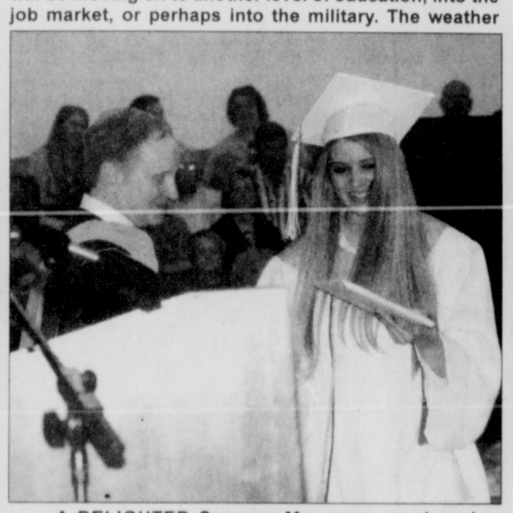
ONE LAST TIME ON THE TRACK at Northern High School Sunday afternoon were the 2011 graduates, who will be moving on to another level of education, into the job market, or perhaps into the military. The weather conditions were ideal for the outdoor commencement, at which 141 NHS graduates were awarded their diplomas for 13 years of study.



OBVIOUSLY ELATED upon being presented her diploma is Northern grad Rachel Hershberger



IT'S ONWARD AND UPWARD for Northern graduate Dominic Ruggiero, along with his 140 2011 classmates.



A DELIGHTED Summer Mossman receives her Southern High School diploma from Dr. Teets.

"ARE WE REALLY FINISHED!?" could have been the comment of a seemingly surprised Karen Bonser to fellow SHS grad Katelyn Gnegy moments after commencement exercises concluded.

a fifth place in the region for the stock market competition.

She serves as treasurer of the senior class, and is a member of the school mock trial team and golf team. She was the 2011 Western Maryland Junior Miss, president of her freshman, sophomore, and junior classes, was a Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Ambassador, a People to People Ambassador to Australia, and a participant in Model United Nations, Summer Youth Celebration, Girls' State, and the stock market game.

She has acted in a number of student drama productions and completed 192 Service Learning hours.

Paige will attend Ohio University this fall to begin working toward a degree in accounting and and management, after which she plans to attain a master's degree in accounting.

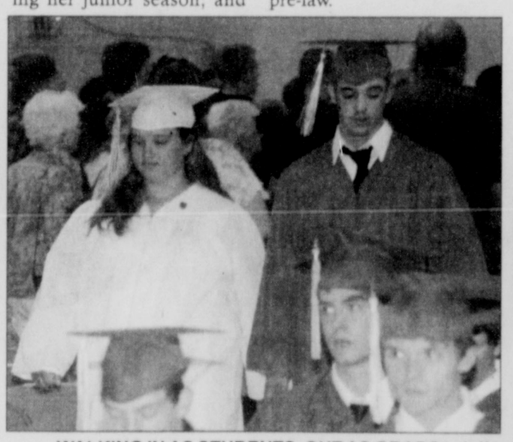
The salutatorian for the SHS class of 2011 is Claire Wilkinson, daughter of Don and Marsha Wilkinson, Deep Creek Lake.

She is the president of her class, a member of the SHS chapter of the National Honor Society and 1800 SAT Club, and received honorable mention as a Maryland Distinguished Scholar. She is a consistent Distinguished Honor Roll student and has received numerous Minds in Motion awards.

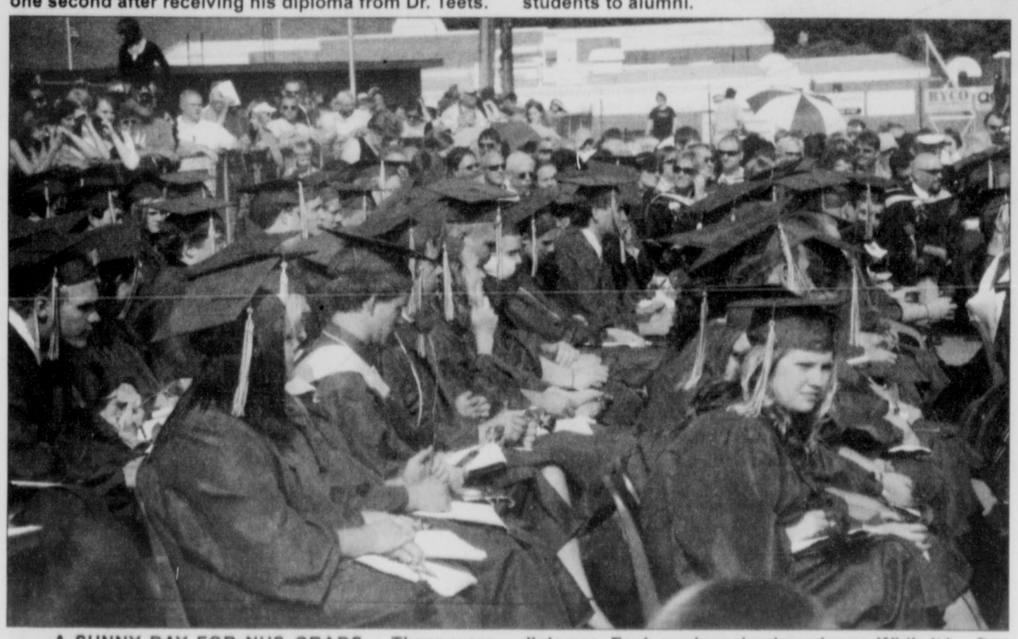
Also an athletic standout at Southern, Claire was named the All-Area Defensive Player of the Year in soccer last fall, was voted first-team All-Area in soccer all four years of high school, was fourth in the area in scoring her junior season, and was named Most Valuable Player of her team for both her junior and senior years. She led the team in scoring for three years before being moved to a defensive position as a senior. She received the Sprinters Award in track in 2010, and outside school, she was a member of the team that won the West Virginia Soccer State Cup for two years.

Claire will continue both her academic and athletic career (soccer) at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, this fall, where she will major in pre-law.

"IT'S MINE! ALL MINE!!!" is a plausible translation of the expression on the face of Southern grad Tim Schmidt one second after receiving his diploma from Dr. Teets.



WALKING IN AS STUDENTS, OUT AS GRADS – Julie Hall and Mark Martin make their way to their seats at Sunday's ceremony, ready to make the transition from students to alumni.



A SUNNY DAY FOR NHS GRADS – There were umbrellas out at Northern High School Sunday (see in the back), but not for any rain. The sun shone down brightly on the crowd gathered to witness the commencement of 141 seniors. Many of them are pictured above, holding their just-received high school diplomas. Each grad received a red rose. While it is often regarded as a symbol of romantic love, the red rose also represents courage and respect, as well as expressing the statement, "You are young and beautiful." A fitting sentiment for these vibrant people, now starting out on a new path.

Thanks To Those Who Helped With This Special Section

This special graduation section of The Republican newspaper requires the work and assistance of several individuals, and this is all done in a hurry in order to publish just a few days after the commencement ceremonies.

At Northern, Kendra Berry identified students in multiple photos, assisted by Gary Reichenbecher. Those assisting with the senior awards photos at Southern were Michelle Welch, Alex McEwen, Brandi Lathbury, and Kenya Rinker. Beverly Sincell assisted with Southern's information, as did Nick Harkins.

All photos in this section were taken by staff photographer John McEwen, who snapped more than 400 photos at the ceremonies. To view all photos, and to learn how to purchase any of them, see the advertisement below.

The help given is appreciated, as it contributes greatly to this section, which is the newspaper staff's gift to all the county's graduates. We congratulate them and wish them well.

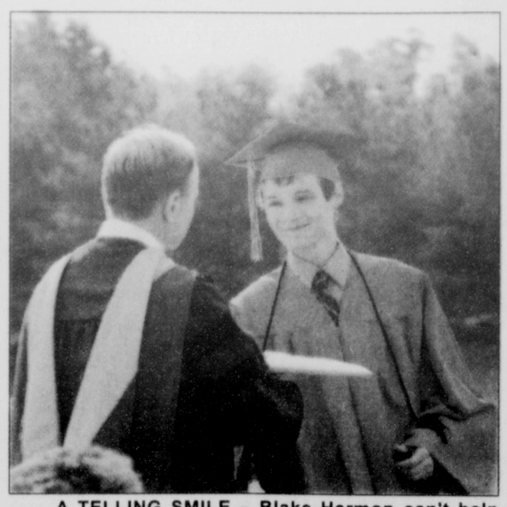
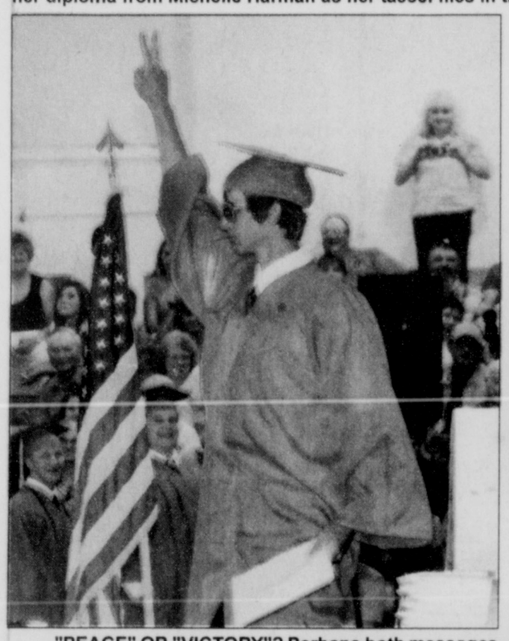
A PRETTY PICTURE – Northern High School grad Keara Pitman cheerfully accepts her diploma from Michelle Harman as her tassel flies in the wind.

"ALL A-NAMES ARE FIRST..." For one final time in the public school system, these Southern High School students whose surnames begin with an A get to lead the line, this time to receive their high school diplomas.

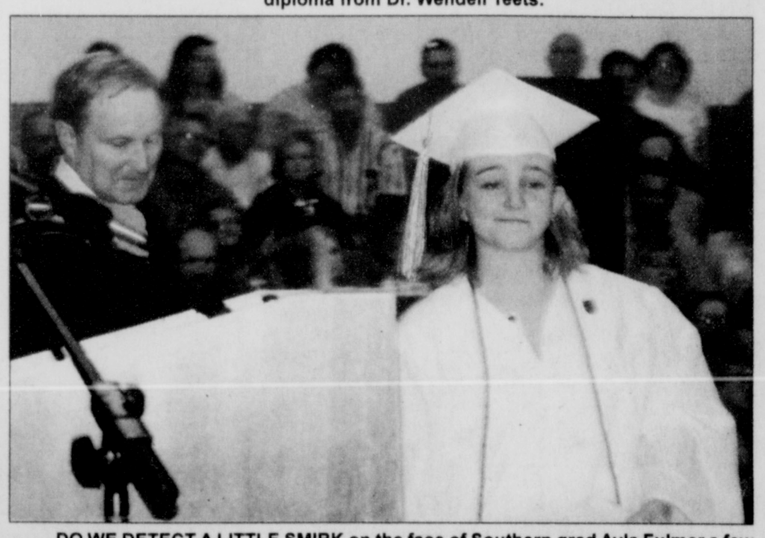


A TELLING SMILE – Blake Harmon can't help grinning a little bit as he receives his long-awaited diploma from Dr. Wendell Teets.



"PEACE" OR "VICTORY"? Perhaps both messages are conveyed by Southern High's Robert Davis after being handed his diploma for 13 years of study.

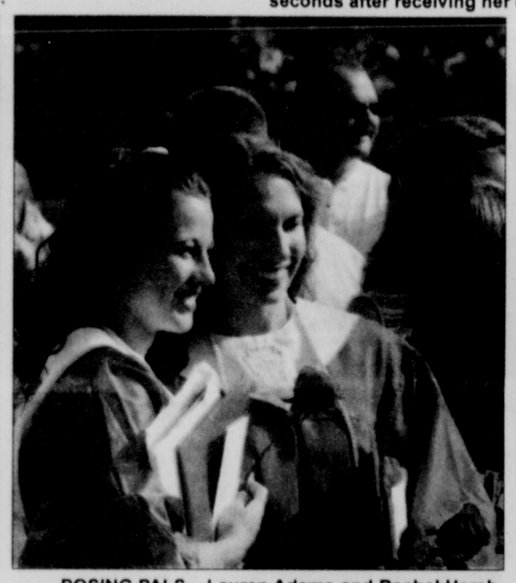
HUGS AND TEARS – Graduate Lisa Umbel and teacher Michelle Harmon give each other a hug. This day can be extra difficult for teachers who have grown to love the young people and now must send them on their way.



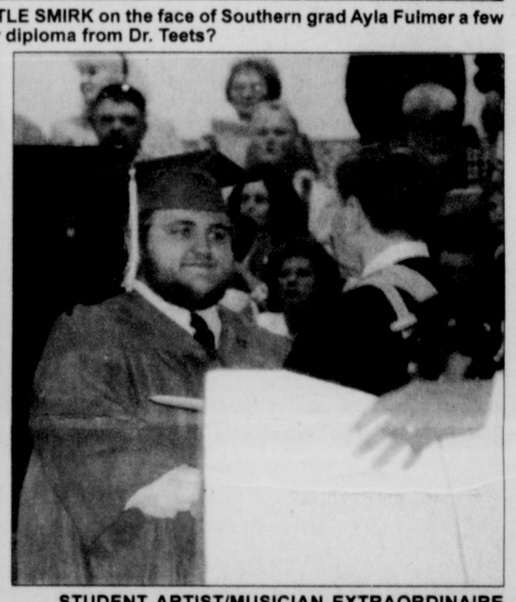
DO WE DETECT A LITTLE SMIRK on the face of Southern grad Ayla Fulmer a few seconds after receiving her diploma from Dr. Teets?

MANY WARM MOMENTS were shared Sunday as students said goodbye to teachers and administrators, as well as to their friends. Cory Spiker is pictured as he and teacher Michelle Harmon exchange kind words.

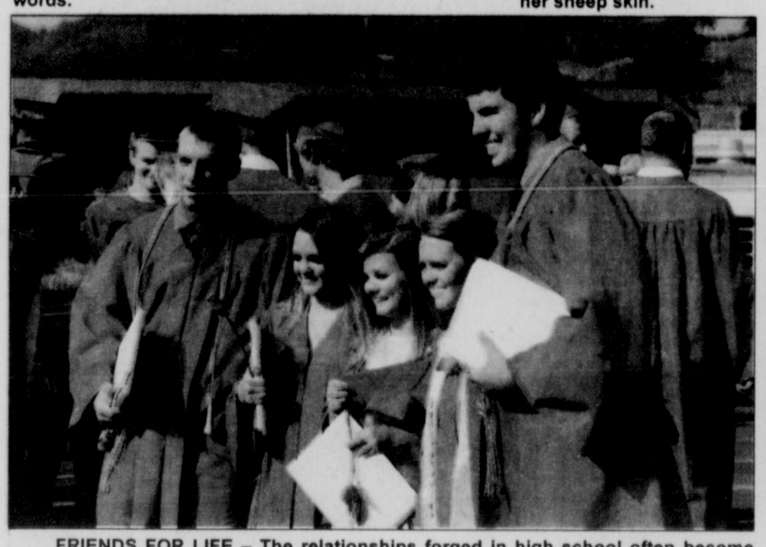
NOW THAT'S A SMILE, being flashed by Southern Class of 2011 graduate Courtney Strubin upon receiving her sheep skin.



POSING PALS – Lauren Adams and Rachel Hershberger stand close for photos as the celebration of Northern's graduation goes on all around them.



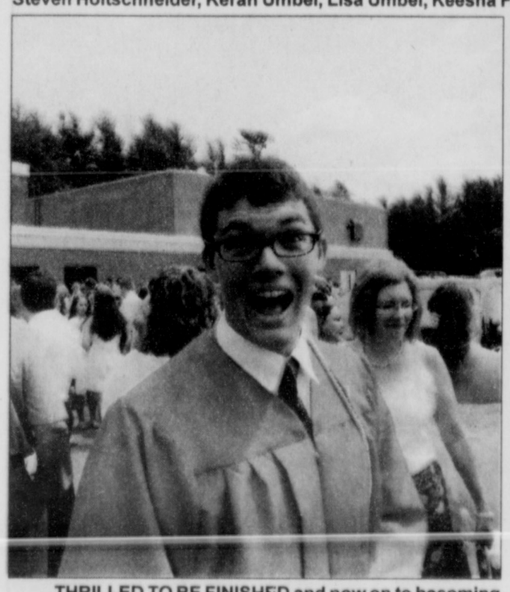
STUDENT ARTIST/MUSICIAN EXTRAORDINAIRE Nick Harkins of Southern High gratefully accepts his diploma from Dr. Teets.



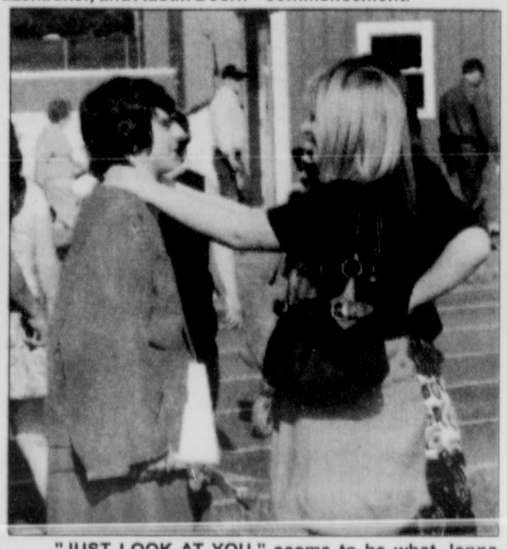
FRIENDS FOR LIFE – The relationships forged in high school often become lifelong, even as the grads follow different paths and move far away. Perhaps these five pals will gather together again at their future class reunions. Pictured from left are Steven Holtschneider, Kerah Umbel, Lisa Umbel, Keesha Fazenbaker, and Austin Doerr.

"I FINALLY MADE IT!" might be the words dancing through the head of Patrick "Woody" Knotts seconds after being presented his diploma at the Southern High commencement.

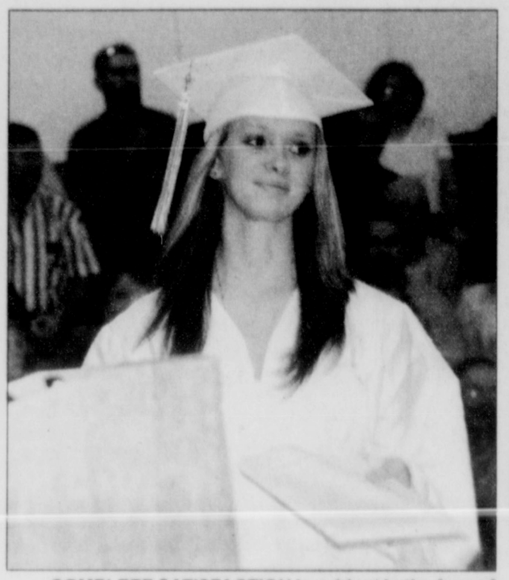
FAMILY MEMBERS OF ALL AGES came out to support their loved ones on Sunday afternoon. Graduate Beth Wagner is pictured as she cuddles her nephew Mason.



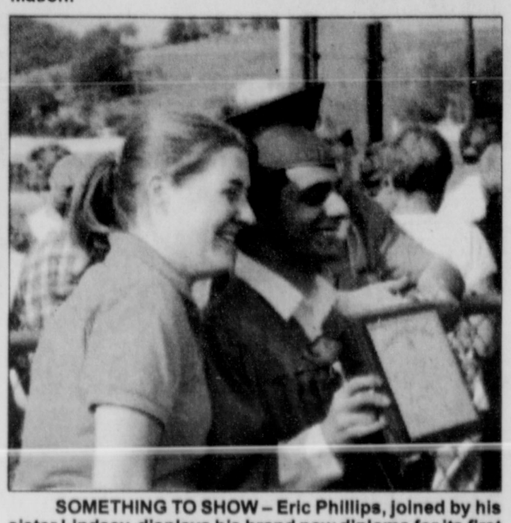
THRILLED TO BE FINISHED and now on to becoming a WVU Mountaineer is Southern High grad Aryne Riley.



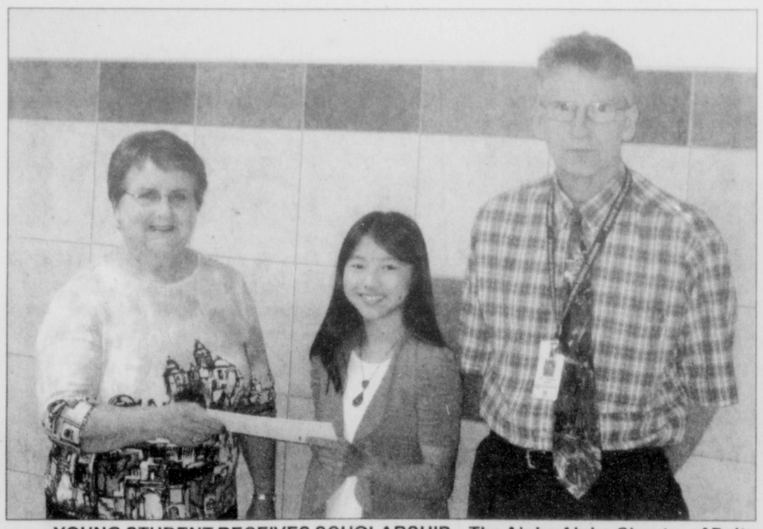
"JUST LOOK AT YOU," seems to be what Jenna Duckworth is saying with pride to graduate Derek Broadwater shortly after the commencement ceremony at Northern.



COMPLETE SATISFACTION is evident in the face of Southern grad Laura Griffin as she departs from the stage.



SOMETHING TO SHOW – Eric Phillips, joined by his sister Lindsey, displays his brand new diploma for its first picture. All photos by John McEwen.



YOUNG STUDENT RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP – The Alpha Alpha Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma recently presented a scholarship to Alexandra Miller in support of her participation in the Maryland Summer Center for Physics of Solar and Wind Power at Frostburg State University. Alexandra is a student at Northern Middle School and is the daughter of Jeff and Maxine Miller of Grantsville. This will be the second Maryland Summer Center that Alexandra has attended. She feels it will be a great opportunity for her as she pursues her career goal of becoming an engineer. Pictured above presenting the scholarship to Alexandra are Carol Slagle (left), Alpha Alpha Chapter president, and Bill Carlson, Northern Middle School principal. Delta Kappa Gamma Society International promotes the professional and personal growth of women educators and excellence in education.

GRANT RECEIVED FOR CULVERT ASSESSMENT PROJECT – Friends of Deep Creek Lake recently received a small grant from Constellation EcoStar Program to conduct the Culvert Assessment Project in the coming three months. Kenny Weaver, recent graduate of Garrett College and resident of Finzel, and Keith Stipe, a high school senior, will be conducting field work along the county and state roads within the Deep Creek Lake watershed. They will locate road culverts, obtain GPS coordinates, obtain information about each culvert, and assess the impact of the runoff on each culvert. They will also develop a set of recommendations to reduce or retain runoff into the lake and watershed streams. Such culverts carry pollutants, trash, winter road treatment materials, and sediment into the lake. "At many locations, it is a simple task to absorb, slow, or divert this runoff in order to protect the ecological health of the streams and lake," noted a spokesperson for the group. This a collaboration with the county Roads Department, the SHA, county Economic Development, and planning and building departments. Friends of Deep Creek Lake are looking for volunteers to help with this field work and encourage local partners to get involved in the project. The group may be contacted via e-mail at contact@friendsofdcl.org.

Rabies Clinics Scheduled At Four Locations

The Garrett County Health Department will hold its second series of low-cost rabies clinics for 2011 for the vaccination of dogs, cats, and ferrets beginning Monday, June 13, and concluding Thursday, June 16. All clinics will be held from 5 to 6 p.m.

The cost is $5 per animal, and the locations and dates are as follows:

Eastern Garrett fire hall, Finzel, Monday, June 13.

Bittinger fire hall, Tuesday, June 14.

Garrett College's maintenance bay, McHenry, Wednesday, June 15.

Deer Park fire hall, Thursday, June 16.

Dogs must be on a leash and under the control of a responsible individual. Cats and ferrets must be brought to the clinic in a cage or a tightly secured box with air holes. If a cage or carrier is not available, the cat must be carried in a pillowcase or suitable cloth sack.

"Close contact of animals at the clinics increases the risk of bites or scratches," said a Health Department spokesperson. "Please be prepared to restrain and control your animals in order to avoid a potential incident."

County dog and cat licenses will be available at each clinic. The license cost is $3 per year for a spayed/neutered animal and $15 for non-spayed/neutered. If a three-year rabies vaccination is received, pet owners may purchase a three-year county dog or cat license.

"The vaccination of dogs and cats is one of the most critical measures which can be taken by pet owners in protecting their families and themselves from possible exposure to the rabies virus," the spokesperson said.

Last year 894 dogs, cats, and ferrets were vaccinated at the Health Department sponsored rabies clinics.

Since wildlife rabies continues to be present in Garrett County, the Health Department strongly urges all pet owners to bring their pets to one of the clinics.

Unvaccinated dogs and cats exposed to rabid animals face the possibility of being euthanized in order to protect their owners and the general public. The necessity of destroying family pets that are unvaccinated can be avoided by keeping vaccinations current.

"Because of the wide geographical distribution of documented rabies cases, no dog or cats being kept in Garrett County can be considered safe from exposure to the disease," the spokesperson said. "Pet owners are highly encouraged to check the expiration date on their pets' rabies certificate to determine the need for revaccination at one of the upcoming clinics or at a local veterinarian's office."

While Maryland law requires dogs, cats, and ferrets over 4 months of age to have the required vaccination against rabies, animals at least 3 months of age can be brought to the clinics and adequately protected by vaccination.

Dogs and cats need to be revaccinated every three years. Puppies and kittens, vaccinated between the ages of 3 and 12 months, and dogs and cats receiving their first vaccination must be revaccinated 12 months later. Ferrets need to be revaccinated every year.

Failure to vaccinate pets against rabies in Maryland is a violation of the Annotated Code of Maryland Health General Article 18, Section 318, and may be punishable by of a fine of up to $500 per animal.

Rotary Offering Scholarships To 2011 Graduates

The Oakland Rotary Club has two $1,000 scholarships for seniors who graduated in 2011 from either Northern or Southern high schools, club president Jim Carmack recently announced.

One of the scholarships is for attendance at a vocational or technical school, and the other one is for a college- or university-bound student. Both scholarships are funded by the sale of Rotary french fries at various events.

The deadline for completed applications is Thursday, June 30. Applications are available by contacting the Oakland Rotary Club, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550, Attention Jim Carmack – President.

Southern Cadets Receive JROTC's "Superior" Award

Three students enrolled in the Southern High School Army JROTC (Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps) leadership academy were recently recognized for their service and "exemplary performance" by being awarded the Cadet Superior Decoration.

The decoration was presented to Nathan Ford, Elizbeth McClean, and Colton Wassell during the school's annual JROTC awards dinner.

"This award is a significant step for these students and the JROTC program," said Lt. Col. (ret.) Ralph Sheaffer, the cadets' senior Army instructor. "It validates their efforts and the overall contribution these cadets have made to the program and their school."

The Cadet Superior Decoration is the highest award a cadet in the Army JROTC program can receive, other than the Cadet Heroism Award. The decoration is presented to one cadet per each cadet level, based on his/her leadership, academics in both JROTC and non-JROTC classes, demonstrated qualities of discipline, courtesy, character, and consistently demonstrated potential qualities of future leaders.

Ford is a sophomore and a third-level cadet. He is on his school's cross country, soccer, and outdoor track teams. He has been on the JROTC academic team for two years and the honor roll.

Within the JRTOC program, Ford is the operations officer, with responsibilities for planning cadet activities and recording information into the Joint Unit Management System (JUMS).

McClean is a level two cadet and a junior. She is a member of the school's marching band and honor band. She holds a black belt in tai kwon do and is on the honor roll.

Within the JROTC program, McClean is the adjutant with responsibilities for inputting cadets' personnel records into the JUMS data base, and organizing the presentation of cadets' awards and promotions. She plans to pursue a degree in psychology or psychiatry.

Wassell is a level one cadet, a freshman, and honor roll student. A member of the JROTC raider team, Wassel also pursues motocross racing and is a certified Red Cross life guard.

He plans to pursue a career with the state police.

SHS CADETS VISIT OLDEST NAVAL YARD – Cadets from the Southern High School JROTC program recently toured the Washington Navy Yard, which is also home to the Naval Criminal Investigation Service (NCIS). They visited the yard's museum, its art collection, the USS Barry destroyer, and the Navy's underwater archeology lab. The planning for the field trip began this past winter while the cadets were at the WNY, where they were given the rare opportunity to view Navy artifacts and visit the Navy's underwater archeology lab. They saw conservation techniques in action and received instructions on the process for conserving U.S. Navy artifacts recovered from freshwater and saltwater environments. Some of the recovered items seen were from the CSS Alabama, a Confederate navy ship that sunk off the coast of France. At the art museum, cadets saw paintings done by combat artists from WWII, as well as etchings from the War of 1812. The Navy's national museum showed the spectrum of naval history where cadets took in the museum's diverse display from the Revolution through present time, polar exploration, and deep sea exploration. On the USS Barry, the cadets explored crew quarters, the bridge, fire control, galley, and communication shack. "The 2,300-ton destroyer seems quite large from the outside, but I was amazed just how tight everything is in the ship," said cadet Killian Fitzwater. The field trip coincided with the cadets' study of the unit dealing with service to the nation, in which the cadets are engaged in the practices of basic citizenship customs, traditions, and exploration of opportunities for civilian and non-civilian national employment. JROTC's broad curriculum base provides cadets and other interested students the unique opportunity to explore areas of citizenship, leadership theory and application, personal wellness and first aid, geography, environmental awareness, and foundations for success. Above, from left, beginning with the front row are LTC (ret.) Ralph Sheaffer, Tiffany Longacre, Elizabeth McClean, Nathan Ford, Emily Nazelrod, and Jim Wilmot. Second row: Jonathan Potts, Jason Paulinski, Daren Large, Matt Blamble, Austin Perando, and Jose Navtivida. Back row: Trevor Bosse, Nickoli Friend, Colton Wassell, Dakota Lambert, Cody Hoye, Ben Rodeheaver, Ryan Schrier, and Killian Fitzwater. Below are cadets Jonathan Potts and Dakota Lambert (back to camera) in front of the USS Barry.

Course Slated On "Mystery Shopping For Fun And Profit"

"Mystery Shopping for Fun and Profit" is the title of a course to be offered by the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College. Classes are scheduled on four consecutive Tuesdays beginning on July 5 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville.

"Mystery – or secret – shoppers are hired to visit a place of business, and report on how the company and its employees measure up in certain areas of service," explained Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator. "Mystery shoppers get paid to shop and enjoy the services of some of the best-known retail, restaurant, and hotel chains in the country."

Veteran mystery shopper Sandra Miller-Louden will lead this four-week workshop. Within her first year of secret shopping in 2002, Miller-Louden completed more than 250 jobs in four states. She had eaten in upscale restaurants, received special airport security clearance to shop a well-known clothier, and evaluated service in places carrying computers, cookies, kitchenware, ATVs, cell phones, yogurt, jewelry, and lingerie, among others.

Miller-Louden explained that as a mystery shopper she experienced role-playing as an interior designer, a woman who needed to lose 15 pounds fast, a bride-to-be, a mother-to-be, a woman who wanted laser eye surgery, and someone who was in the midst of renovating her kitchen. She admitted that she was soon hooked on this new-found, fun way to earn money.

"Throw in a few overnight hotel stays with heated indoor swimming pools in the middle of winter, lavish breakfast buffets, exercise rooms . . . and no two days, or nights, were alike," she noted.

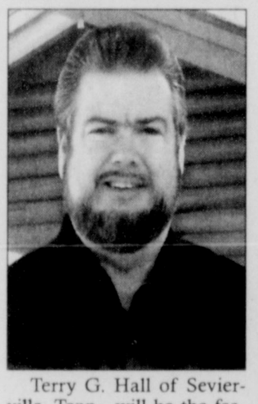
As an experienced mystery shopper, Miller-Louden will share tips, secrets, and facts about the world of mystery shopping. She will explain how to avoid the scams and clarify some of the frequent misconceptions about this work. She will also explain which jobs may be better to take and which to avoid, as well as which companies had proved good to work for and which she would suggest someone pass up.

Anyone seeking answers to questions prior to registering for this course may e-mail Miller-Louden at sandra@greetingcardwriting.com.

For additional information, persons may contact Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, one may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Nazarene Church Schedules Revival



Terry G. Hall of Sevierville, Tenn., will be the featured speaker and soloist for a weekend revival at Oakland Church of the Nazarene, June 17–19. Friday and Saturday services will be at 7 p.m., and Sunday services are scheduled for 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Hall has been traveling and singing for 41 years – beginning in his home state of Kentucky – singing bass with various southern gospel groups on weekends. He has sung at Dollywood, as well as the Christmas Place in Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

Hall's part-time ministry expanded to several nearby states, and in 2000, he and his wife Janice moved to Tennessee to start a full-time gospel ministry. They travel extensively to churches, RV resorts, festivals, flea markets, retirement communities, prisons, and "anywhere the Lord leads them to present the Gospel."

Oakland Church of the Nazarene is located at 203 South Eighth Street. Pastor Art Evans extends an invitation to the public to attend the revival services.

Child's Play

A playground brings back memories of happy times, an oasis in a busy day. In our hectic lives, we need to find a reason to smile in the midst of mayhem...for ourselves as well as for those who see us, that they might "catch" our pleasant frame of mind. God gives us a reason to smile; He cares for us as His children. Discover His sanctuary in the midst of the business of living. Share in the joy of becoming a child of God!

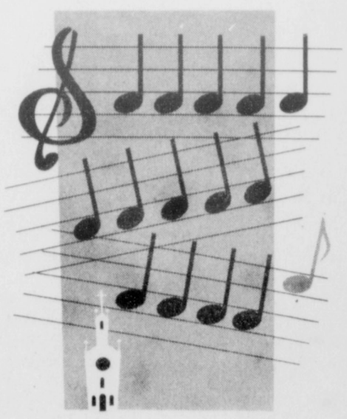
Get Off the Hedonic Treadmill



Have you ever noticed that the raise in pay which thrilled you beyond measure when first received begins to go flat after a couple of weeks or months? After a few months, you are not discernibly happier with the increase in pay than you were before. Likewise, new pleasures soon become humdrum, as we adapt or "habituate" to them. Psychologists call this adaptation with regard to pleasures the "hedonic treadmill." One way to avoid this is to seek variety. Very few of us want to eat our favorite food three times a day, and if we want to continue enjoying it, it probably makes sense to limit how often we have it. Lifelong hobbies will continue to give pleasure if we vary them in some way, perhaps learning new and better techniques which are relevant to the hobby. Music, literature, and the arts are wonderful sources of pleasure, but no one wants to hear the same song over and over again. Variety is truly the spice of life. Consider how rich the world is with tastes and sounds and sights just waiting to be savored.

Delight yourself also in the Lord, and he shall give you the desires of your heart.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

LOW-PROBABILITY EVENTS

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. Every year there is someplace or other that gets clobbered by some unexpected natural disaster. In the springtime, it's floods, tornadoes, hailstorms. Isn't there a way to build things to withstand such occurrences?

A. Recently I explained the concept of conditional probability, where we examine the probability that B will happen, given that A has already happened.

A good example of this is the question "What is the probability of a tsunami, given than an earthquake just happened?" It turns out it's not 100%. Even under water, if the tectonic plates slip sideways rather than vertically, there won't be a tsunami.

Engineers striving to build safety into large systems consider conditional probabilities in their designs, but aren't always perfect. At the Japanese nuclear plant, they anticipated a magnitude-7 earthquake, and designed the reactor vessel to withstand it. Then a magnitude-9 quake came along and the reactor survived it, so the design was evidently extra strong. Separately, the sea wall was good enough to stop a 25-foot surge, but a 45-foot tsunami came along after the earthquake. That was the actual cause of all the reactor damage.

People jokingly refer to "Murphy's Law: If anything can possibly go wrong, it will." Engineers take this quite seriously as a design principle. Large systems of equipment become more expensive because of the cost of safeguards intended to compensate for unusual combinations of things going wrong. Just about everything gets taken into account.

But "just about everything" and "absolutely everything" aren't quite the same. Some "unusual" events aren't quite so exceptional. News of a "once-in-100-year rainstorm" happening somewhere twice in a decade has come often enough that it no longer gets national attention.

When doing calculations about low-probability events, information is combined about averages and variations. For weather-related disasters, a data base is built up by taking measurements of actual experience, and over decades or centuries the reliability increases. So engineers know pretty well what conditions to expect, on average. Typical variations are randomly scattered within some range. The characteristic measure of such variations is called the standard deviation.

If events happen randomly in the normal way, then some numerical value that lies beyond three standard deviations from the mean either way only has about a 1% probability of occurring. Planners take the average value, add three standard deviations, and call that the 1% figure. For example, let's say rainfall during May in some community averages 4", with a standard deviation of 1.5". Three standard deviations more than the mean is 8.5". With a 1% probability in any given year, it would probably happen once a century. That's where the definition of a "100-year rainfall" came from.

Now enlarge your thinking to the national scope. If 500 towns each built flood-control systems to withstand a 100-year rainstorm, then in any given year, standard probability would expect five of them to be overwhelmed by a storm. We find out about that because all five would make the national news. Meanwhile, among all the other towns that do not get clobbered, the people feel safe with their existing flood-control program. They're not inclined to vote for an additional tax to build something that reaches the "500-year" or "1,000-year" level of safety.

For some applications, a 1% failure rate isn't acceptable, and greater durability or safety is called for. That's why the Japanese reactors withstood a magnitude-9 earthquake, even though only magnitude-7 was expected. Buildings and bridges are always over-designed with appreciable safety margins. But every increase in safety costs more money.

Planning for the worst gets expensive, and at some point it just stops making sense. Raising a levee to the 1,000-year height absorbs funds that could be spent on education, cleaner water, or any number of worthwhile projects. Local governments and citizens argue about such decisions constantly.

How safe is really safe? In designing a system, where do you draw the line? Every project has a finite budget, and decisions must be made as to the best allocation of financial resources. Trade-offs are inevitable, and experienced engineers get a feel about what's important and what's not. Some things are so outlandish (e.g., a tsunami in Indiana) that they are confidently dismissed.

Fortunately, our modern society includes some helpful tools for better designs. In the 19th century, there were loose guidelines like "Don't try to cross that river this time of year." Nowadays we have weather satellites and sophisticated computers that provide accurate modeling of how water will flow downstream, which enables remarkably good flood control on many major rivers.

There are events of such low probability – but terribly high consequences – that standard probability theory is not very helpful. Sometimes it's worthwhile to spend the money and install precautionary equipment that sits idle for years, decades, maybe your entire life. A system of tsunami warning sirens recently saved many Japanese lives. Tornado warning systems in some American midwestern towns have only been heard in tests … so far.

Used Book Sale To Be Held At Oakland Library

Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library will hold a used book sale at the Oakland library on Friday, June 24, from 9:15 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on Saturday, June 25, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Donations of books (no magazines) for the event are now being accepted at the Oakland library.

Proceeds from the book sale will benefit the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County. For more information, persons may call Kathy Helbig at 301-533-1050 or 301-616-7791.

Barbecue Set To Benefit Salisbury Fire Department

The Salisbury (Pa.) Volunteer Fire Department will hold a chicken barbecue on Sunday, June 12, from 11 a.m. until sold out.

Meals will be for take-out only. For $8.50, the meal will include half a chicken, baked beans, coleslaw, and a roll, or for $6, persons can get half a chicken and a roll.

All proceeds will benefit the fire department, which is located at 385 Ord Street in Salisbury.

DCLSP To Join In Great American Camp Out Event

The staff at Deep Creek Lake State Park and the National Wildlife Foundation will join together to celebrate the Great American Camp Out, and are inviting the public to take part. The camp out will begin on Saturday, June 25, at 6 p.m., and end on Sunday, June 26, at 10 a.m.

"Take this opportunity to give camping a try, or just get the family out as the entire country camps out," a spokesperson said.

Rangers will be on hand to assist, and to lead night hikes, star gazing, and bat-echo locating.

Campers may arrive after 6 p.m. to set up camp in the specially designated area. A campfire will begin at 7:30 p.m. that will include a sing-along and other activities.

At dark, participants will have the opportunity to join in on several activities, such as an "owl prowl," take part in the bat program, or go or stargazing. Participants can rotate through each of these activities.

Campers are responsible for their own breakfast and camping gear. The event ends at 10 a.m. the following morning and tents must be packed up by then. The cost will be $5 per person.

The event is open to everyone but limited to the first 100 registrants. To register, persons are to call 301-387-5563. A packet of information will be sent with a map and schedule of activities. Persons may e-mail questions to mspurrier@dnr.state.md.us.

Zion Lutheran Schedules VBS

Vacation Bible School will be held at Zion Lutheran Church in Accident June 20–24 from 9:15 a.m. to noon each day. Classes are available for children preschool age through fifth grade. "Big Jungle Adventure" is this year's theme.

"Go wild on a faith journey with Jesus," said a spokesperson. "Grab a vine, brave the rapids, and prepare for a big jungle adventure."

Middle and high school students will be assisting as helpers and earning service learning hours as they do so.

For more information, persons may call the church office Monday through Thursday between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at 301-746-8170.

Dr. Priselac To Retire From GC At End Of June

Dr. Nancy J. Priselac will retire from Garrett College at the end of June. She began her career with Garrett College in January of 1986. During her tenure, she served in several capacities, including dean of student affairs, dean of institutional research, dean of enrollment development, assistant to the president, and chair of the Mathematics Department.

During nearly 26 years of service, Dr. Priselac has made several important contributions to the community as a result of her passion for educational excellence. In reflecting upon these contributions, some of the more heartfelt ones included the establishment of a developmental mathematics education program with the full support of the Continuing Education and Academic Divisions of the college.

This program was offered with a dedicated full-time and adjunct faculty staff. At the heart of this program was the goal of maintaining a student-centered teaching focus, which resulted in significant student success rates.

Another valuable outcome of Priselac's dedication to education resulted in a partnership initiated by the Garrett County commissioners and Garrett County public school administrators to write the first scholarship document that afforded the graduates of Northern High School and Southern High School the opportunity to attend Garrett College tuition free in order to obtain an associate's degree or certificate.

For more than 15 years, Priselac maintained a role in writing the grant for the Gifted and Talented Program, which provided 90 sixth-to-twelfth-grade students from across Maryland the opportunity to attend a weeklong residential academic summer center focused on the integration of math, science, and technology.

In her service as assistant to the president and chair of the Math Department, Priselac was able to establish the first distance-learning education program for the campus under the leadership of former college president Dr. Steven J. Herman, which continues to allow students to attend college without the obstacles of distance or rural location.

In a joint effort with David Sumler, Maryland State Department of Education, and select representatives of the departments of education in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, Priselac served as chair of a three-state reciprocity committee for Maryland, where in they worked together to write the reciprocity documents that allowed students to travel from across state lines to attend special programs.

Priselac's passion for education has been recognized through not only numerous awards, but also through the words of her students, who have shown their admiration for her in such statements as, "You changed my life" and "You are a terrific and an outstanding teacher."

Of the many accolades Priselac received during her years at Garrett College, she was especially honored to be awarded the outstanding mathematics educator for the community college system in Maryland.

She looks forward to continuing her pursuit for educational excellence in the science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) arena. After retiring from Garrett College, Dr. Priselac is committing her talents to her new role as vice president for nCASE (the national Center for the Advancement of STEM Education).

With nCASE, Priselac hopes to continue fostering change in classroom STEM instruction by reaching out to teachers in more than 25 states through various training modules focused on the student-centered teaching model. The nCASE center will be located at 45 West Kerr Street in Uniontown, Pa.

It is with bittersweet sentiment that Dr. Priselac will miss working with students in the local college classroom. However, her influence as a dedicated educator will continue as nCASE partners with the U.S. Department of Defense to accomplish our nation's goal of achieving global excellence by motivating young minds to solve tomorrow's challenges with innovations in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics.

CASE To End At GC; nCASE To Begin In Pa.

A United States Department of Defense (DoD) grant-funded initiative that has existed at Garrett College is coming to the end of its grant period, assistant director Kim Dillinger, Center for the Advancement of STEM Education (CASE) in McHenry, recently announced.

Local administrators of this National Defense Education endeavor will be departing the college after a successful five-year program to pursue new endeavors, she added.

"CASE executive director Dr. Stephen M. Priselac, and director of Training Dr. Nancy J. Priselac, would like to extend a fond farewell to the administration of Garrett College and express their gratitude for its support given during its time at the campus," Dillinger said. "A special thank you is extended to former President Dr. Steven J. Herman for having the vision and dedication to support this innovative program."

The Drs. Priselac have worked together to establish nCASE (the national Center for the Advancement of STEM Education), a nonprofit educational organization, which is committed to continuing the development and expansion of the former

Associate Degree In Engineering Is Introduced At Garrett College

A new associate of science in engineering (ASE) / electrical engineering degree program is now available at Garrett College, and will be offered for the first time during the fall 2011 semester. The ASE program submitted by the college was officially approved by the Maryland Higher Education Commission (MHEC) Oversight Council on May 17.

Dr. Qing Yuan, director of the business and information technology program at GC who wrote the GC ASE program proposal, explained that the development of the ASE outcome-based curriculum model was a joint effort of community colleges and universities in Maryland and was approved by MHEC.

The ASE/electrical engineering curriculum was designed based on a set of standard learning outcomes with consensus from all the participating colleges and universities to articulate with engineering programs at four-year institutions in Maryland. Therefore, there is no significant difference in the degree outcomes among the institutions. The curriculum mapping and individual course content, however, may differ.

"We are very excited about providing Garrett County residents seeking an engineering degree the opportunity to start their degree close to home. This option will increase access and reduce costs for students." Dr. Yuan said. "The rigorous curriculum builds on a solid foundation of mathematics, sciences including chemistry and physics, and computer technology."

Initiating this new degree option, Dr. Yuan has taken another bold step in fulfilling the mission statement of Garrett College: to provide accessible, high quality education in a supportive environment to a diverse student population through associate degrees and certificate programs; and to develop engaging, innovative, and sustainable curricula, programs, and initiatives that are responsive to changing and emerging employment opportunities for citizens of Garrett County and its surrounding region.

Dr. Yuan pointed out that coal, natural gas, and newer forms of energy production, light manufacturing, and the growing technology together form a significant portion of the economic base, with a growing workforce need in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM)-based occupations.

"A shortage of STEM graduates has not only been identified as a regional issue, but as a national problem," Yuan said. "The state of Maryland has responded to the need by developing an associate of science in engineering (ASE) degree with the expressed purpose of creating a direct pathway between Maryland associate and baccalaureate degrees in engineering," she said.

Referencing the State of Maryland Occupational Projections Report 2006-2016, Yuan explained that a shortfall of graduates to fill computer and electrical engineering degrees has been identified.

"Electrical and computer engineering are two of the occupations with significant gaps between employment opportunities and numbers of graduates qualified to take advantage of those opportunities," she said.

"Our students will receive quality instructions and hands-on experiences in the GC ASE program," Dr. Yuan continued. "The students will have access to the state-of-the art electronics lab in the college's new Career Technology Training Center, which opened last fall in the Central Garrett Industrial Park in Accident."

Dr. Yuan said she would encourage adult learners as well as recent high school graduates to learn about the opportunities afforded by the ASE program.

For more information on this program, persons may contact Dr. Yuan at 301-387-3043 or online at www.garrettcollege.edu.

CASE To End

CASE program.

To be located at 45 West Kerr Street in Uniontown, Pa., nCASE will be increasing its current 25-state program to 30 states over the next year, Dillinger said.

CASE is a unique program with the mission of achieving global excellence by motivating young minds to solve tomorrow's challenges with innovations in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM), noted Dillinger.

"Because teachers are the gateway to impacting student learning, CASE believes that it is essential for teachers to be provided with the resources necessary to successfully implement an inquiry- and design-based learning environment," she said.

The vision of CASE is to increase the interest and engagement of young people in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics by providing resources to schools, teachers and students. Its main focus is to identify what works, what is needed, and to find innovative solutions for current and emerging challenges in STEM education.

The goal of the program is to create more STEM professionals in the U.S. by making a concerted and unified effort to connect businesses, government, universities, schools, teachers, scientists, engineers, parents, and students.

"The CASE professional development programs are unique because they include STEM experts currently working for the DoD," Dillinger said. "The Department of Defense has shown its commitment to this program by selecting outstanding scientists and engineers from its regional laboratories to offer their knowledge and expertise to teachers and students in school districts located near the designated DoD laboratories. These STEM professionals add a real-world perspective to the classroom teaching and learning experience."

CASE training programs are designed to immerse teachers, scientists, and engineers in activities associated with inquiry- and design-based learning that will supplement the regular science and math curriculum.

To date, CASE has trained approximately 1,700 teachers and 300 scientists and engineers from 25 states, who are affecting numerous classrooms of students each year by implementing the STEM learning modules and student-centered teaching techniques they have acquired through these training sessions, according to Dillinger.

Garrett Coach Holds Minor League Clinic

Garrett College head baseball coach Eric Hallenbeck recently held a mini-clinic for the Oakland Minor League sponsored by Team One Auto. The clinic consisted of throwing drills, outfield and infield mechanics, base running, and hitting drills.

"Working with 18-20-year-olds 10 months out of the year, I found this was a good change for me," Coach Hallenbeck said. "I hope the boys had a good time. With all the smiling faces, the high fives, and the enthusiasm they showed, I think they did. At that age, as long as you make it fun for them they'll be into the drills, give you effort, and learn the game at the same time."

The eighth-year Laker head coach donated three free hitting lessons to the Oakland youth baseball league raffle this past spring, but the winner of the lessons had a better idea.

"One of the team moms won the free hitting lessons, and she thought that instead of just having her son use the hitting lessons, the whole team would benefit more from having a clinic," Hallenbeck said. "She gave me a call and asked about the possibility. We set it up with the coaches from Team One and had a 2½-hour Saturday clinic."

"He was really nice," Michael Moon said, speaking of Coach Hallenbeck. "He had us out in the grass and we had to run forward to catch the ball. We practiced stepping back and forward."

"It was really fun," added Aerik LeBon. "We learned a lot. And the coach has the same first name I do, but he spells it differently."

"Two of the most important things he taught us were to go back first if you want to go forward, and that the back leg will always give you the power," Michael said.

In a recent game the boys called on their newly learned baseball techniques.

"Yeah, we used all the skills the coach taught us," said Michael.

"It really helped a lot, and we won," said Aerik.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was British novelist and playwright Somerset Maugham who made the following sage observation: "I made up my mind long ago that life was too short to do anything for myself that I could pay others to do for me."

• You may not be surprised to learn that, according to a poll conducted by The Associated Press, Americans hate math twice as much as any other subject.

• If you're planning a trip to Wisconsin this summer, be sure to stop in the town of Middleton. This is where you'll find the Mûstard Museum, billed as "home to the world's largest collection of mustards and mustard memorabilia." The museum is the brainchild of Barry Levinson, a former assistant attorney general for the state of Wisconsin, who says that in October of 1986, after his favorite baseball team lost the World Series, he was wandering the aisles of a grocery store in the wee hours of the morning looking, as he puts it, for "the meaning of life." He says that as he passed the mustards he heard a voice saying, "If you collect us, they will come." And so he did. This summer is a good time to visit, since Aug. 6 is the 20th annual Mustard Day.

• Do animals grieve their own? Perhaps so -- at least, some animals. When an elephant dies, other elephants in the herd will cover the body with leaves and branches and often will stay with the body for days.

• On June 15, 1215, King John puts his royal seal on the Magna Carta, or "Great Charter," a peace treaty between John and his barons, guaranteeing that the king would respect feudal rights and privileges, uphold the freedom of the church and maintain the nation's laws. Four original copies of the Magna Carta of 1215 exist today.

• On June 16, 1738, printer, publisher, postmistress and patriot Mary Katharine Goddard is born in New London, Conn. In 1777, when Congress decided to print the Declaration of Independence, including a complete list of signatures, it chose Mary Goddard as printer.

• On June 17, 1885, The Statue of Liberty, a gift of friendship from the people of France to the people of the United States, arrives in New York City's harbor. The dismantled statue was enclosed in more than 200 packing cases. Its copper sheets were reassembled, and the last rivet of the monument was fitted on Oct. 28, 1886.

• On June 19, 1905, some 450 people attend the opening day of the world's first nickelodeon, located in Pittsburgh. The storefront theater boasted 96 seats and charged each patron 5 cents. Its usual offerings included live vaudeville acts as well as short films. • On June 14, 1968, Dr. Benjamin Spock is convicted in Federal District Court of conspiring to aid, abet and counsel draft registrants to violate the Selective Service Act. Spock, a physician, was the famous author of "The Common Sense Book of Baby and Child Care."

• On June 13, 1971, The New York Times begins publishing portions of the 47-volume Pentagon analysis of how the U.S. commitment in Southeast Asia grew over a period of three decades. The publication of the "Pentagon Papers" precipitated a crucial legal battle over "the people's right to know."

• On June 18, 1984, radio talk-show host Alan Berg, the self-described "man you love to hate," is gunned down in the driveway of his home in Denver. Berg's story provided the loose inspiration for the 1988 film "Talk Radio."

Q: I recently found a 1930 edition of "The Secret of the Old Clock" by Carolyn Keene, which I believe is the first book in the Nancy Drew series. It is missing its original dust jacket, but appears to be intact and in excellent condition. What is it worth? -- Myra Lou, Franklin County, Mo.

A: According to "All About Collecting Girls' Series Books" by John Axe (Hobby House Press), the first edition of "The Secret of the Old Clock" is worth about $300 with cover.

Q: I purchased an old railroad lock manufactured by Wilson Bohannan of Brooklyn, N.Y., at a garage sale, and I wonder if it has any value. I have searched the Internet, but have not been able to find out anything about either the company or the lock. -- Pat, Sun City West, Ariz.

A: According to David J. Thebodo, an Iowa-based railroad appraiser, two sources that might be beneficial are the National Railway Historical Society, P.O. Box 58547, Philadelphia, PA 19102; and Key, Lock and Lantern, a club for railroad collecting enthusiasts. Dave Hamilton is the contact person for the club, transportsim@aol.com. I don't want to derail you, but Thebodo pointed out that most railroad locks are marked with the name of the line. For example, a Southern Pacific or Santa Fe lock is identified as such. The pictures you sent me show no such ID marks.

Q: I have a coin bank that was a United Bank and Trust premium in St. Louis in 1951. It is configured in the shape of a rocket ship and globe. -- David, Salem, Mo.

A: Kathy and Walter Easterbrook are advanced collectors of diecast metal banks and might be able to help you. You can contact them by writing Eastco Banks and Collectibles, P.O. Box 412, Hancock, NY 13783.

Q: I really liked "Human Target." Was it canceled? And if it is returning, when will its new season start? –Gabrielle Collier, Seattle

A: It's two seasons and out for the latest live-action incarnation of the DC comic, which ABC had tried earlier with Rick Springfield in the central role. The more recent Fox version, which starred Mark Valley, wasn't renewed for next season.

Q: Will there be another "Star Trek" movie with Chris Pine? –Judy Harkness, Marietta, Ohio

A: There will, but the question is exactly when it will reach theaters. In March, Pine – who is set to reprise the role of the younger James Kirk – said he had a draft of the script for the sequel but added that no filming date had been set. That largely has revolved around the availability of filmmaker J.J. Abrams, who wanted to get his new thriller "Super 8" launched first.

Initially, Paramount Pictures hoped to have the movie in theaters one year from now as one of the studio's big summer 2012 offerings. The good news is that yes, it's coming; the not-so-good-at-the-moment news is that it will depend on when production begins. Zachary Quinto, Karl Urban, Zoe Saldana, Simon Pegg, Anton Yelchin and John Cho also are slated to return.

Q: I love "Parenthood," and I am hearing rumors that it may be taken off the air. Please say it isn't so. –Gerry Dean, Lakeland, Fla.

A: Since you asked, OK ... it isn't so. For its third season, the NBC comedy-drama will remain in the slot that closes out the Tuesday prime-time lineup. There apparently had been some talk about moving it to Mondays when the fall lineup was discussed, but in the end, the network elected to leave the show where it's been.

Q: What happened to the professional dancer named Edyta who was on "Dancing With the Stars"? She hasn't been on the show for the past two years. –Christine Bell, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: Technically, it's the past two seasons (both of which were within the same television season) of the ABC show that Edyta Sliwinska was missing from. After the 10th season, she wrote on her Facebook page that she wanted to finish school and begin a family with her husband, fellow dancer Alec Mazo ... also a "Dancing With the Stars" veteran. Thus, she's been absent from the program in recent times.

Kitzmiller Elem. Gains "Green School" Status

Kitzmiller Elementary School, along with 83 other Maryland schools, has joined the 2011 class of newly certified Maryland Green Schools.

Kitzmiller Elementary was officially recognized as an MAEOE (Maryland Association for Environmental and Outdoor Education) certified Maryland Green School during the Maryland Green School Youth Summit on Friday, June 3, at Sandy Point State Park.

The Maryland Green Schools Award Program, developed and administered by the MAEOE, challenges schools to integrate the environment into all aspects of school culture. Some aspects of school culture that may see environmental integration include: professional development of teachers, curriculum, modeling of best management practices inside and outside school, and community involvement.

"It's a culture change that doesn't happen overnight, and can't happen unless the whole school is involved," stated an MAEOE spokesperson.

"On average, it takes a school two years to effectively fulfill the requirements associated with certification."

This is the second recertification of "green" school status for Kitzmiller. The school's goal is to become a model "green" school over the next three years.

"This would be quite an accomplishment for the school and community in 2014," the Kitzmiller Green School Committee has stated.

Academically, Maryland Green Schools have been proven to outperform non-Maryland Green Schools in math and reading, even when socioeconomic factors are removed. Additionally, the projects that are implemented within the school buildings and on the school grounds contribute to lowering greenhouse gas emissions, reducing pollutant export into the Chesapeake Bay, reducing solid waste disposal, and increasing wildlife habitat.

"The Maryland Green School Program is education in action. These students understand that tomorrow starts today," said Bronwyn Mitchell, MAEOE executive director.

"Once empowered, students eagerly engage in building a brighter and healthier future for us all."

Those interested in more information may visit the MAEOE web site at www.maeoe.org.

YOUGH GLADES ELEMENTARY FOSTERS YOUNG READERS – Yough Glades Elementary School has recently recognized its students in the Accelerated Reader Program, in which students read particular books and take tests regarding their comprehension of a given selection. Students accumulate points and are able to purchase items from the accelerated reader store periodically throughout the school year. Their names are placed in a point club displayed at the school. Students in the 5 Points Club are pictured above. In the front row, left to right, are: Emma Strosnider, Brooklyn Cline, Mariah Klotz, Makayla Miller, and Kaleb Smith. In the back row are: Cree Lloyd, Zachary Beckman, Morgan Cowgill, Wyatt Biser, Gavin White, and Scottie Bowman.

On Provost's, Dean's Lists At Potomac State

Four local residents were named to the provost's and dean's lists for the 2011 spring semester at Potomac State College of West Virginia University.

Devan N. Yoder, Friendsville, and Kathryne J. Gindlesberger, Oakland, made the provost's list. To be eligible for this honor, a student must earn a 3.7 to 4.0 grade point average while maintaining a full-time student status.

Melissa J. Rhodes, Oakland, and Catlin C. Carrico, Swanton, were named to the dean's list. To be eligible for this list, a student must earn a 3.0 to 3.699 grade point average and be enrolled full time.

Celebration Set For Gorman Church Of God

Rev. Tony Sanford announced on Monday that Gorman Church of God would have an anniversary celebration on Saturday, June 11, between the hours of 4 and 6 p.m.

Monday, June 6, marked one year since Sanford and his wife Connie arrived at the Gorman church, where he serves as pastor.

The Sanfords came to Gorman from the Heart of Florida Youth Ranch in Citra, Fla., where they performed the duties of house parents. The reverend, a former musician, also works for AssetBook Inc. as a database specialist.

The celebration will be held outside, weather permitting, and will include a cookout with free food and music provided by local Christian musicians and singers. The public is invited to attend the event.

For more information one may contact Tony Sanford at 301-616-0119 or at tony.sanford@assetbook.com.

F. Bittinger Plans Animal Benefit At Waldenbooks

Author Frank E. Bittinger, formerly of Grantsville, will hold his third annual benefit for animals at Waldenbooks at the Country Club Mall in LaVale on Saturday, June 11, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In addition to Bittinger, local authors Charlene Haines and Jeremy Gosnell will be available for book signings.

The event will benefit the Allegany County Animal Shelter and the Safe Shelter Rescue in Flinstone.

Donations of the following are needed: both dry and canned dog food, cat litter, treats, toys, leashes, paper towls, toilet paper, garbage bags, and cleaning supplies.

Bittinger formed a nonprofit corporation, the Shadow Organization, to help animals.

"Allow me to thank all you wonderful people who constantly and consistently support me and my efforts on behalf of those who don't have voices to ask for help themselves: the animals," Bittinger said.

PUBLIC NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE OF BLASTING OPERATIONS

Notice is hereby given that Vindex Energy Corporation, 265-A Glass Drive, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland 21550, 301-334-6497, intends to conduct blasting activities on Surface Mine Permit No. SM-02-443 located in District No. 1 of Garrett County, 3.0 miles southeast of Swanton, Maryland.

Blasting will be conducted during daylight hours from 9:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 2:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. for the period beginning July 9, 2011, and continuing through July 9, 2012.

Public access to the area prior to blasting will be controlled by barricading the access road. Three minutes prior to blasting, three short horn blasts of five seconds duration with five seconds between each blast shall denote the pre-blast warning. The "all clear" signal shall consist of one 20 second sounding of the horn.

As approved by the regulatory authority, blasting activities will not be conducted at times other than those announced without appropriate notification or in the event of an emergency situation where rain, lightning, other atmospheric conditions, operator or public safety dictate unscheduled detonation.

As a resident or owner of a dwelling within one-half mile of the permit area, you may request a pre-blast survey by contacting Vindex Energy Corporation at the above address or the Maryland Bureau of Mines, 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532. The request must be written. 6/9

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
SWANTON, MD 21561

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Terry E. Hale Sr., dated March 17, 2006, and recorded in Liber 1205, Folio 545, and re-recorded at Liber 1515, Folio 108 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, with an original principal balance of $71,666.68, and an original interest rate of 13.250%, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction at the Courthouse door for the Circuit Court for Garrett County, on

June 17, 2011 AT 1:00 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND and the improvements thereon situated in Garrett County, MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $8,000.00 by certified funds only (no cash will be accepted) is required at the time of auction. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. The purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note, its assigns, or designees, shall pay interest on the unpaid purchase money at the note rate from the date of foreclosure auction to the date funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Real estate taxes to be adjusted as of the date of foreclosure auction. All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, condo/HOA dues, not otherwise divested by ratification of the sale, and whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser, unless the purchaser is the foreclosing lender or its designee. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. Purchaser agrees to pay to the Sellers' attorney's a fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein.

If the purchaser shall fail to comply with the terms of the sale or fails to go to settlement within ten (10) days of ratification of the sale, the Substitute Trustees may, in addition to any other available legal remedies, declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser, in which case the purchaser agrees to pay attorneys fees of $1,250.00, plus costs, to the Trustees. Purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of foreclosure auction. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of resale, reasonable attorney's fees, and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages, and any deficiency in the underlying secured debt. The purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. If the Substitute Trustees cannot convey insurable title, the purchaser's sole remedy at law or in equity shall be the return of the deposit. The sale is subject to post-sale confirmation and audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of his deposit without interest.

In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale confirmation that the borrower did not file for protection under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code prior to the sale, as well as to post-sale confirmation and audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement or reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of his deposit without interest.

Adjustment of real property taxes will be made as of the date of sale and assumed thereafter by Purchaser. All other public charges and assessments, including, but not limited to water and sewer charges, whether incurred prior to or after the sale, shall be paid by Purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, document preparation and title insurance shall be borne by purchaser. Purchaser shall pay all applicable agricultural transfer tax, if any. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. The property and the improvements thereon are being sold in an "as is" condition and subject to prior conveyances, restrictions, liens and agreements of record affecting the same, if any. Neither the Substitute Trustee, the beneficiary, nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any warranty or representation, either express or implied, with respect to the property. Purchaser agrees to pay $275.00 at settlement, to the Substitute Trustee's attorney, for review of the settlement documents and $275.00 for review and processing of any pleadings to substitute a purchaser.

RECREATIONAL

Prijon Kodiak Touring/Sea Kayak 17 ft.
Two Lendal Paddles, One Carbon Fiber
Made in Scotland, High Mobility Life Vest
Spray Skirt for Cold Weather Use
Custom Cable Locking Mechanism for Car or Rack Use

Great kayak for beginner or expert. Has wide enough beam to be comfortable and steady but narrow enough profile, with length, to also be fast. Rudder pedal controls installed but no rudder - I never needed it. Two water tight dry compartments make gear storage easy and boat virtually unsinkable. Kayak has been used very little, perhaps only a dozen or so times total, just light lake and river use - no ocean. The boat has been stored inside for the last few years and was stored on a boat rack beforehand. Boat and gear are all clean and in excellent shape. Total package was more than $3K when bought new, asking $1,000 for all, o.b.o. Call Rick at 301-334-1444. (14-3tpd)

"Cyn's Oasis" To Welcome Guests In Garden Tour

"Cyn's Oasis" at the home of Cynthia and Ken Witte in Mtn. Lake Park will be featured during the 11th annual Secret Country Gardens tour on June 25 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club.

"Visitors will enjoy the low maintenance garden that has been planned as a special place to relax any time of the day," a club spokesperson said about Cyn's Oasis.

The Wittes have designed the 3-year-old garden to have the feel of a much older garden. From the front porch view of Pleasant Valley, visitors can descend the steps and enjoy the rose garden on the west side of the property.

The front of the house, with its traditional floral landscaping, gives way to a woodland oasis with oaks, hemlocks, and dogwood. Butterfly bushes, lilies, bleeding heart, and columbine are among the family's favorite plants.

A patio provides privacy with an outdoor entertainment area. Its wall for seating and a fire-pit were designed to complement the surrounding oak trees. A nearby hillside presented a water challenge under the patio. An underground drainage system was placed beneath the patio to keep the excess amount of water under control.

Another design is the "pebble stone" brook composed of river rock that winds through the garden.

While an assortment of perennials bloom at different times of the summer, the Wittes' favorite garden treasure is having roses bloom all summer.

"Hostas, rhododendron, and planters brimming with annuals will delight those who visit the Wittes' oasis in the 'Park,'" said the spokesperson.

An herb planter-chair raffle prize will be on display during the tour at Cyn's Oasis. The Herb Committee of the club has filled the planter with an assortment of herbs that may be used for cooking, potpourri, or enjoyed for their fragrance and visual beauty. The planter may be seen in advance at Julie's Greenhouse.

"CYN'S OASIS" IN MTN. LAKE PARK awaits visitors during the 11th annual Secret Country Gardens tour, scheduled for Saturday, June 25, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Designed and owned by Cynthia and Ken Witte (pictured), the garden features a wide variety of plants, plus a patio, pebble brook, and gazebo. See story for details.

Tickets for the tour, which include a short description of each garden, a map, and written directions, may be purchased in advance at the following locations: Gregg's Pharmacy, Oakland; Jan Florist, Oakland; Green Acres Garden Center, Oakland; Julie's Greenhouse, Route 219; Nature's Own, Sang Run Road, McHenry; Annie's Restaurant, Accident; and Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville.

On the day of the tour, members of the Garrett County Historical Society will sell tickets at the Gazebo in Oakland. The cost of a ticket is $7.

A perennial sale, tickets for the raffle prize, a conservation display, historical information, and refreshments will be available at different gardens on the day of the tour. The Ticket Office, Mountain Lake Park's museum, will be open the day of the tour.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of local communities and to encourage gardening and sound conservation practices through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society and Mountain Lake Park Historical Society.

The club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc., the Central Atlantic Region, and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc. For more information about the tour, persons may call Kathy Long at 301-252-9917.

Zion Lutheran Women Convene

Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) at Zion Lutheran Church in Jennings held their monthly meeting on June 1. A new series of lessons titled "Renew, Respond, Rejoice" was introduced for the summer months. The first of the series, led by Leota Baker, was based on Psalm 51 and the story of King David.

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting. A tribute to the memory of Kenneth Durst was made through a gift offering to Women of the ELCA/Churchwide. It was designated for the Women of the ELCA grants program.

Work continues on the layette project for Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Box Elder, Mont., for the Rocky Boy Native Americans.

A letter was received from the synodical unit president noting that the 24th annual convention will be held at Bishop Hodges Pastoral Center in Huttonsville, W.Va., Aug. 5-6, where the theme will be "Sister Supporting Sister."

MEETING A BULLFROG IS FUN FOR SOME YOUNGSTERS – Petting a bullfrog was the highlight of Rebecca Wilson's recent visit to the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Her brother Ryan chose to watch from a distance. Liz Neroni (at right), the center's naturalist, offers visitors a hands-on experience with the resident, live amphibians. Rebecca and Ryan are children of John and Kathie Wilson of Oakhill, Va., and grandchildren of Mtn. Lake Park residents John and Louise Wilson.

On Dean's List

Luke Steele of Oakland is among the 1,120 Harding University, Searcy, Ark., students included on the dean's list for grades achieved during the spring 2011 semester.

The dean's list is published each semester by Dr. Larry Long, university provost, honoring those who have achieved high scholarship. To be eligible, a student must be carrying at least 12 hours of courses and earn a grade point average of at least 3.65 with no incompletes.

Steele, who was a homeschooled high school student, is the son of Gary and Debbie Steele.

Harding had a record enrollment this year of more than 6,800 students from 49 states and 53 foreign countries. It is the largest private university in Arkansas and attracts more National Merit Scholars than any other private university in the state. Harding also maintains campuses in Australia, Chilé, England, France, Greece, Italy, and Zambia.

Strawberry Fest Set At Mt. Zion

The Mt. Zion United Methodist Women will hold their annual Strawberry Festival on Saturday, June 18, from 3 to 7 p.m. at the church, which is located at 16864 National Pike between Grantsville and Frostburg.

"Plate lunches will be available, as well as the delicious strawberry desserts," said event spokeswoman Carolyn Ganoe.

REDNECK DAYZ OF SUMMER – The Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club will hold its third annual Redneck Dayz event at Broadford Park on Saturday, June 18. The gates will open at 8 a.m. Admission is set at $4. Those under the age of 12 will be charged $1. A "custom, antique redneck car, truck, bike, and tractor show" will be held. There will be a $10 vehicle-entrance fee. Dash plaques will be given to the first 100 vehicles. The sign-up for the Anything Floats Regatta will begin at 9 a.m., an hour before the start of that event. All watercraft must be homemade (no boats, kayaks, inflatable rafts, etc.) and transport at least one person. Participants must provide and wear a life jacket. Trophies will be rewarded for: most redneck raft, best use of duct tape, best use of beverage containers, most unlikely to float, and crowd's choice. Registration for the official Redneck Games will take place from 8 to 11 a.m., with the games starting at approximately 11:30 a.m. Four-person teams will compete for gold, silver, and primer-red medals. The winning team will win $387.69. The entrance fee for each team is $50. The mud-pit belly flop contest will begin at 2 p.m. There is a $10 fee to enter that event. Contestants will be judged and awarded prizes. The Redneck Concert Series will kick off at 4 p.m. with local artist Travis Minnick playing from 4 to 7 p.m. The Speakeasy Boys, a bluegrass/hillbilly band from Shepherdstown, W.Va., will play from 7 to 9 p.m. The Davisson Brothers will then take the stage and play until midnight. Food from the Kitzmiller Lions Club, the Oakland Rotary Club, and various other establishments and civic groups will be available. The Oakland Lions will be selling beer and wine coolers. Individuals are asked not to carry in alcoholic beverages. All proceeds from the event will go to local charities.

34th Annual Grantsville Days Scheduled For June 24–26

Grantsville Days has once again been set for the last full weekend in June. On Friday, June 24, a parade will begin at 6:45 p.m., coordinated by the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department. Groups interested in being in the parade should contact Duane Stein at 301-895-5297.

Immediately following the parade, a variety of food and craft booths will be featured at the Grantsville Park. New this year will be a Grantsville Lions kettle corn booth, which was recently started to raise money for Lions projects.

Children's rides and activities will be available throughout the weekend. There will also be entertainment by the Channel Cats and a fireworks display at 10:30 p.m. sponsored entirely by First Peoples Community Federal Credit Union.

All events are free of charge to the public, thanks to donations from businesses in the Grantsville and surrounding area. Names of sponsors are shown in the Grantsville Days brochures and posters being displayed at area businesses.

There will be a variety of contests and musical entertainment on Saturday, June 25.

The garden tractor weigh-in will begin at 8 a.m. with the contest starting at 9 a.m. Information about the contest is available by calling Will Shafer at 814-395-5092. The event is being coordinated by the Confluence (Pa.) Fire Department.

Savage River Headwater Dam Removal, Stream Restoration Project Complete

The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) hosted a ribbon-cutting ceremony last Friday for the recently completed Savage River Headwater Dam Removal and Stream Restoration Project, constructed on property owned by the city of Frostburg. The ceremony was attended by local representatives, project partners, and funders.

The project restored natural stream conditions to a 600-ft. reach of the Savage River to improve habitat for brook trout, Salvelinus fontinalis, Maryland's only native freshwater trout species. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) listed brook trout as a "Species in Greatest Need of Conservation" in 2006, leading to the development of a brook trout Fisheries Management Plan that includes a focus on the upper Savage River resource.

This area comprises over 100 miles of interconnected streams that are 25% of all brook trout stream miles in Maryland. Brook trout require cool stream temperatures that do not exceed 70°F. Headwater ponds and impoundments are known to adversely affect stream temperatures and block fish passage. When a pond is built inline with a stream, the surface water of the pond warms. As the water re-enters the stream it increases the stream temperature below the pond. When stream temperature exceeds 70°F for extended periods, brook trout cannot survive. This condition is known as a thermal impact.

In the early 1900s, an impoundment was built on the upper Savage River as part of a municipal water supply for the city of Frostburg and surrounding communities. This impoundment was abandoned in 1986 with the upgrade of the Savage groundwater collection system and replacement of Piney Dam and Reservoir. Though the upper Savage River reservoir was no longer needed, the old dam remained in place, causing increased water temperatures and acting as a barrier to fish passage.

The city of Frostburg provided support to remove the deteriorating dam in order to improve water quality and fish habitat in the Savage River watershed. During the 2008–10 summer seasons, biologists with Maryland DNR's Inland Fisheries Management Division monitored the temperature at this site. Data recorded showed peak stream temperatures that exceeded 75°F below the impoundment, yet never exceeded 65°F above the impoundment. Savage River Watershed Association and partners identified this as a priority restoration site as the impoundment

IT'S FARMERS' MARKET TIME! The local farmers' markets are now under way, with currently operating locations in Oakland and McHenry, according to the Garrett County Extension Office. Local farmers and other growers gather at the markets to sell fresh produce, plants, baked goods, and other items. Larry Thomas Jr., 13, is shown as he works at the Mountain Fresh Farmers' Market in Oakland for his family business, Busy Beaver Green House, located just outside town along Brookside Road in West Virginia. He mans the site on his own, with parents Larry and Laura Thomas at their Oakland work places checking in from time to time. This market, which is located at the pavilion in the town parking lot, will be open from now until mid-October on Wednesdays and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Information about the Oakland market can be obtained by visiting www.Mountainfresh.org. The Deep Creek Lake Farmers' Market in McHenry, located in the parking lot of the Visitors Center, is open on each Thursday through September from 4 to 6 p.m. In mid-July through August, the McHenry market is also open on Saturdays from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. More information about that site can be found at www.Dclfarmersmarket.blogspot.com. L. Pagenhardt To Retain Position As Administrator

The Garrett County commissioners last week unanimously approved the reappointment of Lamont "Monty" Pagenhardt as county administrator for another four years. He has held the position for nearly 16 years.

"It's been a pleasure to get to know him over the past six months," said commission board chair Gregan Crawford about Pagenhardt. "He's very capable, very able. He's very well respected. Seems like whenever we go to Annapolis, Monty's name always comes up, and they (state officials) know who we are. We appreciate your service."

Pagenhardt expressed his appreciation to county staff members for their assistance and cooperation.

"Without you all, I couldn't do what I do without good relationships," he said. "Anytime I call on you, you drop what you're doing and help me out. I really appreciate that. It's been 15½ years. I'd like to finish out my career here. That's my goal, and without you, it wouldn't have happened."

GC Chamber To Present "Fire On The Mountain"

Fireworks will light up the sky this Fourth of July during the annual "Fire on the Mountain" at Deep Creek Lake, presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

The display will begin at dark on Monday, July 4. The rain date is July 5. The fireworks will be launched from the top of Bear Claw Tubing Park at Wisp Resort. Prime viewing locations are the scenic overlook area along Rt. 219, Wisp Resort, and from a boat on the lake, particularly around McHenry Cove.

Hugh Umbel Companies is the major sponsor for the 2011 display. The companies include Bear Creek Traders, Deep Creek Foodland Fresh, Legacy Home Corporation, McHenry Beverage Shoppe, and Perkins Restaurant & Bakery.

Chamber president/CEO Nicole Christian expressed her appreciation to the companies for their continued sponsorship of Fire on the Mountain.

"We could not present such a fabulous show without the support of Hugh Umbel Companies and our other generous sponsors, including Wisp Resort, our associate sponsor, and the Property

"WIN-THE-FIGHT" GARRETT GRAN FONDO SET – The second annual Garrett Gran Fondo bike event will be held on Saturday, June 25, with four different courses traversing across the entire county, and bringing more than 500 bikers to the mountaintop to take the challenge. The event is a fundraiser for the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, and is hosted and engineered by the creators of the renowned SavageMan Triathlon, held each September in Garrett County, and also benefiting the melanoma foundation. See feature story. Photo by Karlo Gesner.

500 Bikers To Tackle Challenging Win-The-Fight Gran Fondo Benefit

by Mary Sincell McEwen

A unique biking event gaining international attention as one of the most challenging courses in the world will take place in Garrett County on June 25. The "Win the Fight" Garrett County Gran Fondo, organized by the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, producers of the acclaimed SavageMan Triathlon Festival, will get under way that day, and is bringing more than 500 participating bikers to the area.

This ride is not a race, organizers stress, but is a challenge offered to bikers well as an opportunity given to them to raise money to support the fight against skin cancer. The event offers four different routes for bikers of all levels, with the courses designed by SavageMan course architect Kyle Yost.

"The 'Gran Fondo' is a celebrated tradition in Italian cycling culture," said Greg Safko, president of the Nicolay foundation. "A Gran Fondo is a long distance, mass-participation cycling event – not a race – that welcomes professional, amateur, and recreational cyclists of all abilities. The Garrett County Gran Fondo offers four supported ride options with staggered 7 a.m.+ starts and ending at the Adventure Sports Center International."

The four rides are as follows, described by Yost and Safko:

"Diabolical Double." At 125 miles and 16,500 feet of climbing, this ride is an extreme challenge on par with any single day ride in the world and already an epic North American ride.

"Savage Century." A worthy epic ride in its own right at 102 miles and 12,700 feet of climbing, sharing the initial 59 and final 15 miles with the Diabolical Double.

"Masochistic Metric." A beautiful 62-mile ride that highlights the beauty of rural Garrett County. It's not nearly as extreme as the Double or

Hearing Set To Designate Garrett County A Certified Heritage Area

The Maryland Heritage Areas Authority will hold a public hearing on Monday, June 20, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Wisp Resort's Morris Room, McHenry. The hearing will address a proposal submitted by Garrett County and the towns of Accident, Deer Park, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn Heights, Mtn. Lake Park, and Oakland for the authority to approve the Garrett County Heritage Area Management Plan and designate the Garrett County Certified Heritage Area as a state certified Heritage Area.

The intent of state certified heritage areas is to bring together government agencies, businesses, nonprofit organizations, and individuals in a partnership to preserve and promote a region's historical, cultural, and natural heritage resources. The goal is to revitalize communities and promote sustainable economic development through heritage tourism while maintaining the quality of life desired by residents.

Designation of state certified heritage areas is a two stage process. Communities first prepare a recognition proposal summarizing the area's unique heritage resources and themes, envisioned heritage area boundaries, the types of heritage tourism projects to be encouraged, and the organizational structure that will undertake the management plan development process required.

The Garrett County recognition proposal was completed and the state authority approved designation of the Garrett County Recognized Heritage Area in July 2004. Under the direction of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the process to develop a Heritage Area Management Plan was initiated in 2009, and a draft plan was completed in 2010.

The draft management plan describes the proposed

Driver Taken To Ruby Memorial After Hitting Tree

A Keymar man was injured on Sunday after hitting a tree in his truck on Garrett Highway. Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated the early-morning accident.

Investigation revealed that Sherman Richard Hill had been operating his 2009 Chevy truck south, when it crossed the northbound lane and traveled off the roadway striking a tree. He was transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital for treament of his injuries. Northern Rescue Squad and Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the 7 a.m. scene. The incident remains under investigation by GCSO.

Child Struck After Biking Into Path Of Moving Vehicle

An 8-year-old child was struck by a moving vehicle on Main Street in Deer Park Monday afternoon. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the 12:45 p.m. scene.

It was learned that the child had been riding his bicycle on Church Street, when he attempted to cross the Main Street intersection. The child did not stop for the stop sign that controls the intersection and rode into the path of a vehicle driven by John Wayne Knotts, Kitzmiller. Knotts attempted to avoid hitting the child and drove his vehicle into a utility pole. The child struck the side of Knotts's vehicle.

The child was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

The child was determined to be at fault for the collision. Because of the child's age, no charges have been filed by the GCSO.

Final In Dinner Time Talks Series Set For June 25

Spruce Forest Artisan Village will host its sixth and final presentation in a series of Thursday evening Dinner Time Talks at 6 p.m. on June 23 at Penn Alps Restaurant, Grantsville, with a panel discussion on "Public Policy: Private Property Rights and Community Health and Welfare." The discussion will specifically address issues of natural gas drilling and industrial wind production in the mountain region, exploring issues of private property rights versus eminent domain.

"Creating an infrastructure for public utilities, whether the sources of energy production are renewable or non-renewable resources, leaves area residents facing some difficult choices with regard to land use," said spokesperson Dr. Kara Rogers Thomas. "But whose choice is it? Are county and town officials able to develop policies impacting private property? Can private companies claim eminent domain to address infrastructure needs?"

Featuring particularly the topic of eminent domain, speakers will be Mike Benard of Spectra Energy Watch and Dr. Bill Anderson from Frostburg State University. Referring to eminent domain as "legal theft," Spectra Energy Watch, based out of Bedford County, Pa., was established by landholders forced to give up their land to public utilities to support the infrastructure of extraction industries.

Organizers have been part of a two-year controversy pitting private landholders against eminent domain actions launched by Texas-based Spectra Energy Corporation, a natural gas storage company, and backed by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC).

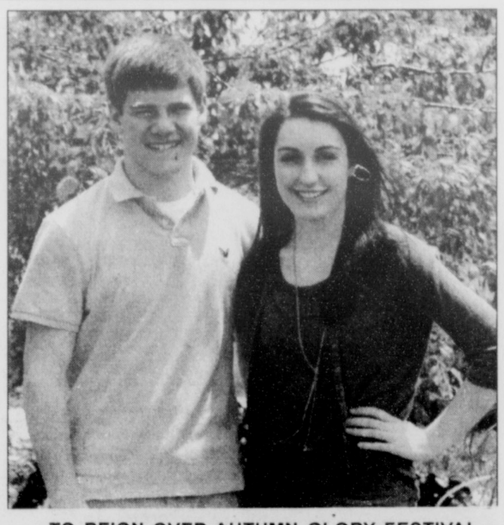
"It is not a level playing field legally, economically, or ethically for private property owners," commented Benard. "Spectra Energy Watch is dedicated to educating the public on these issues."

Anderson, associate professor of economics at FSU, has written extensively on topics of environment versus business development and private property rights versus eminent domain. His work examines how private corporations influence and encourage the government to intervene on their behalf, using the power of eminent domain to seize land for the development of private enterprise. He will address the history of eminent domain in the United States and discuss the efficacy of such policies.

Reservations for this event are not required, but attendees are encouraged to arrive early and be willing to share table space with others. Individuals with specific questions for panelists are encouraged to submit those questions ahead of time to Thomas via e-mail at krogersthomas@frostburg.edu.

The free lectures are offered as a complementary program to the "Between Fences" exhibit on display at the Village Church through June 26. Developed by the Smithsonian Museum on Main Street Program and sponsored by the Maryland Humanities Council, "Between Fences" explores the many ways fences define our community and reflect our values.

For more information about the exhibit or discussion, persons may call 301-687-3124.



TO REIGN OVER AUTUMN GLORY FESTIVAL – The 2011 Royalty Court has been selected for the 44th annual Autumn Glory Festival. This year's king is Nick McGettigan, and the queen is Corinne Weaver. Nick is the son of Don and Dara McGettigan of Swanton. He is a member of the Southern High School soccer team, Garrett Coalition robotics team, and National Honor Society. Corinne is the daughter of Terry and Mary Lou Weaver of Oakland. She served as the junior class secretary and as the editor-in-chief of The Acorn, Southern High School's newspaper, during fall 2010. Corinne is also active in school theater productions. The king and queen will be present for the Autumn Glory Festival Kick-Off Reception, slated for Wednesday, Oct. 12, and Grand Feature Parade on Saturday, Oct. 15. In addition to the honor of representing their home county during the festival and other events, the Royalty Court will receive educational contributions. M&T Bank and the Deep Creek Dunk are this year's court sponsors. Information about the 44th annual Autumn Glory Festival is available at visitdeepcreek.com.

Traffic Stop Results In DUI, DWI Charges For Oakland Woman

An Oakland woman was arrested on drinking and driving charges following a traffic stop early this morning.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies stopped a vehicle on Maryland Highway in the area of Broadford Road at approximately 1:30 a.m. Kelly Dawn DeWitt was charged with driving under the influence, driving while impaired, and negligent driving. She was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Police Seeking Info On Recent Vehicle Thefts

Police are seeking information on two thefts that occurred in the northern end of GarrettCounty. Maryland State Police and Garrett County Sheriff's Office are currently investigating the incidents.

An MSP trooper responded to Lakeside Dock Sales, Bumble Bee Road, last Friday morning for a reported theft of a truck and trailer. Investigation revealed that one of the trucks and attached trailers had been parked the night before in front of the garage bays unlocked with the keys above the visor. The theft was discovered the following morning.

It was learned that the truck had been observed at Hartman's Amoco, Accident, at approximately 6 a.m. A witness described the suspect as a white male in his 20s with no shirt, thin build, and unshaven. The vehicle was last seen making a U-turn south on Rt. 219 toward McHenry. The truck is a blue 2000 Chevrolet Silverado 2500 regular cab bearing Maryland registration plates 35L161. The truck has the words "Lakeside Dock Sales Deep Creek Lake McHenry, Md." written on both doors. The trailer is described as a 20-ft. flatbed Cornpro model trailer with 16" wheels on tandem axles, bearing the Maryland registration 1250512.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the McHenry MSP Barrack at 301-387-1101.

In a separate incident, Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Old Morgantown Road E. area for a report of a stolen 1990 Suzuki mini-truck. Anyone with information regarding the incident is asked to contact the GCSO at 301-334-1911.

LT. GOVERNOR VISITS PILLAR – Lt. Gov. Anthony G. Brown visited Pillar Innovations in Grantsville on Monday during a scheduled western Maryland tour. Brown met with local leaders and learned about efforts to spur economic growth. Pictured above, front row, from left, are Brown; Merlin Beitzel, executive vice president of Beitzel Corporation; Paul Edwards, Grantsville mayor; Eric Guthrie, western divisions manager for Pillar; Jim Hinebaugh, Garrett County Department of Economic Development director; and Del. Wendell Beitzel. In the back row are Sen. George Edwards; Jim Railey, GC commissioner; Gregan Crawford, GC commissioner; Shawn Bender, manager of gas and field services for Beitzel Corporation; and Justin Stephens, Morgantown, W.Va., division manager for Pillar. Amateur Radio Field Day Test Slated

The Garrett County Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES) will conduct field day activities at the Western Maryland 4-H Center, 243 4-H Camp Road (off Rt. 495), in Bittinger the weekend of June 25-26.

Amateur Radio Field Day is a North American-wide exercise in which amateurs set up radio stations outdoors which are independent of local electric and telephone services. Local and long-distance radio contacts are established to test the ability of amateurs to respond to emergency communications needs day and night and under adverse conditions. Pictured above is new operator, Isaiah Spaid.

In last year's field day exercise, Garrett County amateurs set up five complete shortwave stations at the 4-H Center and made contact with other amateurs in the United States and Canadian provinces. This year's field day will consist of four shortwave stations and the Garrett County Mobile Command Communications Unit.

ARES members will start setting up antennas and stations at 10 a.m. on Saturday, June 25, and begin operations at about 2 p.m. Radio amateurs from Garrett, Preston, and adjacent counties who intend to operate these stations during this event must bring their valid FCC licence. The public is invited.

Garrett County ARES is able to assist anyone in securing an amateur radio licence and participating in emergency communication services. There will be a table set up for young people to introduce them to amateur radio and Morse code. Interested individuals should come to the 4-H Center on Saturday afternoon and make their interest known to any ARES members or telephone Bill Shomo, KB3FMJ, at 301-334-2997.

RECEIVES HEISE AWARD – Jan Russell, co-owner of Savage River Lodge, was recently awarded the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's 2011 Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award. She opened Savage River Lodge in 1999 with her husband Mike Dreisbach and follows the philosophy that nature is a teacher, and it is important to take care of the Earth. "Because of her business practices and dedication to the Lodge, as well as her Chamber of Commerce membership status, she was selected as this year's recipient," commented a spokesperson. In addition to being on the board of directors for the Chamber of Commerce, she is co-chair of the chamber's membership committee and is active on the Greater Cumberland Committee. She is pictured above center with Bea Reed and Dreisbach at the chamber dinner.

BOE RECOGNIZES ACHIEVEMENT – At its regularly scheduled monthly meeting, held on Tuesday in downtown Oakland, the Board of Education recognized some of Garrett County schools' finest. Chuck Trautwein, robotics team adviser, gave a presentation to the board on the recent exploits of Robotics Team 1629, which include a Regional Engineering Inspiration Award. After the presentation, Trautwein and his students presented Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, with an engraved LEGO model they deemed "more appropriate than a plaque" to commemorate his years of support for the LEGO-league and robotics programs. Also recognized at the board meeting was Garrett County's Teacher of the Year Angie Rush. Rush is a 5th grade teacher at Accident Elementary School and a self-proclaimed "Garrett County girl." In her 14 years as a teacher, Rush has been involved in her community and school system, has served as a 4-H leader, a youth league coach, and as a PTO president. Pictured above are Teets and Team 1629. From left to right are: Sam Thomas; John McGettigan; Nick McGettigan; Emily Huxford; Phil Malone, GEARS representative; Teets; Larry Friend, Pillar representative; Kyle Maust; Kevin Haenftling; Dusty Huxford, parent representative; Becca Lee; and Trautwein. Pictured below are Rush and some of her well-wishers. From left to right are: Barbara Baker, director of elementary education; Tom Carr, board president; Rush, Teets, Sue Waggoner, executive director of instruction; Karen Devore, AES principal; and Arletta Bittinger, Rush's grandmother.

Charged With Driving On A Revoked License

A local driver was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies last Saturday afternoon following a traffic stop at the intersection of Maryland Highway and Broadford Road.

Timothy Lee Rounds, 33, Oakland, was found to be driving without a valid license. He was charged with driving on suspended license, driving on revoked license, driving unregistered motor vehicle, and driving vehicle displaying tags issued to another vehicle.

was not only causing a thermal impact, it also blocked fish passage to a headwater reach along the main stem of the Savage River.

Canaan Valley Institute engineered a natural stream design plan to create a free-flowing channel that bypassed the reservoir and converted it to a wetland. Natural stream design methods were used to create in-stream structures that add aquatic habitat and provide streambank stability.

Stream restoration allowed fish access to 2.5 stream miles upstream from the pre-existing dam, improved aquatic habitat by restoring natural stream features, decreased water temperature, and decreased the amount of sediment contributed by streambanks downstream of the pre-existing dam. The former pond area was converted to a wetland, providing wildlife habitat, water quality improvement, and flood storage. The site will serve as a demonstration for stream restoration activities and brook trout habitat improvement projects.

Restoration of this site was possible as the result of partnership efforts coordinated by SRWA staff. SRWA extends thanks to all partners and funders for their strong support to complete this project and to local representatives for their interest in and support of SRWA activities.

Project partners that provided funding were Chesapeake Bay Trust (CBT), FishAmerica Foundation (FAF), Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE), Maryland DNR, and National Fish and Wildlife Foundation (NFWF). Partners who provided professional support and in-kind services were: Canaan Valley Institute (CVI), the city of Frostburg, DNR, and SRWA.

Project construction was completed by Pine Mountain Coal Company, Frostburg. Sign design, construction, and installation were done by Custom Concepts, Frostburg. Final planting of the project was done by Conservation Services, Verona, Va. NFWF was the major funder of the project, which will have a final cost of nearly $300,000.

For more information about this project or to participate in future site tours, persons should contact Laura Haynes, SRWA director, at 301-689-7156 or via e-mail at srwadirector@gmail.com.

SRWA is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed in Garrett County. Members assist interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach.

Special Day Camps Scheduled In July At Hickory Center

Two weeklong day camps will be held at the Hickory Environmental Education Center this summer during the weeks of July 4–8 and July 11–15. The camps are open to Garrett County students who will be entering grades 4, 5, 6, and 7 this fall.

Students from the northern end of the county will attend the first week, while southern end students will attend the second week.

Daily activities will include nature crafts, archery, swimming, hikes, leaf identification, and trail exploration using GPS.

Lunches and snacks will be provided. A Friday cookout for campers and parents is planned for each week.

Center officials are attempting to provide bus transportation on a daily basis to the camps.

Space is limited to 65 students each week. Parents are asked to call Hickory at 301-746-8461 to register their children.

Additional information about the camps, including possible bus schedules, will be available in The Republican next week.

He Should Be Commended...

Governor Martin O'Malley has effectively put the brakes on the drilling for natural gas and use of fracking technology in the state of Maryland, as he signed an executive order last week establishing the Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative. There was an attempt by some state legislators, led by Delegate Heather Mizeur, to enact a two-year moratorium on the practice, and that bill failed. However, the order of the governor actually goes even further than did the Mizeur bill, as no drilling/fracking will be permitted in the state until at least August 2014, which is when the final report of the initiative is due.

The majority of the drilling would be conducted in Garrett, Allegany, and portions of Washington counties, which lie on top of the Marcellus shale layer.

"While we are mindful of the potential economic and energy benefits that could arise from the production of natural gas from the Marcellus shale reserves in Maryland, we are also very concerned about an array of issues that have been raised regarding the use of hydraulic fracturing to extract this fuel," said O'Malley upon signing the initiative. "Our decisions must be guided by scientific knowledge about the effects of this type of drilling to ensure that we protect public safety and health, groundwater, surface water, and the rural lifestyle and natural resources in Maryland."

The Maryland Petroleum Council, as expected, strongly disagrees with the governor's initiative. Noting that the value of the natural gas reserves in western Maryland is between $6 and $49 billion, "the governor is postponing indefinitely any economic benefits, jobs, consumer relief, revenue, and a potential significant local supply of clean-burning natural gas. While there are a number of significant issues to address, western Maryland is especially missing out on a great chance to boost its economy and provide much needed jobs with this unnecessary delay."

The one phrase in the council's statement that jumps out is "While there are a number of significant issues to address,..." Indeed. With that there is absolute agreement, and for that reason Governor O'Malley should be commended for his initiative, as the horror stories about contamination, degradation, and destruction continue to emerge from drilling sites in neighboring states.

It is greatly appreciated that, even though there is much money to be made for the state from this industry, and even with the state's finances currently in such negative territory, the governor is courageously forgoing those big dollars until the safety and welfare of those of us who live atop the Marcellus shale is guaranteed.

Gran Fondo

Century, but does include 8,000 feet of climbing, and is "no walk in the park."

"Garrett's Greatest 25." A beautiful 25-mile and 2,800-feet ride, through the rolling Garrett County farmland, with a sprinkling of modest climbs.

Cyclists may still register for the ride. The event's web site, located at www.winthefight.org/granfondo, provides the information necessary to learn more regarding the actual courses, as well as for spectators to determine best viewing options. Cyclists are asked to raise funds for the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation with the event, and those who bring in $300 or more will be awarded an exclusive Gran Fondo bike jersey; while participants raising $1,000 or more will be given the jersey as well as a Garmin Edge 500 GPS bike computer with the Gran Fondo routes preloaded and one ticket for the "Champion" fundraiser grand prize raffle. An additional raffle ticket is earned for every $100 raised above $1,000. The grand prize of the raffle is the use of a luxury Deep Creek Lake rental home for a future weekend, courtesy of Railey Mountain Lake Vacations.

This event was noted in the July issue of Triathlete magazine, inviting avid bikers to take part in a course that is far more than "your typical Saturday morning work-out."

Local Bikers' Perspectives

While athletes from around the world will be arriving in Garrett County for the Gran Fondo, a number of the 500+ bikers taking part are Garrett County residents, all of whom have been training for some time in order to take on one of the four rides on June 25.

Brian Haley, general manager of High Mountain Sports, McHenry, will be taking part in the event for the second time.

"Last year's ride was undoubtedly the hardest bike ride I have ever done," Haley said. "The entire ride took me just over 10 hours of pedaling, although I was on the course for close to 12 hours with rest stops and a brief nap in Kitzmiller. After completing the ride I thought that I would never do it again. It only took a few days for that feeling to pass. This is going to be the year of redemption – no naps."

Cyclist Mike Kennedy said the visitors may be surprised at the level of difficulty.

"It's hard to believe that a course like this exists in our county that is both beautiful yet extremely grueling," Kennedy said. "It will probably be the most difficult ride that most of these participants will ever experience."

Biker Tom Johnson expounded on the same theme.

"Because of this event, bicyclists from all over are finding out what a perfect area Garrett County is to ride," Johnson said. "Even as a local who has been cycling here for years, I am amazed by the beauty and challenge of these courses. I am sure that this event will continue to grow as the participants tell their friends back home.

"Thanks to Greg Safko for bringing this event to Garrett County. And thanks to the many volunteers for their time and enthusiasm that has made this event, now in its second year, so special," said Johnson.

While there are many people at the ready to assist with the event, project manager and volunteer coordinator Suzanne Nicolas said this week that many more volunteers are needed. The routes will bring bikers into areas such as Kitzmiller, Bloomington, and in the northern areas as well, so volunteers can offer their help not far from their own homes, Nicolas noted. Persons who would like to help are urged to call her at the Adventure Sports Center: 301-387-3250.

Training for the local cyclists is basically a "second job" right now, Haley said. Cyclist Fred Gregg agreed, and said he is looking forward to the camaraderie that grows when all these cyclists get together.

"Most of my training is done alone, early in the morning, so on the day of the event it's fun and different to ride with so many other bikers a little later in the day," Gregg said. "Although I'm a resident, I don't travel the bike course regularly, and the spectacular scenery reminds me that we live in an area that truly possesses some fantastic natural beauty. Plus, the proceeds go to a great cause."

The funds raised in the Gran Fondo as well as the SavageMan have indeed boosted the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, Safko said.

"I am pleased to report that our Melanoma Research Scholar Awards increased by 40% in 2011, and our high school "Teen Melanoma & Skin Cancer Awareness" curriculum used by Maryland counties has increased by 200 percent," Safko said. "This is in addition to outreach expansion to health departments and hospitals, and legislative initiatives in Maryland and across the country."

Haley said the charity portion of the event is meaningful for him.

"The ride for me is especially personal since my father has had numerous battles with melanoma," Haley said. "I actually got the word the day before the ride that the doctors found another spot on him. Thankfully things seem to be back under control and hopefully, with all the work that Greg and Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, fewer people will have to deal with the hardships of skin cancer."

In just over seven years, Safko said the foundation has grown dramatically to become influential in the melanoma community, and is now established as a national and international voice for melanoma prevention, detection, care, and cure.

And the bikers will continue to train as the day nears.

"I rode the Gran Fondo's 'Fabulous Fifty' in 2010," said local biker Ellie Hamilton. (This portion has been replaced by the Masochistic Metric this year.) "I've ridden quite a lot of long-distance supported bike courses and raced many triathlons, including two at the Ironman distance, and I will say that those sponsored by the Joanna M. Nicolay Foundaton here in Garrett County are by far the best-planned, best-organized, and best-executed of any I have participated in. As for the courses themselves, well, I've publicly told Kyle Yost (the course planner) that he's the Stephen King of cycling routes, and Garrett County is the perfect venue for materializing his 'savage,' 'masochistic,' 'diabolical' challenges for endurance athletes who don't know when to quit and come out the better for having done it."

Hamilton said she likes the aspect of the ride not being a competitive event.

"No trophies for the fastest times, no winning your age group," she said. "You get a nice shirt, a great dinner, and the satisfying knowledge that you pulled off an incredibly difficult athletic challenge while helping to increase melanoma awareness."

Local athlete Harry Hughes said he may find himself in a little hot water with a flatlander pal.

"I talked my friend Bill from the flatlands of Jackson, Tenn., into coming up for the ride," Hughes said. "He has been training there, but has no mountains to ride. He rides his one little hill over and over. I really don't know what to say to him. I hope he still talks to me afterwards."

For more information, persons may go to the Gran Fondo site noted above, call Nicolas, or visit any of the following sites: www.melanomaresource.org, savagemantri.org, or www.adventuresportscenter.com.

Some members of my church had problems with accepting a female pastor, when we got Louise Knotts. I think she was wonderful. Lutherans are more socially progressive than many of the other denominations. And Christ said that his closest disciple was Mary Magdalene.

Since the earliest days, civilization was male dominated. They were larger and stronger, and able to participate in war activities. So most of the earliest heads of state were male. The story of Adam and Eve contributed to that, because God created Adam first and then made Eve with his rib. And what was Eve's role in the story about eating from the forbidden tree? She ate first and tempted Adam to also eat it.

The earliest stereotype about a woman was that she was a temptress who brought sin into the world.

I admit that I don't believe in the literal truth of everything in the Bible. It is possible that the writers were inspired by God, but it is also the work of human beings, and some parts are myths that support some primary social beliefs in society – especially the Old Testament.

I guess no one will be surprised to learn that I wouldn't pass one of the tests required for a religious conservative. I do believe in evolution. I believe it took many millions of years of gradual change to make the world as we know it – not seven days.

But that does not mean that I do not believe that the world was created by God the Father. Let me point out that evolution does not only claim that we descended from monkeys. There is similarity between our DNA and that of the great apes, including chimpanzees and gorillas, showing that we are closely related. We probably descended from a common ancestor.

I am also very sure there were dinosaurs.

But those beliefs do not have anything to do with my relationship with God, nor do they mean that I am not a Christian. I do believe in the miracle of the virgin birth, and that Christ was God dwelling among people, and that he died for our sins. The only one who can judge what is in my heart and mind is God himself.

Oh, goody! The Belmont Stakes is on. But there is no Triple Crown at stake. There is no dominant 3-year-old race horse this year. Not like when Secretariat ran away with the Belmont Stakes by 31 lengths. That was unbelievable magic. It was amazing to watch him. He was a one-in-a-lifetime horse.

There were only two other horses who came close to being in the same class – they were Seattle Slew and Affirmed – and they were not quite as great.

If you were able to pick the three first finishers, you would collect over $7,000. But this was a terribly challenging race to handicap, since it was a very balanced field. There was no clear front runner, and the track was very soupy. On a really muddy track, just about anything can happen. A few horses really like to run on a wet track. Others can't deal with it at all.

I felt quite hopeful when Caitlin and Mere attended the Jefferson-Jackson Dinner sponsored by the Garrett County Democratic Club. It attracted quite a crowd of 150, the most ever. It was great to be in the same room with so many reasonable and successful people, without any evidence of hate or division. My Caitlin delivered the invocation, and Mere delivered the benediction.

What the heck? It is almost mid-June and it is very cold. Where is that prolonged heat wave? I can't imagine how I possibly can afford heat next winter.

Lenny and Sally Poholsky visited with Torrey in Greensboro, N.C., and traveled to Spartanburg, S.C., to meet with advisors at Edward Via College of Osteopathic Medicine (VCOM), where he will be in the first class at this newly constructed facility beginning in August. The school is affiliated with Virginia Tech.

Cindy and Aaron Stanton visited with Mike, Lea, Blake, and Julia Pochet in Beavercreek, Ohio, over the weekend.

Dave and Nancy Beachy visited with Brent, Kelly, Wyatt, and Teagan Beachy, Bethlehem, Pa., this past weekend, and Wyatt returned home with them for a visit.

Rev. Alvin Schafer of Wheeling, W.Va., was guest minister at the three churches of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish this past Sunday.

On June 25, 29 youth and adults from Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Gastonia, N.C., will be stopping at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger for dinner and to spend the night. On Saturday morning, they will eat breakfast at the church, attend a worship service, and then perform work for a needy family in the area.

The Bittinger Parish Vacation Bible School will be held June 26 to 30 at Emmanuel from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Classes are offered for pre-K through teens. Everyone is welcome to attend.

CHARGING BATTERIES

by Dr. Steven Parks

Q. The battery on my camper always gives out after just a few years. I checked the connection to the alternator and it is fine. Why do camper batteries have more trouble coping?

A. Sorry your camper's battery gave you grief. The following is my understanding of the limits of charging and discharging lead-acid batteries.

The process is limited by the rate at which ions (electrically charged fragments of chemical molecules) spread themselves around (diffuse) inside the liquid between the electrodes (electrolyte). I'll be talking mostly about charging, but a similar effect applies to discharging.

When a battery has been idle for a while, the electrolyte comes to equilibrium: hydronium and sulfate ions are evenly distributed throughout the electrolyte. The same mixture is seen at the faces of the positive and negative electrodes.

In a discharged battery, both electrodes are coated with lead sulfate. When you start to charge the battery, sulfate ions are pushed out of the electrode face and into the solution at the positive electrode, forming metallic lead. At the same time, sulfate ions are pushed off the negative electrode as lead oxide is formed. The result is a buildup of sulfate ions, and a depletion of hydronium ions in thin layers of the electrolyte near the electrodes. Since the flow of current is carried by ions, the depleted layers of liquid have a temporarily reduced ability to carry current. As more ions diffuse out of the bulk of the electrolyte toward the faces of the electrodes, charge is transferred; but only at a rate that is limited by diffusion.

In cold weather the diffusion rate is reduced, which is the main thing that limits the battery's ability to crank the engine on a cold day. Also, notice that a thin layer near the electrode is most affected. That's why the battery will recover some of its cranking ability if you let it "rest" for a minute between cranking attempts, allowing fresh ions to diffuse into the depleted layer. Charging and suddenly reversing to discharge creates a very favorable ionic environment in the cell's depletion layers – lots of sulfate is available. That's why a jump start works so well even when the total charge transferred is small.

The electrodes become "sulfated" by building up deposits of lead sulfate that are electrically isolated from the battery terminals. These islands of sulfate cannot be reached during charging or discharging; they just sit there. Worse, they are on the surface and impede movement of ions. Worse yet, the sulfate they sequester is not available for diffusion in the electrolyte, so its resistivity is increased. Worst of all, the sulfated deposits are brittle, and can break off and short out the cell. That is the end of your battery.

Sulfating can be slowed by maintaining a full charge in the battery. In most cars, the battery spends most of its life fully charged. It only discharges when you forget and leave the parking lights on overnight. In a camper, you might run the battery down every night watching TV or reading a book, so the discharges are deep and frequent. Furthermore, the next day's drive may not be long enough to fully charge the battery. Spending a lot of time discharged is bad for a lead-acid battery.

One way to maximize battery life is never to charge it fast. The usual rule of thumb is that it's best to charge at a rate that takes a full day to charge the battery from scratch. In a car that just makes no sense, so a compromise is chosen. The way most cars are set up, the diffusion rate limits charging to an average of 20 amperes after the initial surge and depletion-layer buildup. A fully discharged 80 ampere hour battery will take four hours of charging (driving) to recharge, no matter how good the connection to the alternator. Best to plug in the camper's charger whenever electricity is available.

Long term, a small photo-voltaic panel on the camper's roof supplying a .25-ampere trickle charge (when the vehicle is idle) might be a good idea for the battery's health.

Dr. Parks has a Ph.D. in solid-state physics, and most of his career has involved the design of sensors and instrumentation. Side interests include molecular biology, exotic travel, and nature study.

BIG CHANGES AT THE FAIRGROUNDS – Mtn. Top Saddle Club members have been working hard this year, and thanks to the help of donations from members, class sponsors, individuals, and business, they have been able to make much needed improvements at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, according to a club spokesperson. The club replaced the riding arena with treated lumber and added 42 tons of sand to the footing. "The arena has been in need of replacement for several years, and many posts had rotted off at the ground," the spokesperson said. "It (the arena) was almost 30 years old, which is how long the club has been around. The arena has been paid for by the club solely, and has been quite an expense. We are still looking for ways to help pay for the arena." The area is also used by 4-H clubs, during fair week, the annual rodeo, and horse pulls. The Mtn. Top Saddle Club's first show of the year will kick off this Sunday, June 19, with classes for everyone. The show starts at 9 a.m. sharp, and is free to spectators. For more information about the horse shows or donating to the arena project, persons may e-mail witsendfarm@frontier.com.

Volunteer Open House Slated At DCL State Park

The members of the Western Garrett County State Park Volunteers will host an open house to all those interested in volunteer opportunities at the park. The event will take place at the Discovery Center on Wednesday, June 22, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Persons who may find opportunities that interest them are those who enjoy working outside and/or with animals, are interested in local history, or are avid gardeners. Trail maintenance is another area of opportunity, as is visitor center staffing.

All of these opportunities will be explained and covered at the open house.

In other areas, the park volunteers are greatly responsible for events such as Art in the Park, the annual ramp cook-off, the holiday open house, and others. They also assist with programs that interest them, such as those involving birding, wild flowers, and butterflies.

The volunteers also assist with fundraising that benefits projects such as the planned forest canopy walkway.

Volunteers are involved in the operation of Friend's Store at Sang Run and have the opportunity to assist with the store, historical research and programming, and outdoor Appalachian skills demonstrations such as dutch oven cooking, gardening, basket weaving, and other activities.

Persons who would like to volunteer but cannot make the open house may sign up at www.dnr.maryland.gov/publiclands. More information may be obtained by calling 301-387-7067.

boundaries of the certified heritage area and defines "target investment zones" within which certain state benefits are available, including grants, loans, and tax credits. It outlines the heritage area's vision and goals and the area's significance and resources, assesses relevant land use issues, and lists interpretive resources and programs. It provides a market analysis, and evaluates linkages between sites and appropriate organizations.

The mission of the GCHA is to work with stakeholders, partners, and businesses to implement the Garrett County Heritage Plan by offering technical and financial assistance for heritage-related initiatives that preserve valuable heritage resources and enhance tourism in the county.

The GCHA boundary is intended to encompass those portions of the county that were determined to include a concentration of resources which help portray and interpret Garrett County's unique historical, cultural, and natural heritage. The draft Management Plan is available online at www.peterjohnstonassociates.com/garrett_hamp.htm.

After the public hearing and review of any comments received, the state authority will approve, conditionally approve, or disapprove the proposal. If the request is approved, qualified local jurisdictions, non-profits, businesses, and individuals will be eligible to apply for one or more of the grant, loan, tax credit, or other benefit programs available through the Maryland Heritage Areas Authority.

The Maryland Heritage Areas Authority is an independent unit of state government that operates in the Maryland Department of Planning (MDP). For more information, persons may contact the Maryland Heritage Areas Authority at 410-514-7685.

RICHARD H. DeLOACH JR.

Richard H. DeLoach Jr., 57, died peacefully on Monday, June 13, 2011, at his residence at Trail's End, Chincoteague, Va.

He was born in Keyser, W.Va., on June 13, 1954.

He was a 1972 graduate of Dundalk High School, Baltimore. He graduated from Frostburg State University in 1977. While at Frostburg, he was a valued member of the soccer team, as well as multiple indoor/outdoor lacrosse/soccer teams. He was the president of the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity.

Rick was the founding president and CEO of Industrial Service Contractors (ISC) with operations in the United States, Canada, and Europe. He was a founding member of the current Mtn. Top Youth Soccer League, which he loved to coach and referee. (Go, Trouble Shooters!)

He also was an assistant professor at Garrett Community College for several years. Rick was the "go-to/resource guy," who used his skills to charismatically delegate to his able-bodied assistants to get any job done.

He was a party planner extraordinaire, as well as a leader, mentor, member, advisor, and volunteer for any community needs in any part of the state or country. He loved his wife, family, friends, and his dogs. Rick loved to spend his time divided between "the farm" and Trail's End campsite. He enjoyed watching soccer, NASCAR (Earnhardt, of course), ice hockey (Go, Penguins!). He enjoyed TV and movies, especially John Wayne films. You could often find him on a jet ski or boat at Deep Creek Lake or cruising in his golf cart at Trail's End.

He is the son of Veva Nadine (Mayles) DeLoach, Mtn. Lake Park, and the late Richard H. DeLoach Sr.

He is also survived by his loving wife, Donna (Shoap) DeLoach, Swanton; one sister, Pamela DeLoach, Mtn. Lake Park; two children, Angela M. Mowray and Sarah M. Younger; six grandchildren, Jaydon Lechliter, Cordell McMillan, Kadan McMillan, Lukas McMillan, Kiam Mowray, and Jeremiah Mowray; and loved ones: Eric and Arica McMillan and children of Cumberland. He also had a special aunt, Betty Lou Watring, Thomas, W.Va.

Friends will be received on Saturday from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, where a service for Rick will be held on Sunday, June 19, at 11 a.m., with Robert Turner officiating.

Interment will follow at Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

The family has requested that memorials for Rick be directed to: the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department, 249 E. Main St., Kitzmiller, MD 21538; the Parsonsburg Volunteer Fire Dept., 32960 Old Ocean City Rd., Parsonsburg, MD 21849; the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, 31 S. 3rd St. Oakland, MD 21550; or the Mtn. Top Soccer Assn., 350 Oak Breeze Lane, Oakland, MD 21550.

ROSCOE W. BRAY

Roscoe Wayne Bray, 66, Kitzmiller, passed away on Monday, June 13, 2011, at his residence.

Born Aug. 19, 1944, in Vindex, he was a son of the late Albert L. and Nellie Emma (Knox) Bray.

Wayne retired from the Garrett County Board of Education after 27 years of service. He was a member of the Kitzmiller Lions Club, American Legion, VFW, the Elks Lodge, and the Army National Guard for 30 years.

He is survived by five brothers, Ronald Bray and wife Louise, Kitzmiller, Garry Bray and wife Becky, Bloomington, Danny Bray and Carl Bray, Kitzmiller, and Donnie Bray, Oakland; three sisters, Betty Barrick and husband Jim, Linda Bray, and Marcia Moore and husband Jim, all of Oakland; eight nieces and nephews; one stepniece; and three great-nieces and -nephews.

Friends were received at David A. Burdock Funeral Home, Oakland.

A funeral service was conducted today, June 16, at Mt. Zion United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Gary Rankin and Rev. Mel Menker officiating.

Interment was held in Mt. Zion Cemetery, where military graveside services were accorded.

Online condolences may be made to the family at www.burdockfuneralhome.com.

ROBERT A. MOSNER

Robert A. Mosner, 79, Oakland, formerly of Cumberland, passed away on Friday, June 10, 2011, at Oakland Nursing and Rehabilitation Center after an ongoing illness.

Born Nov. 13, 1931, in Cumberland, Robert was a son of the late John and Margaret Mosner, formerly of Cumberland. He was also preceded in death by his brother William, formerly of Baltimore.

Robert was a U.S. military veteran. He was a member of the American Legion and BPO Elks Lodge. He was a retired member of the Hagerstown Teamsters and was more recently a contractual employee of the Maryland State Police Quartermaster Division.

He is survived by three daughters, Tammy, Toni, and Taffy; three brothers, John Mosner and wife Hilda, Towson, Edward Mosner and wife Daisy, Carmel, Calif., and Michael Mosner and wife Cathy, Augusta, Ga.; numerous nieces, nephews, and cousins; and many friends.

A memorial service will be conducted at a later date.

Born on Aug. 26, 1953, in Detroit, Mich., he was a son of Mary Alice (Spiker) Friend, Oakland, and the late Russell Glenn Friend. He was also preceded in death by an infant brother, Roger Lynn Friend.

As pastor of Ferndale Baptist Church for 29 years, he spent most of his life in loving service of the Lord Jesus Christ. He served as a Youth For Christ executive director for more than 10 years before taking on the ministry at Ferndale. He founded and coordinated the Grace Gospel Mission Ministry, which included radio evangelism.

He was most currently employed by Northern Garrett High School as a Dropout Prevention coordinator and School-to-Careers case manager. He received his high school diploma from Southern Garrett High School, associate's degree from Garrett College, and bachelor's degree in psychology and master's degree in counseling psychology from Frostburg State University.

His chief enjoyment in life was working with the animals on his small farm, helping and serving his brothers and sisters in Christ, and spreading the word of the God he loved. He taught many by his example and his words and consciously put the needs of others above his own.

He greatly loved the outdoors and spent all of his free time hunting, fishing, training his horses, studying God's word, praying for those in need, and spending time with those he loved and cared for.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his wife, Ruth Anna (Bender) Friend; three daughters, Ranae Eyler and husband Shawn, Hagerstown, Leslie Murphy and husband Matt, West Chester, Pa., and Sarah Friend, Oakland; one son, Caleb Friend, Oakland; one sister, Sharon Tasker and husband Fred, Oakland; one brother, Jason Friend and wife April with children Teroy and Tabitha Friend; nephew Aaron DeWitt and wife Amy, Grantsville; and granddaughter Chloe Jean Murphy, West Chester, Pa.

Friends will be received at Newman Funeral Home, Accident/McHenry, tonight, Thursday, from 6 to 8 p.m.

A service will be held at Deep Creek Baptist Church on Friday, June 17, at 1 p.m., with the elders of the Ferndale Baptist Church officiating.

Interment will be held at Sang Run Cemetery, McHenry, with Martin Bender officiating.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.newmanfuneralhomes.com.

MIRIAM HUMMEL

Miriam Hummel, 87, passed away peacefully on Sunday, June 12, 2011, in Holladay, Utah.

Born Feb. 5, 1924, in Bittinger, she was a daughter of the late Dennis and Harriett Virginia (Beachy) Detrick. She was the last of 13 children: Verna, Elmer, Webster, Arthur, Delbert, Clayford, Raymond, Ralph, Harley, Leona, Ruth, Grace, and Miriam. All have preceded her in death, her as well as her first child, David.

She graduated in 1941 from Grantsville High School, Grantsville, and from Catherman's Business College, Cumberland, in 1942. She was secretary to the Montgomery Ward store manager in Cumberland, until her marriage to Garland Hummel on Feb. 21, 1943. They moved to Baltimore, where they both were employed at Glenn L. Martin Aircraft in Middle River until her husband's entry in the U.S. Army. She returned to Cumberland as secretary to a manager of advertisement at Kelly Springfield.

Following WWII, she worked for the Maryland State Employment Service until the impending birth of her first child, David Ralph (April 5, 1947 – Dec. 19, 2007). Dennis George was born on June 28, 1950, and Patricia Ann was born on March 2, 1953. The family moved from Frostburg to Holladay in Nov./Dec. 1959. Miriam was active in her church and Church Women United.

Friends will be received at Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, on Friday from 7 to 9 p.m.

A graveside service will be held on Saturday, June 18, in the Bittinger Cemetery at 10 a.m., with Rev. Donald Thomas officiating.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.newmanfuneralhomes.com.

HELEN M. AULT

Helen May Ault, 95, Accident, died Wednesday, June 8, 2011, at Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, Oakland.

Born May 21, 1916, in Accident, she was a daughter of the late Lloyd and Cora (Schlosnagle) Miller. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Ralph Ault, Dec. 7, 1958; one sister, Mary Strauss; one brother, Emmert Miller; one son-in-law, Melvin Smith; and one great-grandson, Jerod Minnick.

Mrs. Ault was a homemaker and a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, where she was a Sunday school superintendent and teacher. She was also financial secretary for St. Paul's Lutheran Church, custodian for 60 years, and a caretaker for the St. Paul's Cemetery.

Helen worked for many years as the Accident town clerk and was valedictorian of her graduating class from Accident High School. She was a mother, grandmother, great-grandmother and great-great-grandmother, and was a role model for everyone.

She is survived by five daughters, Janet Campbell and husband Cecil, Cleveland, Ohio, Audrey Smith, Accident, Lorna Dixon and husband Gene, Minneapolis, Gladys Wilhide and husband Neal, Keymar, and Patricia Foley and husband Larry, McHenry; two brothers, Paul Miller, Accident, and Robert Miller, Hebron; two sisters, Gladys Wisowaty and Kathleen Smith, both of Baltimore; 12 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; and three great-great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held this Saturday, June 18, in St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 2 p.m., with Rev. Roland E. Nairn III officiating.

Friends may call at the church one hour prior to the service.

Interment will be held in the church cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to St. Paul's Lutheran Church or Garrett County United Way.

Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, is in charge of arrangements.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.newmanfuneralhomes.com.

AURORA HISTORICAL SOCIETY PLANS HERITAGE DAYS – The Aurora Area Historical Society has scheduled the sixth annual Heritage Days for July 1, 2, and 3. On Friday, July 1, the group plans to hold a yard sale to benefit Relay for Life. The sale will be held at the Union Ambulance Squad Hall from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. Also on July 1, beginning at 6:30 p.m., there will be "a free evening of reminiscing" at the Union District History Center and General Store. Hot dogs, popcorn, and drinks will be available. On Saturday, July 2, there will be a chicken barbecue. The meal will consist of chicken, hot dogs, baked beans, coleslaw, and rolls. The meal will begin at 11 a.m. at the Union District History Center. The price is set at $7.50 per person. Spaces will be available for craft tables at the Aurora Community Building. Those interested will need to pay a $10 entrance fee and provide their own tables. The yard sale will also be open from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the squad hall. Also on Saturday, beginning at 4 p.m. in the Aurora Community Building, Marvin "Buck" Bolyard will be remembered. Bolyard, who grew up in Aurora, was a teammate of Jerry West at West Virginia University. He was inducted into the WVU Hall of Fame in 2005. On Sunday, July 3, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Aurora Community Building, a large photo display of former Aurora High School athletes and cheerleaders will be presented. Pictured above are some of those photos. The public is invited to attend these events. Those interested in further information may call 304-735-5832 or 304-288-6850.

AURORA/EGLON

HIGH SEAS ADVENTURE

Vacation Bible School will be held at Brookside Church of the Brethren June 20–24 at 6:30 p.m. each evening. The church is located on U.S. Rt. 50 beside the Aurora Volunteer Fire Department. For further information, persons may call 301-334-1633 or 304-735-6009.

AURORA KIDS CLUB

The Aurora Kids Club extends thanks to all who participated in the activities during the 2010-11 school year. They have donated three large containers of food to the food pantry. They also contributed to the Walk-A-Thon for Shoes-2-Save by raising approximately $300 and brought in 233 pairs of shoes during the drive.

The group also visited the nursing homes to Christmas carol, play Christmas bingo, and make crafts for distribution to the residents. At their last meeting, members made boats and raced them.

The following local churches supported them: St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Maple Grove Assembly of God, and Maple Spring and Brookside churches of the Brethren, plus Deerwood. Rose Ina Harsh, Phyllis Vandevender, Sheila Moats, Jackie Blamble, Sydney Vandevender, Danielle Blamble, Lena Mersing, and Michelle Harsh were the volunteers who contributed the most time. Custodian Peggy also contributed greatly. The committee in charge came from the Union District Ministerial Association: Debbie Strawser, chairman Shaun Roberts, and Gary Meeks.

MOUNTAIN LIONS ANTIQUE TRACTORS

The Mtn. Grove to Thomas parade of antique tractors will take place on Saturday, July 2, beginning at 9 a.m. and return at 2 p.m. It is sponsored by the Mtn. Lions Club. For more information, persons may call John Calcamp at 304-735-3141.

HERITAGE DAYS

A yard sale will kick off Heritage Days on Friday, July 1, at the Union Ambulance squad hall from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. It is sponsored by the Aurora CEOS, and proceeds will benefit Relay for Life. A free evening of fellowship will be offered at 6:30 p.m. at the Union District History Center at the Old General Store. Hot dogs, marshmallows, popcorn, and drinks will be available.

A chicken barbecue will be held on Saturday, July 2, including coleslaw, rolls, baked beans, and beverages, beginning at 11 a.m. A bake sale will also be held with hot dogs available. The yard sale will also continue on Saturday.

A large display of Aurora's leading basketball players and cheerleaders including a special remembrence of Marvin "Buck" Bolyard will be up Saturday at 4 p.m. and on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Community Building.

Craft tables will be set up for all three days of the festival at the History Center. For those interested in setting one up, the cost is $10 for a space. For more information, persons may call 304-735-5832.

UNION DISTRICT SENIORS

A total of 28 attended the June 9 covered dish meal of the Union District Seniors at the Aurora United Methodist Church Memorial Building. Martha Bolyard lead a discussion on "When you are newly retired and don't know what to do with yourself." She read this from Guidepost and closed with a prayer and funny story.

The next shopping day in Uniontown is June 22. Those interested in attending are asked to contact Janice Tackett to arrange for transportation from Aurora to Kingwood, where they will meet with the Kingwood Seniors. They will meet at the Memorial Building at 7:30 a.m. Plans are made to attend a musical show at the American Theater, Elkins, on Aug. 18.

"Not So Fast With the Salt Shaker" was a handout given by Nurse Galena. Devotions for the July meeting will be the responsibility of Thelma Stemple. A "thank-you" was sent to the county director, Sid Murphy, for the Spring Fling and its entertainment, which was much enjoyed by all.

BIRTH OF TWINS

Addison Grace Moyers and Colin Anthony Moyers were born on June 6, 2011, at Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown. Addison weighed 6 lbs., 8 oz., and Colin weighed 4 lbs, 14 oz. Their parents are Kimberly and Anthony "Moose" Moyers, Bruceton. The maternal grandparents are B.J. and Debbie Fike, Aurora. Paternal grandparents are Mike and Donna Contic, Kingwood, and Ron and Kathy Moyers, Bruceton. David and Delores Stemple, Aurora, are the maternal great-grandparents.

PERSONAL

Dr. Wendell Teets and Dr. Mike Teets, former students of Aurora Elementary School, are both retiring from area school systems. Wendell Teets is the superintendent of Garrett County schools, and Mike Teets is a former assistant superintendent of Preston County schools. Combined they have dedicated 85 years to education. Thanks go to both.

Several members of the Ellis and Marie Teets family were in the area for the Saturday memorial service for Ellis, 91, who died on June 7 at Rockingham General Hospital in Harrisonburg, Va. Ellis was a longtime farmer in this area and drove a school bus for many years. His wife, Marie Winters Teets, survives him, as well as two sons, Scott and Sharon, Jefferson City, Tenn., and Mark and LaDeana, Aurora; and two daughters, Mary "Bitsy" and Don Shepherd, Littleton, Colo., and Martha and Merlin Reish, Harrisonburg.

Little Levi Skiles returned Friday to his home in Aurora. He was born June 1 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital following his birth for a bleeding ulcer in his esophagus. His parents are Jeremy and Missy Skiles, Aurora.

Brookside To Host Vacation Bible School

The Brookside Church of the Brethren in Aurora will host vacation Bible school next week, June 20 to 24.

The theme will be "a high seas adventure," with sessions being held each day from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the church.

Classes are available for both children and adults. More information may be obtained by calling Pastor Scott Rush at 301-334-1633.

4-H Club News

EGLON MOUNTAINEERS

by Jonathon Blamble, reporter

Debbie Rounds, mother of two U.S. Air Force servicemen, spoke at a recent Eglon Mountaineers 4-H Club meeting about her sons' lives and work in the military. One son, Andy, is in the Air Police and is a dog handler. Shane is a firefighter.

Debbie is also a member of a local military family support group that sends care packages to troops deployed overseas, and she talked some about that aspect of being a military mom.

Jesse Schalker read devotions titled "Defragment" from The Daily Bread. Wesley Spaid led the pledges.

"Rude Behavior" was this month's health theme. Jackie Blamble, health chairperson, asked each member to name or identify a rude behavior. The members concluded that they should be treating others as they would like to be treated – with a loving attitude.

Savannah Arnett reported on the progress of the club's project – planting flowers at the Smallest Church.

Sierra Evans, along with her mother and brother, attended the June 4 Farm Safety Day Camp.

County camp registrations are due on Friday, June 17, for those planning to attend.

Members were instructed to keep in mind Buckwheat Festival exhibits when preparing their project exhibits for grading on Aug. 8. All projects are to be finished and turned in on that date, with the exception of livestock project record guides.

Project talks were given by Sierra on "How I Make Scrambled Eggs," Tyler Pomeroy on "How to Recognize a Healthy Animal," and Brooke Uphold on "My Dog, Daisy May."

Demonstrations were given by Haley Rocha, "Products That Can Be Recycled"; Tyler, "How to Clip Your Steer"; Savannah, "How to Make Fruit Kabobs"; Jesse, "How to Wrap an Injured Ankle"; and Nathan Davis, "Rockets and Their Components."

Other members attending this meeting were Danielle and Jonathon Blamble and Trevor Spaid.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Today, I feel so much loss that I do not have that dear, sweet black Lab around. She still smiled, even in the last month of her life. It hits me hard at bedtime, when I always took care of Boo's needs. And it hits again first thing in the morning for the same reason.

The heat wave finally arrived in Bittinger.

There are two Mormons in the confusing field of Republican political candidates, but the evangelical Christians have many more problems with their religion. I once tried to read the Book of Mormon, but it wasn't even a tiny bit interesting, so I never really grasped the basic ideas of Mormon religion.

In my opinion, the most important traits of Christians are compassion, love, and acceptance of all God's children, even if the denominations are in some ways different from each other.

The insurance monopoly ensures that we can't enact a workable solution to our health crisis. Policies for older Americans and the disabled would be so costly; the only hope for them, as the congressman from Florida said, is to die quickly. A Medicare supplemental policy from United would cost almost $400 per month, and that is only a supplement. That is a large chunk of my income. Imagine what a complete policy would cost me.

I don't have the option of finding a good job now, because my disability reduced my options to zero. That is hard for me to face, because for my entire life almost anything was possible, except maybe a high tech or financial sector job. But a professor job was perfect for my skills and education prior to 1994 when my life was destroyed in a few minutes by an aneurism. It's hard to adequately express how devastating that was for me. I can't even drive a car, which is very limiting in Garrett County. Not that I could afford a car.

But I was a valuable citizen when I taught at college, because many times I was shaping young lives in a positive direction. Some needed encouragement, some needed inspiration, and some needed to be forced to perform at the high level of their abilities. That was sometimes a major shock for them. They often got an A with almost no effort. That was very wrong, because it so limited their potential. And that meant a major loss to American society, because if one of the brightest young people did not live up to his promise, who would become our doctors and other professionals who require many years of post-high school education. I tried hard to inspire intellectual curiosity and critical thinking. Without a decently educated voter pool, our democracy can't thrive.

For example, one politician said that the best solution for climate change or global warming is to cut all the rain forests and as many trees as possible, because he claimed that they give off carbon dioxide. Not accurate. Trees take in carbon dioxide and turn it into oxygen: a very basic biology principle. But if enough voters believe that ignorant man, it might change our policy about energy and natural resources. That would mean pure disaster for our beautiful American environment.

Like Mere said today, we are lucky we live in Garrett County where there are so many trees. Although it is a little hotter than I prefer, it is not dreadful or life-threatening as the heat is in many parts of southeastern America.

The most serious problem in the poorest nations is the lack of a decent water supply. We were able to pay for one well in the village of Togo where my brother Scott was based. It was paid for by memorial donations from many people. The joy was unrestrained when my two aunts, Helen Englar and Betty Hummell, went to Togo to be there when the well was dedicated. They saw very clearly what it meant to the villagers. It was major progress for that village.

Well, this thunderstorm will not bother Boo; not when she is in a deep grave. The first thing I think when I hear thunder is to find her and calm her. But not tonight.

One of my daughters heard about a 5-year-old female black Lab, pretty much exactly what I want. She needs a home because her owners are moving where she can't go. She is full grown and a long-time family dog. Labs are fairly large dogs, and her color is black, so she at least would look like a real guard dog. But anyone who really knows a Lab's personality knows that they are really not a threat to anyone.

One black Lab did seriously bite Sally Poholsky when she lived in Oakland, so Sally was a bit wary of Boo. So I would try to keep her from running out the lane when a jogger, walker, or biker went past. But Caitlin said, "Don't get your hopes too high yet."

Can you believe the Ku Klux Klan is trying to remake its image? I think it's a little too late. I believe they claim the credit for about 2,000 deaths of innocent African-Americans and other kinds of minorities. Their basic idea is that the white race is superior in every way. So any white high school dropout who spends most of his free time getting drunk in a sleazy bar and never reads a complete book that is more than 10 pages long is naturally superior to Barack Obama, who was a top student at Harvard Law School?

One of the largest and most powerful banks, Citibank, got hacked and lost thousands of its customers' account numbers. It's funny, but I had an account at Citibank in Manhattan in the late 1970s. Not that my account had much money in it. I'm sure that many depositors do have big accounts, and they are at risk of getting wiped out financially.

Do you become annoyed when you try to get in touch with a customer service department and you get an automated system? Often, it cannot address your problem. One reason is that when big businesses experience increasing demand for something they are producing, they choose machines and technology, instead of hiring workers.

Once again, they are hurting the American people, first by providing inadequate customer service, and secondly by making so that so many Americans can't find a job. What happens to the families of those workers who get replaced by technology? And do machines return anything to the economy? The chief reason for the sluggish recovery is that so many Americans who were former consumers don't have a job. They do not have income to purchase products made by other American workers.

I think it is a wonderful advance to use robot defense for bombs and other dangerous combat roles. But you can't replace a human being with even quite advanced technology yet. There is no such thing as real artificial intelligence.

Many meteorologists are saying that if you think this summer is too hot, wait until you get into the future. I'll bet then Florida and Texas and the rest of the deep South will see the reason we should shift away from carbon fuels to cleaner ones.

Obama was right when he warned about our decaying energy grids, and we need to invest some money to repair and update them before times like now, when many parts of the U.S. have temperatures close to 100 degrees and the damage causes blackouts. Such an upgrade would create a large number of jobs.

The news is not all good about the recovery of Congresswoman Gabriel Giffords. She is experiencing quite a lot of trouble in verbal communication. It is very different from speaking in complete sentences. I am sure that her brain injury is more serious than mine.

I do not have any trouble putting together sentences, but it is difficult to pronounce words well enough to be understood by people who are not accustomed to communicating with me. So it does not look terribly good for her to go back to Congress. And I know how hard that is for her to face.

I know personally. I had a conversation with Steve Herman, then president of Garrett Community College, about my future there. I told him I didn't want to return until I could be the very best, because I was the best prior to 1994. I think most students would say that I made a real difference in the lives of all kinds of students. I believed that a speech problem did not change my ability to change lives for the better. I also worked very hard.

Garrett County does not have a lot of Catholics, but perhaps more than I think. But even within one denomination, there are many beliefs. Here in Bittinger, we have at least three or four different Mennonite churches. I don't know how they are different, nor am I clear on what the difference is between the German Lutheran Church and the American Lutheran. I think we have one German Lutheran church in Accident, but I'm not sure which one.

Any difference between the two kinds of Lutherans does not typically lead to conflict, and certainly not violence. Sometimes a church is divided on something as simple as a different reaction to a particular minister, or some different custom. I remember when I was a child, there was some disagreement over whether we should use a common cup for communion wine, or if each worshipper should drink from little individual vessels. I definitely prefer the symbolic value of the common cup, although some don't want to spread ACCIDENT ELEMENTARY HOLDS CHARACTER ASSEMBLY – Students at Accident Elementary School recently celebrated the character education traits of cooperation and teamwork with an assembly. Brenda Brosnihan of Brenda's Body Shop spoke with students about the importance of working as a team to accomplish large goals. Students demonstrated the qualities needed to be a productive and successful team and participated in a "crazy dance." The students who were recognized for demonstrating cooperation and teamwork during the month of May received Star Slips. Those students are pictured above, from left to right. In the front row are: Jenna Cowan, Gracie Groves, Rylie O'Neal, and Robert Clem. In the second row are: Kellen Hinebaugh, Savannah Rogers, Trent Hook, Emma Carr, and Robert Hughes. In the third row are: Cody Humberson, Rachel Sivits, Lydia Fike, Hailey Ross, and Jill Wood. Pictured right, Emaleigh Gale, left, and Olivia Glotfelty were selected to receive a collectible coin set presented by First United Bank and Trust. Accident Elementary would like to thank Rush Services and First United for their sponsorship of the Accelerated Reader and Character Education programs.

Mary Kruger To Be Presenter At Plant Meeting

The Western Mountains Chapter of the Maryland Native Plant Society will hold its regular meeting at the Appalachian Laboratory in Frostburg next Tuesday, June 21, at 7 p.m., and the guest speaker will be Mary Kruger, undergraduate student in the Frostburg State University (FSU) Department of Biology.

Kruger will give a presentation focused on her work at the FSU herbarium. She will provide a virtual tour of the herbarium, and instruction on collecting and making pressed specimens. Her program will begin immediately following a brief business meeting. The public is welcome to attend.

The FSU herbarium contains over 9,000 plant specimens collected from western Maryland and beyond. It is a goal of Appalachian Center for Ethnobotanical Studies (ACES) and the FSU Department of Biology to make the herbarium more readily available for the students and the greater community by designing a web site with at least 300 specimens available for study.

The online herbarium will include scanned pictures of the specimens and respective information, such as species name, location, collection date, common ethnobotanical uses, and conservation issues.There will be collections from a few renowned botanists including Dr. James Duke and Dr. Melvin Brown. Interactive maps that display where the specimens were collected, as well as their native ranges, "how-to" videos on collecting and making herbarium specimens, and links to other well known herbariums and information, will be featured in the online herbarium.

MARY KRUGER

The herbarium work was initiated as a class project in Dr. Sunshine Brosi's spring 2011 economic botany class. In addition to guidance and support from Dr. Brosi, various FSU faculty and staff also provided assistance. These included the use of a scanner from the Department of Visual Arts with aid from associate professor Harlowe Hodges; information about and provision of barcodes from Lea Messman-Mandicott and Virginia Williams of the Lewis J. Ort Library; web site construction by Stephanie Cesnick from the Office of Academic Computing; and feedback from Mimi Hernandez, ACES coordinator. Dr. Brosi secured $3,000 in funding for the herbarium project through a U.S. Department of Agriculture grant. Mary Kruger received an additional $2,250 grant from the FSU Foundation to continue work over the summer.

Kruger is working toward a bachelor of science degree in ethnobotany. She says she was drawn to the program because she was intrigued by the diverse world of plants and their numerous uses. Following graduation, she plans a career in conservation education.

The Appalachian Lab is located along Braddock Road, just off Interstate 68 exit 33 at Frostburg.

The Maryland Native Plant Society uses education, research, and community service to increase awareness and appreciation of native plants and their habitats, leading to their conservation and restoration. Membership is open to all who are interested in Maryland's native plants and their habitats. Preserving Maryland's natural heritage, increasing knowledge about native plants, and helping to further the society's mission are the organization's goals. MNPS sponsors monthly meetings, workshops, field trips, and an annual fall conference. For more information, persons are invited to go online to www.mdflora.org.

The Western Mountains Chapter was formed to expand the efforts of MNPS on the Allegheny Plateau and ridge and valley physiographic provinces of the central Appalachians. Residents of western Maryland, nearby Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, and anyone else interested in learning more about and conserving the native plants of the region, are invited to join. For more information, persons may contact Liz McDowell, chapter coordinator, at 301-895-3686 or boyerandmcdowell@earthlink.net.

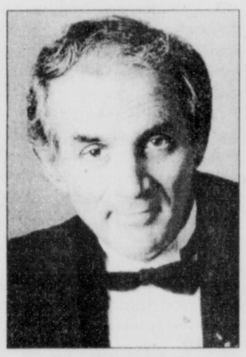
Symphony At Deep Creek "Alumni" To Give 25th Anniversary Concert



The late ERICK FRIEDMAN

KATHRYN SINCELL-CORWELL

To celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF), the organization has slated a special benefit event featuring players who were some of the first to take part in the GLAF summer classical music series.

The reunion and anniversary gala event will take place on Friday, June 24, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Lodge of Wisp Resort. Special music will be performed by original members of the Symphony at Deep Creek and the Deep Creek Chamber Players. Food will be provided after the concert.

The veteran musicians attending the event, with most set to perform as well, are Dale Stuckenbruck, violin; Heawon Kim Stuckenbruck, piano; Veronica Salas, viola; Rick Ostrovsky, bass; Kaori Sato Ostrovsky, soprano; Michael Horton, tenor; Jill Pellet Levine, violist; and Neal Corwell, composer and euphonium. Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, one of the founders of GLAF, will accompany the singers on piano.

The musicians will present pieces by Kreisler and Puccini, among other well-known composers. Food and drink will be served. Tickets are $60 per person, with all proceeds benefiting the non-profit arts presenting organization.

GLAF was launched in 1986 via a vision of a music festival in Garrett County. In December of that year, a group of Garrett County residents met to explore that vision and a related proposal from local resident Sincell-Corwell and her friend, renowned violinist Erick Friedman. The joint desire was to promote cultural and artistic activities in the county and to rekindle the Mountain Chautauqua spirit, once a hallmark of Garrett County life. A core of 22 citizens evolved from the originators, many of whom remained in leadership roles for many years.

That next summer, in 1987, Friedman and Sincell-Corwell recruited musicians to come to Garrett County and present several classical concerts. In this first year or within the first few years, the musicians noted above came to the county to perform with the symphony, which was directed by Friedman and managed by Sincell-Corwell.

Friedman, an internationally renowned violinist, died in 2004 after a brief bout with cancer. Throughout his celebrated career, he appeared as guest soloist with international organizations including the New York Philharmonic and the National Symphony, and the orchestras of New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Miami, Detroit, Indianapolis, the Berlin Philharmonic, Orchestre de Paris. For his recordings for RCA, Friedman won a Grammy Award. Friedman studied at the Juilliard School with Ivan Galamian, and later with legendary violinist Jascha Heifetz, with whom he recorded the Bach Double Violin Concerto for RCA. In his career, he served on the faculties of the North Carolina School of the Arts, the Manhattan School of Music, Southern Methodist University, and the Yale School of Music.

Dale Stuckenbruck served as concertmaster of the Symphony at Deep Creek for many seasons. A student of Friedman from 1972 to 1984, the violinist has been soloist, concertmaster, educator, and a chamber musician with New York's finest musical organizations. He is Grammy-nominated with featured articles in the New York Times, Strings, and Hanguk Umak. Stuckenbruck has performed in the orchestras of more than 200 films and commercial albums. He earned a doctorate of musical arts from the Manhattan School of Music in 1984, and has been a violin professor at Long Island University C.W. Post since 1986. He is also a world renowned musical sawist. Stuckenbruck is the founder of Kammermusik/NY and the Long Island Vegetable Orchestra.

Heawon Kim, pianist, was a soloist with the Korea Broadcast Symphony and the Seoul Philharmonic at age 7. She was a prize winner of

Arts Council Annual Meeting Slated June 28

The Garrett County Arts Council will host its annual membership meeting and public reception on Tuesday, June 28, at the Gallery Shop along Alder Street in downtown Oakland. The business meeting will begin at 5 p.m. with a reception immediately following from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

The meeting agenda will include the announcement of grant awards, election of officers and board members, and the annual "Friend of the Arts" award.

Anyone with an interest in art is invited to attend, according to Karen Reckner, executive director.

"We have a lot of truly talented people in our local area," Reckner said. "Our regular gallery receptions allow the community to come together to socialize, share some complimentary refreshments, and enjoy the work of our artists. The annual meeting is even greater as we recognize our members and concentrate on how the arts enrich our county."

During the reception, awards for the member-only Jim Lawrence Memorial Photography Show will announced. Awards will be presented for Best of Show, 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and Honorable Mention. A People's Choice award will also be presented. The exhibit will be on display through July 29.

The Garrett County Arts Council receives funding from Garrett County government and the Maryland State Arts Council, and from its members. For additional information, persons may call the office at 301-334-6580 or visit www.garrettarts.com.

St. James Church Sets Appalachian Music Festival

St. James Episcopal Church in Westernport will host an Appalachian Music Festival on Saturday and Sunday, June 25 and 26. Scheduled to participate are Simple Gifts, a folk group from Lemont, Pa.; Aurora Celtic, a group from Aurora, W.Va; and singer/songwriter/musician Greg Latta from Frostburg.

A folk music workshop will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturday. The event is free and open to anyone over age 16.

"Bring your instrument (even if it's just your voice), and work with Simple Gifts to advance your skills, improve your picking, learn new instruments, and perform together as a group," said Rev. Thomas Hudson.

Reservations are required for the workshop. Interested persons are asked to call 301-

Music At Penn Alps To Host Cellist A. Wells

Music at Penn Alps will host cellist Alison Wells at the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville, in a performance this Saturday, June 18. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Wells is a member of the cello faculty at the Peabody Institute. She was a founding member of the British-based Pirasti Trio, whose performances have been described as "absolutely incandescent" (The Strad) and "eloquent, unfailingly stylish" (Gramophone), and whose recordings were selected by BBC Radio 3's "Building a Library."

The cellist has toured throughout Europe, North America, and Hong Kong, performing at venues such as London's Wigmore Hall and Purcell Room, New York's 92nd Street Y and Merkin Hall; the Bath, Warwick, and Schleswig-Holstein international festivals; and the Orlando Festival in Holland. She has broadcast on BBC Radio 3, London's Classic FM, Dutch National Radio, the Australian Broadcasting Corporation, North German Radio, and WQXR in New York. She was featured in a British Channel 4 TV documentary on the chamber music of Penderecki.

Wells is a graduate of Cambridge University and the Royal Academy of Music in England. She holds a doctorate from Yale University. In 1988, she joined the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra and was made an associate of the Royal Academy of Music. She is a former faculty member at Trinity

Summer Art Camps Offered To Youth June 27 And 28

The Garrett County AmeriCorps team recently announced the return of two summer art camps under the theme "Our Community Rocks." The theme is derived from the concept that the community can "rock" the environment by recycling, reusing, and reducing. All crafts for the art camp will be created out of recyclable materials and a community rock mosaic will be created. The role of the camp staff is to expose children to a variety of recycled materials so they can create art.

"Children can begin to understand about the importance of saving our environment at a very young age and share the message with the adults in their lives," said a spokesperson.

Camp Colorful Smiles, a day camp for special needs children up to age 18 and families, will be held on June 27 from 9 a.m. to noon at the Oakland Community Center (former Oakland Armory). Parents and/or guardians are required to attend.

The second camp is Junior Art Day offered June 28 from 9 a.m. to noon for children ages 3 to 7 and from 1 to 4 p.m. for youth ages 8 to 12. Both sessions are at the Oakland Community Center. Both camps are free and for Garrett County residents only. They are supported by the Garrett County Health Department, Governor's Office on Service and Volunteerism, and the Garrett County Arts Council and sponsored by AmeriCorps of Garrett County.

"Art is about imagination and using recyclable materials is an inexpensive way to produce a work of art," said Alexandra Cortez, AmeriCorps member at the GCHD. "Children will learn about their environment through a story called Sharon Finds the Environment.

Reservations and more information are available by calling Cortez at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

ELEMENTARY STUDENTS LEARN TO DANCE – Dancing Classrooms Western Maryland recently concluded a 10-week dancing program for all of the 5th grade students at Bloomington School, as well as all 4th and 5th graders at Kitzmiller Elementary School. The classes were led by local dancing artist Patrice Wells. Both sessions concluded with students displaying what they had learned in their schools' gymnasiums. Dancing Classrooms, established in 2009, is a non-profit program which utilizes the art of ballroom dancing to assist 5th to 8th grade children with social development. The 10-week, 20-session program applies a curriculum-based teaching approach to the vocabulary of contemporary dance in a classroom setting. Participants and educators involved with the Dancing Classrooms held at Bloomington are pictured above. In the front row, from left, are: Connie Uphold, Bloomington principal; Liz Forrester; Aryssa Corby; Harrison Martin; Melissa Colvin; Jace Guy; Erin Haggerty; John Cheshire; Alexis Streets; and Bryson Mayne. In the second row are: Jennifer Christophel, Dancing Classrooms executive director; Kenneth Grace; Nea Orem; Devin Ahern; Sheridan Potts; Garrett Murphy; Kaylee Avona; Luke Riley; Emily Hughes; and Wells. Pictured below are the students and educators who participated in the Kitzmiller Dancing Classroom. In the front row, from left, are: Richard Stevens, Jimmy Lucas, Jason Paugh, Nathan Bender, Emily Welch, Shayla Sanders, Jada Paugh, Lauren Sharpless, Joey Welch, Brandon Lucas, and Wendy Craver. In the second row are: Debbie Layton, Cole Sweitzer, Scotty Tichnell, Christina Evans, Hannah Whitacre, Jazlyn Tasker, Leah Conklyn, Madison Shugars, Kaitlyn Bryd, and Alexis Dixon. In the third row are: Austin Lytle, Tiffany Lytle, Mariah Beeman, Wells, and Christophel.

Quilters Schedule Annual Show At AC Fairgrounds

The 28th annual Schoolhouse Quilters' Quilt Show will be held Friday through Sunday, June 24–26, at the Allegany County Fairgrounds in Cumberland.

Quilters from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Virginia will compete for prizes and display their artistry during this three-day celebration. There will be more than 300 items on display.

"Schoolhouse Quilters Guild is pleased to fully support and honor our veterans, and as an adjunct and highlight of our show we are bringing in the Agent Orange Quilt of Tears as one of our community service projects," said a spokeswoman. "The Quilt of Tears helps to draw national attention to the plight of veterans affected by Agent Orange used during the Vietnam War."

The featured quilter this year is Linda Reuschlein of LaVale. Reuschlein, who specializes in hand appliqué, will be available each day to discuss her work and will have many of her quilts on display. She designs her own patterns, and her work has been shown nationally.

The following classes will be held during the show:

•"Yes! Beautiful Machine Quilting" with Lois Smith, Friday, June 24, 9:30 a.m.–5 p.m., sewing machine required.

•"Flying Ginkgo Leaves" with Lois Smith, Saturday, June 25, 9:30 a.m.–5 p.m., sewing machine required.

•"Star Gazing Using Tri-Rec Tools" with Patty Prodonovich, Sunday, June 26, 9:30 a.m.–3:30 p.m., sewing machine and Tri-Rec tools required.

For more information on the classes, persons may call 301-777-7843. Further information about the show is available by calling 301-724-4664 or visiting schoolhouse-quilters.org.

Southeast Music Teacher Association competition. Kim studied with Clifton Matthew, concertizing throughout the country.

While still a graduate student, Kaori Sato Ostrovsky was on the roster of the Metropolitan Opera covering the role of Gilda in Rigoletto. She is best known for her Madama Butterfly. She sang the title role of Cio-Cio San for the Tacoma Opera, Virginia Opera, Palm Beach Opera, and Cleveland Opera, among others. She was also Liu in the Opera Memphis/Nashville Opera production of Puccini's Turandot. She presented a gala concert at the New Hampshire Music Festival, and was the guest of the Monterey Symphony and Valdosta Symphony for a gala program.

Other recent operatic engagements include the role of La Contessa in The Marriage of Figaro with Opera Memphis, Gilda in Rigoletto with the Astra Theatre in Malta and the Fresno International Grand Opera. In Manila, the Philippines, she gave a gala concert of selected opera arias and, with both the Sendai Opera in Japan and Opera Asia in New York, sang Santuzza in Mascagni's Cavalleria Rusticana.

As an active freelance musician, bass player Rick Ostrovsky performs regularly with some of the most respected ensembles in New York City, including the American Symphony Orchestra, the American Composers Orchestra, the Brooklyn Philharmonic Orchestra, and the New York City Ballet. He has toured extensively, playing in major concert halls throughout the United States, Europe, South America, and Japan. He can be heard on orchestral recordings of the American Symphony Orchestra and the Orchestra of St. Lukes. Ostrovsky was a member of the Colombus Symphony Orchestra and was the solo bass with the Soviet Émigré Orchestra, an ensemble of 13 string players. Ostrovsky played with the Symphony at Deep Creek for multiple seasons. He has also had the opportunity to perform in a variety of chamber and solo settings, including a performance of the Bottesini Gran Duo in concert with violinist Friedman, and sharing the recital stage with his wife, soprano Kaori Sato. Ostrovsky earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees in music from the Juilliard School.

Kathryn Sincell-Corwell is a lifelong musician, having earned a bachelor's degree in music from Frostburg State University and a master's degree in vocal musical performance at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas. A native of Mountain Lake Park, she grew up studying piano with Mary Douglass in Oakland, and then studied with Sara Pearce at FSU and Tommy Hayward at SMU. She taught voice and piano at FSU as well as Hagerstown Community College for several years. Currently she is a private piano and voice instructor in her home in Clear Spring. She also frequently serves as accompanist for her husband, Neal Corwell.

Dr. Neal Corwell serves in Pershing's Own U.S. Army Band as euphonium section leader of the Ceremonial Band and NCOIC (Non-Commissioned Officer in Charge) of the band's tuba-euphonium quartet. He has performed as soloist at venues such as the Lincoln Center in New York City and the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. Corwell taught at Shepherd and Frostburg State universities, and earned a doctoral degree in euphonium performance and pedagogy at the University of Maryland under the tutelage of Dr. Brian Bowman. He is a featured artist in the Maryland "Artist-in-Education" program, which entails traveling across the state performing solo recitals in Maryland's public schools. He is an accomplished composer as well, having more than 50 compositions published. He has recorded a number of CDs featuring his arrangements and original works, and has presented more than 1,000 solo recitals over a span of nearly three decades during his career as a professional soloist.

Tickets to the 25th anniversary concert and celebration, which are $60, can be obtained by calling GLAF at 301-387-3082, or by going to the web site at www.artsandentertainment.org.

Chilean violist Veronica Salas plays and is a member of six chamber music groups in New York City, and is also principal violist of American Composer's Orchestra, Opera Orchestra of New York, and Phantom of the Opera on Broadway. Salas said that in her career, one of her "most cherished experiences" was performing for many years with Friedman and Sincell-Corwell in GLAF's music festival.

Jill Pellett Levine, violist, received her BFA from SUNY/Purchase, and her master of music and artist diploma from the Yale University School of Music. She plays in several orchestras throughout Connecticut, including the New Haven Symphony, Bridgeport Symphony, and Waterbury Symphony. She is a viola teacher, and maintains an active violin and viola studio with students of all ages. Her late husband, Jesse Levine, was a renowned violist as well, and close friend of Friedman. He played for several seasons with the Symphony at Deep Creek, as did his wife.

Michael Horton, tenor, has starred in Phantom of the Opera, Cats, and Jesus Christ Superstar on the musical stage, and has performed in opera, oratorio and concert with many symphony orchestras, including Pittsburgh Symphony, Pacific Symphony, and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. His television credits include nearly 20 years on Mister Rogers Neighborhood, and he has performed on the sound tracks of numerous Hollywood films, including Independence Day, First Knight, Waterworld, Men in Black, and Inspector Gadget. He said one of his favorite classical projects was recording the album Kristal with Linda Ronstadt, featuring the music of the glass harmonica. Since moving to Mountain Lake Park in February 2000, Horton has continued to pursue studio work in California and

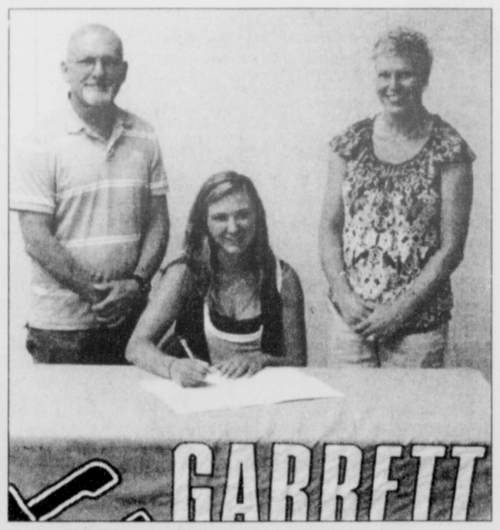
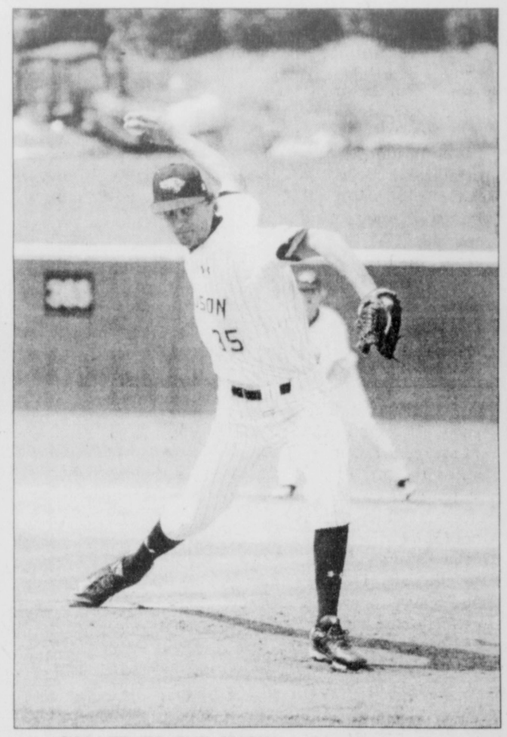
LAKER SIGNS WITH HOPE INTERNATIONAL – Garrett College graduate Jordan Gipson has signed with Division I NAIA Hope International University, located in Fullerton, Calif., where he will continue his academic and athletic career. As a strong forward for the Lakers, Gipson averaged 11.5 points and 5.3 rebounds this past season. He was selected to play in the Maryland JUCO All-Star game and was recruited by numerous colleges. "Jordan is one of the finest young men I have been fortunate to work with," said GC head coach Dennis Gibson. "He had a great all-around game and was willing to do anything you asked defensively or offensively; taking charges, rebounding, or just playing harder than the competition all the time. In addition to that, he is just a great kid to have around. You did not have to ask him to do anything; he either did it on his own or volunteered. He will be sorely missed not only by this program, but by our school and community as well."



McKENZIE SIGNS WITH LAKERS — After a dream season and run at the state championship with the Northern High School girls' varsity this past season, Husky standout Terra McKenzie has committed to play for Garrett College for the 2011-2012 season. McKenzie averaged just over 15 points per season for the 23-5 Huskies and also led the team in rebounds. She is pictured with her parents, Tina and Anthony. Northern assistant coach Pete Brosnihan praised McKenzie. "She is an excellent player," he said. "We are 'old-school' coaches, and she is an 'old-school' player who does all the dirty work as well," referring to McKenzie's hustle, hard work, and "being someone who is willing to take a charge." Garrett College director of athletics Shawn Noel said he is pleased to have McKenzie on the GC roster. "I was lucky to catch a few of her games last season," he said. "I look forward to seeing her on the court as a Laker this coming season, and I hope the local community will continue to support her as it has throughout her high school years."

Towson University Graduate Drafted By Tampa Bay Rays



CALLED TO THE SHOW — Charlie Cononie, a recent Towson graduate, was recently selected by the Tampa Bay Rays in the 2011 Major League Baseball First Year Player Draft. Many family members of Cononie's live in Garrett County, including his maternal grandparents, Dale and Wilma Rodeheaver of Accident. His season starts Friday, June 17, with the Hudson Valley Renegades of Fishkill, N.Y., the Short-Season A level team of the Rays. Photo by Steve Cononie. See story.

by Beth L. Bowers

Childhood dreams from the early days of T-ball paid off earlier this month for Charlie Cononie when he was selected by the Tampa Bay Rays as the 750th player in the 2011 Major League Baseball First Year Player Draft.

Cononie, a 6'7" right-hander of Germantown, is a recent graduate of Towson University. He started as a relief pitcher for his first two seasons at Towson, and ended his senior year as one of the top pitchers in the Colonial Athletic Association. In 2011, he was named the CAA Pitcher of the Week two times. His pitches average 89-90 mph.

Two of his proudest fans are his maternal grandparents, Dale and Wilma Rodeheaver of Accident.

"We are really proud of all his accomplishments on and off the field at Towson," said Dale Rodeheaver. "We enjoyed watching him on the field as a T-baller all the way to Towson and looking forward to watching him with the Hudson Valley Renegades in Fishkill, N.Y."

In his early days at Towson, he changed the mechanics of his pitch. He went from traditional over-the-top style pitching to a side-arm style. "It was just an ecstatic feeling of rejoice and relief," said his dad Steve. "I've watched him struggle and I've watched him excel. And just knowing that he's made it...that he has a chance to play professional baseball, is a great feeling."

As a senior, Cononie posted an 8-3 record, with 14 appearances and 13 starts. He also tied for the CAA lead with two shutouts. He finished the year with a 3.39 ERA.

Cononie finished his college career with a 12-4 record and a 5.15 ERA. In those four years, he pitched 181.2 innings and struck out 160 batters.

Tampa Bay has three farm teams at the Class A level, and Cononie will be playing for the Short-Season A team, Hudson Valley Renegades, located in Fishkill, N.Y. Their season begins Friday, June 17, against the Aberdeen Iron Birds.

"No matter where he starts his professional career is a great testament to Charlie and how hard he has worked," said his father. "I don't care what I'm doing or what I have going on that day, I will be at the game with my wife and son, Matt."

Cononie was the 15th Tiger baseball player who has been drafted since Mike Gottlieb became the Tigers' coach in 1988.

"This is a great opportunity for Charlie and he certainly deserves it," said Gottlieb. "He has done very well and he has the ability to keep getting better. There were a lot of teams that showed interest in Charlie so I'm not surprised that Tampa drafted him. A long time ago, I learned that it's impossible to predict what is happening behind the scenes on draft day. There are 30 teams out there and I was confident that one of them would choose Charlie."

When Cononie received the phone call he had been anxiously awaiting, he said he was at a loss for words. "I'm obviously just really excited," he said. "I couldn't believe that it really just happened."

Charlie is the son of Steve and Elaine (Rodeheaver) Cononie, Germantown.

Diamond Dogs And Frank Arnold Earn Wins In Rec. League Play

In Cumberland Rec. League baseball play, the Northside Diamond Dogs defeated Casselman Valley, 4-2, on Tuesday, while Frank Arnold Contracting dropped a Tuesday game to Fort Ashby, 3-1, before winning its first of the season against Barrelville ODC, 7-0.

For the Diamond Dogs, Cody Rodeheaver struck out seven and walked only one, while tossing a two-hitter in the team's victory at Northern High School.

Rodeheaver also led his team at the plate, batting two doubles, a single, and two RBI.

Northside took the first lead with two runs in the third inning, but Casselman tied the score with two of its own in the bottom of the same inning. The Diamond Dogs wasted little time in reclaiming the lead, however, scoring twice more before the end of regulation.

The win set the Northside Diamond Dog's overall record at 3-1.

Frank Arnold lost its outing with Fort Ashby to record its third straight defeat. Frank Arnold's Scott Bittinger pitched a complete game, giving up only five hits.

The score was 1-0 until the bottom of the seventh inning, when Fort Ashby's Colby Joiner and Josh McNeil came home on a sacrifice from Marcus Weaver to extend their team's lead to two.

Frank Arnold's Tyler Sweitzer reached base on three occasions, and in the bottom of the seventh inning scored his team's only run of the game.

Fort Ashby's J.P. Twigg had a pair of doubles, while Dylan Wagoner had a base hit.

Leading Frank Arnold were Danny Sislo and Mason Dick, who each tallied two singles. Teammate Shane Peck also singled.

In its first win of the season, Frank Arnold hammered out 13 hits against Barrelville.

Winning pitcher Derek Taylor hurled a complete-game shutout, allowing only two hits. He also contributed with his bat, swatting two base hits.

Frank Arnold's Dillon Bennett, who went 3-for-3 with a double and two RBI, and Derek Noble, Sislo, and Ryan Bennett, each with two hits, led their team with their bats.

Other Frank Arnold hitters who scored hits and runs in the win were Dick and Cody Myers.

WHERE HAVE WE BEEN?
by Dan Muss

Starting with the Memorial Day weekend and the next weekend, there has been no sailing column in The Republican!

What's up? The answer is that I've been on a trip to Europe with my bride, and a wonderful trip it was. We spent time with an old grad-school roommate in Zumikon, Switzerland, toured Switzerland by train, and then embarked on a 10-day, 195-mile bicycle trip down the Adige and Mincio rivers in northern Italy. Beginning just south of the Austrian border, we biked dedicated bike paths with the snow-covered Alps on both sides, glistening lakes, and the slate-colored roaring river beside us. It was a truly glorious experience. And my back-up columnist, Ted Rissell (also known as Nemesis), was also on the trip.

I knew that the southern Tyrol region had been ceded to Italy from the Austro-Hungarian Empire at the end of WWI; what I didn't know and what really surprised me was that it was still Austrian…culturally. Everyone spoke German, all the store and road signs were in German (sometimes with Italian in small print below), and the food was heavy Tyrolian. It wasn't until we were south of the town of Balzano, the old Austria-Italy border, did the country become Italian.

We flew back to the U.S. on Thursday, June 9, stayed the night at Dulles Airport, and drove back to Garrett County Friday morning. I was planning to get the sailboat in the water on Friday and sail on Saturday… what I didn't count on was jet lag. We got the boat out of storage and cleaned up, but then it was like someone had pulled my plug. I needed to rest. I figured we'd get the boat in the water Saturday morning. We got the mast up with the able assistance of Ray Gauthier, and I started to rig the lines. But again, when the boat was ready for launch, I ran out of steam. We got the boat into the water, and my Fearless Crew Marilyn Filemyr, and DJ, the dinghy driver, put the boat on our mooring… I was through for the day.

So it wasn't until Sunday that we finally put the sails on, finished rigging the spinnaker, and headed for the race course. We got a good start in a freshening and puffy breeze, but I over-stood the first windward mark and we were back in the pack rounding the offset mark. Then real trouble struck; as we started to raise the spinnaker we found the port spinnaker sheet fed through the double jib sheets instead of beneath them. I guess that jet lag was still deviling me. We could not raise the spinnaker, so I pointed the boat directly down wind and Fearless winged the jib.

(The race course is really a sort of madhouse, with four Flying Scot fleets of from 20 to 40 boats racing, in addition to 10-odd Lasers sailing two back-to-back races on a course inside the Scot course, so every competitor on the course has to maneuver through this gauntlet. This season, in order to prevent the Scots from sailing downwind through the starting line just as the Lasers are starting their second race, the board of the racing association made the starting line "poison" to all boats after they've started.)

Fortunately, my course took me clear of the poisonous starting line, but as I looked over, Nemesis, with his spinnaker up, was about to cross it. I found out later that Nemesis dropped out. The wind-on-wing was working, but we were still losing ground to the spinnakers, so we finished somewhere back in the pack.

But it was great to be back in a racing sailboat and we had a great time. Wait 'til next week!

Oakland Dispatches Romney In Pen-Mar Play; 17-3 And 10-1

In its Pen-Mar League double-header played on Saturday with visiting Romney, Oakland combined for a total of 27 runs and 26 hits to win 17-3 and 10-1 at Garrett College.

The opener saw home runs from Oakland's Jeff Conley, who had a three-run shot, and Corey Flickenger, who also had a single and four RBI.

Brian Lenhart added a pair of singles to Oakland's offensive effort, earning three RBI in the process. Teammate Jason Ashby also had two singles for an RBI.

The long ball kept Romney out of game two, as Oakland's Flickenger, Billy Reams, and Justin Anderson all hit home runs. Flickenger finished with three RBI in the game.

Reams, who added a single to his game-two hit total, and Anderson, who also hit a double, tallied three and two RBI, respectively.

Oakland's Jeremy Shingler singled and doubled. Ashby swatted four singles and recorded an RBI.

With the sweep of Romney, Oakland improved its overall record to 2-2.

CANINES IN NEED OF HOMES – "Adorable Adoptables" at the Garrett County Animal Shelter this week include an older chocolate Lab (above left) found near Ben DeWitt Road, a male black Lab (above right), a nice husky mix (below left), and a pit bull (below right) found near Old Zion Road. "The yellow Lab is still here from last week's adoptables, along with a Rottweiler that is missing his owner," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. "If all of these dogs were wearing some form of ID, they could be home by now. Many cats are available for adoption as well. Last week's black/white tuxedo was adopted, and some kittens were taken to rescue by HART. But shorthaired black, longhaired white, tabby, and tortoiseshell cats are still needing good homes." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday. YOUTH GROUP BRINGS HOME TROPHIES – Loch Lynn Church of God youth returned recently from Easton, where they competed in the Regional Church of God Teen Talent Competition in the categories of drama, Bible quiz, and percussion. The Loch Lynn drama group "The Remnant" brought home first-place trophies in group pantomime and synchronized movement, which qualifies them to participate in the International Teen Talent Competition at Lee University in Cleveland, Tenn., the first week of August. The Remnant also placed as first runner-up in human video. Individually, Ashton Shreve received first runner-up in percussion. Honorable mentions went to Nicholas Skipper, who competed in Bible quiz, and Chantel Friend, who competed in art and solo synchronized movement. Debbie McCroskey is the coach and drama team mentor. She is assisted by Joshua Fitzwater, Andrea Warnick Jessica Schoch, and Kaycee Ackerman. Left to right in the front row are Ashton, Nicolas, and Brandi Tasker. Second row: Brooke Tasker, Abby SanJulian, Justyce Fulmer, and Brittney Sweitzer. Third row: Ashley Wilson, Jonathan Martin, Kendra Hardesty, and Kaycee. Fourth row: Chasity Flanagan, Noel Custer, Bethany DeWitt, and Chantel. Persons who would like to sponsor the youth group for the International Teen Talent Competition may call the church office at 301-334-3221.

The Grantsville Lions will serve barbecued chicken dinners starting at 11 a.m., and there will be a variety of other food items available from local non-profit groups. There are no commercial food booths at Grantsville Days.

The bluegrass group Halftime String Band will perform at noon. There will also be rides for children, and a horseshoe pitching tournament will begin at 1 p.m.

Teal Steel, a steel drum group from Frankford (W.Va.) High School, will perform at 4 p.m., and there will also be children's games with Jeff Rice at 4 p.m.

A tractor pulling contest will begin at 5 p.m. For more information, persons may contact coordinator Franklin Broadwater at 240-580-7160. The contest will be for stock and hot stock tractors.

The Saturday evening concert will be performed by Girlz in Black Hats starting at 6:30 p.m.

A fireworks display will begin at 10:30 p.m., sponsored by many local businesses.

On Sunday, June 26, at 11 a.m., there will be an interdenominational church service in pavilion 3 next to the park pond. It is coordinated by the Grantsville Ministerial Association.

The Grantsville Lions will again serve chicken dinners beginning at 11 a.m., along with the other food vendors. Craft and vendor booths will also be open in the adult softball field.

There will be a Pickup Pulling Contest starting at 2 p.m., also coordinated by Franklin Broadwater. Persons may call 240-580-7160 for more information.

Starting at 2 p.m., there will be special free entertainment by the Fabulous Hubcaps. The concert is free thanks to donations from many local businesses. DJ Jimmy B will perform between the musical groups throughout the weekend and will also provide the sound for the groups.

Entertainment this year will be performed in a new gazebo acquired by the town of Grantsville through an Open Space grant. The gazebo is just behind where the former stage was located near the playground. Grantsville Days entertainment is partially funded by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

The Grantsville Lions Club, which coordinates Grantsville Days, raises money that goes back into the community to help those who are blind and those who need eyeglasses or exams but can't afford them. Money is also used for sight research, local scholarships at Northern High School, the Lions Little League team, and other worthy projects.

The local Lions Club also recently sponsored the Kelly Miller Circus, which was a great hit with the community, according to a spokesperson.

Persons who are interested in having a booth at Grantsville Days may contact Rich Towers at 301-895-5903. For general information, persons may contact Gerry Beachy at 301-895-5387.

AREA YOUTH HOLD DUCK REGATTA – The Junior Youth Fellowship (JYF) of Springs (Pa.) Mennonite Church recently held a duck regatta on the Casselman River by the three bridges near Grantsville. More than 200 small, colorful plastic ducks were sponsored by area residents for a race to the finish line. Three youth with kayaks released the ducks into the river near the I-68 bridge and followed the ducks along the regatta route. A net was strung across the river to gather the incoming floating ducks. JYF members were also in the river by the bridge with nets. Total time for the ducks to travel from the first bridge to the stone arched Casselman River bridge was 20 minutes. Prizes were awarded to the sponsors as follows: first place, Grace and Winston Hershberger, "Feathered Friends Basket"; second place, Carl and Tammy Groves, "Re-Tweet Basket"; third place, Owen and Twila Guengerich, "Quackers and Cheese Basket"; and last place, the Lame Duck Prize, a stuffed singing duck, was awarded to Diana Detrick. The event raised enough funds to purchase materials to build a 6-foot by 8-foot playhouse, which will be auctioned at the TriState Relief Festival, Auction, and Cruise-In on Saturday, July 16, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry. All funds raised at the event will be sent to the Mennonite Central Committee to help victims of natural disasters, war, and poverty in the United States and around the world. More information is available at tristatesale.org. The youth sponsors are Jesse and Karen Maust and Jenni Bodes. Above, youth wait for the regatta ducks at the Casselman River bridge. FEATHERED FRIENDS COUNTED – The blackburnian warbler, left, and the bobolink, right, were among the species of birds that were sighted and counted in the recent May Bird Count in Garrett County. The photo of the adult male warbler, sporting his full breeding plumage, was taken in Potomac State Forest. Its wintering grounds are in southern Central America and northern South America. The species is considered "threatened" in Maryland and "highly at risk" by the Audubon Maryland-DC Important Bird Areas program because of the loss of hemlock forests in the U.S. from hemlock wooly adelgid, as well as deforestation of its tropical wintering grounds. The photo of the adult male bobolink was taken in the Pleasant Valley area. Bobolinks are one of the most visually striking birds in North America, as some birders say they look like they're wearing a tuxedo backwards, with their white back and dark front. They breed in the U.S. and Canada, as far south as West Virginia. The largest breeding populations in Maryland are found in Garrett and Allegany counties.

They are extraordinary migrants, covering about 20,000 kilometers between breeding and wintering grounds in South America. They are a species of concern, as populations have been declining in the U.S. over the past 40 years. This is mostly because of land-use changes, such as changes in hayfield harvest and loss of hay meadows to development or conversion to other crops. Photos by Fran Pope. See story on the bird count results.

Quilt Raffle To Benefit Library In Friendsville

The Friendsville Library Quilters have completed their eighth quilt to benefit the Friendsville Library. Titled "Birds in Our Back Yard," this queen-size quilt is hand-embroidered and hand-quilted to show a selection of birds common to Garrett County back yards.

Members of the group worked on their projects at the Friendsville Library, where the quilt will be on display for most of the summer. The library is open Monday and Wednesday from 2 to 8 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The group plans to enter their creation in the Schoolhouse Quilters Show, slated June 24–26 at the Allegany County Fairgrounds in Cumberland, and to display it at the Heritage Quilters Show during the Autumn Glory Festival in October.

The quilt design features the following birds, each embroidered by a member of the group: a red-eyed vireo by Mary Frazee, bluebird by Carolyn Receveur, Baltimore oriole by Marilyn Moors and Ina Hicks, cedar waxwings by Mary Frantz, juncos by Marilyn Moors, a red-headed woodpecker by Jennifer Pletta, purple finch by Genne Serio, tufted titmice by Mimi Demaree, blue jay by Michele Liston, goldfinches by Meg Ellis, and a cardinal by Michele Liston.

The quilt also has a hermit thrush by Helen Bowser and Michele Liston, barn swallows by Nina Laudermilk, a wren by Ina Hicks, robin by Janet Fike, rufus-sided towhees by Marilyn Moors, chickadees by Dorothy Spear, hummingbirds by Janet Fike, an eastern wood pewee by Helen Savage, and a chipping sparrow by Julia Sines.

The Library Quilters expressed their appreciation to Dover Publications for allowing them to use drawings from two books in their catalog – Fifty Favorite Birds by Lisa Bonforte and State Birds and Flowers by Annika Bernhard – to create the quilt.

Raffle tickets for the quilt are available from any of the quilters, local Friendsville businesses, and End of the Line Books in Oakland. They are not for sale at the library.

Tickets sell for $1 each or 6 for $5, and all proceeds benefit the library. The winning raffle ticket will be drawn on Tuesday, Oct. 17, at the Friendsville Library.

The birth of one baby was announced this week, a girl.

A daughter, Kirstin Diane, was born to Danny and Angie (Kamp) Ellis, Grantsville, on May 12 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The maternal grandparents are Ed and Theresa Kamp, Grantsville, and the paternal grandparents are Floyd Ellis, McHenry, and the late Diane Ellis.

2011 May Bird Count Results Are Announced

Ideal conditions for counting birds were reported by local counters/watchers during the 2011 May Bird Count in Garrett County, the results of which were released this week.

A total of 6,442 individual birds of 141 species was reported, well above the 4,505 individuals of 129 species found last year when conditions were not as favorable.

According to count coordinator Fran Pope, birder numbers were also up, with 41 participants counting at least part of the 24-hour period, compared to 35 last year. Eight birders counted 21.75 hours in their yards or at feeders, less than the 32.25 hours last year, while 33 birders ranged farther afield in search of birds to count. The latter group spent 140.5 hours, traveling 629.3 miles by foot, car, horse and buggy, and tractor. Two observers spent 3.75 hours and traveled 13.1 miles after dark in search of owls and other night birds, Pope reported.

Comparing the "Top Ten" birds reported this year, according to total numbers, to those in the 2010 count, the red-winged blackbird (534) again switched places with American robin (521) and returned to the top spot after a year in second place. The red-eyed vireo (265), common yellowthroat (198), and eastern towhee (188) replaced 2010's common grackle, blue jay, and tree swallow, respectively, on the list.

There were single sightings of the following species: pied-billed grebe, black vulture, American coot, Swainson's thrush, northern mocking bird, blue-winged warbler, Tennessee warbler, palm warbler, white-throated sparrow, and orchard oriole.

Participants this year were: Natalie Atherton, Ken Bauer, Maria Duff, Courtney and Mike Englar, Emanuel, Emma, Reuben, and Vernie Fisher, Charlotte Folk, Barbara and George Gaffney, Marianna Herpel, Donald and Harold Hoecker, Aaron and Zachary Holochwost, Sheila Hughes, Jim McCann, Pauline Mehta, Sue and Wayne Mowatt, Jeff Opel, Ada, Jethro, Joyce, Judy, Lily, Reuben, and Violet Peachey, Bill and Fran Pope, Savilla Schlabach, Martha Schrock, Ed and Mary Sipes, Connie Skipper, David Walbeck, Barbara Yoder, Irene Yoder, and Samuel M. Yoder.

Results of the local count will be published in Maryland Birdlife, the journal of the Maryland Ornithological Society (MOS). Next year's count will again be on the second Saturday in May, which in 2012 falls on May 12.

Former Resident Receives Award From Air Force

U.S. Air Force officials presented a former Garrett County resident with the International Affairs Excellence Award for 2010 during a recent ceremony at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. Maj. Paul Sebold is the son of Donald and Charlotte Sebold, longtime residents of the Sang run area.

Presented annually, the award recognizes the Air Force member who is judged to most effectively build, sustain, expand, and guide enduring international relationships.

The valedictorian of his class, the major graduated from Northern High School in 1996. He is now a political military affairs strategist and country desk officer in the Air Force's Europe and Eurasia Branch – directorate of plans, programs, and analyses – Ramstein Air Base, Germany. He coordinates the planning, resourcing, execution, and assessment of Building Partnerships events in the 51 countries within the U.S. European Command area of responsibility. He also advises USAFE (U.S. Air Forces in Europe) senior leadership as the regional affairs strategist for Poland, Russia, Ukraine, Turkey, and the Caucasus.

PRESENTED WITH EXCELLENCE AWARD – Secretary of the U.S. Air Force Michael Donley (left) presented former Garrett County resident Maj. Paul Sebold with the Air Force International Affairs Excellence Award for 2010 during a ceremony at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., on May 31. Sebold is assigned to Headquarters U.S. Air Forces in Europe at Ramstein Air Base, Germany, as a political military affairs strategist and country desk officer. See story. (U.S. Air Force photo/ Jim Varhegy).

"Paul is part of a skilled workforce that recognizes the importance of the cultural differences between the U.S., its partners and their neighbors abroad, and recognizes the subtleties that go with international affairs," said Air Force Secretary Michael Donley, who presented the award to Sebold. "There is no doubt in my mind why he would be identified as one of our star players."

According to the award citation, Sebold's analytical expertise led to improved cooperation and interoperability with partner air forces in the European Command area of responsibility.

The secretary described Sebold as the "go-to regional affairs strategist" for such countries as Poland, Russia, Ukraine, and Turkey. He added that the major is a critical liaison for numerous agencies, the State Department, and combatant commanders.

"USAFE is really the place to be right now because you have a unique opportunity with forward deployed forces, and we work with the host nations, partner nations, and non-NATO partner nations every day," Sebold said. "My job as a country desk officer and a regional affairs strategist is to facilitate the U.S. Air Force experts: the maintainers, the pilots that USAFE has on the ground to work with our partner nations. They're really the folks who get the job done."

Sebold received his commission in 2000 through the Reserve Officer Training, Corps at Duke University, Durham, N.C. He is a developmental engineer and has served in information operations, foreign materiel exploration, and international relations mission areas.

He was deployed in support of Operations Iraqi Freedom, Enduring Freedom, and Joint Forge/Joint Guardian.

Sebold graduated magna cum laude with a bachelor of science degree in engineering from Duke University in 2000. In 2003, he earned a master of science degree from the University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio.

In 2009, he earned a master of arts, with highest honors, in area studies of the CIS (Commonwealth of Independent States) from St. Petersburg State University, Russia, as part of the Olmstead Scholar Program.

A linguist, the major speaks Russian at a 3/3 level, and composed and defended his thesis on Russian-Georgian bilateral relations in that language.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Air Force Airman Chelsie M. Rodeheaver graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

The airman completed an intensive, eight-week program that included training in military discipline and studies, Air Force core values, physical fitness, and basic warfare principles and skills.

Airmen who complete basic training earn four credits toward an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Rodeheaver is the daughter of Kelly Rodeheaver, Markleysburg, Pa., and the granddaughter of Jack and Marylou Thomas, Friendsville. She is a 2010 graduate of Uniontown Area High School.

U.S. Army Pfc. Thomas J. Kovach has graduated from basic combat training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C.

During the nine weeks of training, the soldier studied the Army mission, history, tradition, and core values, and physical fitness, and received instruction and practice in basic combat skills, military weapons, chemical warfare and bayonet training, drill and ceremony, marching, rifle marksmanship, armed and unarmed combat, map reading, field tactics, military courtesy, military justice system, basic first aid, foot marches, and field training exercises.

The private's mother is Mary Fazenbaker, Blooming Rose Road, Friendsville. He is a 2010 graduate of Northern High School.

GC Deputies Make Arrests Following Citizen Complaints

Garrett County sheriff's deputies recently made two arrests involving reported disorderly conduct. The following incidents are unrelated.

Deputies responded to I Street, Mtn. Lake Park, for a disturbance complaint on June 2. While at the scene, Amanda Elizabeth Jones, 24, Oakland, continually yelled and screamed profanities after being told to calm down by police. She was charged with disturbing the peace and taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to Vista Square, Mtn. Lake Park, for a trespassing complaint on Saturday evening. Investigation led to the arrest of William Sachs, 50, on disorderly conduct, disobeying a lawful order, and resisting arrest charges. He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

DON'T TRAVEL IN THE CENTER TOO LONG – In an effort to educate the public about various issues, the Garrett County Traffic Advisory Committee will periodically provide guidance through local media outlets. This week's topic concerns the proper use of center turn lanes, such as the one on Garrett Highway at the north end of Oakland. The above graphic depicts the correct and incorrect methods of utilizing a center turn lane. "If a street has a dedicated center turn lane, you must use it when you turn left," explained committee member Brad Frantz, director of GC Department of Public Safety and Emergency Management. "Since these lanes are typically used for traffic from both directions, you should move into the center lane just prior to turning. You should never travel more than 200 feet in the center lane, and the lane cannot be used for a regular driving lane or as a passing lane. Always watch for vehicles coming head-on toward you in the same lane as they start to make their turns. Make sure the lane you will be crossing is clear and only turn when safe to do so. Also note, emergency vehicles (police, fire, EMS) may use the center lane to bypass traffic. Always be aware of emergency flashing lights and don't pull into a center lane if it impedes their movement." Future topics may include school bus stops, crosswalk safety, and child safety seats. Town Hall

ACCIDENT

The regular town meeting was held on Thursday, June 2, at the town hall.

Mike Murray from MRDC and Clay Riley from Thrasher Engineering were present to discuss the upcoming sewer and water projects. The town submitted a CDBG application to fund the drilling of a new water well and treatment plant.

Residents are reminded to inform the town office as soon as their smoke testing violation is corrected. The corrections are to be completed as soon as possible so the information can be sent to Maryland Department of the Environment.

The 2010 Consumer Confidence Report is available for review. The annual report is prepared by the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities in accordance with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The report is a summary of 2010's water quality produced at the Accident Water Treatment Plants. The report can be picked up at the town hall from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

The annual town-wide yard sale will be held on Saturday, July 9. The North Star 4-H Club will provide food to be purchased.

The next regular meeting will be held on Thursday, July 7, at 7 p.m. at the town hall.

Local Veterinary Medicine Student Receives Award

A Grantsville resident was recognized during the annual Virginia Tech Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine Awards Ceremony and Luncheon in Blacksburg, Va., in April.

Tessa Folk, a graduate student pursuing a doctorate in veterinary medicine, received the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine (ACVIM) Certificate of Excellence – small animals.

The certificate is an award for a fourth-year, small animal veterinary student who demonstrates a sincere interest, outstanding knowledge, and clinical expertise in veterinary internal medicine who emulates the mission of the ACVIM.

The awards ceremony, held at the Inn at Virginia Tech, brought together more than 300 attendees into what was the biggest awards luncheon to date. After a welcome and introduction from Dr. Gerhardt Schurig, the dean of veterinary medicine, 239 students were presented with more than 100 different scholarships and awards totaling more than $550,000.

Named To Dean's List At WVU

Robert J. McEwen, Oakland, was named to the dean's list at West Virginia University for the 2011 spring semester. To obtain this honor status, a student must earn a 3.5 grade point average or higher in 12 credit hours of graded courses with no incompletes or withdrawals.

McEwen is a music education major at the WVU College of Creative Arts, studying with Professor George Willis. He recently earned a position with the WVU drum line through an audition process, and will march with the tenor line next fall. He is a 2010 graduate of Southern High School, and the son of John and Mary McEwen, Oakland.

Groups Participating: July 18-22, 2011 (ages 8 thru 11 boys and girls)

What is Badges for Baseball?

When fully implemented, Badges for Baseball is a multi-faceted mentoring program that brings the tenets of "The Ripken Way" to young people through a variety of programs, including Healthy Choices, and baseball/softball themed activities. Most importantly, law enforcement mentors work directly with youth to enhance the lessons of "The Ripken Way" while providing young people with new opportunities to learn, grow, and make positive choices for their future.

Students will be bussed from Northern and Southern High School parking lots at 8:30 am to Garrett Community College. At the end of each day students will be bussed back to the high schools for parental pick-up at 4:00pm. Lunches will be provided for the kids. We will also provide baseball gear and a tee shirt, however if your child has their own helmet and glove they must bring them. At the end of the camp, three students will be selected to attend a week long Cal Ripken Sr. baseball academy in Aberdeen, MD during the fall of this year at no expense to the child who will be accompanied by a law enforcement chaperone

RAM Notes

SUMMER SCHOOL PROGRAM

Southern High School will be offering a summer school program to assist students who are having difficulty passing a High School Assessment course and/or a High School Assessment. All students must pass assessments in biology, English, and algebra/data analysis to be eligible to graduate. HSA summer school program dates: Monday through Friday, July 5-25, 9 a.m. to noon.

High School Assessments will be administered on the last scheduled day of summer school (July 25). Students attending summer school are required to take the assessment.

There is an opportunity to earn credit recovery for English II, integrated algebra, and biology through completion of course work and a proficient score on HSA exams.

Students will be assigned to courses in their individual areas of need.

One may call Mrs. Henline at 301-334-9447 with any questions or concerns about the summer school program or individual status concerning these graduation requirements.

Southern High Names Students Of The Month

Faculty members at Southern High School have selected the following as Students of the Month for May: Colt Mason, English; Jillian Yant, science; Sara Jones, math; Britani Sebold, social studies; Angel Rasel, business education; Karisa Weissgerber, driver's education; and Kenya Rinker, agriculture.

Mason, a sophomore, is the son of Laura and Andy Mason of Oakland. He participates in his youth group, in which he is a member of the skit and human video team. His future plans are to attend college and study biology. He hopes to work for the Department of Natural Resources.

Yant, a freshman, is the daughter of Bill and Lori Yant of Oakland. She serves as the freshman class president and will be a sophomore class representative. She is also a member of the varsity soccer team and the bocce ball team. Yant volunteers at the HART Animal Clinic and participates in the Travel Soccer League. Her future plans include attending college and working in a field that helps people and/or animals.

Jones, a sophomore, is the daughter of James and Liliana Jones of Oakland. She is a member of the junior varsity girls' basketball team and serves as sophomore class vice president. She has been on the distinguished honor roll throughout her Southern High career, has been a ninth grade science Student of the Month, and has received the Woodmen of the World Award for American History.

Jones attended Colegio Anglo Colombiano in Bogota, Colombia, last semester as a foreign exchange student. She has won various awards throughout her 11 years as a violin student at WVU. In addition, Jones has been on the fundraising committee for the House of Hope, as well as a member of the Garrett College swim team for 10 years. Her future educational plans include attending a competitive university and obtaining an MBA. She aspires to become a business woman in the fashion industry.

Sebold, a freshman, is the daughter of Stephanie Shay and Robert Sebold of Mtn. Lake Park. She is a member of the marching band's color guard and has been on the honor roll each year since kindergarten. Sebold has been the Student of the Month for science and has received the Presidential Excellence Award. She volunteers at the Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

In her free time, she enjoys hunting, fishing, racing go-karts, and pulling modified garden tractors. Sebold plans to attend Garrett College and then transfer to Frostburg State University. She then plans on attending West Virginia University. She is interested in becoming a math teacher or a massage therapist.

Rasel, a senior, is the daughter of Jarrett and Bev Rasel of Oakland and Rachelle Rasel of Nemacolin, Pa. She has received Student of the Month honors previously for social studies. She has also received numerous Minds in Motion awards, and, currently, is president of the Southern High School chapter of the National Honor Society. Rasel plans on attending Garrett College and receiving a degree in business administration. She then hopes to transfer to Robert Morris University (Ill.) or Texas A&M University. After earning her MBA, she hopes to own her own trucking company.

Weissgerber, a sophomore, is the daughter of Bill and Debbie Weissgerber. She received the title of Most Outstanding Defense Player in basketball and was the cross country state champ. She is also a member of the track team.

Weissgerber volunteers for the Rotary Club and helps with service club basketball. Her future educational plans include going to a four-year college. Eventually, she hopes to be employed as a physical therapist.

Rinker, a sophomore, is the daughter of Kenny and Monica Rinker of Oakland. She serves as a peer counselor and is a member of the FFA. She is a distinguished honor roll student. Rinker is active in 4-H and at Brenda's Body Shop, where she is a student assistant. She has won the President's Volunteer Service Award and the Sheep Citizenship Award. She plans to attend college to pursue a degree in childhood education and hopes to one day become an elementary school teacher.

Earns Degree At Frostburg State

Britni Brenneman, a 2007 graduate of Southern High School, recently graduated cum laude from Frostburg State University. She earned a bachelor of science degree in psychology and a minor in sociology.

Brenneman, a member of the American Psychological Association, plans to pursue a master's degree in social work at California University of Pennsylvania.

She is the daughter of Steve and Lisa Brenneman of Oakland.

"Transplanted Garden" To Be Featured In Secret Gardens Tour

This year's 11th annual Secret Country Gardens Tour, sponsored by the Mtn. Laurel Garden Club and slated for Saturday, June 25, will include the Transplanted Garden at the home of Barbara and Fred Chesley.

After spending much of their childhood in Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, the Chesleys moved to Mtn. Lake Park 10 years ago, building their house on family property. Barbara transplanted specimens from her garden in Massachusetts and during the last decade has added more plants from nearby nurseries.

"The biggest challenge came when moving plants from dry, sandy soil of their New England home to the damp, clay soil of Garrett County," they said. "But the plants have thrived with soil amendments and loving care."

Among her favorite plants are a baby kousa dogwood grown from seed and a variety of pulmonaria. "The picket fence beautifully defines the front of the property, while the stone walls and stepping stones help visitors transition from front to back," Barbara said.

The area around the couple's gazebo is terraced with hosta, epimedium, a variety of lilacs, and irises as her garden highlights. Following the stepping stones that are surrounded by vinca to the back of the house, where a row of Winterthur viburnums sit atop a bank, visitors will view the expanse of property, which is shared by her sister, Kathie Smith, whose property is also on the tour.

Tickets for the tour, which include a short description of each garden, a map, and written directions, may be purchased in advance at the following locations: Gregg's Pharmacy, Jan Florist, and Green Acres Garden Center, all of Oakland, Julie's Greenhouse, Route 219, Nature's Own, Sang Run Road in McHenry, Annie's Restaurant, Accident, and Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville. Members of the Garrett County Historical Society will sell tickets at the Gazebo in Oakland on the day of the tour. The cost of a ticket is $7.

A perennial sale, tickets for the raffle prize, and refreshments will be available at different gardens on the day of the event. With four gardens located in the town of Mtn. Lake Park, members of the town's historical society will have open the museum, the Ticket Office on G Street.

The Conservation Committee will be featuring a five-minute computer presentation, "Invasive Plants of Garrett County," prepared by Liz McDowell of Elkridge Nature Works LLC. Handouts about invasive plants and sources for native plants and actual invasive specimens will be available for plant identification education.

Proceeds from the tour will benefit the Mtn. Laurel Garden Club in the continued beautification of local communities, as well as encouraging gardening and sound conservation practices through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County and Mountain Lake Park historical societies.

The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc., the Central Atlantic Region, and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc. For more information about the tour, persons may contact Kathy Long at 301-252-9917.

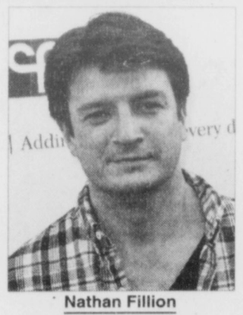
TV Pipeline

'Castle' remains Nathan Fillion's TV home

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it



Nathan Fillion

Q: Will "Castle" return in the fall? –Anthony Catanzano, Greenacres, Fla.

A: In fact, ABC renewed the show in January ... way before the full fall lineup was made known last month. The Nathan Fillion-starring mystery show will be back for its fourth season, retaining its Monday slot following "Dancing With the Stars."

Q: Why did Nancy O'Dell leave "Access Hollywood" only to show up on "Entertainment Tonight"? –Janet Tillman, Howard, Ohio

A: At the time O'Dell left "Access" in 2009, there was no similar opening at "Entertainment," since Mary Hart was still very much the weeknight co-anchor of the syndicated magazine program. It was afterward that Hart's departure became known.

Since O'Dell clearly had vast experience in hosting such a show, it was sort of a no-brainer that the "Entertainment" producers went to her. In terms of her accepting, O'Dell told us herself late last year, "It's the original, the one that began this whole genre. I always thought, 'How great would it be to be a part of that show?' "

Q: Is it true that they are going to cancel "The Chicago Code"? –Barbara Kamin, Burien, Wash.

A: It's not that "they are going to"; it's that "they did." The police drama was part of Fox's rather major cleanout of its lineup, announced the week before the new entries in its 2011-12 schedule were confirmed.

Q: What else has Eddie Cahill of "CSI: NY" been in? –Joy Christie, Tonawanda, N.Y.

A: Prior to his current role as police detective Don Flack on the CBS series – which starts its eighth season this fall – Cahill was probably best known as Tag, the assistant who had more meaning for Rachel (Jennifer Aniston) than just in taking care of office duties, on "Friends."

The actor also was a regular on the short-lived series "Glory Days," which aired on the now-defunct WB Network; the other series he's appeared on have included "Sex and the City," "Charmed," "Felicity," "Dawson's Creek," and "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit." Additionally, Cahill co-starred in the 2004 movie "Miracle" as 1980 U.S. Olympic hockey team goaltender Jim Craig.

Making Community Connections: Young Parents Aided By Health Dept. Programs

YOUNG FAMILY ON THE RIGHT TRACK – With the assistance of the Garrett County Health Department and its various agencies, Christina and James Lewis are on the path toward success, along with their daughter Keyona. They utilized local programs to help them gain their footing. See story.

by Yvonne McConnell
Community Health Nurse Supervisor,
Nurse Family Partnership,
Garrett County Health Department

Christina and James Lewis live in an apartment in downtown Oakland with Keyona, their 16-month old daughter, and the family cat, Junior. James works in construction with his father and Christina is a stay-at-home mom. Life for this family was not always so secure. James, who had just returned to Garrett County, was having trouble finding suitable work and had a new baby on the way, and 17-year-old Christina was in need of housing, was pregnant, and had not yet finished high school. Although they were both excited to be parents, Christina and James knew they faced many challenges.

In May of 2009, when she was six weeks pregnant, Christina, along with James, met Maria Friend, R.N., a nurse home visitor with the Garrett County Health Department Early Care Nurse Family Partnership Program. The program supports first-time low-income mothers, designed to help them have healthy babies, reach their fullest potential as parents, and attain economic self-sufficiency. With Maria's guidance, Christina and James developed a plan for their future.

Maria connected the family to housing assistance through the Garrett County Community Action Committee, and in August of 2009, the couple moved into an apartment they could afford. They were married on Dec. 16, 2009, and on Jan. 21, 2010, they celebrated the birth of their daughter Keyona.

Christina did not let being a busy new mother stop her. She completed a driver's education class and obtained her license with help from the Garrett County Department of Social Services. She enrolled in the Early Care Home Based Adult Education program, and, with lots of hard work and support from James, her teacher Karen Keefer, and Maria, Christina realized her dream of receiving a high school diploma through GED testing.

Another accomplishment for the family was that Christina was able to give Keyona the gift of breastfeeding for an entire year without formula supplementation. And the most rewarding accomplishment of all is that Keyona is a healthy, happy child who is excelling in her development.

Finally, even the family cat, Junior, benefited from the Nurse Family Partnership Program when Maria connected the family to HART for Animals Spay/Neuter Clinic.

"I just pointed the family in the right direction and they did all the rest," said Maria. "James has supported Christina to work hard and achieve her goals, and the family works together on the goals they have yet to accomplish."

When asked how the family has benefited from the Nurse Family Partnership Program, James said, "We would not be together as a family, there was so much stress. Maria helps us during the tough times. She is always there."

"The program has helped me love being a parent and I am always excited for the visits to begin," Christina said. "Maria makes me feel like I am doing my best to be a good mother to my baby."

Christina and James have much to be proud of and thankful for. Through their hard work and resolve, the support of the Nurse Family Partnership Program, and help from community resources, they have been able to realize a better life for themselves and their daughter. The family's journey continues; they plan to move to their own trailer later this year, and Christina is hoping to find a job and return to school to major in early childhood education. Christina hopes to become a licensed child care provider.

The Garrett County Nurse Family Partnership Program is one of the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Incorporated Early Care programs, which are grant-funded though the Governor's Office for Children and administered by the Garrett County Health Department.

Persons who would like more information about this program or other home visiting programs that support Garrett County families may call 301-334-7720 or 301-895-3111.

SMS HOLD FOOD DRIVE FOR HOUSE OF HOPE – Patty Wells recently visited eighth grade students at Southern Middle School to speak with them about the House of Hope ministry. As the school year draws to a close each year, SMS students and teachers conduct a "PB&J Drive" to help stock food pantries for the summer. During these months, when school is closed and access to free or reduced school meals is absent, many children are at risk for poor nutrition and even hunger, Wells noted. In the photo are some of the PB&J Drive participants. Left to right are Sierra Stiles, Skylar Warnick, Wells, Nicole MicClosky, and Lydia Palmer. Since 1978, the House of Hope has provided emergency assistance to the people of Garrett County. Among these many services, the House of Hope offers four food pantry sites: Bittinger, Deer Park, Hoyes, and Oakland. The pantries are free of charge, open to anyone in need, and may be accessed by calling the House of Hope at 301-334-2357.

To Hold Wilderness Survival Courses

Wilderness survival courses will be offered at Herrington Manor State Park. Classes will begin on June 18. The classes will be free of charge. Participants are required to register. Registration forms are available at both Herrington Manor and Swallow Falls state parks.

Those with questions may contact the Herrington Manor park office at 301-334-9180 and ask to speak with a naturalists.

JWCC SUPPORTS MENTORS – The Junior Woman's Civic Club recently made a financial donation to the Garrett Mentors, an organization that matches qualified adult mentors with local elementary school children as "study buddies." The mentors meet regularly with their students to help them with homework, to talk, and to be supportive friends. Pictured is Jen Bishoff at left as she gives the donation to Tricia Cheesman, director of the mentoring organization.

A New Father

Through the amazing miracle of birth, the father of a newborn is entrusted with an innocent spirit - what a great responsibility! Proverbs 22.6 says, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." A father doesn't have to do it alone; God is there with His sustaining guidance, He will be right alongside all along the way. Worship with your Heavenly Father this week, be thankful for His presence.

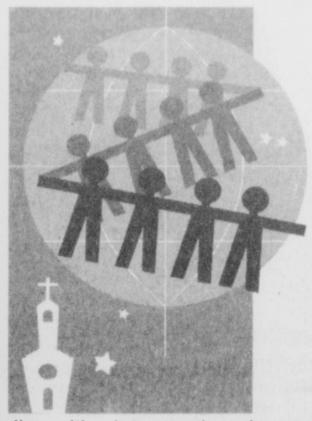
We Are All Connected



Aristotle famously claimed that "We are what we repeatedly do. Excellence, then, is not an act but a habit." You can't be courageous just once or twice and claim the virtue of courage. To be courageous requires that you have a settled disposition to act forthrightly and that you put that disposition into practice whenever the situation calls for it. Benjamin Franklin recounts in his autobiography how, as a young man, he systematically engaged in a project of self-improvement which involved spending four weeks on each of 13 virtues, the entire project thus taking him through the course of a year. With practice and self-reflection, he worked diligently to perfect those virtues, and at the end of the year, he had made significant progress in self-mastery. None of us are blessed with a perfect disposition and thus all of us must work hard to be good. Like anything that is difficult, we get better at it the more that we practice. So, perhaps we should practice virtue and goodness and not be dismayed when we fail, for there is an eternity of time in which to perfect our souls.

And all whobelieved were together and had all things in common; and they sold their possessions and goods, and distributed them to all, as any had need.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was American author Paul Auster who made the following sage observation: "Only the good doubt their own goodness, which is what makes them good in the first place. The bad know they are good, but the good know nothing. They spend their lives forgiving others, but they can't forgive themselves."
• If summer where you are is starting to heat up, just be grateful you don't live in western Australia. There, the average temperature is 96 degrees F. -- all year long.
• Those who study such things claim that the supposed pirate tradition of walking the plank is a myth. Whenever pirates wanted to get rid of something -- or somebody -- they just tossed the offender overboard without ceremony.
•When a baby is born it has more than 300 bones in its body, but due to bone fusion, adults end up with only 206 bones.
• The next time you're planning a European vacation, make time to visit the coast of the Netherlands, where you can stay in one of the world's most unusual hotels. Along the banks of the Wadden Sea you'll find Harlingen Harbour Crane, an actual derrick that was once used to haul timber. These days it holds aloft luxurious sleeping quarters designed for only one party at a time. If you need a change of scenery, just head to the control room to swing the crane around until you find a view that strikes your fancy.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 26, 1892, Nobel Prize-winning author Pearl S. Buck is born. Her novel "The Good Earth" (1930), describing peasant life in China, became an international bestseller and was translated into 30 languages. Buck wrote 80 novels and books.
• On June 25, 1915, the German press publishes an official statement from the country's war command addressing the German use of poison gas at the start of the Second Battle of Ypres two months earlier. The Germans had fired more than 150 tons of lethal chlorine gas against two French colonial divisions in April, claiming the French had first used gas in August 1914.
• On June 23, 1927, The Sioux County Pioneer newspaper of North Dakota reports that President Calvin Coolidge will be "adopted" into a Sioux tribe at Fort Yates on the border of North Dakota. At the Sioux ceremony, photographers captured Coolidge, in suit and tie, as he was given a grand ceremonial feathered headdress.
• On June 22, 1944, President Franklin Roosevelt's administration creates the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, better known as the G.I. Bill. The bill gave returning servicemen access to unemployment compensation, low-interest home and business loans, and -- most importantly -- funding for education.
• On June 24, 1953, Jacqueline Bouvier and Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy of publicly announce their engagement. Kennedy gave her a 2.88-carat diamond-and-emerald ring. Kennedy went on to become the 35th president and Jackie became one of the most popular first ladies ever to grace the White House.
• On June 21, 1964, Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney are killed by a Ku Klux Klan lynch mob near Meridian, Miss. The three young civil-rights workers were helping to register black voters in Mississippi, thus inspiring the ire of the local Klan.
• On June 20, 1975, director Steven Spielberg's thriller "Jaws" debuts in theaters. A $700,000 marketing campaign preceded the film's release, helping it to earn some $7 million in its opening weekend alone. The mechanical shark's name was "Bruce."

Q: I am the owner of seven Barbie dolls, all approximately 35 years old. They are in their original boxes. I have no idea of how much they are worth and hope you can help me. -- Stella, Sun City West, Ariz.
A: According to "Blue Book: Dolls and Values" by Jan Foulke (Hobby House Press), condition is extremely important in determining the value of Barbie dolls. "Mint condition" means the doll has never been played with, coloring is beautiful, hair is perfect and all accessories are present. A rule of thumb dictates that to price out-of-original-box dolls and accessories, deduct 50 percent, for lightly played with dolls, another 25 percent.

Q: I have a 1983 RCA Selectavision Video Disc Player in the original box and 15 of the movie discs. What are the player and discs worth, and where can I sell them? -- Linda, Menomonie, Wisc.
A: The RCA Selectavision Video system is technology that didn't quite achieve traction with consumers. Think 8-track tapes. Generally, the discs sell for about $10 each. The players, especially ones with the original container, are worth more. To find out more about the RCA Selectavision players, discs and the people who collect them, check out www.cedmagic.com/selectavision.html.

On Dean's List At McDaniel College

McDaniel College officials in Westminster recently announced that two local residents have been named to the spring 2011 dean's list in recognition of their academic excellence.

Brock R. Glotfelty of Grantsville received "highest honors." To be awarded this recognition, a student must earn a semester grade point average of 3.90 or higher.

Lauren E. Shue of Oakland received "honors" for having a 3.50–3.69 semester grade point average.

Bear Creek Church Raising Funds For Church Building

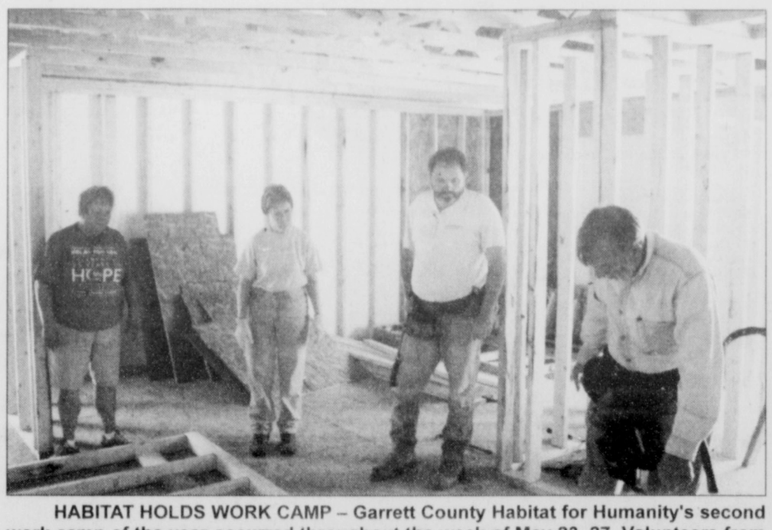
Bear Creek Church of the Brethren will host a yard sale and bake sale on Friday, June 24, from 7 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, June 25, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the church pavilion.

This will begin a fund-raising campaign to collect money to construct handicapped accessible restrooms, as well as extend the fellowship hall. It has been almost 50 years since the church was last remodeled.

The church was originally organized in 1846, with the first church building being constructed in 1858. The building was razed in 1889, and a new church building was erected. The congregation changed its name from Bear Creek Church to Accident Church in 1898 because its location was closer to the town of Accident; however, when Jacob Mosser left his estate in 1906 to the "Bear Creek Church," it returned to that name by which it is still known today.

The church was completely remodeled between 1960 and 1963, and the congregation held a dedication service July 14, 1963. The church's 150th anniversary was celebrated on Sept. 8, 1996, with past ministers participating in the morning and afternoon Sunday services.

The church is located just past Accident Elementary School at 1088 Brethren Church Road. Those interested in more information or in making a donation to the building fund should contact Joyce Lander at 301-746-8780.



HABITAT HOLDS WORK CAMP – Garrett County Habitat for Humanity's second work camp of the year occurred throughout the week of May 23–27. Volunteers from St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, and Grace United Methodist, Keyser, W.Va., arrived on a warm, sunny Monday morning at Hopeland Village near Deer Park to begin a week of building. The team then received instructions from building director Jerry Lynch and construction supervisor Frank Ferry. Garrett County commissioner Bob Gatto and several other local volunteers joined the team later in the week. "This was the first Habitat building experience for some of the volunteers, and all said they enjoyed the experience and would be back to do more," said John Pucciano, Habitat's community relations director. Pictured above, left to right, are Sue Damon, Terry Riley, Gatto, and Doug Riley verifying measurements prior to raising a wall. At right, Ferry (back to camera), Libby Nichols, Jim McCune, Gary Wilson, and Rusty O'Neal (face hidden) install soffits. Garrett County Habitat is preparing for a campaign to build a house financed and built solely with Garrett County resources. "Local volunteers – with and without building experience – service clubs, business and professional organizations, college students, and local businesses will be brought together to build a 'Garrett County House' for one of our county's families who need, and can qualify for, a safe and decent home," Puccanio said. "GC Habitat for Humanity is an ecumenical Christian ministry that welcomes to its work all people dedicated to the cause of eliminating poverty housing. From its beginning in 1983 to 2010, the group has built 64 homes. Including rehab and repair work in conjunction with other agencies, Habitat has touched the lives of 182 local families." Homes are built using tax-deductible contributions of land, materials, and money, the labor of volunteers, and the "sweat equity" labor of homeowner families. Homes are sold to qualifying families, with an interest-free 30-year mortgage. Volunteer labor is used exclusively in the construction of these projects. To Speak At June Garden Club Meeting

The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club will meet at Will O' the Wisp on Tuesday, June 21, beginning at 10:30 a.m. for the installation of officers for the 2011–2013 term.

Guest speaker will be Jessie Harris, world-renowned nature photographer and owner of Flower and Nature Photography in Washington, D.C., at Georgetown University. She will give a slide presentation titled "Native Orchids of North America." Her photographs will feature native orchids that she has taken during her career.

A graduate of Duke University, where she majored in art history, she later pursued a law degree at Georgetown University in 1971. In the early 1980s and after taking a nature photography course, she gradually began pursuing her present photography career.

A native of West Virginia and currently residing in Washington, D.C., Harris has photographed more than 6,000 different plants throughout the world. During her career, Jessie has had her work published in a number of books, numerous nature and gardening magazines, as well as brochures, calendars, and greeting cards. Her photography has been featured on the front covers of several magazines and books including Wildflowers of the Smokies, A Field Guide to Wildflowers of the Rocky Mountains, North Woods Wildflowers, and Encyclopedia of Endangered Species.

The club is open to both men and women. For more information, persons may contact Ginni Neff at 301-387-7387. The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc., the Central Atlantic Region, and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc. Affiliated clubs provide education, resources, and national networking opportunities for members, as well as promote gardening, floral design, and civic and environmental responsibility.

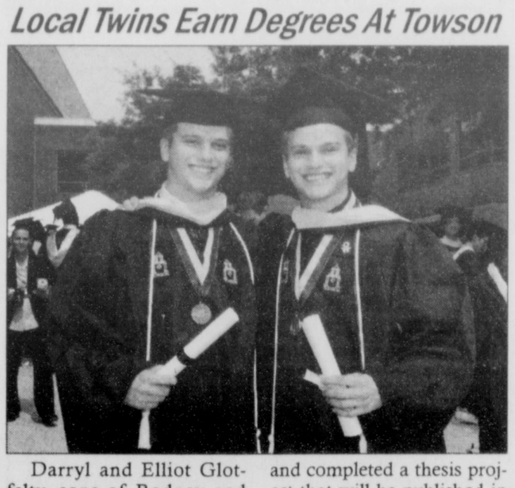
Local Twins Earn Degrees At Towson



Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty, sons of Rodney and Marci Glotfelty, Bittinger, are among 2,600 graduates of Towson University who received their diplomas during the university's 146th commencement exercises last month. Darryl and Elliot were the salutatorian and valedictorian, respectively, of the 2007 class of Northern High School. Both graduated with Latin honors from Towson.

Elliot earned both university and biology departmental honors with bachelor of science degrees in chemistry and biology with a focus in cell and molecular biology. He was the recipient of the Polymer Education Undergraduate Achievement in Organic Chemistry Award and the Alan and Eileen Wingrove Chemistry Scholar Endowment this past year.

Elliot was heavily involved in research through Towson's Neurobiology of Stress Lab, and completed a thesis project that will be published in a peer-reviewed journal next year.

Along with strong academic success, Elliot was involved in many campus activities, serving as a resident assistant, executive secretary of the university residence government, and director of civic engagement for the Student Government Association. Prior to his involvement in student government, he created legislation and lobbied the student government for the formation of the "Green Fund," $30,000 dedicated to projects on campus that promote environmental sustainability. This past year Elliot managed the fund in his directorial position, implementing everything from LED lighting renovations to creating a comprehensive electronics-recycling program for campus residence halls.

Elliot was awarded the University's Social Action Award and Vice President for Student Affairs Award for his dedication to promoting environmental sustainability and raising awareness, in addition to providing outstanding leadership on campus.

Darryl graduated as a university honors scholar with a bachelor of science degree in chemistry. As part of his Honors Capstone, he completed a research project in the Behavioral Neuroscience Lab at Towson, titled "Exposure to ethanol and caffeine during adolescence and its effect on adult consumption of sweetened ethanol in a rat model." This research project was presented at both the Colonial Academic Alliance Undergraduate Research Conference at Hofstra University and at the Towson University Student Research and Scholarship Expo this past spring.

Along with graduating with high honors, Darryl was also involved in a variety of campus activities and projects. This past May, he was awarded with Tiger Pride Award, the highest honor given in student affairs at Towson. The award is given to a graduating senior who has made significant contributions to enhance the lives of those within and beyond the Towson Community.

Darryl showed a strong commitment to the student experience at Towson by sitting on numerous university committees, as well as with his involvement as Student Government Association treasurer, serving as a resident assistant and executive treasurer of the university residence government, and as a leader in the Towson nonprofit chapter of Students Helping Honduras.

Both twins had the opportunity to travel to Honduras this past winter break with the non-profit group Students Helping Honduras. The organization's mission is to "build a movement of young leaders to empower orphaned and vulnerable children in Honduras."

As strong leaders in the Towson Chapter, the Glotfeltys spearheaded a concert with their band, the Lake Effect, to raise $5,500 toward Towson's $40,000 fundraising goal. This past week, Towson's chapter reached this goal, and the funds will be used to build a children's home that pulls children out of a state-operated orphanage.

Darryl plans to join the Peace Corps and then pursue a career in the biomedical sciences, with a focus in addictions. Elliot is currently awaiting job offers in neuroscience research, with plans for graduate school in the next two years. Along with pursuing their career aspirations, the Glotfeltys say they plan to remain involved within the community, as well as with Students Helping Honduras.

WELCOME TO THE "CLEVELAND COTTAGE" – The privately owned historic "Cleveland Cottage" will be open for self-guided tours on Saturday, June 25, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Proceeds from the event will benefit Partners for Animal Welfare & Safety. See story for details.

PAWS Fundraiser To Offer Tours Of Cleveland Cottage

The privately owned Cleveland Cottage in Deer Park will be open to the public for self-guided tours on Saturday, June 25, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Proceeds from the open house will benefit the PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare & Safety) spay-neuter program.

The house was constructed in 1884 by the B&O Railroad and served as a summer cottage within the Deer Park Hotel complex. The owners are offering this one-day opportunity to see the inside of this authentically restored Victorian house in celebration of the 125th anniversary of President Grover Cleveland's June 1886 wedding to Frances Folsom and their honeymoon trip to western Maryland.

The only president to be married in the White House, Grover Cleveland and his 21-year-old bride traveled to Deer Park in the private train coach of John Garrett, president of the B&O railroad. They honeymooned in the Deer Park Hotel's cottage No. 2, which subsequently became known as the "Cleveland Cottage."

The Deer Park Hotel closed for good in 1929 as a result of the Great Depression and changes in lifestyle brought on by the emerging national highway system and the automobile. The hotel and cottages were auctioned off during the 1930s. The cottages were largely vacant and fell into disrepair, and the hotel itself was demolished for scrap during World War II.

Following the war, with the increased need for housing, the cottages were again occupied by local families, and were modified to add heat, running water, and asphalt siding for insulation. In the early 1970s, the house received historical designation from the Maryland Historical Trust.

The current owners purchased the cottage in 1994, and began a 15-year project to restore the house as much as possible to its original state while maintaining modern conveniences and appliances in the bathrooms and kitchen. They were guided by drawings and plans provided by the Cushwa & Stouffer architectural firm in Hagerstown, which specializes in 19th century renovations.

"The house is particularly interesting in the way it blends the classic Victorian charm of the original house with the addition of a large modern kitchen and a beautiful conservatory," noted a PAWS spokesman.

During the open house, visitors will be able to see all the rooms in the house, as well as the owners' collection of Cleveland memorabilia and souvenirs.

There will be no advance tickets sales. Admission at the door will be $10 per person. However, admission will be only $5 for persons who have purchased tickets to the 2011 Secret Country Gardens tour, and also $5 for members of either the Garrett County Historical Society or the Mountain Lake Park Historical Society.

The Cleveland Cottage is located on Hotel Road just a few houses up from the Deer Park Inn. For more information and directions to the house, persons may go to the Events page of the PAWS web site, garrettpaws.org, or phone 301-387-5878.

Bible School Set At Cherry Glade

Vacation Bible School will be held at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church near Accident from Monday, June 27, through Friday, July 1, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The theme will be "Sonsurf Beach Bash." Activities will be available for children ages 2 through grade 6. Each evening will include stories, crafts, games, and snacks.

Transportation will be available from the Grantsville area. Pick-ups are scheduled at Mt. View School, Springs, Pa., at 6 p.m.; Yoder's Locker Plant at 6:04 p.m.; and Casselman Lumber at 6:10.

The church is located along Accident-Bittinger Road. For more information, persons may call 301-245-4352.

Rounds Reunion Slated At Big Run

The descendants of the late Nathaniel and Martha Olive (Wilt) Rounds will hold their eighth annual reunion on Saturday, July 9, at noon at the Savage River Pavilion in the Big Run State Park. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m.

Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish, family photographs, lawn chairs, and musical instruments. Music, games, genealogy displays, and raffles will be featured.

The reunion is open to family and friends. For additional information, persons may call 301-676-3371.

VBS Scheduled In Red House At St. John's Church

St. John's Lutheran Church of Red House will hold Vacation Bible School Monday through Friday, July 11–15, from 9 a.m. to noon.

This year's program is Sonsurf Beach Bash. The event is described as "an inspirational and educational experience" for the entire family.

"As they participate in fun-filled activities, children will learn what it means to meet up with Jesus," said a church spokesperson. "We will have a great time with lively songs, hilarious skits, creative crafts, Bible stories, exciting games, and tasty snacks – all of the things that make VBS so much fun for children."

For registration information, persons may call Emily at 301-616-5025.

TERMS OF SALE: A cash deposit or certified check of $10,000.00 shall be paid at the time and place of sale, balance in cash at settlement which shall be twenty days after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court, time being of the essence, with interest on said balance at the rate of 10% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. Failure of the purchaser to settle as set forth herein will result in resale of the property at the purchaser's risk and expense and/or forfeiture of the deposit at the election of the Substitute Trustee, who reserves all legal and equitable remedies available to him. If the Trustee moves to resell the property, purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of sale. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale confirmation that the borrower did not file for protection under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code prior to the sale, as well as to post-sale confirmation and audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement or reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of his deposit without interest.

Adjustment of real property taxes will be made as of the date of sale and assumed thereafter by Purchaser. All other public charges and assessments, including, but not limited to water and sewer charges, whether incurred prior to or after the sale, shall be paid by Purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, document preparation and title insurance shall be borne by purchaser. Purchaser shall pay all applicable agricultural transfer tax, if any. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. The property and the improvements thereon are being sold in an "as is" condition and subject to prior conveyances, restrictions, liens and agreements of record affecting the same, if any. Neither the Substitute Trustee, the beneficiary, nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any warranty or representation, either express or implied, with respect to the property. Purchaser agrees to pay $275.00 at settlement, to the Substitute Trustee's attorney, for review of the settlement documents and $275.00 for review and processing of any pleadings to substitute a purchaser.

SWANTON, MD 21561

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Terry E. Hale Sr., dated March 17, 2006, and recorded in Liber 1205, Folio 545, and re-recorded at Liber 1515, Folio 108 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, with an original principal balance of $71,666.68, and an original interest rate of 13.250%, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction at the Courthouse door for the Circuit Court for Garrett County, on

June 17, 2011 AT 1:00 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND and the improvements thereon situated in Garrett County, MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $8,000.00 by certified funds only (no cash will be accepted) is required at the time of auction. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. The purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note, its assigns, or designees, shall pay interest on the unpaid purchase money at the note rate from the date of foreclosure auction to the date funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Real estate taxes to be adjusted as of the date of foreclosure auction. All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, condo/HOA dues, not otherwise divested by ratification of the sale, and whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser, unless the purchaser is the foreclosing lender or its designee. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. Purchaser agrees to pay to the Sellers' attorney's a fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein.

If the purchaser shall fail to comply with the terms of the sale or fails to go to settlement within ten (10) days of ratification of the sale, the Substitute Trustees may, in addition to any other available legal remedies, declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser, in which case the purchaser agrees to pay attorneys fees of $1,250.00, plus costs, to the Trustees. Purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of foreclosure auction. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of resale, reasonable attorney's fees, and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages, and any deficiency in the underlying secured debt. The purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. If the Substitute Trustees cannot convey insurable title, the purchaser's sole remedy at law or in equity shall be the return of the deposit. The sale is subject to post-sale confirmation and audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of his deposit without interest.

Prijon Kodiak Touring/Sea Kayak 17 ft.
Two Lendal Paddles, One Carbon Fiber
Made in Scotland, High Mobility Life Vest
Spray Skirt for Cold Weather Use
Custom Cable Locking Mechanism for Car or Rack Use
Great kayak for beginner or expert. Has wide enough beam to be comfortable and steady but narrow enough profile, with length, to also be fast. Rudder pedal controls installed but no rudder - I never needed it. Two water tight dry compartments make gear storage easy and boat virtually unsinkable. Kayak has been used very little, perhaps only a dozen or so times total, just light lake and river use - no ocean. The boat has been stored inside for the last few years and was stored on a boat rack beforehand. Boat and gear are all clean and in excellent shape. Total package was more than $3K when bought new, asking $1,000 for all, o.b.o. Call Rick at 301-334-1444. (14-3tpd)

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the web site: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake. The center also has a Facebook page.

Friday, June 17

• 8 a.m. – Birding At Sang Run. Guests may join the park naturalist on a walk through Friend's Delight. Experienced and beginner birders are welcome, and are asked to bring their own binoculars. Meet at the kayak launch.

• 1 p.m. – Novelty Nose. Bears live by their noses. Guests may take a hike with the naturalist to discover the life of a black bear. Appropriate for all ages.

• 1-3 p.m. – Jr. Rangers at the Discovery Center. The six weeks include a series of programs, projects, lessons, and adventures. Open to all kids ages 8-13. Price for program: $25 for the first child, $15 for second child, no charge for more than that.

Saturday, June 18

• 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. – Friend's Delight Store open.

• 2 p.m. – Critter Encounter. Guests are invited to join a naturalist as the many fish, turtles, snakes, and birds of prey in the Discovery Center are fed.

• 11 a.m. – Little Guard. Children age 5 to 7 invited to meet at the beach and learn the skills of a lifeguard. Participants will run a relay, practice throwing a lifesaving device, and learn how to recognize a troubled swimmer, among other skills. There is no swimming required. The cost is $5 and this covers a T-shirt and whistle. (60 min.)

• 7 p.m. – Campfire Program. Meet at the amphitheater and gather around the campfire for a variety of program topics, marshmallow roasting, and other activities.

Sunday, June 12

• 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. – Friend's Delight Store open.

• 10 a.m. – Aquatic Adventure. Join the naturalist down by the shore to wade in knee-deep and learn about the animals that live in Deep Creek Lake.

• 2 p.m. – Aviary Encounter. Guests are invited to the aviary to see and learn about birds of prey. The birds will be perched, which will provide photo opportunities, so guests should bring cameras. A naturalist will be available to answer questions.

Monday, June 13

• 10:30 a.m. – Fishing with a Naturalist. Kids 7 and older are invited to meet on the shores of the Discovery Center for fishing basics. Poles, bait, and tackle are provided. The cost is $4 per person, and adults (16+) must have a license. Persons should pre-register as space is limited.

• 1 p.m. – Black Bears and You. Hikers invited for a walk along the Snakeroot Trail to learn all about bears. Persons should wear proper footwear for a rocky terrain. (Approx. 90 min.)

Tuesday, June 21

• 8 a.m. – Let's Go Birding. This early hour is the best time to hear and spot songbirds. Guests may join the naturalist for a walk around the park to learn how to identify many different species. Experienced and beginner birders are welcomed. All should bring binoculars and meet at the Discovery Center.

• 11 a.m. – Flutterbys and Flowers. Guests are invited to walk around the Discovery Center with the naturalist to learn the many species of wildflowers and butterflies found in the local area. Learn about the native plants these butterflies need and ways to improve their habitat. Edible and medicinal values of the plants will also be discussed.

• 1 p.m. – Where in the World am I? GPS Class. Guests may join the park ranger and get acquainted with a hand-held GPS unit. This hands-on class will teach the basics of the GPS unit as well as its other mapping capabilities. Participants may bring their own or borrow one from the center. (There are just five to lend, so persons should sign up early.) Free.

Wednesday, June 22

• 11 a.m. – Amphibian Adaptation. Meet at the Discovery Center to learn about amphibians and how they survive in their environment. Hear stories, do a craft, and then see and touch some resident creatures.

• 1 to 3 p.m. – Fire Tower Open. Guests may hike to the historic fire tower and go inside to see an excellent view of Deep Creek Lake. $2 per person.

• 3:30 p.m. – Hide 'n' Track. Meet at the Discovery Center to learn about mammals found in the park. Guests may see and touch skins, skulls, and prints.

Thursday, June 16

• 11 a.m. – Reptiles Alive. Kids of all ages are invited to the Discovery Center for an afternoon of reptiles. Hear stories, learn interesting facts, and get the chance to see and touch resident creatures.

• 1:30 p.m. – Brant Mine Hike. Take a guided hike with the naturalist to the historic Brant Mine. Hikers will see the remnants of a coal mine that operated in the 1920s. Various forms of wildlife may be sighted on the way.

NEW GERMANY STATE PARK

The following activities have been scheduled at New Germany State Park, located at 349 Headquarters Lane, Grantsville. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. Further information can be obtained by calling the park office at 301-895-5453, sending an e-mail to parknewgermany@dnr.state.md.us, or by visiting the web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/newgermany.asp.

Friday, June 17

• 7:30 p.m. – Movie Night at the Lake House. Families are invited to the Lake House a showing of MPT's Outdoors Maryland: Love Our Parks. There is no charge for admission. Guests should bring flashlights for safety when leaving the movie.

Saturday, June 18

• 10 a.m. – Reduce, Reuse, Recycle. Guests are invited to join the naturalist at the Nature Center to learn how to create recycled paper that can be used for homemade greeting cards, stationery, and other items. Then the group will go on a scavenger hunt for natural materials that can be used to make bird feeders.

• 1:30 p.m. – Jr. Ranger Program (Week 3). Children ages 7-14 are invited to participate in this 6-week program designed to encourage environmental stewardship and appreciation for natural and historical resources. The sessions are held from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. every Saturday through July 9 at the Nature Center. Jr. Rangers will receive patches upon completion, and will then have the opportunity to advance to higher levels, such as Naturalist, Explorer, Conservationist, and Guide. The Jr. Ranger program is limited to 15 participants and there is a $2 service charge. To register, persons should call 301-895-5453.

• 3:30 p.m. – Build an Enchanted Fairy House. Children ages 3-8 are invited to unleash their creativity and explore the imaginary world of "enchanted fairies." Children will build their own fairy houses that will double as habitat for small mammals, such as squirrels, rabbits, and mice. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Participants should meet at the Nature Center, next to the Lake House.

• 9 p.m. – Starry, Starry Night. Guests invited to attempt to unravel the mysteries of outer space and explore the world of stars with local astronomer Gus Johnson. Persons should meet at the Lake House for a brief slide show, and then head outside for an evening of stargazing by the lake. Flashlights may be needed when leaving the program.

Sunday, June 19

• 1:30 p.m. – Father's Day Sand Sculpture Contest. Kids invited to team up with their dads on Father's Day to create a masterpiece in the sand. Prizes will be awarded. Guests should bring their own sand pails and shovels, and meet at the beach.

The Republican ESTABLISHED 1877

A SPECIAL SUPPLEMENT TO THE REPUBLICAN

Welcome to our third issue of Explore Garrett County, a special publication that will be available free at locations all around the county throughout the summer months. Contained herein is information about the many festivals, concerts, celebrations, programs, recreation, and activities slated for the 2011 summer season. Explore also once again contains interesting stories, photos, and information about Garrett County's fascinating past.

We extend our sincere gratitude to the Garrett County Historical Society for supplying much of the historical information via the pages of its quarterly publication, the Glades Star. We who call Garrett County home are so fortunate to have such a dedicated group of people who work so hard to preserve our past for the enjoyment of us today and for future generations! Work is progressing on the society's new transportation museum along Liberty Street in Oakland, the completion of which is anticipated for sometime this fall. The society welcomes donations at any time, and memberships are available for only $20 per year.

We also sincerely thank all of our loyal advertisers, without whom this publication would not be possible.

We wish all a fun, safe, and prosperous summer!

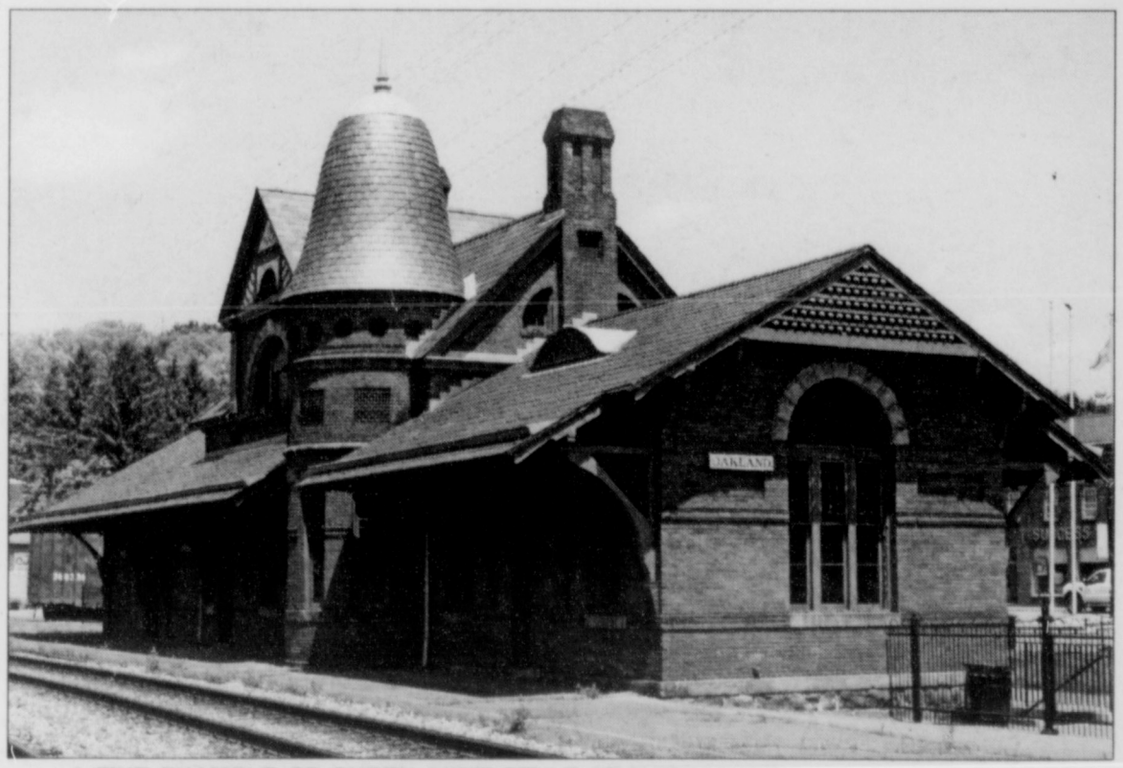
Explorer 2011



A FINE EXAMPLE OF QUEEN ANNE STYLE ARCHITECTURE can be seen in the Oakland Train Station in Oakland. The B&O station is the third building to occupy the site along Liberty Street. The first station was a square two-story wooden structure built shortly after the railroad came through the town in October 1851. It was destroyed by fire in 1874, when the nearby Glades Hotel burned. A simple one-story utility building served as the station until the present brick structure was constructed in 1884. The station was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1973 and was restored a few years ago. Cover photo and design by Fabian Green.

PITTSBURGH SYMPHONY RETURNING TO DEEP CREEK LAKE – The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra will again make two appearances in Garrett County this summer, presenting a pops concert on July 15 and a classical program on July 16, with both performances being held at the Wisp Resort. Conductor Lawrence Loh will be back as well. Friday's program will feature the orchestral music of the Harry Potter movies, Batman, Lord of the Rings, Hook, Wicked, and Pirates of the Caribbean, among other popular works. Saturday night's concert will consist of pieces by Rossini, Brahms, and Tchaikovsky. These programs are being hosted by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. For tickets and more information, persons may go to the GLAF web site at artsandentertainment.org, or call the box office at 301-387-3082. See story.

Who Discovered Garrett County?

The ancient Mound Builders were probably first to follow the buffalo traces into our Glades Country. After them came various Indian tribes, who left graves, arrow points, and other stone implements where they hunted and camped.

The first white men to come were doubtless French or English traders and hunters, but they left no written records of their travels though our mountains.

Two early Virginia surveying parties left some notes on what is now Garrett County. In 1736, Major William Mayo's party surveyed the Potomac River for Lord Fairfax, proprietor of the "Northern Neck"; reaching what they supposed to be "the head spring" of the river, they marked the trees and returned to Virginia. They named the streams flowing into the Potomac, including Savage River, for John Savage, a surveyor of the party.

Ten year later, Virginia and Fairfax sent surveyors, under Thomas Lewis, to locate the western boundary of his grant. They found the head spring marked by Mayo and planted there the "Fairfax Stone." Some of this party crossed the Great Backbone Mountain and explored the Great Glades beyond.

But the first account of real exploration of the Glades Country was written by

GLAF's Season Continues; Pittsburgh Symphony To Return To Wisp In July

The 25th season of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) is well under way, with musical groups scheduled to perform locally this summer, including the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra in July.

The next performance hosted by GLAF will be a concert by the Peabody Ragtime Ensemble, slated for Saturday, June 25, 7:30 p.m., at Garrett College.

This acoustic "little big band" is said to preserves the roots of American jazz through performances of vintage repertoire in concert, dance, and stage settings.

Following the ragtime group will be the annual Independence Day Celebration on Monday, July 4, featuring the Garrett Community Concert Band and Garrett Choral Society. The show will begin at 7:30 p.m. under the "big tent" on the lawn of Garrett College.

After the concert, guests may stay to watch the fireworks shot from atop Wisp mountain.

The July 4th gala is followed this year again by the annual Chautuaqua performances,

Grantsville Days Musical Schedule Released By Lions

The Grantsville Lions recently announced the all-new entertainment schedule for the 34th annual Grantsville Days celebration, which is scheduled for Friday, June 24, through Sunday, June 26.

The Fabulous Hubcaps will perform on Sunday, June 26, from 2 to 5 p.m. The group started out 36 years ago as "Harvey Hubcap and the Do Ron Ron," and evolved into the Fabulous Hubcaps, one of the nation's most sought-after oldies show bands.

On any given month, their schedule may take them from Miami to Pittsburgh, Atlanta to Detroit, and now to Grantsville.

In 2005, the group was inducted into the Southern Legends Entertainment and Performing Arts Hall of Fame.

Since their first 45 record in 1982, the Hubcaps have released 17 recordings, from cassette tapes to their most recent compact disc, Showtime is Next.

Performing together since 1974, the seven-piece band presents high energy tributes to original artists like Little Richard, Sonny & Cher, James Brown, Fats Domino, Ray Charles, the Shirelles, the Beach Boys, and Rod Stewart, among others.

With an extensive repertoire of do-wop group harmony, classic rock and roll, rockabilly, motown, and R&B music, the Fabulous Hubcaps are heralded as one of the best oldies show bands in the country, according to a spokesperson.

Also performing at Grantsville Days on Friday, June 24, at 8:30 p.m. will be the Channel Cats Blues Band. They have been performing party blues, soul, and rock and roll since the mid-1980s.

Coming to Grantsville Days for the first time will be Frankfort Middle School's Teal Steel Ensemble on Saturday, June 25, at 4 p.m. The ensemble has performed extensively throughout the area in recent years.

The Girlz in Black Hats will perform on Saturday, June 25, at 6:30 p.m. This group from southwestern Pennsylvania is not afraid to play "outside the box," according to a spokesperson. They are described as a "feel slated for Tuesday through Thursday, July 5-7, with the shows beginning at 7 p.m.

GLAF's Season

This event brings history alive with historic portrayals of famous individuals. The performers are from the Maryland Humanities Council. This year's theme is "The Civil War: A House Divided," with portrayals of Jefferson Davis (July 5), Abraham Lincoln (July 6), and Harriet Tubman (July 7). Each evening's program will open with music at 7 p.m., followed by the featured portrayal at 7:30. Food, drink, and ice cream will be available for purchase on site. The program is free and open to the public, though contributions will be accepted to offset production costs.

The Pittsburgh Symphony will return to Deep Creek Lake on Friday and Saturday, July 15 and 16, with both concerts beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Friday night's event will be a pops concert, with movie music featured. Maestro Lawrence Loh will conduct.

The line-up is to be as follows (subject to change):

Music by John Williams: "Hedwig's Theme" from Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone, Highlights from Jurassic Park, "Nimbus 2000" from Harry Potter, "Flight to Neverland" from Hook, Olympics fanfare and theme; "Princess Leia's Theme" from Star Wars, "Fawkes the Phoenix" and "Harry's Wondrous World" from Harry Potter; Howard Shore: Lord of the Rings: "Two Towers Symphonic Suite"; Stephen Schwartz: Highlights from Wicked; Camille Saint-Saëns: "Danse Macabre," Opus 40; Danny Elfman: main title theme from Batman; Klaus Badelt: Medley from Pirates of the Caribbean.

On Saturday, the concert will feature classical music, with soloist Shanshan Yao, violin. The program is to be as follows (also subject to change):

Gioachino Rossini: Overture to Il barbiere di Siviglia (German edition); Johannes Brahms: Concerto in D Major for Violin and Orchestra; and Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky: Symphony No. 4 in F minor.

For further information, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, or visit the GLAF web site at www.artsandentertainment.org.

Christopher Gist in his journal. In 1751 the Ohio Company sent Gist to find "the nearest and most convenient road. . . from the Company's Store at Will's Creek (Cumberland) to a landing on the Monongahela." Gist's party set out on horseback from the Company's Store on Nov. 4. They found the old Indian trail "very full of trees and stones." Next day they stopped at the point about three miles west of where Frostburg is now located. On Nov. 8, Gist camped a the Little Meadows two miles east of Grantsville. He wrote there:

"We hunted all the ground for the 10 m. or more and killed several Der & Bears and one large Elk. The Bottom upon the branches are but narrow with some Indian Fields. . . . We were employed in searing the Lands and discovering the Branches, Creeks, &c."

Nov. 20–21 the explorers passed on, cutting their way through some "great laurel thickets" to Turkeyfoot (Confluence, Pa.), where they found a small "hunting town of the Delawares," from whom Gist bought some corn.

Special Reunion Concert Slated To Celebrate GLAF's 25th Anniversary

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival organization is 25 years old this summer, and a special returning-musician concert and benefit will take place to mark that milestone. The reunion and anniversary gala event will take place on June 24, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Lodge of Wisp Resort.

Special music will be performed by many of the original members of the Symphony at Deep Creek and the Deep Creek Chamber Players. Those scheduled to perform are Dale Stuckenbruck, violin, Heawon Kim Stuckenbruck, piano, Veronica Salas, viola, Rick Ostrovsky, bass, Kaori Sato Ostrovsky, soprano, and Michael Horton, tenor. They will present favorites by Kreisler, and Puccini, among other well-known composers. Food and drink will be served, and all proceeds will help to fund further programs presented by GLAF.

The arts organization was launched via a vision of a music festival in Garrett County. In December 1986, a group of Garrett County residents gathered to explore that vision and a related proposal from local resident Kathryn Sincell-Corwell and her friend, violinist Erick Friedman. The joint desire was to promote cultural and artistic activities in the county and to rekindle the Mountain Chautauqua spirit, once a hallmark of Garrett County life. A core of 22 citizens evolved from the originators, many of whom remained in leadership roles for many years.

To mount its first season, the organization needed resources, and community support was sought. In presenting its case to the community, GLAF articulated three missions: to present a diversified program of cultural entertainment suitable for families at a price Garrett Countians could afford; to preserve and perpetuate local culture; and to offer programs to enhance Garrett County's attractiveness to tourists.

Forty-three founders came forward, contributing $500 or more each to support the organization's mission. In the summer of 1987 GLAF premiered its first season.

"It's hard to believe that 25 years have passed since Erick Friedman and I first started creating something that was a dream for us," Sincell-Corwell said. "It was always a good bit of hard work to put together, but when the musicians would arrive and the rehearsals would start, the music would just float around the college auditorium and out into the halls. And I would be floating on top of it. It was very special for me to be in a position where I had the talented friends and other hard-working people who made it all come together. It will be very sweet for me to hear some of this music performed by these special people once again."

The late ERICK FRIEDMAN

Friedman, an internationally renowned violinist, died in 2004 after a brief bout with cancer. Sincell-Corwell resides in Clear Spring with her husband Neal. She is a vocal and piano teacher.

During the formative years of the organization, several relationships were instrumental in making GLAF possible. Garrett Community College, now known as Garrett College, acted as a major sponsoring agency enabling GLAF to obtain grant funding through the Maryland State Arts Council and the Maryland Humanities Council, providing GLAF with an administrative support system, and affording GLAF modest but affordable facilities. Additional monetary support from the Garrett County Arts Council and the local community allowed Garrett County to realize a significant increase in funding for the arts and cultural programming.

GLAF established its own corporate identity in the state of Maryland in the fall of 1988. A seven-member board of directors was elected, and more than 100 volunteers contributed to the success of the summer season, according to a spokesperson.

In 1992, the position of a paid executive director was created by the board of directors. Today, a 15-member board operates the season on a volunteer basis.

GLAF is now the largest

Mt. Beulah Music Gathering Slated In Grantsville Pk.

The fourth annual "Working on a Building Country and Gospel Music Gathering" is scheduled for Saturday, June 18, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Grantsville Community Park, Miller Street.

A silent auction and food will also be available. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted. Proceeds from the event will be used to restore 129-year-old Mt. Beulah Church, located along Twin Churches Road, New Germany.

The performance schedule is as follows: 11 a.m., Second Wind; noon, the Turkey Neck Travelers; 1 p.m., Loretta Hummel & the Golden River Band; 2 p.m., Broken Glass & Rusty Hinges; 3 p.m., the Durst Brothers; and 4 p.m., the Irv Ullery Country Gospel Band.

Second Wind features Steve Yeash, guitar/vocals; Adam Brenneman, upright bass; Katie Brenneman, fiddle; Olen Beitzel, guitar/vocals; and Roger Rounds, mandolin/vocals.

Formerly known as the Bill & Ed Band, the Yurkey Neck Travelers has a new lineup: Bill Lovett, guitar, Ed Wetzel, bass and vocals, Jack Rickman on dobro and vocals, and Joan Coraor, mandolin and vocals.

Loretta Hummel & the Golden River Band consists of Hummel, songwriter, lead singer, acoustic guitar, and harmony; Bill Nelson, dobro, lap steel, and electric and acoustic guitars; Walter Dixon, fiddle, guitar, banjo, bass guitar, and mandolin; and Steve Reese, guitar and vocal.

Broke Glass & Rusty Hinges features Pat Skipper, Oakland, on fiddle; Roger Kitzmiller, Oakland, on five-string banjo; Jim Rayner, Midland, on mandolin; Dave Bittinger, Swanton, on guitar; and Harold Fike, Mtn. Lake Park, on guitar.

The group has been together for approximately 10 years and usually gathers once a week for jam sessions or community events.

Dennis and Rodney Durst perform at churches and nursing homes throughout the tri-state area. Rodney writes many of the songs they perform, and, as a solo act for 15+ years, has written and recorded four gospel and two country albums.

In January 2010, the Durst Brothers recorded an album titled Sure Enough Good Time. The first single, "Words of Love" ("Mama's Song"), reached the No. 2 spot on the International Gospel Chart in May 2010. The second single, "Elijah" (lyrics by Rodney and music by Hank Williams), held the No. 4 spot on the international chart for three months this past fall.

Hailing from Allegany and Garrett counties, the Irv Ullery Country Gospel Band is made up of Dick Miller, LaVale, guitar and vocals; Glen Rice, Cumberland, banjo; Joe DeGiovanni, Rawlings, keyboard and vocals; Ullery, Cumberland, guitar, dobro, and vocals; Tom Woods, LaVale, fiddle, guitar, and vocals; and Ralph Bever, Swanton, bass guitar and vocals.

A pavilion with tables and seats will be available at the park, but attendees may want to bring their own lawn chairs to the music gathering. For more information, persons may call 301-895-5735.

THE DENNIS McCLUNG BLUES BAND will kick off the 15th annual Little Yough Summer Music Festival on Friday, June 24, beginning at 7 p.m. in Oakland at the Mtn. Fresh Producers Association pavilion. Food vendors will set up at 6 p.m. Bring a chair and enjoy a relaxing evening of "the blues." Free admission. See Calendar of Events, starting on page 14, for the other Little Yough performances.

Garrett Host To Author Of Ben-Hur

General Lewis (Lew) Wallace worked at writing his most famous novel, Ben-Hur, while a summer guest at the Glades Hotel in Oakland. The late local historian Felix G. Robinson stated that the novelist also was working on the story while a guest of the former governor Francis Thomas near Frankville in Garrett County.

General Wallace wrote Ben-Hur over a period of eight years. It was published in 1880. He wrote two other novels, The Fair God and The Prince of India, which have been forgotten.

The author was a Union officer in the Civil War. He served in the Cumberland area and later was appointed governor of the Territory of New Mexico. General Wallace was also once U.S. minister of Turkey. He died in 1905.

The world-famous story of the Christ written by General Wallace was broadcast on CBS television in February of this year (1971). It is said CBS paid $1 million for the broadcast rights. Before his death, General Wallace earned large sums for the stage and movie rights to his book, which has been translated into many languages. The novel was first presented as a stage drama on Broadway in 1899 by Klaw & Erlanger.

In 1926, it was made into a silent move at a cost of $4 million. In 1959, MGM made a color-sound spectacular of Ben-Hur with a cast of 50,000 people and filmed it in the ancient area of its setting at Rome.

A Random House publication issued in connection with the MGM move stated that "some force must have formed his (General Wallace's) thoughts and shaped his words," which is understandable when one reads the book or views the MGM presentation of this remarkable literary work.

We like to think that Garrett County's atmosphere helped General Wallace to create expression of great spiritual value.

Greetings

to our local folk and our summer visitors. It's that time of year when you just want to relax, enjoy your friends and watch one of our four star sunsets.

Summer has so many meanings to all of us. Some of us will find refuge in our front porches while others of you will take to our trails hiking and biking your way through our lush meadows, tall pine and back roads. Then there is fishing, tennis, horseshoes, water skiing and campfires to enjoy, don't forget ingredients for s'mores.

Welcome to Garrett County and our surrounding area. We have something for everyone, even those who may be a little hard to please. Perhaps an outdoor summer concert in Oakland is to your liking or an evening with the symphony floats your boat. There are festivals, yard sales, auctions and retailers that want you to experience their goods. We have stained glass designers, renowned bird carvers, candlemakers, glassblowers for you to experience.

For the art lovers, we have a beautiful gallery in Oakland and some artists have visitations at their personal homes. There are fireworks, canoe and kayak championships and our annual county fair which is where you will find the famous Rotary French Fries. Speaking of food, we have plenty of choices to chose from and whether your taste buds favor Chinese, Mexican, French or a great steak, you won't leave Garrett County hungry. You will discover some interesting wine shops & unique stores where you can find that perfect gift to remind you of Garrett County all year-round.

We want you to be safe so watch for the deer, please don't feed the bears and be sure to pick up a local road map of the county available at most retailers, including my office. Make sure your batteries are good in your camera and most importantly...WEAR SUNSCREEN! You are 3000 feet above sea level, which makes you closer to the sun. Sunglasses and hats are things you should consider.

Thank you for choosing my home to vacation. We used to be the best kept secret in Maryland but it seems like the world has found its way here in one form or another. Enjoy your stay and I personally look forward to meeting you this summer at one of the many events that will be held. Until then, make a memory to share with your friends and bring them with you next time. One last special request, please drive responsibly. It's best not to go on vacation and go home on probation.

NOT ONLY "BOAT RIDES," but "fast" boat rides were available at Deep Creek Lake at the time this photo was taken, probably in the late 1950s or early '60s. Ever since the lake was constructed in the mid 1920's, folks have been enjoying rides in boats of all types, sizes, and shapes, from speed boats to party boats to fishing boats to canoes, among others.

County's First Commercial Ski Slope

Deep Creek Ski Trails, which once existed on Hooppole Ridge above Sand Flat, holds the unofficial title of the "First Commercial Ski Slope" in Garrett County. Built and operated by Mr. Howard Naylor, it opened for business in the winter season [of] 1947-48. At that time there were also ski slopes at Guntertown and Happy Hills on U.S. 40. However, they were not strictly independent slopes, but part of an attraction for the restaurant business conducted at both places.

At the time Howard Naylor built his ski slope, he had been skiing for over 20 years. He taught himself the rudiments of downhill skiing in the open pastures around Oakland. Through the family business in Oakland, Naylor's Hardware, good skis and ski equipment were available. Along with them came all kinds of skiing literature, which probably gave him the idea for building the slope.

As a business man, Naylor could see the potential of winter recreation in Garrett County. One profitable way to attract customers for winter recreation was a commercial ski slope. He reasoned that a profitable slope had to have both accessibility and visibility; it had to be easy to get to, and it had to attract attention. One of the best locations which fulfilled these requirements was the open land along U.S. 219 on Hooppole Ridge above Sand Flat.

In July of 1947, he leased the land and began clearing away rocks and stumps on the proposed ski slope. As the summer went by, he installed the poles for the 1,000-foot rope-tow, and smoothed out the ground for the 1,400-foot downhill trail. He purchased an Army surplus truck to power the rope-tow, which he adapted by

SKI EQUIPMENT and ski fashions have certainly changed since this photo was taken (thank heavens) in front of the warming hut of the Marsh Mountain ski slope, which later became the site for today's Wisp Resort.

First Ski Slope

jacking up the rear wheels and wrapping the rope around one of the tire rims. (When it was finally in operation, it could pull eight skiers at a time up the hill in less than three minutes.)

During the fall of 1947, Naylor began generating publicity for his new ski slope, which he had named Deep Creek Ski Trails. He enlisted help from the Deep Creek Promotion Council; the Western Maryland Ski Club, many of whose members lived in Cumberland; and even publicized his new venture with the Ski Club of Washington, D.C.

Cold weather and an early snowfall put the new ski slope into operation in December of 1947. During the Christmas holidays the slope was busy, and some members of the Ski Club of Washington came up for the skiing. Two weeks later they returned with a bus load of 40 skiers. Their enthusiasm is best remember in part of a letter which one of the members wrote and was printed in The Republican on January 29, 1948.

"Mr. Howard Naylor, the developer, should be commended for the work he has done.

"The Ski Club of Washington is tremendously interested in developments of this kind within motoring distance of Washington, especially since the boom in this sport is already causing the nearby Pennsylvania resorts to become crowed on weekends. Not only is such a development appreciated by Washingtonians, but it can become very important in the recreational plans for the young people of Oakland."

Friend's Delight — Sang Run Community Park

White settlers began to move into Garrett County two hundred and fifty years ago, when the area was still a primitive forest. They were not deterred by the proclamation issued by the King of England in 1753 which forbade settlement west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Some of the hearty pioneers secured patents for land in the valleys and glades of the County from Lord Baltimore's land agents. After the Revolutionary War, many of the patents were recognized by the new State government.

Old maps of the County still carry the names given to these patents. One in the Swallow Falls area was called Strawberry Planes; another near Oakland was called Buck's Bones; a piece of ground in the Savage River area was given a name fitting its geography, and was called the Elbow.

In keeping with geography and names, Friend's Delight is properly named.

As a quiet spot beside the Sang Run and bordering on the Youghiogheny River, Friend's Delight fulfills its name. The name was originally applied to a tract of land patented to John Friend Sr., consisting of 200 acres at the mouth of Sang Run. It was his compensation for assisting the land surveyors in 1774.

Later, John Friend was to discover that the property was once the site of an Indian village, and that Indians were buried there. Centuries before, they had also found the land beside the river was a very pleasant spot.

Today a sign over the picnic pavilion reads "Friend's Delight Green, Sang Run Community Park."

PAVILION AND P. H. STONE – Pictured here is Friend's Delight, which is located at the mouth of Sang Run. In the middle of the park is a stone marker engraved with the letters "P H," identifying it as a boundary placed by Paul Hoye.

A person visiting the spot understands why John Friend Sr., chose this place for his own. Tall trees shade the flat green bottom land from the sun. The rich alluvial soil supports a thick growth of green grass. Sang Run splashes over the rocks, down through the middle of the property and empties into a broad reach of the Youghiogheny River.

P.H. Boundary Stone

In the middle of the new park a stone marker with the letters "P H" carved on it identify it as one of Paul Hoye's boundary markers.

About 1945, the late Capt. Charles Hoye, one of the founders of the Garrett County Historical Society, and former Editor of the Glades Star, had the P H stone set in concrete. At the same time he inscribed in the concrete the name Friend's Delight and the date of the original survey, 1774. A short time later, he had an iron pipe fence put around the marker for its protection.

Friend's Delight

Capt. Hoye did this as a tribute to Paul Hoye, who was his great-great-grandfather.

According to history, Paul Hoye marked out the land prior to the Revolutionary War, and asked John Friend to assist him in surveying the property. Payment for the help was part of the bottom land later named "Friend's Delight."

Paul Hoye seemed to have used a number of stones to mark the boundaries of his original survey. By chance one of them happened to be in the middle of Friend's Delight and remains there to this day.

A big sugar maple stands near the P H stone. From the appearance of its height and thickness to trunk, it could be old enough to have provided shade for the original Friend family when they lived on the property.

Paul Hoye

In 1774, Paul Hoye obtained a patent for 1,000 acres of land from Lord Baltimore's land office. Later, in 1774, he came with John Henson, a surveyor, and surveyed part of the (then) western edge of Frederick County. Included in the work was the survey of Friend's Delight at he mouth of Sang Run.

Unfortunately, the American Revolution came before Hoye could secure title to his land. Lord Baltimore's land was confiscated, and it was 1789 before the State of Maryland granted title to the land which included Friend's Delight.

Thus, the P H stone which is a Hoye boundary marker dates back over 200 years to a time when settlers were moving into the Sang Run area.

Celebration

On Sunday, June 17th, there was a gathering of people at Friend's Delight. Land that was once a small field was turned into a parking lot, and it was full of cars and pick-up trucks. Over 120 people were seated in the pavilion eating a picnic lunch. On the green grass nearby a volley ball net was set up and lively game was in progress. Not far away was the "clang" of horse shoes as competition in this rural sport demonstrated the skill of experts.

The reason for the celebration was very simple: the people of Sang Run wanted to enjoy the "fruits of their labor," and share the enjoyment with their friends.

For years, the area was used as a small park; a gathering place for family reunions, church picnics, etc. It fulfilled this purpose very well, but many residents could see additional promise in the land as a true community park, providing good parking space, a pavilion for meals, and an area set aside for games.

Last year, the vision of this promise began to take physical shape. Fences were built and areas within them cleared of scrub trees and bushes. The pavilion was erected with seating capacity for 120 people to be seated at tables for a picnic meal. Grass under the trees was mowed and brought into decent shape. A small bridge was built over Sang Run itself to connect the pavilion with the parking lot.

Work progressed through spring, and by May all was ready or "near ready" for summer. The June celebration was planned by the people of Sang Run. The weather that day was excellent, and guests came to enjoy gathering.

Since the work is now completed, the June celebration isn't the only event that will be held there. Almost every Sunday for the rest of the summer is "booked up" with family reunions and church picnics.

As a result, Friend"s Delight is fulfilling its name as a delightful piece of ground in Sang Run beside the Youghiogheny River.

Humane Society Schedules Annual "Dog-Gone FUN"

The Garrett County Humane Society will hold its annual summer fundraiser on Saturday, July 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the fairgrounds in McHenry.

The "Dog-Gone FUNraiser," previously known as Christmas in July, offers a canine costume contest, a silent auction, a benefit dog walk, sheriff's office K-9 demonstrations and a Meet-the-Breed event. Admission is free, but there is a small fee to enter the costume contest, and participants must collect donations to enter the benefit dog walk.

There is also a snack bar, gift item area and a small flea market. Plus, there $1 raffle tickets will be for sale, with three chances to win cash prizes.

The Garrett County Humane Society has been providing help to homeless and neglected animals for more than 25 years. This non-profit volunteer group also provides spay/neuter vouchers to residents to help defray the cost of having their pets "altered."

"This is a win-win situation, as the pet won't have an unwanted litter that will most likely end up in the already overcrowded county shelter," said society president Lisa Baker. "The GCHS is the only organization in Garrett County that responds to animal neglect reports, number-

Theatre Has Long History In Garrett County

by David W. Gonder

Theatre entertainment came to Garrett County in the 1890s at Offutt's Hall over Offut's Store on Second Street in Oakland. The building was on the site of the present Rudy's Department Store. Dances were held here, and occasionally a Vaudeville troupe would come to town and put on a show. On one occasion the hired help from the Deer Park Hotel held a cake-walk in this hall, and a large number of local citizens attended.

In the 1890s, Chautauqua started at Mtn. Lake Park. It was held for a month every summer for a number of years, and local families would pack a lunch and go by hack to spend the day. Some days the women would cook a huge pot of beans in an open kettle to serve those in attendance. Drinking water was available at a pump.

Chautauqua was held at the Camp Meeting Building first and later at the new amphitheater, which seated some 5,000 people.

About 1904, John Shartzer built the Opera House, and E.E. Bolden was the contractor. This was a four-story structure located at the corner of Second and Green streets, which was also occupied by Hinebaugh's Restaurant until it was torn down and the new Garrett National Bank was built (now M&T Bank).

The Opera House occupied the third and fourth floors. The second floor was used for offices and apartments and the first by Hinebaugh's Restaurant, a barber shop, and a small store.

The Opera House opened with a showing of Uncle Tom's Cabin, which was one of many stock company shows. Mortimer's Troupe came once a year and stayed for a week. They put on a different show every night, charged 35¢ admission, and always played to a packed house.

The Opera House was used for political meetings, medicine shows, vaudeville acts, glass blowing demonstrations, lecturers, and home talent plays. In the home talent shows, Charles A. Tower always played the villain, and Elizabeth Leary was usually the leading lady.

Sometimes the children of Oakland would put on a show. They were coached by Mrs. Nanniene Offutt and Mrs. E.Z. Tower, who made crepe paper dresses for the girls in the show. There was always a large crowd in attendance, and those who occupied the balcony ate roasted peanuts and often threw the shells on the crowd below.

The Opera House remained in operation until 1911 at which time the Knights of Pythias erected a three-story building on South Third Street at the present location of Rolyan's parking lot (now the District Court parking lot). This building was constructed using timber and other materials from the recently dismantled Oakland Hotel and housed a theatre on the first two floors and lodge rooms on the third floor.

This new theatre was named the Maryland Theatre and was used for road shows, such as The Cow in the Moon and Madam Butterfly, vaudeville, and other special programs in much the same way that the Opera House had been used previously. It was leased to and operated by W.A. Gonder and Charles A. Tower until 1922, when it was taken over by the Spates brothers of Frostburg for use as a motion picture theatre.

The first form of motion pictures in Oakland, however, was established about 1902 in the George Miller building on Oak Street on a site where Ray Teets Garage now stands (the former Southern Rescue Squad building across from Subway). It was a Nickelodean operated by Bill Clark. He operated at this location for a few years and then moved to the Arthur Townshend building on Alder Street.

This was in operation until about 1910, when S.A. and his wife D.C. Nally, parents of Bernard Nally, James Nally, and Margaret Coffey, opened the Empire Theatre where Englander's Pharmacy (now Englander's Antiques & Grill) stands. This was operated as a Nickelodeon for a while, and then it was changed to a motion picture theatre.

All movies were "silent" but accompanied by piano playing. The piano was an "upright" and was played by Bess Hinebaugh and Estelle Rasche Treacy. At times Noreen Tygart furnished vocal accompaniment and played the saxophone.

As there was only one projector, the patrons had to wait, sometimes impatiently, for the next reel to be threaded into the machine. The machine was operated by a hand crank. One night when Grover Stemple was operating the projector, a reel of film caught fire, and he removed it from the machine, carried it outside, burning his hands badly. He was running the film Where the North Begins when it happened.

The Empire remained in business until 1924 when it was leased to Bernard I. Gonder and Stuart F. Hamill. They remodeled and reseated the theatre and brought in two new electric driven projectors with high intensity lamps. During the time they operated this theatre, they renamed it the Grand

In 1927, the Grand was sold to the Spates brothers who had by then been running motion pictures in the Maryland Theatre for five years. The reason for the sale was that there was insufficient patronage to justify two movie theatres in Oakland. One had to go, so the Spates brothers closed the Grand, transferred its equipment to Frostburg, and continued operation of the Maryland with Mr. Bernard I. Gonder as its manager.

In 1928, the Maryland was damaged by fire and had to be closed for repairs. In 1934 Mr. Gonder purchased and refurbished it. By 1954, admissions were decreasing because television was becoming available in many homes and drive-in theatres were becoming popular. On October 9, 1963, the Maryland was completely destroyed by fire.

In 1951, Carl and Mary Kisner opened Garrett county's first drive-in theatre. It was called the Paradise and was located on Sand Flat Road. The sound system for this theatre was bull-horns located over the screen. Patrons had to keep their car windows down in order to hear and often had to keep their motors running and their heaters on.

In 1954, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Speciher and Mrs. Hazel Harvey opened the 219 Drive-In on Rt. 219 at Sand Flat (the current location of Sticks and Stones). They continued to operate the 219 until the summer of 1973 when they sold it to Mr. and Mrs.

Robert D. Hoag.

In July 1955, the Garrett County Playhouse opened its doors for the first time with the production of Blithe Spirit. It was located at Deep Creek Lake at the Arden Boat Club. The producer director was Gene Yell, professor of drama at the University of New Mexico. At first his casts were all students for the university, but in later years he had many young professionals from New York and other places. (Yell died in 1992, and the Blue Barn no longer exists.)

Originally there was no Sunday entertainment, as it was outlawed by county blue laws. In the late 1930s, Mr. Gonder had a bill introduced in the state legislature to put the issue to the public by referendum. The voters decided that Sunday entertainment should be allowed so it became legal to show movies on the Sabbath.

The Garrett County Playhouse

On opening night, July 10, 1955, the audience gave an enthusiastic welcome to the presentation of "Blithe Spirit." Director Gene Yell had chosen a "winner" for the first of six plays that started the first season of the Garrett County Playhouse. As season followed season, the people of Garrett County were treated to a variety of traditional and new plays.

Thirty seasons and four buildings later, the curtain came down on the last performance of "The Paisley Convertible." It was the final production of the very popular and successful Garrett County Playhouse.

Seeds and Organization

Careful planning for the opening performance in 1955 probably did more than anything else to guarantee the continuing success of the Playhouse. The planning actually began back in 1954; however, seeds for the "theatre in the round" probably dated back five years to the Oakland Centennial pageant. A lot of young adults who were involved in the pageant saw both the enthusiasm and market for theatrical productions in Garrett County. After several years of talk about a theatre venture, a small group of people consulted Gene Yell, a summer resident. His background as professor of drama at the University of New Mexico provided the expertise required to bring the talk into reality. Yell's genial manner overcame personality difficulties that always arise when people gather to start something new.

Part of Gene Yell's professional expertise was to designate what committees were necessary to open a theatre and maintain an uninterrupted schedule of plays. Local people were the backbone of these committees which required a business manager, a staff for securing stage props and costumes, and a group to generate publicity for the plays.

Seemingly, theatre productions in an old building (preferably a barn) were the norm in many recreation areas. A search was made for such a building in the Deep Creek Lake area. Finally, the barn which once housed Arden's Boat Club at McHenry was secured. It was clean, of the necessary size and had ample parking space.

Opening

Early in June, 1955, Gene Yell arrived to supervise the final work on the barn. He met with the various committees to make sure they understood their part in the theatre venture. He also brought with him the actors who would portray the characters in the first season's plays.

When "Blithe Spirit" opened on Tuesday, July 10, 1955, it was to an enthusiastic audience which had gathered for the beginning of the Playhouse season. Gene Yell had chosen a good, traditional play to demonstrate the talent of the actors. Helen Page Camp, as a dotarding psychic, captured the audience's fancy as she wheeled her bicycle on stage and at the same time speaking her lines. Likewise they appreciated Leonard Drum's ability to keep the play moving at a fast pace.

Each season following the first one saw growing interest in the Playhouse, and a sense of dedication on the part of committee members. A good example of this is what happened at the beginning of the third season.

Leonard Drum, who had become a favorite actor during the first two season, accepted a lucrative offer from another theatre and was not scheduled to appear for the third season. It was obvious to the audience that the "pace" of the opening play was very slow; the play lacked the sparkle it should have had.

The late Dr. Baumgartner, who wrote some of the newspaper reviews of the plays, found out that Leonard Drum's lucrative job had not materialized. With Gene Yell's blessing, "Doc" personally located Leonard and financed his arrival at Deep Creek in time for a part on the third evening of the first play.

The Playhouse

It was a tribute to Leonard's personality and acting ability that he got a round of applause before he could even speak his first line after making his stage entrance.

The cooperation among everybody associated with the Playhouse is detailed in a brief commentary written by Gene Yell and published in one of the programs.

"It has been truly said that the theatre is the art which requires the greatest combination of most diverse talents. We realize anew each week how much we in the Playhouse depended upon the active participation of our audience in all of our affairs."

Disastrous Fire of 1962

Later, when the matter could be viewed in retrospect, someone said, "If trouble had to come, Friday the 13th was as good a day as any."

On Friday, July 13, 1962, a fire completely destroyed the barn that was the theatre. Following the imperative, "the show must go on," the Garrett County Playhouse didn't miss a performance.

The fire was the result of a marina business that was in the basement of the barn. The business had begun as part of Arden's Boat Club when Arden May owned the property in the 1940s. The Sweene family was operating the business as a marina at the same time the Playhouse leased the upper part of the building for a theatre.

Generally it was hardly noticeable that the boat business was in operation at the same time a play was in progress. However, once in a while a performance would be punctuated with the growl of a motor boat engine or loud talking behind the building.

Gasoline and paint storage are credited with fueling the fire which ignited and destroyed the barn.

The fire occurred during the first week of the 1962 season. Lost in the fire were all the props and costumes, and many items of personal property belonging to the Yells and the actors. As news of the disaster spread on Friday, members of the various committees gathered and pitched in with hard work. That evening the Garrett County Playhouse was back in business; Friday's performance of the current play was put on at Dennett Road School.

The Blue Barn

Selecting plays for "theatre in the round" requires a lot of forethought. Lighting, props, as well as actor's entrances and exits have to be taken into consideration. Since it is "in the round" no background scenery can be used. As a result, transporting a play from the "round" to a regular stage setting can produce a new group of problems.

Between seasons, Director Gene Yell had carefully selected plays which would have the greatest appeal "in the round." He stressed the importance of this fact to a select committee of local people, stating that the stage at Dennett Road was basically inadequate for future productions. A search was begun for a barn in the Deep Creek Lake area as a new home for the Playhouse.

TOTL Theatre Announces 2011 Summer Season

The TOTL (Theatre on the Lake) Theatre Company will open it sixth season at Deep Creek Lake on June 30. All shows will be perform at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley, McHenry.

Opening the summer season will be two weekends of Fiddler on the Roof, June 30, July 1–3, and July 6–9 at 7:30 p.m. In this popular musical, Tevye, his wife Golda, and their five daughters test the traditions of their Jewish culture, while all around them the secular world invades the quiet town of Anatevka on the edge of the Russian Revolution.

Time-honored favorites include "L'Chaim," "If I Were a Rich Man," "Sunrise, Sunset," and "Matchmaker."

The second play will be Arthur Miller's drama The Crucible, scheduled for July 20–23 at 7:30 p.m. Set in the era of the Salem Witch Trials, The Crucible focuses upon a young farmer, his wife, and a young servant girl who maliciously causes the wife's arrest for witchcraft.

The play depicts a fatal course of bigotry and deceit, as the farmer, instead of saving his wife, finds himself accused, imprisoned, and condemned.

The final offering of the season will be Mabel's Story. Slated for Aug. 2–6 at 7:30 p.m., the musical chronicles the life of a 14-year-old with roots in Garrett County and Preston County, W.Va. Diagonsed with breast cancer at 14, Mabel survived 52 weeks of chemotherapy while still attending high school.

Her teacher, Lynn Broderick, producing director of the TOTL Theatre Company, began a year of interviewing with her in 2006, and writing continued the following year. Broderick's daughter Leah joined her on the project as composer, and the two finished and produced the first version of the musical in April 2008.

"While Mabel never wanted to be thought of as a hero, she certainly was an inspiration to her coaches, teachers, friends, and family," said a TOTL spokesperson. "The musical is so uplifting, not sad, and the story sends a very important message, especially to young women."

This summer, the student Apprenticeship Program will have opportunities to perform with the cast in all three shows instead of just one, as in past seasons.

"TOTL is especially interested in auditioning young actresses between 8 and 11 to play 'Young Mabel' and the character 'Ingrid' in Mabel's Story," said the spokesperson.

Information about the Apprenticeship Program can be found on the company's web site at totltheatre.org.

Ticket reservations may be made online at totltheatre.org and by phone at 304-680-1002.

DID THE CADDIES HAVE HOOVES, TOO? This unique taxi service apparently carted folks from Oakland to the Oakland Country Club at some point in the history of the town. Was there room for everyone's clubs? Was the fare a bag of oats? Did the horse insist on being the first to tee off? We may never know.

The Playhouse

Barn on Beckman's Peninsula was secure and remodeling work begun immediately. This barn held more promise for future seasons of production since the Playhouse did not have to share it with another business as it had at McHenry.

Eighteen days after the McHenry barn was destroyed by fire, the Garrett County Playhouse opened in its new location. It spent the next twenty-one seasons in the Blue Barn.

Personalities

When the Playhouse began, Director Gene Yell brought with him graduate and undergraduate drama students. Mixed with these students were professional actors who were gradually working their way to the top in the field of drama. However, as the season moved along, Yell began to involve local talent in the productions both as actors and tech-

CHIMNEY CORNER at Red House was not only a popular stop for travelers on U.S. Rts. 50 and 219, but was also a favorite of many fulltime residents of Garrett County and nearby Preston and Tucker counties, W.Va. The rustic log structure was known not only for its wholesome, hearty meals, but also as an outlet for various locally made crafts and food items. The building remains to this day, but the restaurant has been closed for approximately 15 years.

Among the professional actors, Leonard Drum and Helen Page Camp quickly became favorites with audiences. The same with Neil Flanagan and in later years with Milburn Mehlhop. Milburn added his own particular acting flare to characters in plays, and his drawings with water color in the downstairs gift shop of the Blue Barn quickly became collector's items.

Local talent was available for the Playhouse and Gene Yell made use of it. The late Aza Stanton's "Teddy Roosevelt" performance in "Arsenic and Old Lace" demonstrated that local actors could undertake major roles in the plays. This same role was repeated with equal vigor by Ralph Burnett several years later. Susy Smith came back to Garrett County in 1962 to do a part in "Harvey," and Philip Jones of LaVale had a role in the same play.

Many summer residents who became year-round residents also took part in the productions.

During the years, there were some who "doubled" in their association with the Playhouse. Ben Sincell was both an actor and a technician. He began when the theatre was in the Blue Barn and continued with it after the move to Garrett Community College, where he now teaches drama.

By the time "The Fantastics" was produced in 1982, a majority of local people were involved in acting, publicity, costumes, props, and ticket sales.

Memories

There were many fine evenings to remember during the 30 seasons that the Playhouse was in existence. Perhaps one of the most moving ones came in 1962 or 1963.

Darrell Salk, son of Dr.

The Playhouse

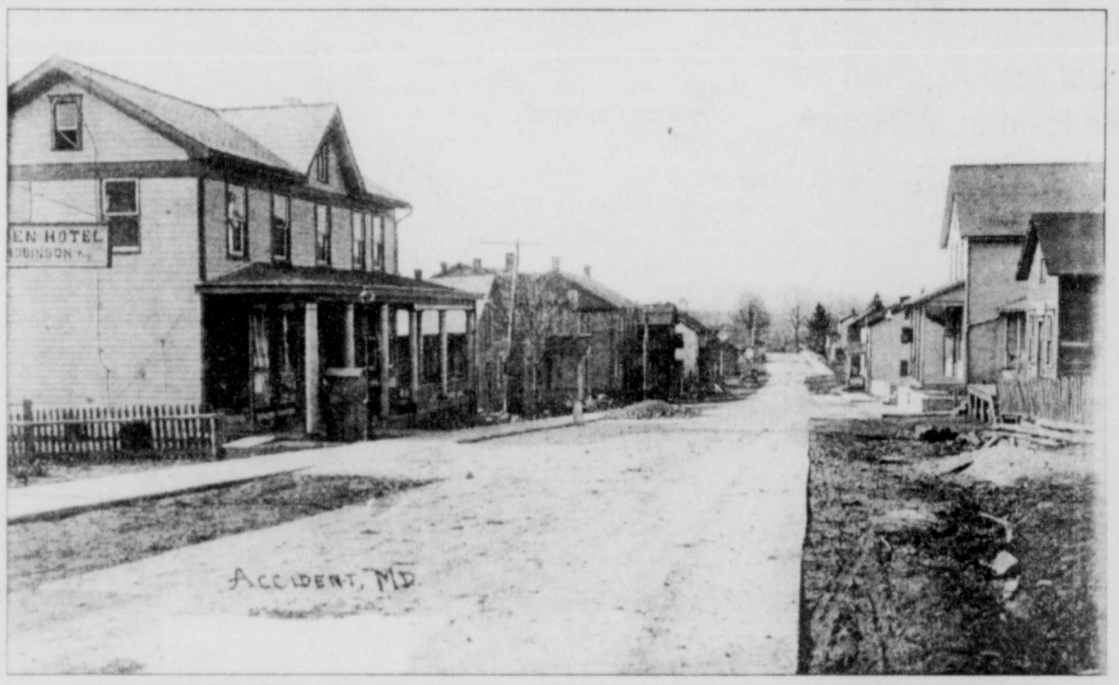
Jonas Salk, was working as a stage manager at the Blue Barn. One evening Dr. Salk came to the theatre to see the play which was occupying his son's time. Although the polio vaccine had been developed for some years, the audience of grateful parents gave Dr. Salk a standing ovation when he walked into the theatre.

"Carry on..."

There were many tearful eyes when the final Playhouse performance was concluded on August 18, 1984. The 30th season had come to an end. The theatre was back at the McHenry end of Deep Creek Lake where it had begun in 1955.

Seemingly there would be a cultural gap in the future summer months since the Playhouse was gone. Yet, talent has its own way of making itself felt.



HOW DID ACCIDENT GET ITS NAME? This old photo shows Accident's Main Street (now Rt. 219). The town can trace its name to about 1750, when George Deakins sent out two engineers – each without knowledge of the other – to find and survey the best land in western Maryland. When the engineers returned, they discovered, much to their surprise, that they had each marked the same oak tree as a starting point and then marked off the same 600 acres. Deakins considered it safe to choose this land and had it patented as "The Accident Tract." Hence, the unusual name of the town.

Harkening back to Gene Yell's words, "...theatre is...a combination of diverse talents," some people associated with the Playhouse banded together with others in a new cultural venture. The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) has partly filled the gap with different kinds of performances. Yet, there still exists the nostalgic longing for the dramatic evenings supplied by the Garrett County Playhouse.

17th Annual Country Fest And Auction To Be Held In McHenry

The 17th annual Country Fest and Auction will be held on Saturday, Aug. 27, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Admission and parking are free.

A farm animal petting zoo, horse and buggy rides, an aerial candy drop (weather permitting), a pedal tractor pull, hay wagon rides, and a "Barrels of Fun" ride have been scheduled. Gospel music will also be presented throughout the day.

The first of two auctions will take place beginning at 10:30 a.m. Crafts, home décor items, framed prints, furniture, and tickets for in-home dinners will be available to bidders. The dinners are prepared by Bittinger Mennonite Church families and are served in their homes to winning bidders.

Demonstrations will be held throughout the day at various locations on the fairgrounds. Visitors will see basket weaving, chair caning, soap making, ice-cream making, milking, and butter churning. A quilting demonstration will take place from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Quilted items will be on display from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m., at which time they will be taken down to be auctioned at 1:30 p.m. Each year, approximately 20 king- or queen-size quilts are auctioned, as well as such smaller items as crib or wall quilts, table runners, and Christmas skirts. All items are hand quilted and locally made.

Food is also featured during the Country Fest. Breakfast will be served from 8 until 10 a.m. on the fairgrounds. The menu will include pancakes, sausage, biscuits, and gravy.

Lunch begins at 11 a.m. Visitors can stop by the "Sandwiches & Such" booth or the Lions Club pavilion, where they will find chicken barbecue dinners.

Additionally, funnel cakes, homemade ice cream, fresh raised doughnuts, and hand-rolled soft pretzels will be offered throughout the day.

Festival goers will also be able to shop. Crafts, homemade baked goods, handmade noodles, jams, jellies, gifts, cards, flowers, fruits, vegetables, and "wholesome" books will be sold.

The Country Fest and Auction is sponsored by the Bittinger Mennonite Church and School. Proceeds go toward church/school building and expansion projects. Ten percent of the revenue will also go to Christian Aid Ministries – a nonprofit Mennonite group headquartered in Berlin, Ohio – to minister to the "physical and spiritual needs of the world."

Approximately 2,200 visitors from various parts of the country, many of whom were from the Baltimore and Washington, D.C., area, attended the last Country Fest and Auction.

For more information about this year's event, persons may visit online at countryfest.org.

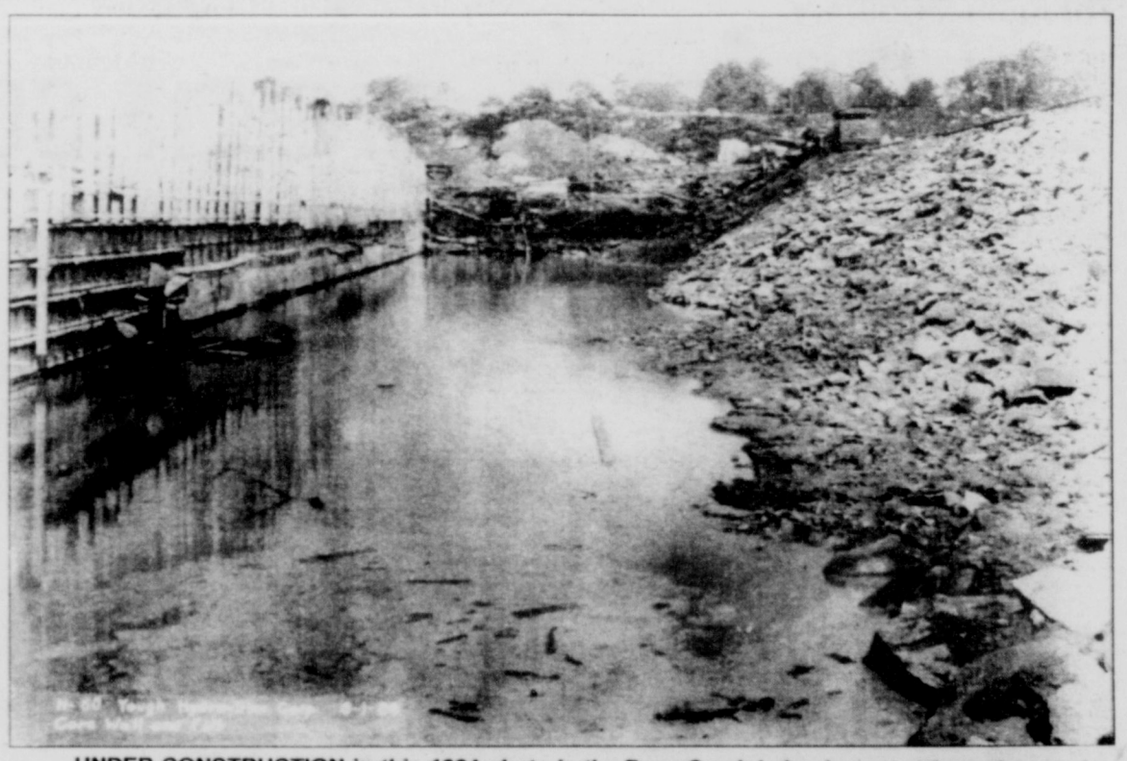
Relief Sale Set For July 15-16 At Fairgrounds

The 13th annual TriState Relief Sale will be held Friday and Saturday, July 15-16, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Admission and parking are free.

Gates will be open on Friday from 4:30 until 8:30 p.m. for dinner and snacks, a market place, silent auction, and a preview of the quilts, handcrafted furniture, artwork, vacation packages, sports memorabilia, and other items that will be auctioned off the following day. Musical performances are also scheduled from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

A pancake and sausage breakfast will kick off the main activities on Saturday at 7:30 a.m. In addition to the market place, children's activities, food booths, and barbecued chicken will be available. The auction begins at 10 a.m.



UNDER CONSTRUCTION in this 1924 photo is the Deep Creek Lake dam, at a time when probably few people could predict the enormity of the economic impact of Deep Creek Lake on Garrett County. The dam was built and the lake created primarily to generate hydro-electricity. Its usefulness in terms of tourism was secondary at the time. The lake remains Maryland's largest manmade freshwater body.

Musical performances are scheduled throughout the day, and a car cruise-in is slated for Saturday beginning at 9 a.m., weather permitting.

Sponsored by the Mennonite Churches of the TriState Area, the event benefits victims of hunger, disease, and war. Admission is free.

For more information, persons may call 814-445-6945, e-mail daheberg2@aol.com, or visit online at tristatesale.org.

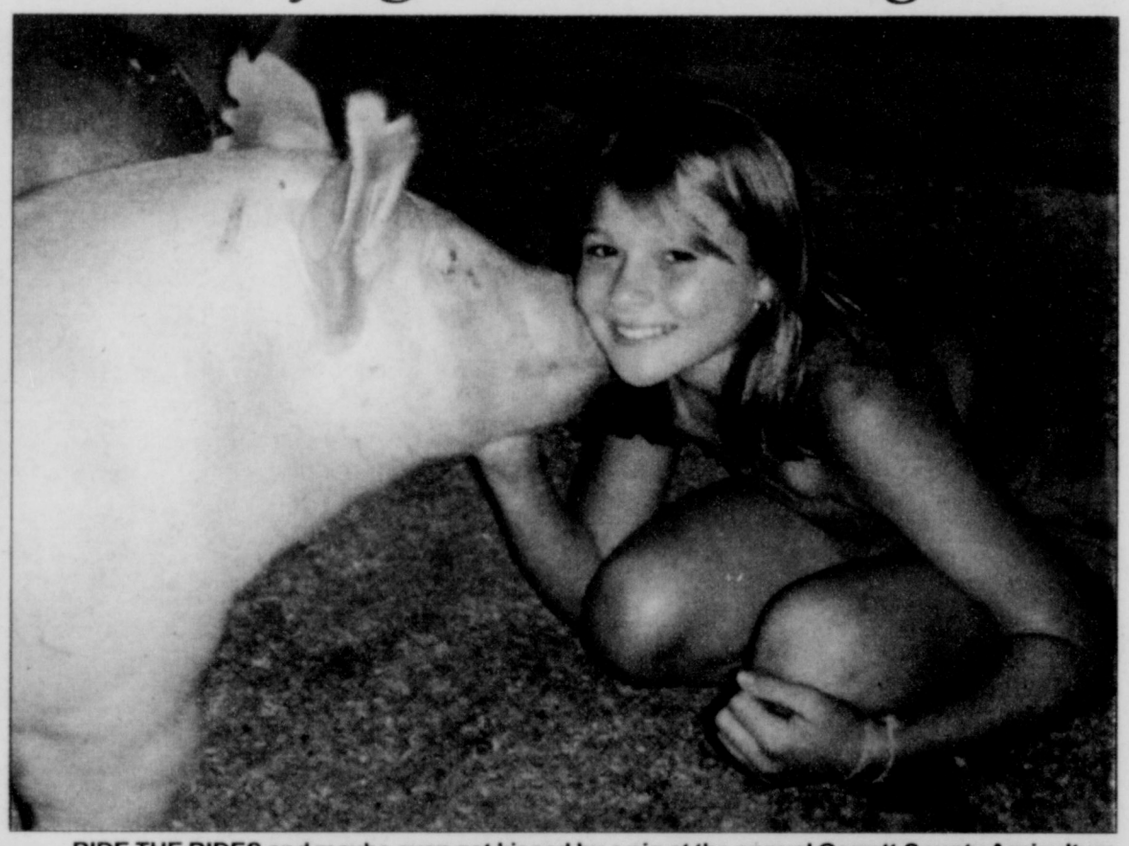
Don't Miss The Annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair: Aug. 13–20



RIDE THE RIDES and maybe even get kissed by a pig at the annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair, which is scheduled for the week of August 13-20 at the fairgrounds in McHenry. The event draws tens of thousands of people every year, often serving as a "reunion" location for family members and old friends who have moved away, but enjoy coming back for fair week. The schedule is packed full of a wide variety of competitive events, musical entertainment, carnival rides, scores of exhibits, and a plethora of food and beverage items.

Unfortunately, Garrett County weather is changeable, and the ski slope depended on natural snow for operation. Some weekends there would be abundant snow and the slope was crowded with customers. Other times, there would be warming spells, and Naylor had the disappointing task of saying "no skiing this weekend." The south-facing position of the trail on Hooppole Ridge made it particularly vulnerable to thawing conditions.

After two years of weather related "on-again and off-again" operations, Naylor decided to abandon the Deep Creek Ski Trails. He dismantled the rope-tow equipment and sold it to a slope operator from Virginia.

Today, 40 years later, two poles remain standing in the open field on Hooppole Ridge. They have become reminders that Deep Creek Ski Trails once existed there, and that it was the "First Commercial Ski Slope" in Garrett County.

Fundraiser To Give A Rare Look Inside "Cleveland Cottage"

The privately owned Cleveland Cottage in Deer Park will be open to the public for self-guided tours on Saturday, June 25, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Proceeds from the open house will benefit the PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare & Safety) spay-neuter program.

The house was constructed in 1884 by the B&O Railroad and served as a summer cottage within the Deer Park Hotel complex. The owners are offering this one-day opportunity to see the inside of this authentically restored Victorian house in celebration of the 125th anniversary of President Grover Cleveland's June 1886 wedding to Frances Folsom and their honeymoon trip to western Maryland.

The only president to be married in the White House, Grover Cleveland and his 21-year-old bride traveled to Deer Park in the private train coach of John Garrett, president of the B&O railroad. They honeymooned in the Deer Park Hotel's cottage No. 2, which subsequently became known as the "Cleveland Cottage."

WELCOME TO THE "CLEVELAND COTTAGE" – The privately owned historic "Cleveland Cottage" will be open for self-guided tours on Saturday, June 25, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Proceeds from the event will benefit Partners for Animal Welfare & Safety. See story for details.

The Deer Park Hotel closed for good in 1929 as a result of the Great Depression and changes in lifestyle brought on by the emerging national highway system and the automobile. The hotel and cottages were auctioned off during the 1930s. The cottages were largely vacant and fell into disrepair, and the hotel itself was demolished for scrap during World War II.

Following the war, with the increased need for housing, the cottages were again occupied by local families, and were modified to add heat, running water, and asphalt siding for insulation. In the early 1970s, the house

Blackhawk School Students' Recollections

"We used to call it Blackhawk University," said two graduates of the one room school just off Dry Run Road. One graduate, Wilmer Murphy, lives on a nearby farm, the other, Dorothy Bernard Cathell, lives in the Oakland area. Both of them have fond memories of their days at Blackhawk School.

"In good or bad weather, we always rode the bus to and from school. It was about three miles each way," said Wilmer Murphy. "However, there were a lot of times we had to walk when the bus broke down. Once in a while when the bus wasn't running we could get a ride on a wagon or a sled.

"I can't tell you the names of all the driver who used to pick up students in the Dry Run area. I do remember that Delbert Broadwater, Everett Green, and Joe Faulkner used to be drivers.

"Back in those days, buses were automobiles. One of the best was an old seven passenger Studebaker. It has an engine that wouldn't quit."

Prior to attending Blackhawk School, Wilmer Murphy attended the near[by] Dry Run School. When the student body dropped to nine or ten children, the school was closed, and the children went to Blackhawk.

Closing Dry Run School wasn't the end of the use of the building. Today, it has been remodeled into a church. Older member of the congregation include people who once attended school in the same building.

Living in the same area, Wilmer Murphy knows the history of the Dry Run building. Originally it was Beachy School in the Bittinger area.

CLOWNS, FLAGS, AND LITTLE CARS are always a part of the annual Grantsville Days celebration, slated this year for June 24–26 The parade kicks off the festivities on Friday evening, and usually includes members of the Ali Ghan Shrine. Children's games, gospel music, barbecued chicken dinners, fireworks, and truck- and tractor-pulling contests are also featured during the three-day homecoming. Photo by Marla Reams.

Back in 1917, the School Board advertised for bids to move the building to Dry Run. Howard Broadwater submitted a bid of $299, and got the contract. The Beachy building was dismantled, move, and re-assembled as Dry Run School in the same year.

"I guess the reason for this was that Miss Broadwater had once been a teacher at Blackhawk, and then went on to Grantsville.

"School at Blackhawk was about the same size year after year...generally about 30 students. My first year, this

All the subjects were taught by the same teacher, which sounds pretty bad today, but it had its advantages. You couldn't help but hear what was going on with the students in another grade...maybe five or six kids altogether...and if you heard you learned. So when your time came the next year, you already knew it.

"I'm not sure how it was back during the 20's, but the CCC camps had started during the years that I attended Blackhawk School, and there was a lot of activity in the Dry Run area. Seemed like there was always something going on, or something new to talk about at school everyday."

A few years after Wilmer Murphy graduated, Dorothy Bernard Cathell entered Blackhawk School. She attended all seven years there and like Wilmer she agrees that they were interesting years.

"Mrs. Green made them interesting. What she did was to urge us to do our best...and we generally did."

Girls are probably more sensitive to certain things than boys. Dorothy remembers that part of her seven years were during the Depression. Like a great many rural school, Blackhawk received government commodities, and Dorothy recalls the inconsistency of government programs.

"At school we used to get things like nuts and oranges and apples. They were great, and we loved to eat them. However, the government also sent cartons of condensed milk for us to drink. It was terrible, because we always had fresh milk from the farm."

Dorothy's time at Blackhawk was interrupted when the school burned in 1940. While it was being rebuilt, the Blackhawk students were bused over to the school at Bittinger.

"Today a person can go zipping along Route 495 and not have to worry about mud or soft shoulders. It wasn't always that way. When the school burned in 1940, the kids were bussed to Bittinger. This meant crossing over Meadow Mountain, and the road wasn't too good. A lot of parents worried about this until the old school was rebuilt and the kids were back in their home territory again."

Dorothy had an interesting observation about going from Blackhawk elementary school with 34 students to

THERE WAS A TIME when grassy lawns surrounded the Garrett County courthouse, which was erected just after the turn of the 20th century. The automobiles to the right in this photo indicate that this shot was taken in the 1940s. It was in the late 1970s, much to the chagrin of some county residents, that the decision was made to surround the courthouse with a new county detention center and the wide variety of county offices that are there today.

THE REMEDY will conclude the 2011 Little Yough Summer Music Festival on Friday, Sept. 2, at 7 p.m. in Oakland at the Mtn. Fresh Producers Association pavilion. This popular local band plays a wide variety of songs. The members include an elementary school teacher, county administrator, and surgeon. CIVIL WAR TO BE THEME OF ANNUAL CHAUTAUQUA – The annual Chautauqua event will return for its 17th season this year, with performances slated from July 5 through 7 under the "big tent" on the Garrett College lawn. Each evening features a scholar/actor giving a dramatic portrayal of a famous historical personage, making history come alive. There will also be pre-show concerts by local musicians. "Chautauqua" was named for the Chautauqua Lake area in upstate New York, where the movement began in 1874 as a Methodist summer retreat. A wide range of religious lectures and educational programs attracted a huge following and turned Chautauqua, N.Y., into a popular summer resort. As it evolved, the Chautauqua movement presented the latest thinking in politics, economics, literature, science, and religion. In Maryland, the tradition dates back to the late 19th century, when Chautauquas took place at Mountain Lake Park in Garrett County and at Glen Echo Park in Montgomery County. In its heyday between the 1880s and World War I, this program attracted thousands to the community for symphonies, operas, plays and nationally prominent speakers including President Taft, Samuel Gompers, William Jennings Bryan, and Billy Sunday. The theme of this year's event is "The Civil War: A House Divided," with portrayals of Jefferson Davis (July 5), Abraham Lincoln (July 6), and Harriet Tubman (July 7). Each evening's program begins at 7 p.m. with music, followed by the featured portrayal at 7:30. Food, drink, and ice cream will be available for purchase on site. The program is free and open to the public, though contributions will be accepted to offset production costs. For further information, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, or visit GLAF's web site at www.artsandentertainment.org.

"Old-Time Jams" Scheduled At New Germany State Pk.

New Germany State Park will host "Old-Time Jams" from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Fridays, June 24, July 8 and 22, Aug. 5 and 19, and Sept. 2, at the Lake House. Admission is free.

The event will provide an opportunity for musicians and spectators of all ages to share and enjoy traditional folk, bluegrass, and other "old-time" Appalachian music.

"The Old-Time Jams are simply unique," said Ranger Erin Thomas of New Germany State Park. "Whether you choose to play an instrument, sing, dance, or just sit back and enjoy the music, the jams are a great way to relax and feel connected to our local Appalachian heritage."

Refreshments and gift items will be available for purchase during the sessions at the New Germany Snack Bar & Gift Shop, located inside the Lake House.

For more information, persons may call 301-895-5453 or e-mail park-new-germany@dnr.state.md.us.

Oakland High with over 400 students.

"To go from Dry Run to Oakland meant riding three different school buses. The first one took us kids from home to a spot on the Glendale Road. There we transferred to another bus that took us over to Route 210 at Thayerville, where we caught the third bus.

"All along the way the drivers stopped to pick up other kids, and by the time we boarded "Pip" Thayer's bus at Route 219, there was quite a crowd. I guess by the time we got to Oakland High any worry about a large number of students had already passed."

The era of one room schools has passed, and is now a part of Garrett County's educational history. Some of the schools still exist as idle buildings; others have been moved or incorporated into houses; most of them have been torn down for their lumber.

Yet, the laughter of student, lessons to be remembered, and friendships formed still exist in the hearts of the adults who were students in those school. And...like a spark that can be rekindled...those adults will remember their own school with the same pride as the Dry Run area students who say, "I went to Blackhawk University."

Thankfully, with the county sign "Blackhawk School Road," the memory of the one room school will always remain.

received historical designation from the Maryland Historical Trust.

The current owners purchased the cottage in 1994, and began a 15-year project to restore the house as much as possible to its original state while maintaining modern conveniences and appliances in the bathrooms and kitchen. They were guided by drawings and plans provided by the Cushwa & Stouffer architectural firm in Hagerstown, which specializes in 19th century renovations.

"The house is particularly interesting in the way it blends the classic Victorian charm of the original house with the addition of a large modern kitchen and a beautiful conservatory," noted a PAWS spokesman.

During the open house, visitors will be able to see all the rooms in the house, as well as the owners' collection of Cleveland memorabilia and souvenirs.

There will be no advance tickets sales. Admission at the door will be $10 per person. However, admission will be only $5 for persons who have purchased tickets to the 2011 Secret Country Gardens tour, and also $5 for members of either the Garrett County Historical Society or the Mountain Lake Park Historical Society.

The Cleveland Cottage is located on Hotel Road just a few houses up from the Deer Park Inn. For more information and directions to the house, persons may go to the Events page of the PAWS web site, garrettpaws.org, or phone 301-387-5878.

Second Annual Barn Quilt Fest Slated In Aug.

The Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County Inc. will once again host a Barn Quilt Festival this August. The inaugural 2010 event was recognized as the "Best New Product or Event Award" by the Maryland Tourism Council at its annual conference.

A celebration of Maryland's only Barn Quilt Trail, this year's festival will be held on Sunday, Aug. 7, from 1 to 7 p.m. at Ridgeview Valley, located along Gravelly Run Road, McHenry.

A new quilt block on the side of the historic barn at Ridgeview will be unveiled during the festival. The location will become a permanent site on the self-guided driving tour of barns and farms around the county.

The Barn Quilt Festival promoted as a fun event for the entire family, with activities scheduled throughout the day. Activities for children include making traditional instruments to play, along with the musical entertainment and creating a colorful clothesline of paper quilts.

In addition, local art and craft vendors will be on hand selling their handiwork; a variety of food will be available on site; and an auction will be held as a fundraiser for the Barn Quilt Association.

A special feature of the day will be performances by Russ and Barb Childers. For more than 35 years, the duo has been making music in the southern Ohio/northern Kentucky area. Using story and song, the artists share memories of traditional Appalachian farm life.

With their tale "The Story Quilt," the Childerses take the audience on an interactive, musical journey of the imagination, where they can discover family stories, proverbs and word play, folk beliefs and stories, songs, dances, and games from Appalachian traditions.

In the past, the fabrics that made up a handmade quilt often came from bits and pieces of a family's discarded clothing.

"If those scraps could talk, what memories would they reveal for us today?" wondered an association member. "The Childerses use fiddle and banjo and a full-size quilt to find those threads that run true through our lives and connect our past to the present."

Ridgeview's old farmhouse, now know as the Preview Center, will be the site of an heirloom quilt display. Numerous quilts with ties to multigenerations of local farming families will be exhibited. A special display of crazy quilts will be featured.

Admission to the festival is free and donations will be accepted. The Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County Inc. is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. The mission of the group is to provide a sustainable heritage tourism attraction or activity, while preserving and celebrating the unique agriculture, history, and arts culture of the local area through visual combinations of barns and quilt designs, to educate the public and showcase the Appalachian tradition.

The Barn Quilt Trail is a self-guided driving tour of quilt patterns on barns around Garrett County.

"Festival goers are encouraged to take the tour as part of their experience," said the spokesperson. "As the project continues to grow, the association is looking for additional barn owners who would be interested in hosting a barn quilt and individuals that might like to sponsor a design."

For maps of the driving tour and additional information, persons may visit the association's web site, GarrettBarnQuilts.org, or call 877-577-2276.

The Two High School System

A good sociologist would have described it in terms of a medical diagnosis; the symptoms masked a more fundamental underlying illness. The symptoms were the organized attempts to halt the building of two large high schools to educate the students of Garrett County. The underlying illness was the gradual decay of individual communities due to population growth in Garrett County.

In the end, the medical patient in the form of the citizens of Garrett County survived the illness, but not until much hatred had localized itself like a festering boil before it was lanced.

Fifteen years of deferred maintenance of school buildings was part of the background of the whole school problem. During the Depression there wasn't any money available to make needed repairs on the buildings or expand the facilities. The Depression was followed by World War II and its accompanying shortages of materials of all kinds.

As a result, almost every school building in the county needed painting and some kind of repair work. Some of the situations were so bad that they posed a potential hazard to the safety of the students.

Heading the list was Oakland High School, figuratively "right under the nose" of the School Board and the County Commissioners. The school was a physical composite of a 70-year-old building and two subsequent additions. The center part was once the Garrett County Court House. When the building became overcrowded, the old County Sheriff's residence and jail were used as class rooms.

Coupled with the physical difficulties of the County schools was the plan to replace the 11-grade system with the 12-grade system and the accompanying Junior High category.

Search For A Solution

In 1947, the obvious solution to the Oakland High School problem was to construct a new building. Toward this end, the County Commissioners purchased land in the spring of 1947 on the northern end of Oakland as a new high school site. It was to lie on the west side of the purposed rerouted U.S. 219. (This new road was completed two years later.)

A similar search was made for new land in other parts of the County for new school buildings.

Visitors Invited To Friend Family's Heritage Museum

Amateur genealogists and history buffs alike will enjoy the Friend Family Heritage Museum in Friendsville. Located at the corner of First and Maple streets, the facility is operated by the Friend Family Association of America®. Admission is free, but donations are appreciated.

On display are local Indian artifacts, vintage clothing, a parlor organ, photos, coal-mining and farming implements, old household items, and much more.

The second floor houses the Friend Family Association office and the Col. Lester Friend Sr. Library, which has a collection of genealogical and historical materials. Visitors may browse and do research. The facility is not a lending library.

The library and museum hours are subject to changes. Persons may call 301-746-4690 to see if they are open.

Believed to be one of the oldest settlements in western Maryland, Friendsville was settled in 1765 by John Friend Sr., who purchased the land from Native Americans.

"Friendsville is one of those unique American communities in which the inhabitants are, with few exceptions, all related to the original John Friend family from which the town derives its name," notes the association.

The Friendship Store is located at the rear of the .nuseum and offers Friend-re-lated merchandise for sale.

Schools, retired in 1949. Prior to this retirement, Dr. R. Bowen Hardesty came to Garrett County as Assistant Superintendent. He brought with him a completely different solution to the problem, and it eventually fermented violent resentment.

Dr. Hardesty's solution was the abandonment of all the small high schools in the county and the construction of two large modern high schools. One would be in the northern part of the county and the other in the southern. In all fairness to Dr. Hardesty, he didn't act alone in this matter, but brought in a series of educational experts who had facts and figures to promote his two high school idea.

Unfortunately, once the concept of the two high school system had been adopted by county commissioners and other community leaders, the experts left. Thus, when he became Superintendent in 1949, R. Bowen Hardesty was left with the task of changing a concept into reality.

If Dr. Hardesty had had a different personality, he might have accomplished his task with less turmoil. As it was he was viewed as a "meddling outsider" and, before the whole matter was ended, was hanged in effigy by students at Kitzmiller.

The Plan and the Court Suit

In 1949, with a view toward inaugurating the two-high-school plan, the county commissioners relinquished the property they had purchased north od Oakland. Then, they purchased land between Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park for the location of Southern High School. They also purchased land in the Cove area for Northern High School.

In September of that year, a group of citizens brought suit against the county commissioners to restrain them from proceeding with the two-high-school concept.

The suit listed two important points of citizens' controversy with the commissioners. "The county commissioners are planning to abandon the high school in Accident, Friendsville, Kitzmiller, and Grantsville. The spending of $2,000,000 will not leave any money for improvements in existing buildings."

The citizens' group felt that the commissioners did not have a legal right to continue with the planned consolidation of the high school system. In essence the consolidation struck at the heart of communities affected by removing the older students from their local environment. It also had an effect on the younger students left behind by siphoning off money badly needed for maintenance of elementary schools.

With advice from their lawyers, the commissioners filed a demurrer against the suit, and a hearing was scheduled for October 29, 1949. The citizens' group thought it would be settled that day, but a decision wasn't given until November 10. It was in favor of the county commissioners.

The citizens' group took an appeal to the decision. Finally, in May, 1050, the Maryland Court of Appeals rendered a decision which upheld the one of November 10 in favor of the county commissioners.

For the commissioners, it signaled a "go ahead" for the two high schools.

The Kitzmiller Revolt

Garrett County's Primary Election of September, 1950, had a lot to do with the revolt of citizens in the Kitzmiller area. Election times are always periods when people make their wishes hear. It is a time when Americans enter into the process of change in a dramatic way.

Parents in Kitzmiller felt that they had been rendered powerless in the matter of what happened to their children in the proposed school plan...and they rebelled.

Correct or incorrect, the parents of Kitzmiller perceived a shift in the attitude of the Board of Education. For them the shift had been from, "We want to do what's best for the children" to "We are educators and know what's best for the children."

Previously, in June, 1950, a parents' committee had presented a petition to the Board of Education and the County Commissioners. It was signed by 300 people from Shallmar, Vindex, and Kitzmiller. It requested an up-grade of the Kitzmiller School facilities. The response to this petition was a proposal to study the matter during the next winter and determine what could be done.

For the parents' group, this was not an answer to what they considered a crucial situation.

As a result, six men of the Kitzmiller community joined together and organized a campaign among the parents to keep their children out of school when classes began in September, 1950. It was their way of calling attention to the maintenance problems at the Kitzmiller School and to protest the planned abandonment in 1952.

As a plan of action, the protest was successful. When school opened in September, only 34 students appeared for classes.

Once the protest started, the Board of Education found it was impossible to mediate the situation. As a result they invoked a little-used Maryland truancy law and had the six men indicted by the Grand Jury for "conspiracy" in keeping the children out of school.

The Primary Campaign of 1950

Despite the rebuff of a legal decision rendered in favor of the county commissioners in May, 1950, the original citizens' group against the two-high-school system didn't give up the fight. They concluded that another way to stop the consolidation plan was to install a whole new slate of county commissioners through the election pro-cess.

The action of the six men from Kitzmiller and their situation became the focal point of much primary campaign rhetoric. Candidates for county offices aligned themselves either for or against the protest group.

As a political "quirk of fate," the indictment of the six men by the Grand Jury probably had a lot to do with the defeat of the new slate of county commissioners. When the primary election was over and ballots counted, those candidates who supported the Kitzmiller protest were defeated.

End of the Revolt

After the election was over, there still remained court action on the six men indicted by the Grand Jury.

Judge Henderson of the Circuit Court took a cool headed approach to the matter. He made a personal tour of the Kitzmiller School and found that the parents' group had a true grievance about he physical condition of the building. From this tour he extracted a promise of immediate repairs from the county commissioners, and a pledge from the parents' group that they would send their children back to school.

As a result of the promise by the commissioners and the pledge by the parents' group, the case against the six men was given an "indefinite postponement."

Final Difficulties

Unfortunately, the national scene had changed during this same time period. Unites States was involved in the Korean War. Pressures on the building trades during World War II were felt once more. Contract bids for the two new high schools exceeded the money available for their construction.

For a time it appeared that world events would halt what couldn't be stopped by the Garrett County political process. However, between the revision of the architect's plans and easing of restrictions on building materials, construction work finally began on the two new high schools.

Other problems arose once construction was underway. For example: water and sewage for the two buildings had not been given full consideration by the commissioners in the planning stage. The building at the Cove had to be supplied by well water. Since it was situated on high ground an adequate supply was very difficult to obtain.

The building between Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park was located where there was neither a good water nor sewer line.

By September, 1952, the two new high schools were completed and ready for students. This time the Kitzmiller opposition to the closing of that school ended with a compromise rather than a conflict.

The previous June, graduation ceremonies were canceled for the last class to graduate from Kitzmiller High School. On the afternoon of the planned evening commencement exercises, a group of students made a protest march and Superintendent Hardesty was hanged in effigy. Because the students refused to take down the stuffed figure, the principal of Kitzmiller High canceled the graduation ceremonies. The next day he handed out the diplomas in the classroom.

In September, upon the recommendation of Dr. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, Kitzmiller students could choose to attend school at either Elk Garden or Southern High. It was the same kind of arrangement that had been made for students from Kempton to attend high school in Thomas, W.Va.

Southern High School opened in September, 1952, with an enrollment of over 900 students; only nine were from Kitzmiller.

Today, both Northern and Southern high schools are graduating students who are from every part of the county. Their academic, sports, and other programs are a credit to the citizens of Garrett County. Problems with a two-high-school system still arise periodically. However, they are handled with more compassion and less bitterness than that which was exhibited when the system was first proposed 40 years ago.

The Battle Of Bloomington Bridge

In military language it might only have been called a "skirmish," but for the people of Bloomington and Piedmont, it will always be the Battle of Bloomington Bridge.

Marking 125 years since the battle took place, an historical pageant called "McNeill's Rangers Ride Again" was presented in Bloomington on Saturday evening, June 17. The massive stone arch railroad bridge formed a backdrop for the pageant action which took place on both sides of the Potomac. Spectators sat in a parking lot on the Maryland side, and watched Confederate and Union soldiers fire at one another on both sides of the river.

The mock battle between the two groups began with the firing of a "six pounder" cannon by the Confederates on the Maryland side. Few of the spectator were prepared for the loud "bang" of the cannon. Equally loud was the return fire from a Union mortar fired on the W.Va. side.

As the battle progressed the Confederates also captured a steam locomotive and train as it pulled through the arches of the bridge on the W.Va. side. A short time later, they were driven off by Union forces and the mock battle ended.

"McNeill's Rangers Ride Again" received its title from a raid made by Capt. Hanse McNeill on May 5, 1864. The action of the pageant reflected only a small part of the events which took place on the day. The raiders were unsuccessful in their attempt to blow up the bridge, but they did an enormous amount of damage to the railroad property in the few hours they were in the Bloomington area.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was a vital transportation link during the Civil War. History shows that for the very first time, in that war, railroads were employed in the massive movement of solders and equipment. Prior to that time, generals were faced with long marches, and plagued with almost insurmountable problems of keeping troops supplied in rough terrain.

However, by using the railroads they could move troops hundreds of miles almost overnight.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was an east-west railroad that roughly paralleled the division line between the Union and the Confederacy. As a transportation link, it meant that the Union generals could quickly counteract any Confederate military move along a 400 mile front.

Obviously, the Confederate generals also recognized the importance of the railroad. One of their aims was to interrupt passage over the railroad as much as possible. Destroying a railroad bridge was a very quick way of stopping movement on the railroad.

One of the first things which the Rangers did when they arrived at Bloomington on May 5, 1864, was to capture a freight train in the station. A small number of the Rangers uncoupled the locomotive, and rode it down to Piedmont. There, the troops forced the surrender of a small Union garrison. Then, the troops set about the destruction of the railroad's facilities at Piedmont.

They set fires which destroyed seven machine shops, nine locomotives, and over 100 loaded railroad cars. In less than an hour, they did over a million dollars worth of damage to the railroad.

While this was taking place, the Rangers who had stayed behind in Bloomington captured two more short freight trains. However, before setting the railroad cars on fire, they allowed the people of the town to carry away as much merchandise as they could.

Unexpectedly, a passenger train from the west came down the grade to Bloomington, and it was also captured. Among the passengers aboard the train were 100 Union soldiers. The small group of Confederates bluffed the Union solders into surrendering.

Meanwhile, two additional actions were taking place in the area: one Confederate and the other Union. A small group of Rangers were busy planting explosives on the stone arch railroad bridge. Their work was in vain, however, for when the explosive charges were fired, the bridge did not collapse.

The Union action involved soldiers stationed at New Creek (now Keyser, W.Va.). A troop of over 75 men set out for Piedmont; they found that the Confederate soldiers had already left. Catching up with them at Bloomington, the Union troops surprised the Confederates and opened fire on them.

Faced with what they thought was a much larger force, the Rangers departed, and the battle of Bloomington Bridge became one more event in the history of the Civil War.

The re-enactment of the raid was sponsored by the Garrett National Bank as part of the Whitewater activities. As a pageant, the enactment had four parts to its program: singing of Civil War songs by the children of Short Gap, W.Va., elementary school; musical selections from "McNeill's" Rangers, "an annual Civil War outdoor musical presented at Burlington W.Va. the mock battle between the Confederate and Union solders; and a finale by the cast of McNeill's Rangers.

There were over fifty volunteers involved in the production of the pageant. Confederate soldiers came from the Laurel Brigade of the Confederate States of America, under the command of Major Herbert Williams of Burlington, W.Va. The Union troops came from the 43rd Pennsylvania Volunteers, under the command of Brig. Gen. Frank A. Foight II. The steam locomotive and train were furnished by the Allegany Central Railroad of Cumberland.

Together with the singing groups, the soldiers made "McNeill's Rangers Ride Again" a success. Once again the skirmish known locally as the Battle of Bloomington Bridge came to life. It will be remembered for a long time by all who came to enjoy the pageant.

Youghiogheny River Adventure –1906 Style

Ralph Weber and Paul Naylor didn't know anything about Class IV rapids when they started down the Youghiogheny River in 1906. The nomenclature for rapids hadn't even been applied to the Garrett County river at that time. But the two young men did know the river and how to portage around "rough places."

Both of them had spent many summers camping with their families along the Youghiogheny. Two favorite spots for camping were located at different places on the river. One was near Oakland at Coddington's Riffles and the other was in the bottom land near Sang Run. Many evenings they would sit around the campfire and talk with others about going all the way down the river to Pittsburgh.

Finally, in June of 1906, Ralph and Paul decided to make the trip. They carefully selected their supplies, and bought a small canvas tent. Putting their canoe into the Little Youghiogheny River by the B&O station in Oakland, they set off for Pittsburgh.

Their first portage was around Shaffer's dam, half a mile down stream from Oakland. Later, they said this was their first and most difficult portage of the whole trip; they got the process down to a routine afterwards.

June is not a "high water" month on the Youghiogheny River, and June of 1906 wasn't any exception. As a result, it took Ralph and Paul two days to reach Swallow Falls.

Going around the falls and rapids at Swallow Falls was the first of several long difficult portages. They had to carry their gear almost four miles along the logging-tram road which ran beside the river. It was almost dark of the third day when they arrived at Sang Run.

By this time both young men were tired and disgusted with the whole trip. In later years they laughed about it, but they said that if they hadn't talked so much about going to Pittsburgh, they would have quit at Sang Run. They were familiar with the Sang Run camp ground, and decided to spend one whole day there "taking it easy."

They knew that more portages lay ahead of them from Sang Run to Friendsville; however, they paddled down river from Sang Run as far as possible. Near Gap Falls they decided to take out the canoe and once more portaged around the rapids. This time they carried the canoe and their supplies about four miles along the Kendal Lumber Company tram road. Finally, they put their canoe into the river again, and arrived at Friendsville late in the evening of the following day.

The trip from Friendsville to Ohiopyle was less eventful. Their portages were relatively minor, but it took them three days to get there. When they finally got to Ohiopyle, both men decided they had had enough of portaging, and put their gear on a local B&O train for Connellsville.

Almost another day was gone before they put their canoe in the river again. However, one big change had come about; they were in civilization and could buy food along the way. Thus, the only thing they had to worry about in the canoe was their tent. This was probably just as well, since the canoe had hit so many rocks that it was leaking very badly.

As the first half mile of the trip from Oakland to Shaffer's Mill was very enjoyable, the trip on down to McKeesport took on the same aura. Unfortunately, their exact time to cover the final phase of their trip had been lost, but it was three days after they left Connellsville [that] they climbed aboard a B&O train and headed home. The canoe was so "beat up" by the trip that Ralph and Paul abandoned it on the river bank at McKeesport.

Ralph Weber and Paul Naylor didn't abandon the paddles for the canoe, but kept them for a number of years. They eventually saw service on Deep Creek Lake, where they were passed on to the next generation of a dventurers.

The memory of the trip down the Youghiogheny River was something which the men never forgot. They would always laugh about it and shake their heads; it was an adventure of high degree, but one neither of them wanted to repeat [it].

THE DREAM OF A HOSPITAL for the citizens of Garrett County and the surrounding area was realized in 1950, thanks to the generosity of George W. Loar, who bequeathed $175,000 for its construction. Pictured is the original hospital building, which opened its doors with 30 patient beds, an emergency room, laboratory, X-ray department, and operating room. Several additions over the past 60-plus years have more than tripled the original size of the hospital.

BAMBI SPOTTING? A sure sign of spring is the arrival of various young wildlife babies throughout the forests and in the fields. Jessica Capan was horseback riding along Herrington Manor Road recently and caught sight of this spotted youngster lying low in the grass, and unlike most "children," he remained perfectly still for the taking of this photograph. With the arrival of summer this week, most of the spots on baby deer are beginning to fade, but as always, motorists should remain alert for the road crossings of deer, bear, ground hogs, and a host of other critters.

BOE Minimizes Cuts And Reductions In FY 2012 Budget

Overall there will be few instructional programs significantly impacted within the Board of Education's fiscal year 2012 budget.

The school system did have additional grant reductions within Title I and Perkins II-C Career and Technology Grants, which will be reduced by approximately $29,000.

Hickory Environmental Education Center summer program will be reduced from a five-week residential program to a potential two-week day camp. BOE representatives have stated that this initiative is in process.

Funds for Academic Intervention will also be reduced. While funding is still available at all instructional levels, there will be reductions primarily at the middle and high school levels. Transportation for Academic Intervention will be included in the budget.

The Alternative program bus that transported students from the northern end of the county to Southern High School has been eliminated. The Alternative program will be retained, however, and will now be provided by each school individually, utilizing current staff.

There will also be some administrative cuts to items within maintenance, transportation, and personnel.

"Garrett County Public Schools' current and restricted operating budget will be reduced by approximately $1,072,000, or 2 percent from FY11 levels," stated a BOE representative.

"Fiscal 2012 will also be the first year in which local county government funding exceeds state aid, and we are extremely grateful for the support of the county commissioners. We are also very pleased that in spite of position reductions and reduced grant dollars, no teachers lost their jobs within the school system this year. This was possible in part to the success of the retirement incentive program, as well as creative personnel scheduling."

THE PEABODY RAGTIME ENSEMBLE of Baltimore will present "An evening of Ragtime, Dixieland, and All That Jazz!" in the Garrett College auditorium this Saturday, June 25, at 7:30 p.m. The concert is being sponsored by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF). The Ensemble, an acoustic "little big band," preserves the roots of American jazz through performance of vintage repertoire in concert, dance, and stage settings. "For more than 30 years, Peabody Ragtime Ensemble has been filling concert halls and bringing audiences to their feet with their infectious brand of delightfully diverse repertoire," stated one critic. The Washington Post said that they "blew up a hurricane" with their "lively and polished program that covered the spectrum...." Tickets are $25 for adults, $7 for students, and admission is free for youth age 5 and younger, though a ticket is required. For reservations, persons are invited to telephone the GLAF office at 301-387-3082 or go to its web site at: www.artsandentertainment.org. GLAF is partially supported by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland State Arts Council, Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, the William Penn Foundation, the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, and the Pew Charitable Trust.

VFW Post 10077 Receives National, State Awards For Korean War Proj.

The Garrett County Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post 10077, Deer Park, has just received official notification that it is the winner of the Fred C. Hall Memorial Outstanding Post Special Project Award. The award is issued by the U.S. National VFW Headquarters following an annual contest that involves all the posts in the United States.

All posts are invited to submit a worthy special project to the national headquarters for consideration. After several rounds of judging, it came down to three projects. In the final round the Garrett County entry "Freedom is Not Free" was judged the overall winner.

This Korean War Commemoration Project was organized and executed by members of VFW Post 10077, primarily to honor the Korean War and Korean era veterans on the 60th anniversary of the commencement of the conflict. It also served to educate the local citizens about the Korean War, it helped develop a sense of patriotism in the youth of the area, and renewed contacts with the Korean people through their embassy in Washington, D.C.

There were four major events in this commemoration: a ceremony at the county courthouse where certificates of appreciation were given to Korean veterans; a Flag Day ceremony at Wisp Resort during which Korean veterans were chosen to carry the 50 state flags; an exhibit by the local historical society that featured the history of the Korean War; and a ceremony at the Republic of Korea embassy which honored the service of the Korean veterans.

This project was orga-

Female Goshawk Discovered Dead In State Forest

The remains of a female northern goshawk were found last Friday by a DNR biologist in the Savage River State Forest, near Grantsville. Evidence corroborates that the female was shot and killed, leaving three orphaned chicks in the nest to die. This was the only known nesting goshawk, a state listed endangered species, in all of Maryland.

The northern goshawk is a large, powerful, and secretive forest raptor, or bird of prey. Goshawks were driven out of Maryland in the early 1900s by extensive timber harvesting, but returned in 2001 because of improved forest habitat.

"This is a symbol of Maryland's last remaining wild places," said Jonathan McKnight, who manages DNR's non-game wildlife

Pre-Sentence Investigation Ordered In Negligent Homicide By Vehicle Case

A pre-sentence investigation has been ordered by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert in the Garrett County District Court case of Thomas Ray Beeghly, 48, Oakland. Beeghly pleaded guilty to negligent homicide by motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol per se. Lesser charges were dismissed upon his plea. Beeghly's bond was revoked, and he is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail until his sentencing, which should occur in early August.

He was the driver of a 2002 Chevrolet truck that crossed the centerline as he was driving east on Maryland Highway. His truck struck a westbound 2005 Ford Ranger pickup truck head-on driven by Mary Jane Kope, 84, Aurora. Kope died from injuries sustained in the accident.

Blood testing of Beeghly's blood alcohol level showed a content of .20. Once all data were compiled and presented to state's attorney Lisa Welch, an arrest warrant was obtained. He was formally charged in March when he turned himself in.

In other District Court news, Christopher Earl McRobie, 20, Oakland, was found guilty on a theft less $1,000 value charge. He was sentenced to six months with five months and 14 days suspended and six days served. He was also ordered to complete 18 months of supervised probation to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation. He must also pay restitution to three victims in the amounts of $527, $236, and $35.99.

He was not prosecuted on eight counts of rogue and vagabond, as well as five counts of theft less $100 value, and an additional theft less $1,000 value. He was arrested in December by

Motorists Asked To Use Caution During Bike Ride

Garrett County residents are advised to watch for cyclists on numerous county roadways this Saturday, June 25, for the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation's second annual Win the Fight Garrett County Gran Fondo.

Bicyclists will ride on a variety of roads, specifically the Rt. 219 area north of Accident to Keyser's Ridge. Bikers will be traveling south from Devil's Half Acre Road and make their way 1.9 miles south to a left turn on to Rabbit Hollow Road. Maryland State Police will maintain a presence to slow traffic as cyclists make this turn. This will not disrupt the flow of traffic.

The charity ride supports melanoma skin cancer research, education, and advocacy. All county roads will remain open to traffic; however, motorists are asked to be aware of riders. Bike routes are available on the charity ride web site www.winthefight.org/granfondo.

Heritage Document Now Component Of County Comp Plan

The Garrett County Heritage Area Management Plan is now a component of the county's 2008 Comprehensive Plan. On Tuesday, the Garrett County commissioners unanimously approved three amendments to the Comp Plan that provide for the heritage element.

Those attending the announcement included Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development; county attorney Mike Getty; Nicole Christian, GC Chamber of Commerce president/CEO; and Dee Dee Ritchie, newly appointed Heritage Area manager.

Inclusion in the Comp Plan is one of the final steps in the county becoming a certified Heritage Area. The Maryland Heritage Areas (MHAA) Program was created in 1996. Its purpose is to link resource preservation with economic development and tourism. Garrett County was recognized as a proposed Heritage Area in 2003.

Nelson said the first Comp Plan amendment simply adds the phrase "and the Garrett County Heritage Area Management Plan" to the last sentence in Section 2.2. This last sentence on Page 2–1 now reads: "More details about Garrett County's history and heritage can be found in the Garrett County 2003 Heritage Plan and the Garrett County Heritage Area Management Plan."

The second amendment adds a new bullet to Section 2.4.2 on page 2–4. It reads as follows:

"Garrett County Heritage Area Management Plan. This plan prepared by the Garrett County Heritage Area Committee describes the partnerships to be created between local governments, the state, and the broader community to preserve historical and cultural resources. The goal of this plan is to improve the local economy through heritage tourism, enhance recognition, and conserva-

Burglary Suspect Located Behind Targeted Business

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested a man after responding to Long Branch Saloon early Wednesday morning for a reported burglary in progress.

Kenneth Allen McRobie was identified as the suspect, whom they found lying in the wooded area behind the business. When deputies arrived at the 1 a.m. scene, a witness advised them that McRobie had run behind the restaurant. He was charged with attempted fourth-degree burglary and destruction of property.

He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Local Business Park Awarded $107,000 Grant

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded a $107,000 grant to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to make electrical upgrades at the McHenry Business Park.

The grant will be used to extend power lines to the park, which is owned and operated by the county. The county hopes the electrical upgrade will attract high-power users, such as technology-based and small component businesses to the park.

"The funding for McHenry Business Park will strengthen Garrett County's economy by bringing high-tech businesses and jobs to the community," said Sen. Ben Cardin, who, along with Sen. Barbara Mikuski, announced the ARC grant award last Friday.

The improvements will help the park realize its full potential as an employment center, the senators noted in a press release. Officials estimate the site will serve 10 businesses and create 50 new jobs.

In addition to ARC funds, local sources will provide $107,000, bringing the total project funding to $214,000.

"I'm so proud that these funds will help the region build the infrastructure and the workforce it needs to attract new high-tech businesses, jobs and economic development to western Maryland," Mikulski said.

DEER PARK VFW RECOGNIZED AT NATIONAL AND STATE EVENTS – VFW Post 10077, Deer Park, just recently received official notification that it was winner of the Fred C. Hall Memorial Outstanding Post Award following an annual national contest. "Freedom Is Not Free" was named overall winner above numerous special projects submitted by posts around the United States. Deer Park Post 10077 also received the title of All-Maryland Post with post commander Paul Everly recognized as co-chairman of the all-state team, one of the top three rated posts in the state. Shown in the photo are Wayne McCaughey, Claude Beckman, Everly, Carl P. Rebele, Paul Shogren, and Randall Kahl. See story for details.

MLP HONORS RENOWNED AUTHOR – Best-selling author Martha Grimes was the guest of honor at a special program presented by the Mayor and Town Council of Mountain Lake Park Saturday afternoon. In front of a standing-room-only crowd in the town hall, Grimes spoke about the characters and locations in her four-book series that center on the town, and more specifically on the Mountain Lake Park Hotel during its heyday years of operation. The main character in those books is 12-year-old Emma Brown, whose mother was a co-owner of the hotel, as was the case with Grimes' mother in real life. "Emma is indeed autobiographical; however, she represents not the person I was, but the person I would have liked to have been at that age," Grimes said. Grimes is best known internationally for her 22-novel Richard Jury mystery series, one book of which garnered her the coveted Nero Wolfe Award for Best Mystery of the Year. The Mayor and Town Council presented to her an original painting of the Mountain Lake Park Hotel, partially visible in the photo above, and also unveiled a permanent historical plaque featuring her and her books that will be placed on an exhibit stand in front of the town hall facing the former MLP Hotel property. Holding the plaque in the photo above are town council member Don Sincell and Mayor Leo Martin (far right). Also in the photo with Ms. Grimes is Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, far left, who coordinated the Martha Grimes Day event and also arranged for the painting of the hotel. Following the program, Grimes signed copies of her books for scores of interested readers. A resident of the Washington, D.C., area, Grimes was accompanied by her son Kent, daughter-in-law Travis, and two grandsons. Photo by John McEwen. 2011 Deep Creek's Got Talent! Contestants

Deep Creek's Got Talent! & HEART!

DEEP CREEK'S GOT TALENT! RAISES OVER $18,000 FOR THE DEEP CREEK VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

The 4th Annual Deep Creek's Got Talent! event fundraiser was held on Saturday, June 18th at the Honi-Honi Bar and a record total of $18,000 was raised for the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department. Deep Creek's Got Talent! showcased a variety of talent from 15 contestants. Contestants were judged by a live panel of three judges: Rob Michael, Pam Trickett and Jana Brown. Contestants were scored on their donations collected prior to the event, audience donations received at the event, and feedback from the judges' panel. Deep Creek's Got Talent! also featured great prizes and giveaways donated by area businesses for the audience. Live auction items for this year included an autographed Michael Oher Baltimore Ravens jersey, an autographed 2011 contestant t-shirt, an eagle and an owl wood carving as well as an authentic art sketch of the Honi Honi Bar.

A very special thank you goes out to all the contestants who participated this year: Scott Alexander, Buildup Breakdown band, Patty Chapman, Katrina Darby, Kerri Darby, Jordan Sines, Kristen Leigh DeWitt, Mackenzie Dufresne, Trevor Getson, Connie Green, Maggie Moran, Jake Mullins and Max Schwinabart, Amy Piper-McConnell, Nicole Seeders, Heather Singell, The Sporks band and Shalene Teets. This year, the 15 contestants who participated set a new event record by bringing in the highest amount of donations ever prior to the start of the event - almost $7,000. Contestants started out with an elimination round followed by the top five contestants performing a second performance in the finalists round. Prizes were awarded to the top fundraiser, the most talented contestant and the top three performers in the competition. Maggie Moran, Top Fundraiser, received a prize package from the Sewickley Spa, Christmas Chalet and Funland; Trevor Getson, Kristen Leigh DeWitt and Mackenzie Dufresne, tied for Most Talented Contestant, and each received the Judges Choice Award as well as a dinner and a movie package from UNO Chicago Grill and Garrett 8 Cinemas. Trevor Getson, Contest Winner, received tickets to Kennywood, Idlewild or Sandcastle and Pittsburgh Zoo tickets donated by WKHJ 104.5, 92.3 The Train; Maggie Moran, 2nd Runner-Up, received a custom mountain bike donated by High Mountain Sports, and Max Schwinabart & Jake Mullins, Third Runners-Up, received a set of water skis donated by Bill's Marine Service. Over the past four years, through the generosity and support of contestants, sponsors, businesses and the community, Deep Creek's Got Talent! has raised more than $55,000 for local charities and organizations.

Accident Slates Annual July 4 Homecoming

Accident's annual Fourth of July Homecoming celebration will be held on Monday, July 4, starting at 9 a.m. with an ecumenical worship service at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, located at 102 South Main Street.

Following the service, American Legion Post #208 will conduct the raising of the Maryland and American flags at the American Legion Memorial, located in Veterans Park at the intersection of South Main Street and Main Street Extended.

The parade is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. and will follow Main Street (Rt. 219) starting at the northern end of town.

Chicken dinners, hamburger, hot dogs, french fires, ice cream cones, drinks, homemade pies, and a variety of sandwiches will be served starting at noon at the Accident fire hall, located at 109 S. South Street.

There will be musical entertainment throughout the day at the fire hall pavilion starting at noon with the Garrett Highlands Pipes and Drums under the direction of Paul Browning. Black Diamond will perform bluegrass music at the pavilion starting at 2 p.m.

The Accident Concert Band will perform patriotic music starting at 1 p.m. The speaker for the program will be Chuck Nolan, Maryland District Court bailiff.

The North Star 4-H Club will sponsor assorted games throughout the day for all ages in Town Park East next to the ball field. Hayrides will be available from 1 to 3 p.m., and the Accident Volunteer Fire Department will hold bingo starting at 1:30 p.m. Qualifying time for the horseshoe pitching competition will be 1 p.m. at the pits, which are located at the southeastern side of Town Park East.

Post #208 will have a display of military uniforms from World I, World War II, the Korean War, and Vietnam War from noon until 5 p.m. on the lower level of the fire hall in the American Legion meeting room.

The town of Accident will sponsor a craft show and sale, to be held in the upper level of the fire hall from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There will be items for sale by local and non-local artisans. In addition, Accident souvenirs will be available for purchase, including T-shirts, sweatshirts, key rings, "I Love Accident" buttons, and wooden replicas of the historic Drane House.

The Drane House will be open from noon to 5 p.m. Flowery Vale Garden Society members will be available to answer questions concerning the Museum Garden that is planted on the Drane House property.

For more information about the homecoming event, persons may call Accident Town Hall at 301-746-6346.

Over $64,000 Raised By Relay; Wrap-Up Slated

The 2011 Relay For Life of Garrett County, held recently at the Southern High School track, raised over $64,000 for the American Cancer Society, despite the fact that the walk had to be suspended at around 1 a.m. because of thunderstorms.

All participants of the relay are invited to the "Finish the Relay Wrap-Up Celebration," which will be held next Monday, June 27, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Lewis pavilion along Oakland-Sang Run Road. There will be games, music, prizes, and a final lap to finish out the relay season. Persons are asked to bring a covered dish to share.

The evening will also feature a closing ceremony, trophy presentations, announcement of grand club winners, and team fundraising club announcements.

Directions to the pavilion are located on the Relay for Life web site at www.relayforlife.org/garrett, or persons may telephone Brittany Friend of the American Cancer Society at 301-722-2145 or e-mail her at Brittany.Friend@cancer.org.

Grant Renewed For GC Forensic Health Program

The Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention (GOCCP) announced Monday it is renewing grants to more than two dozen state organizations that provide services to victims of crime, including the Garrett County Health Department.

The local agency was awarded $4,338 for the Garrett County Forensic Health Program, which serves victims of sexual assault.

"Forensic nurses are on the front line, making sure victims of rape, child abuse, and domestic violence receive compassionate care, while vital forensic evidence is collected and preserved," said a Health Department spokeswoman.

Garrett County has one forensic nurse, Heather Cooper, RN, with the Garrett County Health Department. She is on call 24 hours a day/seven days a week for acute adult cases at the Emergency Department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and by appointment for child abuse cases. Anyone who has been the victim of sexual assault/rape may access GCMH's Emergency Department anytime for help.

The GOCCP funds, totaling $465,751 across the state, are known as "continuation" grants, and each award recipient is receiving a second or third year of funding to support its program. The recipients serve Marylanders in communities from western Maryland to the Eastern Shore.

The grants are awarded under the Maryland Victims of Crime (MVOC) Fund. MVOC supports programs that serve victims of crime in Maryland. Each project addresses a wide variety of problems, among them: funding for forensic evidence collection services for sexual assault victims; assisting victims in obtaining peace and protective orders; providing crime victims with legal counsel in the criminal justice system; linking mental health professionals with available services; training of local and state criminal justice agencies and non-profits; and supporting lethality assessment programs in cases of domestic violence. These projects all address the needs of the underserved crime victim and witness population.

"We must not forget the victims of crime, but must always support them and help them recover from the trauma of victimization," said Gov. Martin O'Malley.

The MVOC Fund was created by the Maryland General Assembly during the 1991 Legislative Session and is administered under the State Board of Victims' Services, under the authority of GOCCP. The board's purpose is to develop a comprehensive and coordinated system of victim services throughout the criminal justice process. Its mission is to ensure that all crime victims in the state of Maryland are treated with dignity and compassion through comprehensive victim services, support, and programs.

T. Poholsky To Attend Medical School In S.C.

Torrey Poholsky has been accepted at the Edward Via College of Osteopathic Medicine – Carolinas Campus, Spartanburg, S.C. Upon graduation, he will be an osteopathic physician, or D.O.

The new college, which is affiliated with Virginia Tech, will matriculate its first class in August. According to a spokesperson, it is an institution with a high emphasis on service. Its mission is to create primary care physicians for the rural and underserved communities of Appalachia.

Poholsky is the son of Lenny and Sally Poholsky of Bittinger. He is a 2004 graduate of Northern High School with top academic and athletic honors. In 2008, he graduated cum laude from Greensboro College in North Carolina on a dean scholarship with a biology major and a minor in chemistry and math.

He worked as a medical assistant at an urgent care facility in Greensboro for three years.

Hickory Offering Two Free Week-Long Day Camps

The Hickory Environmental Education Center is offering two weeklong day camps to students entering grades 4, 5, 6, and 7. The camps are free and run July 4–8 and July 11–15 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

The first week, July 4–8, will accommodate northern area students. A bus will arrive at Friendsville Elementary School at 8 a.m. and then arrive at Accident Elementary at approximately 8:15. A second bus will pick up students from Rt. 40 Elementary at 8 a.m. and Grantsville Elementary at 8:15.

Southern area students will be picked up for the second week, July 11–15, with one bus arriving at Broad Ford Elementary School at 8 a.m. each day. All buses will leave Hickory at 5 p.m. returning students to their home schools in the reverse order of pick-up.

Bus transportation for students unable to participate in the student/family cookout planned for each Friday will be provided using the same 5 p.m. schedule. Parents attending the cookout will transport their own children at the end of the event.

Students should bring clothes suitable for hiking, as well as bathing suits and towels for use at the pool. Students should be prepared for rain. A white T-shirt will be required for students wishing to design a "Hickory T" during nature crafts. Additional activities are archery, leaf identification including poison ivy, Cove Run exploration, and a few surprise activities.

Medical forms are available at Hickory or the Board of Education Oakland office. They must be filled out and brought to Hickory. Parents with children taking medications should administer necessary medication before the child leaves for camp or in the evening after camp.

"These two weeks are an attempt to continue a summer program in tough economic times. This is a short time frame to prepare for the camps and notify families," cautioned Hickory coordinator Bruce Taliaferro. "Although we have set an upper limit for the number of students attending, we also have to consider that there may not be enough time to sign up for a sufficient number of students to have the program."

If there are not enough participants signed up by June 30, the program will have to be canceled. Those interested are encouraged to sign up as soon as possible.

Crossing the Line?...

The use of tobacco products is among the single most harmful behaviors in which one can engage, as it remains the leading cause of premature and preventable death in the United States, claiming almost half a million lives each year. This column has been utilized on a number of occasions to blast the product for its harmful effects not only on the user of smoke tobacco, but also on persons occupying the same space. It has been used to point out the hypocrisy of the federal government in condoning tobacco use by subsidizing the industry while making the use of other harmful substances illegal (e.g., marijuana). This is in spite of the fact that tobacco use continues to cost our nation billions of dollars in health care costs, higher insurance rates, and lost hours of employment.

Beginning September 2012, the Food and Drug Administration will require larger, more prominent cigarette health warnings on all cigarette packaging and advertisements in the United States, including graphic, grotesque photos of disease victims of tobacco use. These warnings mark the first change in cigarette warnings in more than 25 years and are deemed by the FDA to be a significant advancement in communicating the dangers of smoking. The notion is that larger, more prominent warnings on cigarette packaging and advertisements will help tobacco users quit and prevent young people from starting.

So upon reading the first two paragraphs above, one would assume that this writer is 100% behind this new regulatory requirement; however, that is not the case.

Opponents of the new requirement allege that this is a violation of both the first (freedom of speech) and fifth (protection against abuse of government authority) amendments to the U.S. Constitution, and there is a relatively solid argument to support that assessment. It seems that perhaps the government is crossing a sacred line in this case, not only intruding into private business too far, but also setting the stage for claims of unfairness with respect to other harmful products.

The tobacco industry, no matter how negative one may feel about it, is still a legal business that in this country deserves protection from "abuse of government authority." And if the containers of their product must now carry photos of diseased tobacco users, should not the soda pop, ice cream, alcoholic beverage, and any number of other industries also be required to do the same thing on their containers? (Photos of grossly obese people, globs of human fat, gruesome crash scenes caused by DWI, etc.)

Granted, there is one difference in that the moderate use of the latter products mentioned generally is not overly harmful, while even moderate smoking of cigarettes is without question detrimental to the health of the smoker. But it still seems that the new tobacco product packaging requirement crosses a constitutional line.

To the Editor:

We agree with the editor's comments (June 16) commending Governor O'Malley for putting the brakes on the drilling for natural gas until the final report is due. And of course, the Maryland Petroleum Council disagrees with this. They do not want to lose their profits.

If you own a lease, or even live close to someone who has a lease, read this carefully. Should you want to sell your land even before any well drilling is done, your potential buyer may have great difficulty finding a lender who will finance a loan for property that has a gas well lease (or is even close to a leased area). Talk to a local realtor if you do not believe us. We have.

If you are like our family, who has worked for 35 years to build equity in our land and home, thinking this was our safest money resource, you need to be alarmed and get informed. We are GC landowners, and we have a lease that was signed five years ago, which we totally regret. Then, we had no idea of the hazardous effects of the chemicals used in the fracking process and the horror stories that have since emerged out of W.Va., Pa., N.Y., Colo., Texas, Wyo., and other states. There are good reasons these other states are putting moratoriums on drilling and rethinking what they have done.

We are fortunate that Maryland is trying to learn from the mistakes of others. This is not a time for divisive politics – we need to work together to try to get the right outcome for this amazing county, and not look back with regrets and should-haves. Our state legislators and representatives need to know that we want this thoroughly investigated, and possibly stopped, if we hope to preserve our future. If it cannot be stopped, control of this process needs to be in the hands of the county and landowners, not the gas company.

We know there are those who will use the argument for much needed jobs and aid to our economy. This is a boom and bust industry. The gas companies have everything to gain, and Garrett County has everything to lose. It will be a sorry state for the county if land is degraded, devalued, and unable to be sold. What will that do to the value of our much needed tax base?

Sincerely,
Dana & Tom Shimrock
Grantsville

To the Editor:

This week, Garrett Countians got a chance to meet one of the Maryland General Assembly's most radical left-wing champions. Delegate Heather Mizeur, a representative from Montgomery County, was one of the guest speakers at the Garrett County Democrats' annual dinner. Mizeur also held separate meetings, at which she updated attendees as to legislative efforts regarding natural gas drilling in Garrett and Allegany counties. She even requested and received a private tour of Garrett County Memorial Hospital to inspect its recycling efforts.

What many do not know of Delegate Mizeur is that she has championed many liberal causes outside of the Marcellus shale moratorium. She was one of the most outspoken champions of a measure to destroy the statute that requires marriage be between a man and woman.

She represents an area that Tripwire, Maryland's leading gun rights newsletter, describes as a "political dead zone."

She championed a measure that would allow for transgender individuals to sue potential employers if they felt the employer discriminated against them.

She has consistently voted in favor of every tax increase she could. She even voted for the measure that streamlined the process for windmills to go up on western Maryland's mountaintops.

Most of this information can even be easily accessed on her campaign web site.

I'm proud of the legislators we have representing Garrett and Allegany counties. They were born, raised, and educated in this area. They know not only the issues, but also the people who are affected by those issues. I don't think Garrett and Allegany counties need a down-state liberal coming here to tell us what we are doing wrong. We've gotten along just fine without her.

Sincerely,
Ed Clemons Jr.
Luke

To the Editor:

Thank you very much for your editorial last week in favor of Governor Martin O'Malley's Executive Order establishing the Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative.

You cite the governor's courage in forgoing the "big dollars" promised by the industry, and I want to applaud your courage as well. I imagine the pressure must be significant to join with local officials in singing the praises of the industry and all it could potentially do for the county and region. It is a valuable public service to inform the public on all sides of any issue, but in the case of industrial gas development, it is especially important that people be aware of known effects, and not just take the bait of the gas industry's expensive PR machine.

Among the considerations in the study mandated by the governor's order are: contamination of groundwater and surface water sources (not just from drilling but from transport and storage of materials); risks to forests and habitat; degraded air quality (emissions from wells and infrastructure and from truck transport); risks to public health and safety; and diminishment of rural quality of life.

What has not been mentioned is the potential for negative economic side-effects. Has anyone studied the value of our tourism and recreation industries in the region? Is anyone looking at the obstacles drilling presents for prospective buyers trying to get insurance and financing on properties leased or adjoining leased properties? Has anyone done the numbers on what devaluing properties will do for our local tax base?

In a county where over 80 percent of residences rely on water wells, I think we need to consider what losing value on these properties would mean to our local economy. To simply fantasize about being among the small percentage of landowners who might get a cut of the spoils of the Maryland Petroleum Council's widely speculative range of potential gas revenue ($6-49 billion?) is not responsible public policy.

But our governor's executive order is.

Thank you for supporting the governor's order, and for taking the high road, even though it might not be the path of least resistance.

Nadine Grabania

To the Editor:

Our Town Theatre requests your readers' help to show a warm welcome to Caleb Stine, a singer/songwriter/guitarist we've invited for a fundraising concert on Saturday, July 2. Caleb Stine is well known and loved in Baltimore, and we'd like to introduce him to your readers in this area.

Caleb frequently supports his musician friends by hosting a music party in his row house that features a concert by the visiting musicians, a full house of friends who love high-quality original music, some light refreshments, and CD sales. His recent musician guests were singer and guitarist Phil Rosenthal, who succeeded John Starling in the legendary bluegrass band the Seldom Scene, and Phil's daughter Naomi Sommers, who is an accomplished musician as well. OTT would like to show the same hospitality to Caleb Stine here. We need your help to do this.

A local family is sponsoring this event on July 2, so that all money raised by the $25 ticket sales will go directly to paying for next season's production of Quilters and to help cover Our Town Theatre's Backstage mortgage. The patron explains, "We want to bring Caleb Stine, whom we love, to perform in the community theatre we love, for the music-loving people in the place we love!" That's a lot of love!

OTT will host Caleb in its acoustically appealing setting, with light refreshments and sales of Caleb's CDs. Please call OTT at 301-334-5640 to make reservations today. Payment, with checks made payable to OTT, can be mailed to the theatre at 121 Center Street Oakland, MD 21550, or paid at the door. Please help us do our best for Our Town Theatre and Caleb Stine. Thank you.

Yours truly, programs. "Why someone would kill this amazing and beautiful animal is difficult to comprehend."

This would have been Maryland's first successful goshawk nest recorded since 2006. "We were excited to see a thriving breeding pair in Maryland after four years without any record of nesting, despite repeated searches of former nesting areas. This was our only known breeding pair of goshawks, which makes this incident just that much more heartbreaking," stated DNR biologist Dave Brinker, who found the remains of the female and the chicks.

Scientists can accurately monitor these and other rare deep-forest birds because of funding from public donations to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species tax check-off box on Maryland's tax returns.

The Maryland Legislative Sportsmen's Caucus is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the responsible person(s). "Maryland's sportsmen have no tolerance for this act of vandalism against nature," said foundation chair David Sutherland.

The Natural Resources Police are asking for the public's help in identifying the person(s) responsible for this crime. The investigation has determined that the hawk was shot between May 16 and June 17 in the Savage River State Forest near Westernport and McAndrews Hill roads.

Anyone with information about this crime or a description of individuals or vehicles seen in the area should call the Catch-a-Poacher Hotline at 800-635-6124. Callers may remain anonymous and are eligible for reward money.

The Maryland DNR is the state agency responsible for providing natural and living resource-related services to citizens and visitors. DNR manages more than 449,000 acres of public lands and 17,000 miles of waterways, along with Maryland's forests, fisheries, and wildlife for maximum environmental, economic and quality of life benefits. A national leader in land conservation, DNR-managed parks and natural, historic, and cultural resources attract 12 million visitors annually. DNR is the lead agency in Maryland's effort to restore the Chesapeake Bay, the state's number one environmental priority. One may learn more at www.DNR.Maryland.gov.

April Dawn Ringer, 27, Oakland, was found guilty on a theft scheme $1K to under $10K. She was sentenced to one year suspended and fined $1,000 suspended. She must complete 3 years of supervised probation, as well as pay restitution of $3,610.04 to Shoe Show Inc. by 2014. She was not prosecuted on 32 counts of forging private documents, 32 counts of issuing false documents, 31 counts of theft less $100 value, and theft less $1,000 value. She was arrested in December by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after she was discovered to have allegedly made fraudulent purchases and returns to the store under the names of others. While working as a clerk, she reportedly stole shoes and accessories, which she either returned for cash or gave to friends.

David Claude Ridings Jr., 45, Oakland, was found guilty of resisting/interfering with arrest and CDS possession of paraphernalia charges stemming from a domestic dispute on Water Street, Oakland, in January. He was sentenced to 60 days with 56 suspended and fined $550, of which $250 was suspended. He was also placed on one year of supervised probation. Maryland State Police and Oakland City Police responded to the residence for the complaint. Numerous household items were damaged or broken before Ridings reportedly fought being arrested. He was found to have two smoking devices in his pants once restrained. He was not prosecuted on failure to obey a lawful order, disturbing the peace, and possession of marijuana charges.

Matthew Shane Hinebaugh, 25, Oakland was found guilty on second-degree assault and malicious destruction of property $500+ charges stemming from an arrest by GCSO in December. He was sentenced to 60 days suspended and ordered to complete 18 months of supervised probation. He was also fined $200 and ordered to pay restitution of $502.65 to the victim in the incident. He was not prosecuted on theft less $100 value, theft less $1,000 value, harassment, and telephone misuse. He reportedly broke into a home and assaulted the owner, as well as damaged several household items.

tion of valuable resources that give Garrett County its identity and support heritage related project. Following the adoption of the plan by the Maryland Heritage Areas Authority, 'Certified Heritage Boundaries' and 'Targeted Investment Zones' are established to derive benefits from the Maryland Preservation and Tourism Areas Program."

The third amendment adds the entire text of the Heritage Area Management Plan, which is about 800 pages long, to the appendix of the 2008 Comp Plan.

The chamber will manage the Heritage Plan once the GC Heritage Area is officially certified. Christian noted that MHAA officials held a public hearing on the issue on Monday. The chamber will now forward the final draft of the Heritage Plan and all supporting documentation to MHAA. If all goes well, Christian indicated, certification will come on July 7.

Once certification is achieved the chamber will establish a board of advisors to help oversee the area and plan, create tourism marketing initiatives, and begin work on identified projects.

Certification also means that the chamber, organizations, and small businesses will be eligible for certain grants and loans related to tourism, revitalization, and economic development.

LARGE SUM RAISED FOR NHS – A partnership between Diehl's Ford Sales and Ford Motor Company recently raised $5,325 for Northern High School. The second Drive One 4UR School event was held in May, and over 218 people came to Diehl's Ford Sales to test drive a new Ford vehicle. For every test drive, $20 was donated to Northern High School. In addition, a Focus "bonus" test drive earned an extra $10 per test drive, and Diehl's Ford employees donated an additional $1 per test drive. This brought the grand total for the test drive earnings to $5,325. In addition, 15 extra-curricular groups from NHS helped with the event. Each group conducted its own individual fundraiser, with earnings totaling an additional $2,000, which brought the total earnings for the day to $7,325. The Drive One 4UR School program was featured in the finale show of American Idol a few weeks ago. Since the beginning of the program in 2007, the program has raised in excess of $3.5 million for nearly 1,000 high schools across the country and has enabled more than 175,000 people to test drive new Ford vehicles. The money raised during the Drive One 4UR School program has helped fund a range of school programs, including classroom supplies for students and teachers, as well as extracurricular activities like sports and band programs, helping to ensure that these programs continue in local communities. "It was a huge success for everyone involved," said Vivian Diehl, Drive One event coordinator for Diehl's Ford Sales. "It was a win for the school, the students, and all of the participants, who had an opportunity to take one of our vehicles for a fun, casual drive while at the same time helping Northern fund important programs. Please be sure to come out on Sept. 24 to support our next Drive One event." Pictured above at the check presentation are, from left, Gary Reichenbecher, NHS principal; and Greg and Vivian Diehl of Diehl's Ford Sales.

GCHS TO CELEBRATE 70TH ANNIVERSARY – The Garrett County Historical Society will celebrate its 70th anniversary, as well as the 150th anniversary of the start of the American Civil War, on Sunday, July 3, with the 2011 Chautauqua series, which will have a Civil War theme this year. The event is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. at Garrett College. The featured speaker of the afternoon will be Dr. John Rathgeb (pictured above), orthopedic surgeon, who will give a short talk on Civil War-era medicines and medical practices, while dressed in the uniform of a Union Army surgeon. Local singer Dave Callis, accompanied by Marcene Huebner, will also present a medley of Civil War songs at the event.

DIEHL'S FORD DONATES TO NHS – Diehl's Ford Sales of Grantsville has partnered with Northern High School to participate in the Focus on Schools fundraising opportunity. Through the partnership, a student video was completed about the 2012 Ford Focus. Just for submitting an approved video to Ford, Diehl's Ford Sales donated $500 to the high school. In addition, 10 schools will win between $1,000 and $10,000 of additional money from Ford Motor Company. In order to win the additional money, the high school must be one of the top-ten video vote getters. Diehl's Ford and Northern request that persons support their video by logging onto www.fordfocusonschools.com and clicking "vote." Next, search for their video, which is called "Focus Outshines Competition." Finally, persons must register and enter a valid e-mail address, then click on the link provided in the confirmation e-mail to make the vote count. Persons may vote once a day from now until July 15. "This is a great opportunity for us to help Northern High School, and it also helps us to give back to the community and establish valuable relationships within our community," said Vivian Diehl, project coordinator. "So please go online and vote." Pictured above, from left, are Gary Reichenbecher, NHS principal; student Sydney McFarland, who assisted with the video; and Greg and Vivian Diehl of Diehl's Ford Sales.

Local Student Earns Law Degree At Washington, Lee

Kathleen Louise Pritts, Oakland, recently received a juris doctor degree from Washington and Lee University School of Law. She received a B.A. degree from Cedarville University.

Pritts was a recipient of a Washington and Lee Honor Scholarship and the Oliver Hill and Samuel W. Tucker Award. She was a member of the Black Law Students Association, the International Law Society, Public Interest Law Students Association, Latin American Law Students Association, and the National Lawyers Guild.

Pritts was among 129 students who received the degree during the commencement ceremony held on the front lawn. The Washington and Lee School of Law is one of the smallest of the nation's top law schools.

Local Resident Admitted To Maryland Bar

Amanda D. Reckart, Oakland, was admitted to practice law before the Maryland Court of Appeals last Wednesday. She will take the West Virginia Bar Exam in July.

Reckart earned her juris doctor degree from Widener University School of Law, Harrisburg, Pa., campus in 2010. Majoring in law and society, she graduated cum laude from Frostburg State University in 2006 with a bachelor of science degree.

Donald Wayne Paugh, 66, Elk Garden, W.Va., passed away on Friday, June 17, 2011, in the University of Maryland Hospital, Baltimore.

Born June 8, 1945, in Elk Garden, he was a son of the late Teddy and Mary Ellen (Blackburn) Paugh. He was also preceded in death by three brothers, Charles, Norman and Roy.

Donald was a U.S. Army veteran who served in Vietnam from 1969 to 1970.

He is survived by two daughters, Donna Calderon and Barbara Parrish; four brothers, Ronald, Herman, Kelvin and Randolph, all of Elk Garden; two sisters, Martha Haddix and Daisy Jones, both of Elk Garden; six grandchildren, Joel, Brayden, Faith, Calderon, and David, and Tabatha Paugh; and several nieces and nephews.

Friends were received at David A. Burdock Funeral Home, Kitzmiller, where a service was conducted on Monday, June 20, with the Rev. John Friend officiating.

Interment was held in Kalbaugh Cemetery, Elk Garden, where military honors were accorded.

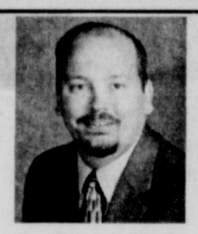
Know Your Investment Risks and How to Respond



When you invest, you take some risks. While you can't totally avoid these risks, you can take steps to help reduce their impact and increase your comfort level. And the more comfortable you are with your investments, the easier it will be to follow a long-term strategy that can help you meet your goals.

Let's look at the most common types of risk related to investing, along with some suggestions on helping to reduce these risks:

• Losing principal — This type of risk is most closely associated with investing. For example, when you purchase a stock, you know that its value could go up or down. If it drops below your purchase price, and you then sell your shares, you will lose some of your principal.

• Your response — You can't eliminate the risk of losing principal, but by owning a mix of stocks, bonds, government securities and other types of investments, you can help reduce the impact of volatility on your portfolio. Keep in mind, though, that diversification, by itself, can't guarantee a profit or protect against loss.

• Losing value when interest rates change — This type of risk primarily affects fixed-income investments, such as bonds. If you purchase a bond that pays, say, a 4% interest rate, and the market rate goes up to 5%, then the value of your bond will drop because no one will be willing to pay you the full price for it when newer, higher-yielding bonds are available.

• Your response — You can combat, or even ignore, interest rate risk by holding your bonds until they mature. By doing so, you'll get your full principal back, provided the issuer doesn't default, and you'll receive regular interest payments unless the bonds are "called" or repurchased by the issuer. You can help protect against this by purchasing bonds that have some degree of "call protection" and by owning bonds with different maturities.)

• Losing purchasing power — This risk largely applies to fixed-rate investments such as certificates of deposit (CDs). To illustrate: If you purchase a CD that pays 2%, and the inflation rate is 3%, you are actually losing purchasing power.

• Your response — Despite their vulnerability to inflation, CDs can offer you some valuable benefits, such as preservation of principal. Yet if you are concerned about fighting inflation, you may want to look for investments than have the potential to offer rising income, such as dividend-paying stocks. In fact, you can find stocks that have increased their dividends for many consecutive years. (Be aware, though, that companies can reduce or eliminate dividends at any time. Also, an investment in stocks fluctuates, and you could lose your principal.)

Apart from these individual techniques to reduce investment-related risk, you should also save early and save often — because the more money you accumulate, the greater your ability to follow a long-term strategy that reflects your personal risk tolerance. That's why it's a good idea to contribute as much as possible over the years to your IRA and 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan.

By understanding the different types of investment risk, and by acting to help lessen them, you can reduce much of the stress sometimes associated with investing — while you increase your prospects for achieving your objectives.

Grantsville Days History

In 1977 the Grantsville Business Association decided to have an event that would encourage local organizations to work together to sponsor a fun weekend for the community. It was designed as a non-commercial "homecoming" event for people who had moved away from Grantsville — a chance for them to return to Grantsville to renew old acquaintances and to have family reunions. The participating organizations would be able to use the event for fund-raising, and it was decided that food booths would be limited to non-commercial, local church, and community organizations. The tradition has continued to the present day, and that's what separates Grantsville Days from other events that allow commercial food vendors. The food concessions are centered around the local Lions Club chicken BBQ, which is held both Saturday and Sunday.

The 3-day event is now coordinated by the Grantsville Lions Club. Through the years, 2 nights of fireworks have been added and are now sponsored entirely by local businesses. Many local people donate their time and expertise to make Grantsville Days successful. The entire community joins together each year to have a successful weekend. There are many activities for persons of all ages, including tennis, basketball, and children's games. Unique tractor and horse pulling contests have been added with great enthusiasm from the community. Other events include a western line dance demonstration and tale weaving.

A new stage was constructed in 1994 to showcase the excellent, free entertainment offered all 3 days. Visitors are encouraged to bring lawn chairs for a weekend of superb, continuous performances. Similar community events are held each year, but we feel Grantsville Days is unique. Ask anyone who has attended and you will hear the same answer: They are looking forward to the next Grantsville Days. Each year the attendance grows, so the word must be getting out. A huge, new playground was dedicated in 1996. The community response was fantastic. You won't see a nicer playground anywhere in the area and probably not even in major cities. Kids visit the playground from miles around. You have to see it to believe it!

In 1998 a new, large pavilion was constructed. Now there are 3 in the park for groups to have picnics. They are always reserved in advance every weekend during the summer months . The new pavilion allowed the Lions to shorten the waiting list for use of the buildings.

Youth Participate In Broiler Show, Results Released

Eighteen Garrett County youth recently participated in the annual 4-H/FFA Broiler Show at the Garrett County Extension Office. Southern States Oakland Cooperative Inc. donated the chicks to the participants, who then raised them for eight weeks.

The dressed bird samples were judged on several factors, including feed to meat conversion ratios, weight, and appearance. Participants were required to present two dressed bird samples and turn in a record sheet to complete the project.

Adam Diehl received the grand champion ribbon and Brittany Diehl received the reserve champion ribbon.

Clover participants were Daphne Harman and Madeline Magruder, both of Finzel 4-H.

Junior winners were Kayla Harris, Country Explorers 4-H, first place; Jason Sines, North Star 4-H, second place; and Joshua Brenneman, Bittinger 4-H, third place.

Also participating in the junior division were Braidan Thomas, Friendsville Fireflies 4-H; Kathryn Kitzmiller, North Star 4-H; Dalton Kitzmiller, North Star 4-H; and Michael Friend, Friendsville Fireflies 4-H.

Intermediate winners were Adam Diehl, Bear Creek 4-H, first place; Jordan Diehl, Bear Creek 4-H, second place; and Amy Burow, Grantsville 4-H, third place.

Also participating in the intermediate division were Jordon Grove, Snowy Creek 4-H; and Justin Lawler, Shepherd's Flock 4-H.

Senior winners were Brittany Diehl, Bear Creek 4-H, first place; Colton Grove, Snowy Creek 4-H, second place; and Toby Grove, Snowy Creek 4-H, third place.

Also participating in the senior division was Katelyn Gnegy, Country Explorers 4-H.

JUNE IS NATIONAL DAIRY MONTH

NUMEROUS AWARDS were recently presented to members of the Oakland FFA Chapter of Southern High School at the annual parent/member banquet. Pictured above are members who received Agricultural Proficiency Awards, which are given to honor FFA members who, through their SAEs (supervised agricultural experiences), have developed specialized skills that they can apply toward their future careers. Pictured above from left are Jordan Body, who was recognized for placement in equine science; Aaron Lantz, who was recognized for entrepreneurship in specialty animal production for his goat enterprise; Levi Lantz, who was recognized for entrepreneurship in fruit and vegetable production; Katelyn Gnegy, who was recognized for entrepreneurship in sheep production and poultry production; and Steve Kisner, advisor. Pictured below are members who received scholarship awards for achieving the highest grade point average for their respective classes. From left are Aaron Lantz, 11th grade; Katelyn Gnegy, 12th grade; Kenya Rinker, 10th grade; and Kisner. Not pictured is Victoria Varner, 9th grade. At the bottom are members who received the Chapter Star Award. From left with Kisner are Katelyn Gnegy, star chapter agriculturalist; Lucas Muenchow, star greenhand; and Jordan Body, outstanding FFA member. Gnegy also received the Dekalb Award.

SOUTHERN FFA MEMBERS HONORED – The Oakland FFA Chapter of Southern Garrett High School recently recognized several of its members during its annual FFA parent/member banquet. Pictured above are those who received the Greenhand Degree, which is given out at the chapter level for meeting certain requirements. From left are Victoria Varner, Jenny Jones, Andrea Davis, Dakota Strawser, Lucas Muenchow, Kevin Bernard, and Kenya Rinker with advisor Steve Kisner. Pictured below are members who were recognized for outstanding leadership. From left are Jordan Body and Tara Marple with Kisner. At the bottom are Levi Lantz and Jordan Body with Kisner. They received the chapter agriculturalist degree, which is given to top members who meet certain requirements.

NAMED MISS GC FARM BUREAU – Accident area resident Kara Savage (right) has been crowned Miss Garrett County Farm Bureau 2011. Pictured with her is Scarlett Fost, Miss Garrett County Farm Bureau 2010. Savage will represent Garrett County at the Maryland State Fair in the Miss Maryland Agriculture contest and various other local and state events. Savage graduated from Garrett College this spring with an associate's degree in elementary education. "Her experience in the Bittinger 4-H Club and the Northern High School FFA have prepared her well for the agriculture public speaking engagements that are part of duties," noted a bureau spokesperson.
